

The Center for the Study of Ethnicity and Race
(CSER)
presents
the first multi-year
Latino Speaker Series
at Columbia University

CSER Latino Speaker Series 2012-2013

420 Hamilton Hall, Columbia University
1130 Amsterdam Avenue, New York, NY

Latino Political Diversity in 2012: Ideological Heterogeneity Among Voters and Candidates

September 19, 2012
(Wednesday)
5:00pm

Cristina Beltrán
New York University

Cristina Beltrán is an associate professor in the Department of Social and Cultural Analysis at New York University. A political theorist by training, her research focuses on modern and contemporary political theory, democratic theory, Latino studies and Latino politics in the United States, U.S. race politics, gender and sexuality, and American political thought.

The Specificity of Anti-Latino Racism

November 14, 2012
(Wednesday)
5:00pm

Linda Martín Alcoff
Hunter College / CUNY

Linda Martín Alcoff is a philosopher at the City University of New York who specializes in epistemology, feminism, race theory and existentialism. She was recognized as the distinguished Woman Philosopher of 2005 by the Society for Women in Philosophy and APA and is listed on Hispanic Business's 2006 "100 Most Influentials."

Educating the New Majority: Latinos, Education and the Transformation of American Society

February 13, 2013
(Wednesday)
5:00pm

Pedro Noguera
New York University

Pedro Noguera is the Peter L. Agnew Professor of Education at New York University. He holds tenured faculty appointments in the departments of Teaching and Learning and Humanities and Social Sciences at the Steinhardt School of Culture, Education and Development at NYU. He is also the Executive Director of the Metropolitan Center for Urban Education and the co-Director of the Institute for the Study of Globalization and Education in Metropolitan Settings (IGEMS).