Correspondence, manuscripts, notes, documents, photographs, and Germany, France, and England after his expulsion from Russia in 1922. Among the correspondents are Nikolai Berdiaev, Sergei Bulgakov, Albert Einstein, Georgii Florovskii, Nikolai Losskii, Fedor Stepun, and Petr Struve; there are one or two items each from Viacheslav Ivanov, Bernard Pares, and Aleksei Remizov. There are also many letters from Semen Frank and his wife Tat'iana to their son Viktor, and from Petr Struve's family to the Franks. Manuscripts for several of Frank's books are in the collection, such as Svet vo t'me, Real'nost' i chelovek, and Biografiia P.B.Struve. Other manuscript materials by Frank include essays and lectures, outlines of courses he taught as a professor in Russia before his expulsion, and notebooks. There are also two poems by Viacheslav Ivanov. Among the printed works are offprints of articles by Frank and his Bible. There are photographs of Sergei Bulgakov, Fedor Stepun, and of the Frank and Struve families.
