DESCRIPTION: Correspondence, manuscripts, documents, photographs, subject files and printed materials of Stepan V. Vostrotin (1864-194?), engineer in Siberia and later emigre in China and France. The correspondence dates from 1919 to 1942. The manuscripts are chiefly by Vostrotin, and primarily consist of memoirs. Among the subjects he treats in his memoirs are: the building of the Chinese-Eastern railroad, gold mining along the Enisei River in Siberia, the creation of the North Sea route, various Siberian explorations, the Civil War in the Far East, and Russian emigration to the Far East, with reference to the Russian newspaper Russkii golos in Harbin, of which Vostrotin was editor in the 1920's. There are a few documents and subject files relating to the same topics. The printed materials contain several dozen maps.
