LEGAL DECISIONS.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

The Albany Law Journal gives some notes of several decisions affecting the question of the discharge of the original tenant from the payment of rent by reason of such tenant's assignment of the lease and an implied acceptance thereof by the landlord. In the case of Smith vs. Niver, 2 Barb., 180, a lessor consented to a change of tenancy, and permitted a change of occupation, and received rent from the new tenant as an original, and not as a sub-tenant, and it was held that the landlord could not afterwards charge the first tenant for rent accruing during the occupation of the second one. But there must be an assent of the landlord to the assignment, and the acceptance of the sub-tenant by the landlord with the intent to substitue him in the place of the original lessee. Where, however, the original tenant has entered into an express covenant for rent in a lease he continues liable on his covenant, notwithstanding the lease be assigned over. In a recent case where the landlord brought an action on the covenant for rent in a lease, against the original tenant who had assigned the same, and the lessor had accepted the assignee as his tenant, the Court held that the original tenant was still liable on such covenant.

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

Following are some of the noteworthy transactions at the Exchange Salesroom during the week. By order of the Court, under proceedings in partition, the four-story brown stone house with lot (21x100.5) No. 155 West Forty-fourth street, was sold to William R. Bell for $20,000. The premises known as Nos. 137 and 139 Madison street were sold by order of executors for $13,950. By order of the Executors other improved property was sold as follows: No. 65 Spring street (25x78) for $8,000; No. 64 Mulberry street (25x96) for $8,050; No. 211 Hester street for $5,000, and No. 213 West Fifty third street for $17,300. A full list of the foreclosure sales, with the prices realized, appears below. At private sale it is reported that Robt. W. Stuart has sold to Robert Hoe, Jr., premises No. 11 East Thirty-sixth street, lot 50x100.5, house 37.6x70, and stable, for $72,500. Jacob Campbell has sold to Mrs. Dr. Jno. C. Ayer house and lot No. 5 West Fifty-seventh street, 25x90x100, for $70,000. Wm. Henry Smith has sold to Elihu Root house and lot No. 30 East Fifty-fifth street, $27,000.

In our last we noted the sale of the leasehold premises No. 46 West Fifty-sixth street for $21,000. This is a typographical error, as the figures intended to be printed were No. 46 West Fifty-first street.

During the week ending February 21, 1878, more activity has been shown in the Building Department. Plans for the erection of forty-five buildings have been filed with the Superintendent, at an estimated cost of $230,250. Mr. E. Kilpatrick proposes to erect on Seventy-ninth street, between First and Second avenues, thirteen three-story brown stone front houses, and on Fiftieth street, between Second and Third avenues, Mr. W. P. Parsons intends to erect eight three-story brown stone houses, at a total cost of $88,000.

The following are the sales at the Exchange Salesroom for the week ending Feb. 21:

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICK.—There has been a better tone on the market for Common Hards, and somewhat higher prices are current. As a rule, buyers do not appear in any greater numbers, nor does the demand show an actual increase, and the improvement is in the main to be attributed to scant supplies, which have enabled receivers to retain sufficient control over the offering to insist upon better terms. All really attractive parcels of North River stock were worth $6.00, and the receipts from Long Island were mostly placed at about 5.75@6.00 per M. The movement of consumers continues to show pretty much the same general inclination to caution before referred to, and while receivers of course take advantage of any point of advantage, few, if any, are at all disposed to refuse attention when a good full bid is made. Present consumptive wants are below the average for the season, and the early future does not give promise of any great expansion to the outlet. Some few shipping orders have lately come to hand to help the movement, and we hear of sales for Galveston, etc. Pales have made quite a decided improvement. The supply is small; a number of buyers are quite anxious to obtain stock, and bids range up to $3.50 for the best, at which the position, as we write, appears quite firm. Fronts have met with very little call beyond the ordinary movement of small lots from yard, but prices remain steady all around.

We quote Pale, P M., $3.25@3.50; Hards, Up-rivers, nominal; Haverstraw bay, $5.75@6.00; favorite brands, $6.00@6.25; Fronts, Croton—brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $25@27; Baltimore, $34@38.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5 00@6.00 on fronts.

GLASS.—Buyers cannot be drawn out of the careful policy which induces them to calculate their wants down to almost a single light, and the demand develops slowly. Business, however, is improving, and this gives holders greater hope and tends to infuse a little more strength and uniformity on values, as during the dull season the "small favors" allowed produced some irregularity on the line of prices. There is a complaint over the provisions of the tariff bill as reported, many of its details proving quite unsatisfactory but hopes are entertained that heed will be given to suggestions forwarded to the committee by leading members of the trade, and the objectionable feature modified or removed.

HARDWARE.—Demand has been fair, and rather tends to increase with dealers becoming correspondingly cheerful. Buyers have been disappointing in their movements from many sections, but the necessity for laying in supplies gradually becomes more pressing, and the reflection is shown upon our wholesale market. So far the selections have shown the exercise of much care in the avoidance of all but standard goods, and it is probable that this policy will be adhered to this season as closely as last year. The issue of price lists is becoming less frequent, but occasional changes of some importance are heard of. The Russell & Erwin Mfg. Co. report a reduction in price of Russell, Birdsall & Ward's carriage and tire bolts to discount 70 and 5 per cent.; stove bolts, to discount 50, 10 and 5 per cent.; and plough bolts to discount 50 and 5 per cent. The price of Huffer's patent spring blind hinges has been reduced 10 per cent. They are now quoted at discount 40 and 10 per cent. from list. The Vulcan Saw Works have issued a revised list of changes lately made. The discounts to the trade are, on circular saws, 30 per cent.; circular top saws, 30 per cent.; setting, sharpening and repairing saws, net cash; standard wire gauges, 15 per cent.; veneering saws or segments, net cash; mill, gang and mulay saws, 30 per cent.; pit saws, ice saws and cross-cut saws, 30 per cent.; patent cross-cut saw handles, 10 per cent.; billet webs and wood saws, 25 per cent.; wood saw rods, 10 per cent.; chair and felloe webs, 25 per cent.; hand, back, butcher saws, &c., 25 per cent.; cabinet scrapers, plastering trowels and mitering rods, 25 per cent.; saw screws and handles, 20 per cent.; Fay's patent scroll saws, 35 per cent.; band saws, 20 per cent.

LATH.—The uncertain tone of the market has to some extent disappeared, owing to fresh arrivals and sales, upon which an idea of values could be obtained, and the result gives a fair endorsement to the previous claims of the selling interest. When the offering was made quite a number of buyers were found ready to negotiate, and not much difficulty appeared to be experienced in closing at higher rates than those current on last cargo sales; and there has since been sufficient demand to even still further strengthen the position. Reports on actual business consummated range at $1.75@1.85, and the latter rate was generally quoted on our latest advices. It is but proper to note, however, that some of the principal jobbing dealers are not only off the market, but claim to be able to sell below the wholesale rate and retain a margin for profit.

LIME.—No further changes have taken place since our last, the advance then noted being sustained without difficulty, and the market retaining a fairly healthy tone. Some further arrivals from the eastward came in and were readily placed, but dealers say the demand was not greatly in excess of the offering, and a full supply is not wanted. On State former rates are quoted, and the tone rules steady, but the demand is not quite so general as heretofore, and comes more within the limit of local wants.

LUMBER.—Our market drags along in much the same slow condition, and few dealers have anything very cheerful to report. More or less is doing in the way of contracts on special bills, but not to the extent hoped for and expected, and the sale of cargoes for export direct from the primary markets has fallen away somewhat. The sales to foreign outlets from stocks accumulated here is also a little slow and unsatisfactory, and can only be consummated at a comparatively low line of valuation, shippers receiving no encouragement to take hold freely, or to bid a good fair rate. We hear, however, of some reasonably full amounts going on board at present for the West Indies and South America, the latter including consignments to west coast ports. The local wants are limited, and promise no immediate expansion, the sources of consumption showing few encouraging features. The recent failure does not appear to have had any great influence upon the market other that the natural nervous tone such events always produce, and especially when trade is dull. Indeed, some of our dealers affect to be very little surprised over the difficulties of Mr. Adams, and comments upon the matter contain the usual crop of "I told you so's." We find a very general apathy over the question of the log supply, but where an opinion is expressed it seems to favor the belief that in view of the condition of business, present and prospective, the amount of saw fodder is not likely to run so short as to seriously influence values on the coming season.

Eastern Spruce remains in rather a quiet condition. The odd cargoes dropping in from time to time are placed without much difficulty and command about former rates, but buyers are not over anxious, and receivers seem to think it is just as well they have no greater amount of stock to handle. It has been spoken of in a sort of complaining mood that some of our local distributors are selling this class of stock to consumers at a very light margin over cargo rates and thereby injuring the wholesale market, but if dealers so disposing of their supplies find profit and secure customers, it is not likely there will be much of a change until they sold out, unless business prospects very materially improve. The omission of Spruce from the tariff bill now before the Committee of Ways and Means, and to which we called attention last week, has not as yet been explained, but the impression seems to be that there was a "method" in it, through which the Canadian product will have to suffer. There should be, we think, interest enough among the trade, no matter what their desires may be, upon the duty question, to take proper measures for ascertaining the exact intentions of the tariff tinkers upon so important a subject. We quote at $13@14 for random, possibly $14.25@14.50 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $14@15.50 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White Pine has sold to some extent for export, and met with a moderate demand on home account, but does not reach a point of much activity. Supplies are fair, but not over large, and some dealers claim that in view of recent events the pressure to turn stocks into cash will be removed. We quote at $15@17 per M for West India shipping boards; $19.50@20.50 for South American do; $15@16 for box boards; 17 for do wide and sound; and timber at $16@18 per M.

Yellow Pine may be written about steady and selling to a fair extent on orders, though buyers are rather less plenty and show somewhat greater caution in bidding. Dealers and agents, however, report no reduction of limits from manufacturing points and no pressure to sell. We quote random cargoes at $19@22 per M; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do; green flooring boards, $21@23 do; and dry do do, $23@24.

Cargoes at the South, $14@16.50 per M; hewn timber, $7.50@14.

Hardwoods meet with a moderate local call and find a few orders on foreign account, with a steady tone preserved on values. The market, however, as a whole, is without many new features. We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $77@85 ₮ M; ash, $33@36 do; oak, $35@40 do.; maple, $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d $30@35; do. do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $15@75 do.; white wood, ½ and ⅞ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $33@35 do.; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $10@50 for good nearby stock.

Yard dealers report little or no variation on the general situation. Demand is not very quick, but keeps taking out small lots to a fair extent on a basis of former rates, and business is about all that could be expected.

Among the recent business changes we notice that Mr. John H. Cannon, late of Simpson, Clapp & Co., has become a member of the firm of Watrous & Willson and takes entire charge of their shipping department. To his new position Mr. Cannon carries experience, ability and popularity, and his partners are to be congratulated upon the acquisition to their firm. Messrs. W. R. Grace & Co. announce that they have purchased the stock of lumber lately held by Simpson, Clapp & Co. and have placed the same in the hands of Mr. Wilson Godfrey for disposal. Mr. Godfrey is well known to the trade and to shippers, and can offer special inducements on South American and West India orders.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From the Lumberman's Gazette the following:

BAY CITY, Friday, Feb. 15, 1878.

The uncertainty which prevails as to what the coming log crop is going to be, has the effect of causing a considerable difference of views as to the value of lumber now on hand in this Valley. Buyers' views and those of seller represent different shades of opinion, the former thinking that the amount which may yet be got in will furnish a sufficient stock for a fair cut of lumber at the mills during the next sawing season, and the latter holding that as the season is now so far advanced, it will be impossible to get in anything like a fair supply for next summer's work. The effect of this difference in opinion is to prevent sales. Manufacturers during the past week have refused offers of $6, $12 and $28 for good fair stocks, preferring to wait and take chances on a rise in the market. The weather for the next thirty days will have a very important effect in settling this question.

More or less snow has fallen during the past week in some of the Michigan lumbering regions, but in none of them has it fell to any great depth, or in sufficient quantities to make good hauling. In other places there has been scarcely any snow, and the prospect, as far as loggers are concerned, is not a cheerful one. From the various reports to be found in this issue of the Gazette it will be seen that the lumbermen are not very hopeful of getting in all the logs now skidded, and unless there should be a very radical change in the weather no doubt many of those cut will lay over for another season.

The following quotations cover the range of prices at which stocks are held:

Three uppers	$26 00@30 00
Common	11 00@12 00
Shipping culls	5 50@ 6 00
Lath	1 15@ 1 25
Shingles, river mills	2 75
Shingles, country mills	2 40@ 2 60

The Gazette's Chicago correspondent says:—

There is little difference to note in the market or the demand from last week, save possibly the growing feeling of faith in the future. The demand is still steady and heavy west of the Mississippi and from distant points that have not been in the habit of buying in this market largely heretofore.

A great deal of snow has fallen during the past week in many parts of the country, but the generally mild weather prevailing all over the lumbering districts and the lateness of the season dispels the thought of much benefit from it, unless we should have from this on an exceedingly cold and backward season. Operations are being pushed in the woods to the utmost, and in many camps work is continued day and night and every expedient resorted to in order to facilitate work, even to the hauling of ice and pounding it in the road, the dumping of snow on the bare places, &c., &c. The lumberman as a community is mighty hard to head off. There is no such thing in the book as fail, and, if a possible thing, he will get in his work. You bet!

In some grades stocks are getting quite low here, but we have every indication of an exceedingly early opening of operations and navigation, and if so stocks will hold out pretty well, notwithstanding the strong and continuo is demand from near and remote points. I think there are few holders of merchandise in the country who feel better to day than the lumberman who has a large stock of dry lumber on hand, for it is far better than gold or government bonds with the present prospects of demand and appreciation of prices.

Editorially the Gazette says:

There is no longer any doubt in the minds of the best informed lumbermen that the stock of logs which will be put in in the Northwest during this winter will not be a full one. The most sanguine loggers do not expect over a two-thirds crop, and the estimates vary from that down to much lower figures. With a short supply of logs for next seasons' sawing, and stocks at most lumber markets less than they were a year ago, there can be no reason to doubt that prices of lumber will rule considerably higher on the opening of business in the spring of 1878 than they did in 1877. Stocks at all points on the Mississippi river are short, compared with which deficiency the excess at Chicago at the close of navigation was a mere bagatelle. In the Eastern lumber markets there is about the same state of affairs, excepting perhaps at Albany, although the deficiency is not so marked as at the West. The sources of supply in this State have a somewhat larger amount held over than a year ago, but as compared with the usual amount of lumber handled during a season it is not enough to have much weight on the market. As the country generally is in a more prosperous condition than it has been for some time past, there will be an increased demand for lumber this year. Coupling this with the probability that the amount to be manufactured this coming season will not be as large as last year, the manufacturers can very safely figure upon a larger margin of profit upon the product of their mills than they have netted for years past.

Our correspondent at Albany sends us the following statement of lumber on hand in that city and Troy, N. Y.:

	Albany.	Troy.
Pine	69,547,000	26,000,000
Hardwood	3,615,000	1,250,000
Spruce	16,975,000	3,000,000
Hemlock	5,457,000	2,500,000
Total	95,624,000	32,750,000

The excess at Albany over last season amounts to 2,321,000 feet.

The Marinette Eagle says:

Notwithstanding what might be termed the unfavorable conditions, the Peshtigo Company are making good progress in their logging operations. Including the stock left over from last summer, they had 20,000,000 feet of logs on the banks last Saturday, and by the end of this week would have 3,000,000 feet more added to those figures. This would only leave 12,000,000 feet more to get out to reach the amount they want—35,000,000 feet—and with cold weather this will be accomplished by the middle of March. Wherever practicably the Company are changing their crews from long hauls to short ones, so as to put in every stroke of work to the best advantage. Many of the small jobbers, who have long hauls, are unable to do anything at icing their roads on account of the expense, and will have to trust to snow for any chance to get them out to the banks. The outlook for them is anything but cheerful.

The Muskegon News and Reporter says that the lack of snow has lessened the calculations of the mill men there so that they will be satisfied with three-fourths of the quantity they originally calculated on. This amount is probably cut in the woods and most of it skidded, consequently, if there is any show for putting in what is cut the mills will be comfortably stocked.

From the Eau Claire News, Feb. 9th.

Up to the present writing the weather continues mild and beautiful. It is even more spring-like than it has been any time during the winter. The channel of the Chippewa is open, the roads are dry and dusty, no snow is visible, and the general appearance of things would lead one to suppose that we had entered on the last half of April; in fact, the weather is really pleasanter than we usually get in that month.

Of course, this interferes very materially with the work of the loggers in the woods. So far they have worked in the face of great discouragements with the determination and pluck which would give them success if they only had a half a chance. They have made roads to some extent by hauling snow and using sprinklars at night, which have enabled them to work on short hauls with drays, or "go-devils," as some call them, so that most of the camps with timber on the banks of the streams, or very near them, have been enabled to do something in the way of banking, notwithstanding all drawbacks.

A good many men have come down out of the woods, but enough remain to make it lively if snow should come. In any event the supply of new logs for the coming season will fall far short of the usual crop.

The Lumberman and Manufacturer as follows:

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., February 14, 1878.

The condition of trade is interesting to all parties concerned, not so much on account of any changes as in the fact that it is new in the history of the lumber business. The probable possibility of the making the Reciprocity Treaty with Canada, by which lumber would be admitted free of duty, and the fact that they can supply an unlimited quantity, makes holders nervous and buyers timid with the conceded fact that there will be but half a crop got out in the Northwest. The fact that six hundred million feet of old logs are hung up on the waters of the Mississippi liable to be floated out by spring rains, also has a tendency to make all hands weak. Chicago is stiff at $12.50 and manufacturers hopeful of better prices as the late advance has barely covered the additional cost of getting out logs this winter without snow.

It is not unreasonable to set down the cost of logs at the mills as $2 per M more than last year's crop cost.

Clinton made an advance last week, as will be noted in the market reports, and Stillwater price lists now are the same as Minneapolis, where some discussion is being made as to the propriety of another dollar rise. Stocks are reported diminuting more rapidly than has ever been known in February at all principal points. We predict a rise of common to $15 soon.

THE EAST.

A correspondent of the Lumberman's Gazette writes from Oldtown, Me., as follows.

The weather in this vicinity continues very unfavorable for business, such as hauling bark and wood. There is but very little snow, and warm weather.

Up the river, where they are cutting logs, there is from twelve to fifteen inches of snow, and they are putting in logs very fast. Nearly all that are lumbering will get more logs than they started for last fall, and if they have a good drive there will be a good stock of logs for this river next season.

From the Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

A Fort Fairfield correspondent writes: Our lumbermen are doing a fine business, there being just snow enough for good hauling. I doubt if there was ever before as much lumber put into the Aroostook waters in the same time as has been within the last two weeks. The woods are fairly alive with men and teams. Our streets present quite a lively appearance with the many teams from all directions, loaded with starch, potatoes, shingles, knees, sleeppers, and various other articles for transportation over the railroad.—Our correspondent at Kingfield writes: The good sleighing makes business quite lively in Kingfield, as every one improves it to haul his timber to the mills. S. & C. W. French's mill yard is being rapidly filled with logs to be sawed into all kinds of lumber. The Frenches have a crew in the woods cutting cedar and spruce which will be sawed at their mills next spring.—E. S. Winter thinks of putting from two to three hundred thousand of spruce and pine into river in Jerusalem, to run to Kingfield when the stream opens.—The force lumbering for the Androscoggin Water Power Company of Lisbon, are now doing well at Andover. West Surplus, about 60 miles north of here on the Eltis. They will probably get out two millions of spruce. About 35 horses and 60 men are employed.

FOREIGN.

The Timber Trade Journal (London), contains the following, which may prove of interest to some of "our deal shippers."

LIVERPOOL, January, 30th, 1878.

The feeling of depression which has so long contened still continues to be felt, and business is confined to retail orders only, and no alteration in prices seems to be made except in spruce deals, which continue to advance, especially for good dimensions, which are now becoming very scarce.

There is nothing new to report in reference to other kinds of timber and deals, the current prices of which may be gathered from the list of auction sales.

On the 25th instant, Messrs. A. F. & D. Mackay held an auction sale in their sale sheds.

There was a fair attendance of buyers, but the bidding lacked spirit, and a large quantity of the goods offered was withdrawn, including all the square pine timber.

A letter received by a Quebec firm from one of the principal timber brokers of Liverpool is as follows:

"We are glad to see that there is likely to be some curtailment in the production of wood, and we only hope that the quantity getting out will be small indeed. We fear on your side you are still far too sanguine, for when you see the enormous stocks held in the Clyde and of your goods in Liverpool, it will be quite evident to all that the trade has been sadly overdone; but in addition to this it must be taken into consideration that prospects for consumption are very much worse; through all the bad business the consumption of wood has been large; but as our trade is usually one or two years later than others in feeling any depression we are now only entering upon the time of reduced consumption; the building trade has been unduly stimulated by cheap money, but a reaction now appears to be setting in and unless our supplies are very greatly curtailed we must look for even lower prices. We do not think that really first-class oak is over abundant, but you will see from our circular enclosed that the stock is something like eleven months' consumption. Pine timber is also greatly in excess of last year, and the stock last year was far more than was required. Pine deals are also absurdly heavy, indeed taking timber in the log in the aggregate, and Quebec pine deals, our stocks are something like 60 p. c. more than we should hold at this time of the year, and the failure of the firm to which we have already referred indicates that the dealers here cannot have made money."

METALS.—COPPER—Ingots has met with rather a moderate demand, holders are becoming somewhat more anxious to sell and under slight pressure rates shaded a trifle. We quote at 17¼@17⅝c. for Lake. Manufactured is jobbing out to a fair extent, and former rates are quite generally adhered to, on all kinds. We quote as follows: Brazier's Copper, ordinary sizes over 16 oz., per square foot, 28c. per lb; do. do., do. 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per square foot, 30c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per square foot, 32c. per lb.; do. do., lighter than 10 oz., per square foot, 34c. per lb.; circles, less than 84 inches in diameter, 31c. per lb.; do. 84 inches diameter and over, 34c. per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 31c. per lb.; locomotive fire box sheets, 28c. per lb.; Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz., per square foot, 26c. per lb., and Bolt Copper 28c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig is only wanted on a few small outlets, and moves slowly. Stock is not large, and prices remain about as before. We quote at $23@26.50 per ton, according to brand and quantity. American Pig is under neglect, and the market has a very dull tone, on every grade. Holders' ideas remain about as before on values. We quote at $18@20 for No. 1 per ton, $17@19 for No. 2 do., and $16@18 for Forge. Rails selling moderately on new orders, and no new features of interest to advise at the moment. We quote at $31@35 for new iron, and $40@43 for Steel at the mills. Old Rails, $18@19.50 per ton; scrap, $22@23; the latter slow. Manufactured iron is without much life, but remains steady. Common Merchant Bar can be had in round lots at 1.7c. and Refined at 1.9c., but for ten-ton lots from store, 1.9c. and 2.1c. are respectively insisted upon. Common sheet, 3c., and best R. G. American, 4c. from store. LEAD—Domestic pig in liberal supply with holders offering quite freely, and prices weak at a further decline since our last report. We quote at about 4@4¼c. currency. The manufacturers of lead are quoted: Bar, 6c.; Pipe, 6c., and Sheet, 6¾c.—less the usual discount to the trade; and Tin-lined Pipe, 15c. Block Tin Pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig shows a continuation of the old weak tone and has only a moderate demand with more than enough stock for all calls. We quote at 17¼@17⅝c. for Banca, 14¼@14½c. for Straits, 13¾@14⅛c. for English Refined, and 14⅜@14¾c. for do. common. Tin Plates find a fair average demand for small parcels, and do greatly change on value. Spelter is dull, and to some extent nominal, but as a rule, holders are asking former figures. We quote at 5⅝@5¾c. Sheet Zinc is dull and unpromising and prices easy as a rule. We quote at 7¼@7¾c. gold for foreign and 6¾@7c. currency for domestic.

NAILS.—About an ordinary demand is reported from most regular sources, with orders occasionally swelling into encouraging proportions. The movement, however, is by no means free or full, and it is only by a careful gauge of the production, that a surplus accumulation can be prevented. Rates remain on a basis of 2.50@2.60 per keg for 10d to 60d with the usual allowance to the trade.

OILS.—Buyers continue to move slowly and carefully, and pretty much all calls are based solely on the wants of the hour. Supplies and assortments are equal to the requirements of the market, but under fair control, and not pressed to a sale. Linseed oil worth about 62@65c from crushers' hands.

PAINTS.—Care appears to be shown on most orders received, both as regards quantity of stock handled and assortment called for, while prices undergo more or less crowding. Business, however, is fair and growing, and when buyers are satisfied that only a just valuation is placed upon goods, they close quickly to the extent of their wants.

PITCH.—Demand as a rule has been confined to small trade orders, and the market did not often reach a point of much animation. There has been little change in cost, as the stock was under fair control, and owners not pressing. We quote at $2.00@$2.25 for City delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—Easy terms are looked for by most customers, and they constantly crowd values, even on the small lots called for. Stocks, however, remain under speculative control, and are offered somewhat indifferently. As we close, the tone is pretty steady at 32@35, according to quantity of stock handled.

TAR.—For the usual small jobbing parcels, there has been an average call on a basis of about summer rates. There does not appear to be much inclination to invest freely however, and holders secure little opportunity to increase the value of their stocks. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½c. for Newberne and Washington, and $2.25@2.50 for Wilmington.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

NOTE.—There appeared in our last issue the record of a judgment amounting to $50,584 in favor of N. L. Jeffries against Fernando Wood. We are informed that this judgement was obtained by default, and that proceedings have been instituted to vacate and set aside the same on the ground that Mr. Wood has a valid defence to the action in which the judgement aforesaid was recovered.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MINING INTERESTS.

The interest in the mining business seems to be growing and capitalists are beginning to investigate some of the properties on the market with a view to investments. There is still, however, a strong feeling of distrust in regard to some of the mines that are dealt in on the Mining Exchange, and it behooves the members of the Examining Committee to give the closest attention to the mines that come before them for investigation, before they can be listed on the Board. There is evidently a desire on the part of capital to invest in mining properties that can pay a good fair dividend, and owners of mining properties desirous of raising working capital should be careful not to make a ridiculously high capitalization on their mines, as dividend paying mines in California offer such magnificent inducements that the contrast will prove to their disadvantage. No new properties have been dealt in during the past week.

The Idaho Silver Mining Company, which was incorporated under the mining laws of the State of New York, is now being worked by contract under the management of W. E. Hall, Mining Engineer of Utah. It is reported that samples of ore from this mine, recently assayed, run 82 oz, 76 oz., 81 oz., and 67 oz. of silver to the ton. The company has been capitalized at $250.0 0, in 50,000 shares of $5 each, and a limited amount of stock for working capital is now being offered. The full particulars regarding the mine can be obtained at the office of the company, 52 Broadway, room 4.

The market has been very active during the past week and very large blocks of Lacrosse and Bertha and Edith have changed hands. Lacrosse has been the most active stock on the list. At the commencement of the week it was rather weak, declining to 63c., on Monday morning it opened at 64c. and closed at 70c., and during the rest of the week it has ranged between 65c. and that figure. Of Bertha and Edith some considerable quantity of the stock has been purchased at prices varying between 12c. and 16c. American flag has been pretty steady at from 18c. to 20c., and there has been some activity in Moose, as its brokers forced it up as high as 8¢. on the strength of a rumor that another large body of ore had been opened up.

LOCAL ITEMS.

The Municipal Society held a meeting on Monday evening last, at which was discussed the important question touching the exemption of Church property from taxation. It appears that there are about 400 pieces of untaxed property, consisting of churches, schools, hospitals, &c., estimated at $80,000,000. Messrs. Schultz and Toucey advocated taxation on the ground of the protection received from the Government, and that the plan of exemption from taxation conflicted with the constitution of the State, which prohibits the loan of money to sectarian institutions. Mr. Toucey considering the remission of the tax in the light of a loan. Mr. G. H. Andrews argued in favor of the present system, claiming, first, that no income was derived from this class of property; second, that the capital invested therein was non-productive; third, that real estate had been benefitted to an amount equal to any sum which could possibly be derived from taxation.

A resolution was introduced and referred to the Executive Committee, providing that no more than 40,000 square feet in cities, or more than five acres outside of them shall be used free of taxation for church purposes.

BROOKLYN.

The bill in relation to taxes and assessments, introduced by Senator Pierce, provides that "on all taxes and assessments which shall be paid to the collector before the expiration of sixty days after the warrant for the collection of the same shall have been delivered to him, an allowance shall be made to the person or persons making such payments at the rate of 7 3-10 per cent. for the unexpired portion thereof, and the amount of such allowances shall be credited to the account of the collector and charged to the account of the revenue funds. On all taxes and assessments paid to him after the expiration of sixty days and within ninety days from the delivery of such warrants, no allowances shall be made or interest charged. On all taxes and assessments paid to the collector after the expiration of ninety days from the day of the delivery of such warrants 1 per cent. per month shall be added for the ten months next ensuing, and thereafter 7 per cent. per annum shall be added to said taxes and assessments until the same are paid." The act is to take effect immediately.

Another bill has been introduced, providing that the assessment heretofore laid for the repavement with granite pavement of Atlantic avenue, between Flatbush and Classon avenues be vacated, and providing that "the Board of Assessors of the City of Brooklyn shall forthwith ascertain and report to the Board of Estimate the amount of bonds of said city outstanding for the repavement of said Atlantic avenue, for the redemption of which no provision of law has been made, including the amount of the assessment mentioned, together with interest, and said Board of Estimate shall insert the same in equal proportion in the annual taxes upon said city of Brooklyn during the next ten years."

PROPERTIES FORECLOSED BY INSTITUTIONS.

Since the panic of 1873 there has been great evasion practised by institutions with reference to the condition of defaulted mortgages, and there has also been culpable negligence and unwarrantable leniency exercised in the matter of the foreclosure of mortgages. A common subterfuge practised by institutions has been to retain among sound assets mortgages that were really in hopeless default. Neglect and leniency in regard to foreclosures have involved both mortgagor and mortgagee in needless and aggravated calamity. Under the impression that it was in the power of these institutions to buoy up and support inflated values of real estate, the policy has been adopted and pursued by some of them for nearly four years of making excessive loans upon mortgage, and of adopting the mildest kind of treatment with defauling mortgagors. Probably, underlying this policy was a latent hope or belief that real estate values would rally and become finally re-established at or near the plane of former rates. The utter failure of these expectations, and the enormous depreciation which has actually taken place in real estate values during the past four years, have not only bankrupted the makers of doubtful and insecure mortgages, but also thrown upon the institutions a vast amount of property, the corporate liens on which have been greatly increased by arrearages of interest and taxes as well as exaggerated legal fees and expenses. If these same properties had been brought to an earlier foreclosure and sale, the chances are that purchasers might have been found for them at better prices than can be realized to-day. At all events, the institutions would have been relieved from the addition to their claims in the shape of accrued interest and taxes, and in all likelihood would have been spared the necessity of assuming the ownership of so many blocks of real estate. The knowledge that many foreclosures were being delayed and kept back deterred private capitalists from entering the exchange sales room. The absence of outside support, and the gradually increasing volume of foreclosure sales, have had the effect of severely and unduly depressing the real estate market.

We have taken the trouble to collate and tabulate all the conveyances under foreclosure that have been made to institutions during the past three years, and present them in this number as an index to the results of corporate management during the past decade, as well as a directory as to the ownership of this vast body of real estate, and the data from which to determine the question as to how soon this swollen stream of foreclosure suits by institutions may be expected to dry up and disappear. A careful study of this list will afford instructive information as to the past management and future prospects of small and great financial institutions:

GOOD MORTGAGE LOANS.

We have had occasion to say so much lately about bad mortgage loans, that we are afraid our readers may conclude that we are disposed to be prejudiced or hypochondriacal on this subject. But, in truth, there has been a wide field for remark, and many bitter and irresistible provocatives of criticism. We trust that with the beginning of the present year, an effectual and lasting stop has been put to the misuse of corporate funds in mortgage loans. With a view of convincing our readers that there are such things as safe mortgage loans, and that we are fully able to recognize and discriminate such, when we meet them, as well as to convince the incredulous that a goodly number of safe mortgage loans can be obtained in this city by seeking for them, we have taken the pains to collate and present in a body, the entire number of loans made by the United States Trust Company during the years 1876 and 1877. This company is recognized as one of the best managed and most reliable institutions in the country. The wisdom displayed in that difficult branch of investment, to wit: Mortgage loans, fully justifies the confidence reposed in this sterling institution. Although some of these loans, particularly those made early in 1876, may seem at this late day and after continued depreciation of values, to be somewhat full; still, at the time they were made, doubtless they represented not more than fifty per cent. of current value, and may be set down to-day like all the rest of the list, without exception or qualification, as the safest and best investment that the world can produce. We take particular satisfaction in presenting this praiseworthy and meritorious list of mortgages as a complete vindication of the strictures heretofore indulged in, by this paper, upon the subject of bad investments, and a justification of the assertions which we have frequently made, that good mortgages are procurable in this city, and that any well managed institution can easily restrict its investments to the very best.

The common excuse offered by reckless and inexperienced managers is that gilt-edged mortgages are scarce and hard to be secured. If, however, they will establish a reputation for accepting none but the most approved applications and couple this with proper concessions and facilities in negotiation, there will be no further occasion to lament over such scarcity or to cast about for vain and idle excuses for placing trust funds in doubtful investments.

THE ECONOMICS OF BUILDINGS.

To the Editor of THE REAL ESTATE RECORD :—

I have been much interested in reading your able and exhaustive series of articles entitled "The Economics of Building."

These articles give evidence of much thought, knowledge and good judgment in matters pertaining to building, and are pervaded by a spirit of fairness and moderation.

Under the head of "Architect Builders," however, and where the relations of architects and builders are treated of, I think your articles are open to criticism.

In years gone by, when dwellings in our city, with rare exceptions, were entirely innocent of either architectural style or convenience, and before the taste of our people had been educated, and before they knew anything of the complicated arrangements of the fine residence of the present time, the builders were in the habit of copying one house from another—street after street—without any more attempt at design than would be given to a dry goods box. Fortunately for our city these days are past.

Between the architects and the best class of builders of the present day there is no jealousy or clashing of interests whatever. Each has his legitimate part to perform, and these are entirely distinct—one from the other.

There is no man more ready than the better class of builder, either mason or carpenter, to employ the architect when he is about to erect a building for himself, to design and superintend the erection of the same for him.

He knows by experience that to be a good builder in either branch is sufficient for one man to learn without being educated in one of the highest professions as well! A respectable builder never undertakes to erect a building of any importance until he first has the architect's plans, specifications, details and figures in his hands; he will not attempt it without these, nor will he as a rule, take any responsibility as to strength of material or mode of construction, this is all left to the architect—he alone taking all this responsibility.

Now, if these things be so (and they cannot be honestly disputed), how can such men as Mr. Sherwood, Mr. Bradley, or the others named in your article, be architects in any sense, except so far as to give general directions as to what they desire? This any man can do.

Mr. Sherwood was a merchant, Mr. Bradley a florist and Mr. McCafferty a shoe dealer. These gentlemen and others who like them have had any success in building on speculation, and who have made some reputation in this direction, have done so by their good judgment in selecting their architects and builders. Mr. Sherwood never built a building of any importance without first employing an architect. Messrs. Jardine, Messrs. Field & Son, Mr. E. G. Thompson and others have been employed by him at different times. Nor has Mr. Bradley. The first named firm of architects has designed many buildings for him, and Mr. J. G. Prague, architect, prepared the design of the last building erected by him, and as for Mr. McCafferty, his brother-in-law, a trained architect, designs all buildings which he erects. The Messrs. O'Reilly have always employed an architect to design any buildings of importance which they desire to construct—although they know infinitely more about building than any of the above, having been educated as builders themselves.

I do not believe that either of the gentlemen named will pretend for a moment that he knows anything of architecture, properly speaking. Finally, I would say that Messrs. Duggin & Crossman are the only "Architect Builders" in the city, and they were educated as architects before they commenced building. BUILDER.

New York, Feb. 21st, 1878.

We shall have no occasion to dispute any of the main statements that our correspondent has made. Our information, probably, is a little later than his. We do not pretend that the architect builders enumerated by us assume or perform in person the clerical labor of draughting their working plans. The work of design and the superintendence of its elaboration are wholly theirs, even though other hands may hold the pencil and rule. Messrs. Duggin & Crossman, the most accomplished and successful of these architect builders, bestow their personal pains and thought upon the sketch plan—leaving to able and trained assistants the work of preparing detailed working plans. Mr. Sherwood is recognized as a gentleman of the highest aesthetic culture and a real connoiseur in art. He is competent to direct if not to execute the full artistic details of house building. Mr. Bradley is no doubt indebted to his early occupation for the refined taste which has characterized all his productions. We wish all builders and architects had started in life as florists. We were aware of Mr. McCafferty's association with his brother-in-law, the young architect, R. W. Buckley, and should have described them as representing one organization. The Messrs. O'Rielly, we are well aware, are the pupils and disciples of Thomas C. Smith, one of the best builders of the preceding generation. This firm and the Lynde Brothers are the best types and illustrations of our thought.

EDITOR OF THE REAL ESTATE RECORD.

A CARD.

To the Editor of THE REAL ESTATE RECORD :

My attention has been called to a mortgage review in your issue of the 23d inst. referring to loans made by the City Chamberlain which might lead to the impression that he had not heeded the order of the General Term of the Supreme Court, which was made upon the "excellent advice" of Mr. Musgrave.

As "general adviser," under that order, allow me to say that no loans have been accepted by the Chamberlain since its promulgation, neither will there be unless in strict compliance with its terms.

JOHN MCCLAVE.

Dated New York, Feb. 27th, 1878.

LEGAL DECISIONS.

PURCHASERS AT FORECLOSURE SALES.

A purchaser at a mortgage foreclosure sale of leasehold premises at the southeasterly corner of Broadway and Twenty-second street raised several objections to the title, among others: 1st, "That the premises were incumbered by reason of parties formerly owning the leased lands and other lands on both sides of Twenty-second street entering into an agreement that the buildings thereafter to be erected should be placed back seven feet six inches from the street, so as to have a court yard in front of the premises, and the houses had been built in conformity to the agreement, including one on that portion of the leasehold premises affected. Held by the Court of Appeals that while this agreement may in one sense be regarded as an incumbrance upon this lot it cannot be assumed that it in any way diminished the value of the premises, and because it is manifest that the purchaser would have bid the same if he had known of the agreement. It was, therefore, an immaterial defect in the title which the Court should disregard. Referring to the other objections raised by the purchaser, the Court lay down the following general principles applicable to judicial sales. A purchaser at a foreclosure sale will not be relieved on account of defects in the property, or the title thereto, of which he had notice, and in reference to which he made his bid, and the Court will not permit him to abandon his contract without seeing that the object of the purchase is defeated, and that he would be injured by the enforcement of the contract. It is not every defect in the subject sold or variation from the description that will avail the purchaser. He will not be suffered to speculate at such sales, and if he makes a bad bargain to repudiate it.

ANSWER TO CORRESPONDENT.

Question. Is it absolutely necessary, that an action to foreclose a mechanics lien, be commenced within 90 days after filing the lien, by the personal service of the complaint?

Answer. Judge Van Hoesen, of the Common Pleas, has recently decided that in case a notice of the pendency of the action, and the complaint therein have been filed with the Clerk of the County, although a copy of such complaint has not been personally served on the defendant within 90 days, the lien will not necessarily be vacated, but the omission to serve the same must be satisfactorily explained, and it must appear that due diligence has been used to make such service. The matter of vacating the lien rests in the discretion of the Court, and, in this case, the Court refused to vacate the lien, although the complaint in the action was not served within the 90 days.

THE MATHEWS BUILDING.

One of the most elaborate and at the same time most serviceable apartment houses, recently completed, is the Mathews building on the southeast corner of Sixth avenue and Forty-fifth street. With a frontage of 125 feet on the avenue and 120 feet on the street, its position is exceedingly commanding, no matter whether approached from the east or west side. This fact has been thoroughly taken advantage of by the Messrs. Jardine, the architects, who have succeeded in placing along this busiest of thoroughfares not only a row of elegant stores, but also a series of flats, so-called, showing great skill of combination, where neither the useful nor the ornamental has been overlooked. The architecture is entirely in the French style, and most appropriate for that section of the city.

The Mathews building, the front of which is of Dorchester and Nova Scotia free stone, all carefully cut by John Russell of Fifty-first street and North River, is six stories high, including the basement. There are six stores on Sixth avenue, and each apartment house forming part of the whole has a separate entrance, an advantage which tenants will greatly appreciate, not only as securing more privacy, but also considerably enhancing their safety in case of fire and accident. The structure at once impresses the beholder as one of the most substantial buildings along the avenue, the walls, in fact, averaging a thickness varying from twelve to sixteen inches. Upon close inspection it will be found that the building is not only substantially erected, but also artistically designed, the architect having taken especial pains in beautifying the Forty-fifth street front with polished granite columns imported from Scotland. It is at once apparent, however, that both owner and architect have spared no expense in beautifying the interior as well as the exterior, combining, as we have stated, elegance with comfort in every part of this great structure.

The fine British plate glass furnished by Edward A. Boyd, of 79 Murray street, at once give tone and character to the fine stores that line the avenue side of the building, while the doors, vestibules, the wainscoting and, in fact, all the cabinet work throughout the entire building show careful planning on the part of the Messrs. Jardine, but also honest and faithful work by the builder, Mr. Elgar, of 335 West Twenty-fourth street. Of course he feels proud of the Mathews Building, and well he may, as we have seldom seen better finished work than in the job which he has just completed, One of the most excellent features of this part of the construction is that the floors between the various stories are all laid double, thus deafening the noise between the various suite of rooms, also an advantage and comfort not readily met with in the ordinary apartment house.

In fact, Mr. Mathews appears to have made it a rule in this model building, which generally is an exception with owners, to study the conveniences of his tenants—a rule which will work greatly to his benefit as a landlord when it once becomes generally known among those seeking comfortable quarters. For instance, he has it so arranged that steam heating, the apparatus for which was supplied by the well known firm of Baker, Smith & Co., can be furnished free of charge to the tenants and storekeepers throughout the entire structure. A set of soap stone tubs has also been provided in the various laundries, separate drying rooms being attached to each of the principle suite of rooms. These drying rooms also enjoy the advantage of the steam heating, which Baker, Smith & Co. have conducted throughout the building on the most approved principles. In this connection it should also be stated that the kitchen ranges are from the establishment of Rollhaus, in Water street, and from Duparquet, in Wooster street, and are furnished with the most modern appliances, while the entire iron work was supplied under contract with the firm of J. B. & J. M. Cornell, of Centre street.

The plumbing work of the Mathews Building, however, is well worthy of imitation by all those who erect new houses in New York now-a-days. There the architect and owner have acted entirely upon scientific principles, which must do away with any nuisance arising from sewer gas. This work has really been done regardless of expense, and conscientiously performed by Mr. T. Brien, of 384 Bleecker street. Each apartment house has a separate cast iron sewer pipe connecting with the street main. They are of ample size, and hermetically sealed by hot lead joints, as are all the waste pipes throughout the entire building, each upright pipe running through the roof its full size, so as to ventilate the whole. At all available points traps of the latest pattern and style are also introduced.

Very few and more pretentious private houses have been so cosily finished as to parlors, bedrooms, and diningrooms, as the suites which together constitute this Matthews apartment house. The cabinet, mantles, and mirrors in the parlors we only need to say are from the well-known establishment of A. Roux & Co., in Fifth avenue, to convey an idea of their excellence, while firms like A. Klaber, Fisher & Bird, and A. L. Fauchere & Co. have furnished the marble mantels in the various secondary rooms. They are of different—but all elegant—designs, in dove and Italian marble. The grates are of the latest patterns, being from the much respected firm of Conover & Co., in Canal street, and from Isaac Sarven. The gas fixtures and chandeliers in the various rooms are also of artistic design, and finished in gold. Mitchell, Vance & Co. and the Archer & Pancoast Manufacturing Company having done themselves credit in selecting the very latest styles in these important addendar to the comforts of well-appointed suites of rooms.

The illuminated English tiles in the halls give the tout ensemble of the interior quite a cheerful aspect, and form a pleasing contrast to the solid walnut along the staircases and halls. On leaving the building the writer noticed that the sidewalk on both the avenue and street side had been vaulted to the line of the curb, the large flags of blue stone having been furnished by Augustus Meyer of Horatio street. The mason work of the building has been performed under the supervision of C. H. Tucker & Son, the plastering by John Dewhurst, of Seventh avenue, and Forty-ninth street, and the painting by Frank & Muller, of Sixth avenue and Thirty-seventh. We had almost forgotten to state that the sashes and blinds are from Jenkins, in Canal street, and that, as usual, the energetic Hayes, of Eighth avenue, has crowned the building with his skylight.

Several of the houses and flats, which rent at moderate rates, have already been disposed of, and a janitor is always on the premises to give the required information. Mr. William Mathews, who has had great success with his dry goods in Catherine street, deserves equal success with his building enterprise on Sixth avenue for the liberal manner in which he has managed the construction of this latest New York apartment building, and according to all appearances, he is sure to enjoy the fruits of his outlay within a very short space of time.

NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

The financial exhibit made by the officers of this Company in their thirty-third annual report, which is presented on the second page of this issue, must be gratifying to their many policyholders by reason of the fact that the Company now show a surplus, estimated by the New York standard at 4½ per cent., of over $6,000,000, while last year the amount was about $5,500,000. It also appears by the report that while most concerns of this kind have suffered from a diminuition of business, owing to the exceptionally hard times, this Company during the past year increased the number of policies in force. The number issued was 6,597, insuring $20,156,639, and the number of policies in force on January 1, 1878, was 45,605, against 451,421 on Jan. 1, 1877, and the amount at risk on Jan. 1, 1878, shows also an increase.

The amount of cash assets on the first day of January, 1878, was $31,957,250.92.

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The judicial sales held during the week show a considerable increase in number, involving in some instances amounts of unusual magnitude. Full details appear below. The sales other than by order of the Court were as follows: Mr. Muller sold the four-story and basement brown stone front house with lot (25x103), No. 133 West Fourteenth street, for $15,000, and Mr. Harnett, by order of Executors, sold six lots on the south side of One Hundred and Forty-eighth street, 451 feet 10 inches east of Terrace place (150x210), and one lot adjoining (25x100) for $3,780.

Messrs. Duggin & Crossman have sold to Mr. Salem H. Wales one of their houses now in course of erection on the north side of Fifty-fifth street, between Madison and Fifth avenues, for $35,000. The house is 26x55 and the lot 26x73.

Jacob Campbell, President of the Pacific Bank, has bought the Trask mansion, with furniture, situated at the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and Eighty-fourth street, stable in rear, for $78,000.

On Thursday last, Mr. Harnett sold 300 lots in Brooklyn, the location of which is given below, for $19,847. It is understood that the property was bought for the account of Henry Hilton.

The record of transactions published in the numbers of THE RECORD for the month of February shows that the sales at the Exchange Salesroom aggregated $1,161,739 as against $1,448,531 for the month of February, 1877. The total number of conveyances filed for record in the Office of the Register, excluding the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth wards, reaches 492, the aggregate consideration amounting to $6,526,952, as against $8,616,768 for February 1877. Mortgages numbering 483, aggregating $3,161,169 were recorded in the Register's Office, as against $27,906,111 for the month of February, 1877. (We note here that in February, 1877, there was one mortgage filed for record amounting to $25,000,000.) The number of recorded mortgages bearing interest at six per cent. was 121, aggregating $1,190,097, a reduction in amount of $215,822 from last month. 65 mortgages aggregating $600,077 were made to trust and insurance companies as against $482,181 for February, 1877.

During the months of January and February 416 actions for the foreclosure of mortgages were commenced in the City of New York. During the corresponding period in 1877 the number was 431, showing a decrease of 15.

Nine plans, embracing the same number of buildings, were filed with the Superintendent of the Department of Buildings during the week ending February 28, the estimated cost of which is $95,500. At No. 277 Canal street a five-story brick warehouse, at a cost of $16,000, and at No. 336 East Fifty-fifth street a five-story apartment house, the estimated cost of which is $11,000, will be erected.

At the corner of Union Square and Sixteenth street, extensive alterations will be made, at a cost of $10,000, and the owner of No. 35 West Fourteenth street has filed a plan for extensive alterations, at a cost of $3,700.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICK.—Receivers appear to be in a comparatively cheerful mood, in as much as they have had more stock to handle, and were enabled to dispose of it without shading greatly on the cost. Navigation on the river, between the points of supply and this market, has been sufficiently open to permit of passage without serious obstruction, and the result has been the arrival of several cargoes both by sail and barge. Demand in the meantime improved somewhat, and up to the writing of our report pretty much all the offering was reported sold with $6.00 considered about the average price, though a few ranged 25c. per M lower. Long Island's quoted at $5.75, but it is thought that very few more will now come forward. While the market has, as above noted, proven reasonably encouraging there is nothing at the moment calculated to give the selling interest any great expectations, and a rush of supplies will in all probability carry a break with it. Buyers are just as much given to the cautious policy as ever, will take only just the amount required for immediate use, and gain a decided advantage as soon as the accumulation overlaps consumptive capacity. Promises for the future, however, are fair, some new work recently projected and almost sure to be commenced, being of a character to require quite large amounts of brick, and should the opening of production on the new crops be in any way delayed, there is a chance that stocks now on hand must become pretty well exhausted. We find also that a hope is entertained of a re-opening of the shipping trade to the Provinces, though the call from this source, if it comes, is likely to be directed more toward very fine stock and Croton Fronts, than the ordinary run of Common Hards. Pales are still quoted at $3.50 for the finest but this rate is extreme, and can scarcely be sustained under any increase of shipment. Fronts are dull and nominally unchanged.

We quote Pale, ℔ M., $3.25@3.50; Hards, Up-rivers, nominal; Haverstraw bay, $5.75@6.00; favorite brands, $6.00@6.25; Fronts, Croton—brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $25@27; Baltimore, $31@38.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5.00@6.00 on fronts.

LATH.—Demand appears to have been good enough to take care of most of the supply, and the market was pretty well sustained. Buyers could seldom be found willing to handle any very large quantity, but for parcels as sold, about $1.85 was generally obtained, and up to the time of writing we hear of no other price, though it was rather above what dealers were willing to name for full cargoes. There is no indication that our market could exhaust a large number of lath at present.

LIME.—Receivers report demand enough to take care of about all the Eastern they have had to offer, and prices have preserved a steady range throughout. The outlet, however, is by no means a liberal one, and there is little desire for additional arrivals. State also remains steady with continued calls for shipment to a moderate extent, and some local orders but supply enough left for the necessities of the market.

HARDWARE.—On local account there is not much of a distribution from first hands. Buyers say they cannot find any consumption except in a very small retail way, and being near the accumulation, they naturally are without anxiety to make up invoices in excess of ability to handle to immediate advantage. From out-of-town sources, however, there comes a good fair call, and prospects of a still further increase and the general feeling on the market is a cheerful one. Some export trade is doing, and the distribution on foreign account promises well. Since our last we hear of no changes on lists of interest to our readers, but prices generally are firm on all styles of goods.

LUMBER.—We find a continued dull tone prevailing so far as calls for immediate use are concerned, and no great animation for future delivery, though many dealers and agents are figuring on cargoes required for spring and early summer use. Values in a general way may be called steady, and especially so on contracts, the instructions from manufacturers showing a pretty well fixed determination to stand out for comparatively full rates on current engagements. Supplies on hand are moderate and not any too well assorted, but still there appears to be quite sufficient for the outlet at present offered, with possibly an exception on the Eastern product which sold up pretty closely last summer and fall, and has not arrived to any extent during the winter. The export business is a little irregular and evidently not up to expectations, with a portion of the Trade speaking with some discouragement, though others seem to think the demand is only under temporary prostration, and will revive sufficiently to make amends for any current loss.

Eastern Spruce shows about the same general features. Very few receivers have any stock to offer directly upon the market, and expect none for some time to come, as a natural result of the season, but there is more or less doing in the way of estimating and closing upon specials for delivery as soon after sawing is resumed as possible, and in nearly all cases at pretty good full range of prices. Such parcels as can be offered now, it is claimed, are all wanted and more beside, though the test of several cargoes arriving and seeking a market together might alter views on this subject somewhat. We quote at $13@14 for random, possibly $14.25@14.50 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $14@15.50 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White Pine has a more or less unsettled tone, and is showing few evidences of strength. As a rule holders are unwilling to admit a positively unfavorable situation for their supplies, but whatever confidence may be felt is based more upon expectations for the future, than from any benefits to be obtained through the present condition of business, either on home or shipping account. About old quotations are retained, but they are more or less nominal. We quote at $15@17 per M for West India shipping boards; $19.50@20.50 for South American do; $15@16 for box boards; 17 for do wide and sound; and timber at $16@18 per M.

Yellow Pine continues in some demand, but we do not hear of quite so many calls for specials as last week, with a probability that the first flush of the season is over. Sellers, however, appear to have a good opinion of the market and generally speak confidently. We quote random cargoes at $19@22 per M; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do; green flooring boards, $21@23 do; and dry do do, $22@24. Cargoes at the South, $14@16.50 per M; hewn timber, $7.50@14.

Hardwoods are without any decided variation. Some stock has been going forward to Europe since the commencement of the year, mostly odd lots of maple, but understood to be mostly if not all, in execution of contracts made on primary markets. Local wants are small, and buyers continue to operate solely to the extent of their ability to "use right up." We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $75@85 ℔ M; ash, $33@36 do; oak, $35@40 do.; maple, $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d $30@35; do. do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $45@75 do.; white wood, ½ and ⅝ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $30@35 do.; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $40@50 for good nearby stock.

Retail business is about in proportion to the movement on the wholesale market. In a few cases the distribution makes a fair showing, but only temporarily, and taking the week through, not many dealers reach a good full aggregate of sales. Prices have the usual irregularity according to quantity of stock handled, terms, etc., but do not change much from the former general range.

From among the recent lumber charters reported we select the following: A Br. schr, 106 tons, from Bridgetown, N. S., to Barbados, lumber, lumber, $7 gold; a schr., 200 M lumber, from Wilmington, N. C., to Jamaica, $6 gold; a Br. barque, from Doboy to a direct port United Kingdom, sawn timber, £5 5s. ℔ standard; another from Doboy to Cork and United Kingdom, re-sawed lumber, £5 12s. 6d., direct port 5s. ℔ standard off; a schr, 150 M lumber, from Pascagoula to Cardenas, $7; a Br. brig, 400 tons, from St. John, N. B., to Dundalk, deals, 73s. 9d.; an Am. ship, 1308 tons, from Portland to Glasgow, deals, 72s. 6d.; a schr, 203 tons, hence to Caibarien, White Pine lumber, $5 gold; a schr, 300 M lumber, from Pensacola to New York or a Sound port, $7, or Boston, $8; a schr, 200 M lumber, from Brunswick to New York, $5.25; a schr, 200 M lumber, from Fernandina to Philadelphia, $5.25; a schr, 250 M lumber, from Pensacola to New York or a Sound port, $7, or Boston, $8; a schr, 193 tons, hence to Jacksonville and back to Philadelphia with lumber, $8 for the round.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Lumberman's Gazette as follows:

BAY CITY, Friday, Feb. 22, 1878.

The situation in the lumber market remains about the same as last week. There are no offers being made by buyers, nor any desire manifested on the part of holders to make sales. The great uncertainty which now prevails as to the amount of logs which will be got in, has the effect of rendering holders of lumber inclined to hold on to their stocks, as present indications point to an increase in prices. Although we publish quotations below, they are rather prices at which sales have been made than those for which purchases can be made. The fact is that manufacturers do not care to put figures upon their stocks at present, except for insignificant quantities.

At the date of last issue of the Lumberman's Gazette the weather seemed to be more promising as to logging, but since then it has taken an unfavorable turn again, and for the last forty-eight hours, from the date of this writing, there has more or less rain fallen in this part of the State, and what little snow there was has disappeared. From dispatches received in this city, the rain has extended to all points along the shore from here north to Alpena, and lumbermen are very much depressed at the prospect before them. Any estimate as to what per cent. of a full stock will be got in this winter is, of course, mere guesswork, but there is none in saying that the time has passed when it would be possible to bank a full supply.

A sale of 4,000,000 feet of Chippewa river logs to Nelson, Holland & Co., of Buffalo, by J. H. Hill & Sons, is reported. Price, $9 per 1,000 feet.

The log situation does not improve as the winter advances. In this part of the State the weather, for some forty-eight hours previous to the day we go to press (Friday, 22d), has been wet and rainy, and the "tote-roads" are getting bare of what little snow and ice there was upon them. This is the present condition of affairs in Eastern Michigan. On the Pere Marquette river, as will be seen from our correspondent's letter on another page, the outlook is not a promising one. On the Manistee river things are reported to be somewhat better. The reports from the Muskegon river are about of the same tenor as in the Saginaw regions. From present indications the log supply for next season will be a short one in this State.

A correspondent at Williamsport, Pa., writes that there is no snow in the woods in that part of the country, and that the prospects are that but a small stock of logs will be put in this winter.

Another correspondent at Warren, Pa., writes: "There is but little snow on the Allegheny and Susquehannah waters in Pennsylvania, and but a light stock will be put in—much less than last season. To-day (Feb. 11) is warm, and the little snow will be rapidly thawed away."

The Gazette's Chicago correspondent says:—The past week on this side of the lake has been of the most unparalleled mildness for the time of year, and the indications of spring are observable in every direction.

It is now positively beyond all cavil or question that the winter's cut of logs will fail far short of former expectations in all directions, and in some parts of the country is almost a total failure. This fact will add materially to the cost of what is produced, and at the same time stimulate prices to the extent of from 15 to 25 per cent. before the close of the season of 1878. Dealers may look for a better and more general demand from all over the country than has been experienced for several years, the development of the West being at that advanced stage now that requires more and better lumber than ever required before. There are many nooks, valleys and gulches of the Rocky Mountains to be filled with pine lumber from this direction now and from this time on. Very much lumber will be required by the mining and stock-growing people of Colorado and New Mexico.

The Mississippi river has developed a trade that she could never, in her most prosperous lumbering season, supply now, and the surplus, of course, will have to come from farther East, and I am therefore of the opinion that prices will advance, and the advance be maintained throughout the season.

Prices are firm here now at quotations, and on some grades and qualities every indication of an advance soon.

HARDWOOD.—This trade is quite active, and many large transactions have transpired in the last few weeks, the wagon, furniture and agricultural implement manufacturers have been busy laying in stock at —notwithstanding the hard times—prices in advance of those paid heretofore. A better quality of stock is being constantly required, and those manufacturers who take pains and are careful are now rewarded by better prices.

The Lumberman and Manufacturer reports as follows:

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Feb. 21, 1878.

Lumber is advancing in the West, and will probably continue to do so. Even Chicago is reported stiff at $13 for common boards, 12 to 20 feet. Last Saturday Minneapolis advanced to $13.50 for common, and raised on medium grades from $1 to $3. Trade is reported good at all points, and stocks short and broken. It is now confidently predicted that another rise will be made soon, of at least $2. The logging news of the week does not vary the reports of the last month. Heavy snows have given the Pennsylvania and New York lumbermen the best kind of a winter for lumbering and a full supply or logs. New Brunswick also has been favored with a good winter, but in Canada and the whole northwestern pine region, from Lake Huron to the Red River of the North, there is no snow, and all the logs secured will not make half a crop (see Michigan reports elsewhere). Speaking more specifically, the upper Mississippi has some 75,000,000 to $80,000,000 feet; the St. Croix 50,000,000 feet; the Chippewa 70,000,000; and the other sections of Wisconsin, a still less per cent. of the crop secured. It is now hardly within the range of possibility for Chicago to secure a supply of lumber for 1878 equal to the average of the last four years, at any figures that will interfere with the western trade for the year. The large amount of logs hung up, with the additional crop of new logs, will give the Mississippi valley a fair stock, probably 1,200,000,000 feet, with 400,000,000 feet on the sticks, making 1,600,000,000 as a total supply for 1878-9.

Tha Tawas City Gazette says that despite the lack of snow, our lumbermen are tugging away at their iced roads, and by working nights will probably get in from a half to a two-thirds stock. Should we be favored with "six weeks' sleighing in March," they will be able to bank about every log.

According to the Menominee Herald their is nothing encouraging to report from the woods on the Menominee river. There is no snow and no prospect of any, but camps have been changed to short hauls, and extra teams put in and every devise is being used to get in the logs, and it is proving successful beyond what could be expected. There are probably 80,000,000 feet of logs banked on the Menominee now, including those left over, and the chances are that a fair day time stock will be secured. Meanwhile the logs are costing heavily, teams are wearing out, and a poor quantity of stock is being secured. There is some danger of a portion of the logs being hung up again, as the swamps are drying up under the continued pleasant weather, but the Menominee is pretty reliable as a driving stream, and they will probably all come out.

The Stillwater (Minn.) Gazette states that reports from the pineries are to the effect that lumbermen are discouraged and many camps are breaking up. No snow sufficient to make sleighing has fallen this winter. Week after week since November loggers have been cutting and skidding logs in readiness for hauling, but thus far have been disappointed. If they could have three weeks' sleighing, the amount of timber that would be hauled would be enormous, but without sleighing the winter's work will be almost a total failure.

THE EAST.

The Lewiston (Me.) Journal says: A very large amount of lumbering is being done on the Aroostook and Fresque Isle waters by parties who are supplied by merchants of Fort Fairfield, and a good business is going forward in the woods.

"At New Vineyard, Me., there is much being done in the lumber business; all the mills will get a large lot of almost all kinds of lumber this winter."

STATE.

"Snow is 17 inches deep throughout the Adirondack region, and lumbering is very brisk."

Tonawanda Herald as follows:

The lumber trade in Tonawanda has been fairly active during the last week. While many places report a quiet trade, our enterprising merchants, having unsurpassed facilities with their perfect railroad connections, have found about enough to do. The truth is that Tonawanda has become so well established as one of the principal lumber markets in this country that while the number of buyers to be seen through the yards during a week might appear small, the shipment during the same time would be large, for fully one-half the trade is done by correspondence, and any one may become convinced of the steadiness and magnitude of the business done by railroad during these winter months by visiting the side tracks of the N. Y. C. and Erie Railroads and seeing the trains of lumber-laden cars labelled for all points East and South. Our merchants expect a large spring trade.

THE SOUTH.

The Savannah News has the following on lumber freights:

There are very few disengaged vessels in port, and shipments coastwise are large; but with a full supply of tonnage on loading berth, rates remain quiet. We quote: To Baltimore and Chesapeake ports, $5.00@6.00; to Philadelpeia, $5.00; to New York and Sound ports, $5.00@6.00; to Boston and eastward, $6.00@7.00; to St. John, N. B., $8.00. Timber from $1.00 to $1.50 higher than lumber rates; to the West Indies and windward, $8.00 gold; to South America, $18.00 gold; to Spanish ports, $15.00 gold; to United Kingdom, timber, 35s@36s., lumber, £5 5s. Rates from near ports, Brunswick, Darien, Fernandina, &c., are 25 to 50c. additional.

CANADA.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says:

Since our last issue there has been a slight flutter of snow, but not enough to make sleighing. In the village and its vicinity sleighing is impracticable and great inconvenience is arising in consequence. Up in the woods to the north, in some favored localities, there is just enough snow to enable logging operations to proceed, but, as a general thing, it may be said that hauling this year will be so difficult as to lead to a very short supply of logs. At Gooderham and in Havelock some logs are being drawn, but other localities are absolutely bare of snow, and it is now so late in the season that it will be impossible, except under very unusual circumstances, to get the logs to water. The lumbermen themselves do not fret at all about it, but console themselves with the reflection that the worst that can now happen can't be as bad as it would have been if we had had a good winter for logging. The season has been very favorable for cutting, and a large quantity of logs have been skidded, but even if snow should now arrive it is not probable that more than 50 per cent. of the logs will be hauled. It must, however, be remembered that a large number of logs were last year hung up on the smaller streams, and these will this year be brought to market.

The parties who will suffer this year are jobbers. As they will not be able to deliver their logs they will have to wait for their money until next year, and in many cases this means ruin.

One feature in the lumber trade is noticeable, and that is the increasing demand for basswood and hard wood lumber. The opening of a railway to this point, where so long a range of navigation centres, would make quite a lively time in the miscellaneous branches of the lumber business.

NAILS.—Operations are not very active and the market retains many of the old slow and irregular features. Manufacturers resort to the usual tricks of working up price lists, stopping production, etc., but buyers fail to take alarm, and not until supplies are actually required are orders given. The recent advance on card rates is generally asked, and for lots of less than forty kegs from store cartage is charged. We quote: 10d to 60d., common fence and sheathing per keg, $2.60; 8d. and 9d., common do. per keg, $2.85; 6d. and 7d., common per keg, $3.10; 4d. and 5d, common do., per keg, $3.35; 3d. and 4d., light, per keg, $4.10; 3d., fine, per keg, $4.85; 2d., per keg, $4.85. Cut spikes, all sizes, $2.85. Floor casing and box, 75c. above the same sizes of common. Finishing, $1 above, and fine finishing $1.25 above.

CLINCH NAILS.

1¾ to 1¼ in.	2 & 2½ in.	2¾ & 2¾ in.	3 in. & longer
$5@$5.25	$4.75	$4.50	$4.25 per keg

OILS.—Very little, if any, speculative feeling prevails on the general line of stock, and current demand has legitimate basis. Operations are not large, but fair, and tend rather toward an increase in some cases. Supplies are equal to current requirements. We quote: Linseed, about 62@64c. ₱ gallon; lard, 56@58c. for No. 1, and 50@54c. for No. 2; crude cotton seed, 44@46c., and refined summer yellow do., 55@55c.

PAINTS.—The general tendencies of the market are in favor of the selling interest. The demand cannot be called an active one, yet there is a fair line of stock moving in small lots and every reason to believe in an increase. The jobbers and retailers, especially from the country, report considerable economy among consumers still, but, in many cases, this policy is merging into an excess of caution, and the preservation of property becomes necessary after long neglect. Out-door work in particular, such as houses, barns, fences, etc., seems likely to be pushed with a little more vigor, and this will help trade. To meet the calls there is enough supply on hand, both domestic and foreign, and it is available on a basis of pretty much old rates, as there is scarcely a stimulus for an advance at present.

PLASTER PARIS.—Business cannot be called active, and especially on city account, is the demand slow and unsatisfactory, the distribution being confined to small jobbing parcels, and buyers appearing to prefer giving a dozen orders rather than risk exceeding their consumptive ability by a single barrel. Some of our principal dealers, however, tell us they are meeting with a very fair run of shipping orders on domestic account, including the California market, and in this way keep matters moving. Occasional calls for export also afford a measure of relief. The supply of rock on hand is very good yet, but no important additions are being made. On prices, calcined stock remains much the same as for some time quoted, with possibly a steadier tone.

PITCH.—Some few shipping orders and the regular distribution on trade account keep the market fairly active, and dealers appear to be satisfied they are doing all the business possible at present. Stocks plenty enough for all wants, but not excessive, and the market steady. We quote at $2.00@2.25 for city delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—The demand for consumption does not greatly increase, and buyers cannot be hurried to operate beyond present requirements, the general market showing rather a dull tone, still holders refuse to make much of a concession and about former rates are asked all around. We quote at 33@35c. per gallon according to quantity of stock handled.

TAR.—A steady market is reported, and a good fair jobbing demand prevails on first class stock. The accumulation on hand is fairly controlled, and owners generally evince no hurry to part with it, but accept all first class bids. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½c for Newberne and Washington, and $2.25@2.50 for Wilmington.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C. and C. a. G. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or incumbered.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it exspires, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

CITY TAXES, WHO SHOULD PAY THEM?

Judging from precedent efforts, the subject of taxation can be properly discussed only in from one hundred to five hundred pages of octavo size. We may be pardoned, however, in making a rash and fool hardy attempt to condense the subject within a few paragraphs. We have previously undertaken to show the sources from which the tax levy of last year was derived.

The meagreness of the information vouchsafed through public documents, compels us to exercise our inventive faculty in attempting to expound the item of personal taxation. In our previous undertaking we think we have furnished a fair analysis of the topic. At all events, our exposition remains unchallenged to this day, and after careful and critical study of the subject, it seems the only warrantable and patent one that we can suggest. We will reproduce it here for the sake of clearness and as apposite to our present theme.

	$1,100,000,000		$29,150,000

It is proper to remark, that, in practice, the collection of taxes on personal property entirely fails in respect to five or ten per cent. of the amount; that is, there are annually returned as uncollectible the taxes on an assessed valuation of from ten to twenty millions of dollars; and these taxes have to be provided for as deficiencies in the next budget. Therefore, to make our table accord with the facts of the case, we will regard as uncollectible six and a quarter per cent.—a fair average—on the total assessment of personal property. In so doing, we may entirely obliterate the amount assigned in the table to personal estate, thus developing a condition which must be approximately true, that organized capital and real estate sustain the entire burden of taxation in the city.

It can hardly be said that this result was contemplated by the present tax law, because its language is full and explicit. After saying that, "all lands and personal estate, within this State, whether owned by individuals or by corporations shall be liable to taxation, subject to the exemptions afterwards specified," the law then goes on to say that, "real estate shall be valued at such sums as under ordinary circumstances it will sell for, and also, that the terms 'personal estate' and 'personal property,' whenever they occur shall be onsidered to include all household, furniture, moneys, goods, chattels, debts due from solvent debtors, whether on account, contract, note, bond, or mortgage, public stocks, or stocks in moneyed corporations. They shall also be considered to include such portion of the capital of incorporated companies liable to taxation on their capital as shall not be invested in real estate."

The present status of the tax levy must have resulted either from the apathy and indifference of the officers administrating it, or from lack of sympathy on their part with the law and of determination to strictly enforce it. The shibboleth has been raised of the impolicy of taxing personal estate; and, as if in subservience to this idea, the official assessments upon this species of property have been allowed to dwindle almost to an inappreciable amount. Organized capital, real estate, and real estate mortgages, being the most accessible species of property in existence, have been seized upon as the principal subjects of tax assessment, and appropriated as best suited for the application of an unjust, theoretical and extra legal method of taxation.

At the present day we are brought face to face with certain obvious conditions which it behooves property owners and the public at large seriously to consider. It is no figure of speech, and certainly no unwarrantable use of language, to assert that the present tax levy is made principally, if not exclusively, upon these three classes of property, to wit: organized capital, real estate, and real estate mortgages, and that, directly and indirectly, real estate is called upon to bear more than ten-elevenths of the whole burden.

On the other hand, the values of even the best real estate in the city have declined from twenty-five to thirty per cent.; less desirable grades, from forty to fifty per cent., and the greater part of the vacant land of the city from sixty to seventy per cent. This unparalleled depreciation has followed in the wake of declining rents, and the decline in rents has merely illustrated and been responsive to the growing impoverishment of the people at large.

The proportion of rental income paid over by land owners to the city in the shape of taxes, is larger than was ever before known or tolerated in the history of the city. The commonest experience is that taxation now absorbs from twenty-five to thirty per cent. of rental income, and there are well authenticated cases where landlords have been obliged to pay fully fifty per cent. of their income to satisfy the demands of the city. Doubtless, the enthusiastic advocates of the exemption of personal property from taxation regard this situation with undisguised pleasure, and as affording the maximum of benefit that can possibly be attained under any system of tax laws.

At first glance superficial and untutored observers might be led to indulge the same reflection, to wit: that this condition of taxation is favorable to the community at large, inasmuch as this great oppression falls principally upon land owners and great corporations, those who are supposed to be best able to bear the misfortune.

We have no idea of appealing to any sense of justice and equity, because in matters of taxation these senses are proverbially callous and passive, and even where there is a profession of their exercise, we find so many adverse theories, palpable sophistries and personal hobbies intervening, as to effectually neutralize the play of the more spiritual faculties.

Unless a system can be demonstrated to be good or bad for the entire community, it is hardly worth while to seek to arouse or enlist public sentiment. The advocates and defenders of the present system and the propounders of other systems, which aim at the same result that has been brought about under the existing one, have tried to abate and divert public interest in this question, and to silence public criticism by setting forth the dogma of the self diffusion of taxation, which, in the present case, amounts to saying that although ten-elevenths of taxation is drawn from real estate, still, by the operation of a natural law (as they are pleased to term it), this vast volume of taxation really diffuses itself, like the atmosphere, throughout the whole municipal body.

We shall choose our own time to discuss the value of these various theories and to study their probable effects. At present, with a view of enlisting the attention of our readers in what we believe to be a more equitable system of taxation, we will undertake to foreshadow what appears to be the inevitable result of a continuance of the unfortunate condition which has been evolved out of the present system.

For nearly five weary years we have waited for the rekindling of public interest in real estate, and the appearance of the moderate capitalist and investor to deposit his surplus capital in real estate. The most that we can claim in the way of such expressions, is, that certain well-to-do citizens have made purchases of fashionable residences at prices which they were contented to pay.

The utter absence of any pronounced and general investment demand can be attributed mainly to one cause—the burden of taxation. No sane man is likely to invest his capital even in productive property where the ownership involves really a joint title with the city, the latter demanding in some cases one-half the rental as its rightful share of the income; and least of all will the capitalist invest his money in vacant and unproductive lands already assessed for taxes at valuations more than their purchase prices and liable to the infliction of other city claims for street improvements.

Real estate in this city has gone through a process which has wiped out many small and some large equities of redemption. Property is gradually being concentrated by forclosures in the hands of wealthy people and corporations. After the last foreclosure that is likely to occur during the present revulsion has taken place, another ordeal awaits the owner of real estate in which, be he wealthy, or only well-to-do, he will be compelled to choose between paying the arrearages of taxes and assessments and capitalizing them in the cost of his property, or relinquishing the property to the city as having too little value, present or prospective, to indemnify him for the payment of excessive liens.

After the last weak holder has been shaken out, and after the stronger ones have elected to so relinquish their property to the city, it is easy to see that the body of our real estate may be concentrated in comparatively few hands; that, instead of representing twenty-five thousand owners, as is supposed to be the case, there may then be not more than twenty-five hundred, or, to make an extreme supposition, not over two hundred and fifty. As long as ownership is distributed, even as widely as it is supposed to be to-day, the competition among impoverished landlords to secure good paying tenants must accelerate the decline in rents, and bring about a condition wherein landlords at large will be ground to powder between the upper and the nether millstones—a condition in which the proportion of rental income to be paid over to the city will be growing larger and larger.

This state of things for the time being seems to inure to the benefit of the tenant class; and the tenant congratulates himself upon not owning the property and upon being able to enjoy the use of it for little more than the amount of taxes levied upon it. This constitutes the crucial test of the landlord's moral and financial endurance. But then the most enthusiastic land owner will in time tire of this result, and property will by degrees, through foreclosure sales and tax sales, pass into the hands of the city corporation, financial institutions and the most courageous and wealthiest class of capitalists.

For the purpose of elucidating our prognostication, let us suppose that the whole real estate of this city finally passes into the hands of two hundred and fifty owners: or, if you please, twenty-five owners—the smaller the number the greater will be the facility of combination of interests, and the more obvious the result we are depicting. Then these ownerships will be consolidated and confederated together, as coal interests now are, for the benefit of respective owners and for the depredation of the tenant class. When that time arrives, the benefit which the tenant class imagines itself to be enjoying at the expense of the landlords will be completely overcome and reversed. Real estate will then be no longer a drug in the market or an investment to be avoided. In the hands of these few united owners, able to grapple with large investments, the income or rent exacted for it will become so remunerative as to create a universal desire for the possession of real estate, none of which, however, can be wrested from its final powerful owners.

Under the operation of the present method of levying taxes, we claim the same condition of things may be brought about with reference to New York real estate as already exists in the consolidated interests represented in the New York Central Railroad, and as is contemplated in the scheme which certain capitalists are endeavoring to consummate of buying up and monopolizing the connecting lines between New York and San Francisco.

After the final consolidation of the real estate of New York in the fewest possible hands—be that number twenty-five, two hundred and fifty or twenty-five hundred—the moment these ultimate owners find themselves in possession and in a favorable position to enforce their demands, there will no longer be a question as to the productiveness of New York property—no complaining as to the share of rental income devoted to taxation—because these strong-minded capitalists will, without let or hinderance, exact from tenants not only an ample percentage for the money which they have invested but also a complete reimbursement of city tax.

This eventuality is the logical result of the propositions of those theorists who urge the total exemption of personal property and the fastening of the whole burden of taxation upon real estate—theories, we may say, which were never contemplated in our present tax law, but which nevertheless, through a variety of causes, have become operative under the forms of that very law, and as firmly and completely entrenched as if ordained by statute.

The condition, which is here foreshadowed, is the necessary and possible outcome of the state of things in respect to taxation into which we have been allowed to drift, and the fatality towards which we must now approach with accelerated motion.

If there is any gratifying prospect in this outlook to citizens at large, we are at a loss to discover it. According to our view, it is quite sufficient to have one tax-gatherer to deal with and an unbearable evil to be dogged by several hundred or thousand despotic and irresponsible tax-gatherers able to exact the utmost farthing of their demands. Under such a state of things, we can see no chance or opportunity of inviting to real estate ownership the possessor of moderate means and the representative of the well-to-do classes—the elements universally considered the most desirable and valuable in any community. The present system of taxation is slowly but certainly driving out the small land proprietor and paving the way for the easy though perhaps involuntary entrance of the man with colossal capital—the man who buys but never sells.

We have taught ourselves to despair of realizing any prompt or immediate reform in our methods of government and particularly in our methods of taxation. Conflicting interests, perverse views, preoccupied and prejudiced legislators and officials exclude any satisfactory hope or encouragement.

Nevertheless, it is the function of the press to inculcate the right conception of things, even though the views presented may be assailed as radical, Utopian and impracticable. We believe there are ways and means of collecting the necessary revenue of this city without invoking the specific objections of the present system and without incurring its disastrous results. We venture, therefore, to propose the bare outlines of a scheme of taxation, which we affirm to be perfectly feasible and just, and one which would in practical operation possess the most meritorious elements that are looked for in any such scheme.

Assuming, as we think we may fairly do, that the tax budget of the present year or at all events of the next year will not exceed twenty-five millions, we will then propose to raise that amount in the following manner:

	Assessed Valuation.	Rate per cent.	Tax.
Rental valuations,	$150,000,000	5	$7,500,000
Organized capital,	500,000,000	2½	12,500,000
Business licenses, franchises and receipts from all other sources,			5,000,000
Total			$25,000,000

It must be observed that this system excludes from its operation vacant land and personal capital, and is intended to be applicable only to New York City. The whole scheme aims to derive taxation from income rather than from principal.

1. REAL ESTATE.—The reason for the exemption of vacant property is that the assessments for street improvements constitute a sufficient burden on that class of property and should be the only form of tax imposed upon it. Assessments for improvements should be levied in whole upon the property benefited, and no portion should be laid upon the city at large. The scheme suggests the establishment of arbitrary rental valuations designed to distribute equitably and fairly the amount of seven and a half millions of tax over the improved property in this city. To the minds of experienced real estate men, such a problem presents few or no difficulties.

2. ORGANIZED CAPITAL.—There are probably corporations organized on paper and floated in this city that represent five or ten thousand millions of nominal or figmentary capital. From such sources we have no idea that any taxation could be realized. We think, however, we are justified in placing the amount of sound accessible organized capital, now operated in this city, at five hundred million dollars, since the banks and fire insurance companies alone furnish in the neighborhood of two hundred millions of dollars. Perhaps after studying the assortment of organizations which would thus be included, a graduated tax might be applied, which would furnish as an average the rate we have assumed, to wit., two and a half per cent. Such taxation would be easily borne and could be easily collected.

3. FRANCHISES, ETC.—In any new system of taxation the item of business licenses must figure prominently. If there are advantages in conducting business in New York City, and no one will deny it, then that privilege must be worth the payment of a reasonable license fee, and we believe the whole business community would respond promptly to such a demand in lieu of the assessment of taxation upon personal capital. It is no flight of fancy, moreover, to say that the franchises granted and operated in this city are alone able to pay as taxes every dollar of honest municipal expense. At any rate, they can be easily and moderately taxed so as to afford, in connection with the other items intended to be embraced under this head, the amount which we have assumed as the product, to wit., five millions of dollars. We shall accomplish our object in the presentation of this scheme if we should succeed in enlisting the smallest share of public interest in this threatening and momentous subject of taxation, and lead to the intelligent and scientific discussion of it in the popular journals of the day.

THE HYGIENICS OF BUILDING.

I.

The science of architecture is probably as old as the authentic history of man, but the laws of sanitary building are of comparatively recent discovery. To the latter half of the nineteenth century belongs the glory of their discovery. It is incredible that our ancestors should have lived and died in ignorance of these principles, and in indifference to the conditions which underlie them. This may be attributed in a great degree to the simplicity of life which characterized preceding generations, particularly in respect to dwelling construction. The conveniences and comforts of modern domiciles have brought with them their penalty and bane. As recently as within the present generation, after the extensive introduction of sewerage systems, mechanical water supplies and artificial heating appliances, such a thing as the existence of sewer gas was almost, if not totally, ignored, and the possibility of its advent into buildings was either decried or denied by builders and landlords. Perhaps the greatest discoveries in sanitary science are the facts that noxious gases do exist, and are constantly being generated in superabundant quantities in sewers and sewer-pipes, and that they are readily conveyed into buildings connected therewith, and that these gases when absorbed into the human system are virulent poisons. These discoveries furnish the ground work and the central principles of the laws of sanitary building.

Of late years the public mind has been so thoroughly aroused and instructed by the daily press and by leading magazines upon this subject as to render the majority of the reading public perfectly conversant with its practical details. Probably every man who owns or purposes to buy a house, and many of those who have to be contented with hiring, are deeply imbued and intelligently impressed with the imminence and imperativeness of the issues involved in this subject. We have no purpose to indulge in any elaborate treatise on the topics which this fruitful theme naturally suggests. The difficulty is that they have been discoursed upon so profusely and, in the main, so learnedly, technically, and with so much apparent conflict of views as to render the science of the subject almost incomprehensible to the average untutored reader. The literature of sanitary building fills many and costly tomes, the majority of which are serviceable only to professional experts. And yet the essential principles are easily understood, and the practical appliances required to subserve them can be readily devised.

Our object is to set forth in simple and concise statements the latest and most widely approved results of the various investigations that have been instituted in sanitary science. We shall aim to address the intelligence and practical sense of our best builders, and especially of those who undertake the task of speculative building. The study of this subject has engaged the attention of so large a number in the community that it will be unsafe and even hazardous for speculative builders to ignore these results in their future operations. What with the information that has been sown broadcast by the press, in newspaper and magazine literature, and in the valuable data furnished by Gen Viele's excellent chart and copious essays relating to the subject of natural drainage, which seem to be in the possession of every intending house-buyer, the speculative builder will have to run the gauntlet of many and serious risks who negligently or indifferently persists in presenting for sale buildings that are at all defective in sanitary conditions.

We intend to present for the consideration of such builders, not the philosophy and science of these subjects, but rather a popularly intelligible range of views upon them, and to suggest the simplest and most approved methods and appliances for accomplishing given and necessary sanitary results. We are too well aware of the limitations and restraints which the nature of the business imposes upon the speculative builder and would be far from counselling him to embark in any extravagant expense or in any doubtful experiments. It is quite natural when a private individual sets out to build a house, that he should consult such excellent authorities as Professors Philbrick, Briggs and Waring, and doubtless the advanced views which he will derive from these fountain springs of information will be well worth the fee and other expense that may be involved in their adoption. While such private enterprise may be commendable and compensatory, we are well aware how useless it would be to counsel such an expensive course on the part of speculative builders. It is not within the capabilities of their business to indulge in costly fittings and appliances. The simplest, readiest and least expensive means to produce the desired result are the only ones that they can be expected to consider. We propose to set forth such practical expedients as will be no more in quantity of work or aggregate of cost than conscientious and meretorious speculative builders are clearly able to adopt, and which, in view of the outspoken public demand upon the subject, it will be imperative for their own interests that they should adopt.

BOTTOM.—The varieties of building bottom presented on this island render the work of building an uncertain and difficult undertaking. Probably one-half of the unimproved surface is covered with the tough and flinty rock which one is sure to encounter above or below the established grade. The most acceptable bottom to be found for economical working, and one which only occasionally occurs, is of clear yellow clay, commonly called hard-pan, which cuts in excavating in a clean fracture not unlike old English cheese. Another bottom, one especially favored by sanitarians, consists of sharp grit sand, and is peculiar to Murray Hill and portions of the Fifteenth and Sixth Wards, but not frequently found in the upper districts. Another is of gravelly loam, not infrequently interspersed with quicksands. Another is the alluvial deposit of ancient streams and bayous, commonly known as bog or silt. The number of drained ponds and low swampy marshes are altogether too numerous for the comfort or profit of the builder.

It may seem a superfluous task to undertake to counsel builders to exercise the greatest care in the selection of bottoms, and in the treatment of them after they have been selected. But when we remember how recklessly buildings have been erected on filled-in and swampy bottoms without the adoption of a single precaution of safety, and when we recall the subsequent fate of such buildings, it seems to us that no voice less strong than that of the law, and no expostulation less powerful than that of a united public opinion will deter builders from making these risky ventures. Speculative builders must lay the fact to heart, that nearly every intending purchaser of a dwelling in this city either has in his possession or has access to Gen. Viele's chart, which indicates with unerring accuracy the locations of these bad bottoms. As a rule, intelligent house seekers decline to buy building erected on such bottoms. It is necessary, therefore, for a builder who expects to emerge successfully from an operation to exercise a wise discrimination with regard to the bottom on which he purposes to build, and to avoid, as far as possible, those that are doubtful or notoriously bad. These difficult bottoms should be left to be treated by the owners in person, who can generally afford to lay out the expense necessary to build secure and permanent foundations, and to adopt those costly safeguards which are indispensable to render healthy a human habitation on them. If, however, builders have the hardihood to construct buildings on wet bottoms it is indispensable that they should avail themselves of every known expedient to render their buildings solid and secure and free from miasmatic dampness. In every case, where it is possible, trenches should be dug clear down to the natural soil. If there is no reasonable expectation of reaching it without incurring inordinate expense, then by all means let the builder resort to the expedient of driving piles, and surmount the tops of these with cross timbers and an ample bed of concrete to insure a solid foundation. A sub-drainage should be connected at the lowest practicable point with the street sewer so as to carry off the surface dampness below the cellar floor. These precautions we know will involve a heavy outlay, but an allowance for them should be claimed in the original purchase price of the land. Even then it is doubtful whether a satisfactory building speculation can be carried on in a quagmire.

In the case of a rocky bottom, we would here renew the advice before given in this paper, to dispense with the sinking of a sub-cellar and build upon such lots what may be termed an improved English basement house. That is, one where the kitchen and cellar are on the same level. To do this successfully, the rock must be excavated to a sufficient depth, say four feet below the curb level, to admit of an ample air space under the kitchen floor. If this is provided, the main objection to this form of construction will be done away with, and the heavy expense of sinking a sub-cellar saved. There are many recommendations to this treatment, improved cellar surface and house drainage being conspicuous among them.

Where sub-cellars are sunk in rocky bottoms, it becomes necessary to take the utmost pains to prevent the accumulation of moisture in fissures and crevices of the rock. These stagnant pools when unattended to are a sure source of malarious exhalations. Blind drains should be constructed through all the natural gullies of the bottom, to carry off surface water into the street sewer. Without the adoption of this device a bottom of rock may be the very worst that can underlie a dwelling.

In all bottoms, even the best, it becomes necessary to obviate the direct contact of surrounding earth with the foundation walls. In detached houses, an outside area should completely encircle the main foundation walls, the area being enclosed by a substantial retaining wall. Houses built in a row in the city call for areas and retaining walls in front and rear only. The adoption of sunken areas, so called, is a decided improvement upon the old plan of flush areas. In the latter case, the damp earth is laid directly against the front and rear walls, usually causing a soakage, which penetrates through the inside plastering, rendering the basement floor damp and uninhabitable. This same result is likely to happen where the earth is laid against the foundation walls, even though there may be a sunken area. In this case the dampness penetrates through the foundation wall, and, by capillary attraction, is carried up the house walls into the basement, and frequently into the upper stories. The true principle of construction, and one that should never be departed from, is the old-fashioned front and rear deep areas, covered at the surface with an open grating, affording free circulation of air and the best protection against soil dampness.

AIR.—Under this heading we propose to consider the external sanitary conditions of building. The remarks which we have just made with reference to cellar areas might be here renewed and emphasized as the initial point in the discussion of the present topic. It may seem gratuitous to offer a plea for the free circulation of air around our dwellings where this element is afforded naturally in such abundance. Let it be remembered, however, that the only reservoir for the supply of this indispensible commodity is the natural one of the great atmosphere itself, and whatever tends to restrict or prevent the free circulation of air about our dwellings may be set down as reprehensible. By all means the detached house, common to the country, occasionally seen in the city, is the healthiest for a human abode. The nearest approach to this that we may expect within corporate limits are the semi-detached city cottages, suitable for the improvement of the uptown wards.

As houses are usually built in the city, and likely to be built over the greater part of the island, in unbroken blocks or rows, the chance of free circulation of air is limited to the front and rear. Therefore we condemn as insalubrious the custom of making massive projections, such as huge stoops, door-ways, porticos and bay windows on the front, and the non-observance of a common front line for dwellings, as well as the custom of building houses in a row of unequal depths and with extensions of various sizes added to the rear. All these conditions interfere more or less with the free circulation of air around our dwellings.

The most vicious practice that has ever crept into our city dwelling construction is that of building houses without any rear openings or outlook whatever, or with a brick wall standing immediately in the rear, or in such near proximity as to admit of no proper aeration. The example of building three or five houses on one lot, of course on a corner lot, without any provision of yards and with the certainty that the adjoining lot will be built up so as to entirely exclude light and air from these houses, is, in our judgment, a fatal mechanical mistake. This practice probably grew out of the necessity for economising space, when lot values ranged very high, but since the decline in the value of real estate there is no justification for any such paucity of land dimensions, and it is likely that projections of this character will be severely condemned by the buying public.

In all cases dwelling houses should be so constructed, and the lots on which they are built should be so arranged as to afford an unobstructed and copious supply of air, both front and rear. This may be laid down as one of the principal canons of sanitary house building.

In the case of down-town stores, hotels, and apartment houses, it is not always possible to plan on a very liberal scale, but even in these cases the exclusion of air may be set down as a prime fault.

THE TARIFF BILL.

A couple of weeks ago we called attention to the generally ambiguous, and in some cases absolutely absurd, character of the wood schedule (K) as reported in the new Tariff Bill. Especially was the omission of spruce lumber, deal, etc., pointed out and it appears that our remarks were timely and just. The propriety of some of the provisions of the present schedule might possibly be questioned but we omit discussion for the time being and merely congratulate the Trade upon receiving from the full Committee on Ways and Means a clearer idea of what is intended in place of the imperfect attempt on the part of the Sub-Committee.

The following is the amended schedule:

Sawed boards, planks, deals and other lumber of hemlock, whitewood, cottonwood, sycamore and spruce, 50 cents per thousand feet, board measure. All other varieties of sawed lumber $1 per thousand feet, board measure. When lumber of any sort is planed or finished, in addition to the rates herein provided there shall be levied and paid for each side so planed or finished 25 cents per thousand feet, and if planed on one side and tongued and grooved, 50 cents per thousand feet, and if planed on two sides and tongued and grooved, 75 cents per thousand feet. Timber hewn or sawed, squared or sided, and timber used in building wharves and spars, $3 per thousand cubic feet.

Hubs, wheels, posts, etc., rough hewn or sawed only, increased to 15 per cent ad valorem. House or cabinet furniture, of whatever material, not otherwise provided for, in pieces or rough and not finished, 30 per cent ad valorem; cabinet wares and house furniture, finished, 35 per cent ad valorem. Casks and barrels, empty sugar-box shooks, tobacco-box shooks, and packing boxes of wood not otherwise provided for, 20 per cent ad valorem.

LEGAL DECISIONS.

MECHANICS' LIENS.

Claimants who have filed liens against buildings which have been erected by contractors under building loan contracts will be interested in a recent decision made by Judge Robinson of the Court of Common Pleas, in which he holds that the lien cannot be enforced against the owner of the premises in fee simple who has made a contract for the erection of a building and has agreed to make an advance by way of building loan to enable the contractor to construct the building, unless the owner himself or his agent has entered into a contract for doing the work, either expressed or implied. The provision of the Act of 1863 which constituted the person who had sold lots upon an executory contract of purchase contingent upon the erection of buildings thereon, the owner and his vendee, the contractor, is superseded by the Act of 1875, and the lien is now confined to such interest in the premises as "belongs to the person who caused such building, improvement or structure to be constructed, altered or repaired and if such person owns less than a fee simple in such land, then only his interest in such land shall be subjected to such lien." This limits the right of lien to such interest as the person undertaking to build and entering into contracts to that end possesses, and in no respect has any retrospective or retroactive operation upon the title of the vendor. In this case the claimant furnished stone to the contractor towards the erection of a building which lien was sought to be enforced against the owner who agreed to make advances by way of loan as the buildings progressed, it being alleged that sufficient was due from the owner to the contractor when the lien was imposed to pay the claim. Such an interest, the Judge holds, is not the subject of a lien which can be enforced against the owner.

BUILDERS' CONTRACTS.

In Lewis v. Brass (37 Law Times, N. S., 738), it appeared that plaintiff invited from builders proposals for certain work, to which the defendant replied, specifying the sum for which he would do it according to the drawings and specification. The plaintiff's architect replied that he was instructed to accept the defendant's tender, at the sum specified for the works referred to, adding that a contract would be prepared by plaintiff's solicitors, and doubtless would be ready for signature in a few days. Before signature, the defendant withdrew his tender or proposals, and refused to do the work; held, that this was not a mere negotiation, but a contract, and the defendant was liable for damages for the increased expense which plaintiff incurred by employing another builder at a higher price. The Court laid down the test in such cases as follows: If the acceptance, as a matter of construction, is made subject to a condition that a contract shall be signed afterward, then the acceptance is a mere matter of negotiation; but if the acceptance is not subject to that condition, it is in itself a contract. Compare Topping v. Swords (1 E. D. Smith, 609); Brown v. N. Y. Central R. R. Co. (44 N. Y., 79); Morrill v. Tehama, &c., Co. (10 Nev., 125); Harvey v. United States (8 Court of Claims, 501).—Register.

A CARD.

To the Editor of THE REAL ESTATE RECORD:

DEAR SIR.—Your article entitled "Review of Mortgage Loans for 1877," in your issue of February 23d, containing a criticism of the loan made by the New York Life Insurance Company to me on four houses located on Forty-second street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, has been read.

I regretted to see the errors which were allowed to creep into the article, and I have no doubt you will correct them when I point them out to you. The three lots of land cost me $33,000 cash, and the rock on the lots being, on an average, seven feet above the grade, it cost me an additional $6,000 before it was removed. The four buildings erected on the lots actually cost $58,700, to which should be added interest and taxes on the cost of lots and buildings, besides my profits on the same.

Cost of lots	$39,000
Interest on lots for one year	2,730
Cost of buildings	58,700
Interest on cost	2,054
Taxes &c	1,200
Incidental	2,000
Builder's profit, 10 per cent	10,605
	$116,289

In regard to the estimate which you procured from the Building Department, and which placed the cost of each building at $12,000, I will state the plans on file at the Building Department were changed, and the cost greatly increased, more particularly in the plumbing and fronts. Through a mistake of the architect the application was unfortunately not altered at all. If you will be kind enough to refer to your issue of February 2, and take your own estimate of cost of four-story house 20x60, you will find it close on to $18,000, the size of my houses being 18.9x85, and four stories and basement and cellar. Trusting that this may remove any bad impressions your article may have produced,

Yours respectfully,
B. I. FORAN, owner,
536 West 51st street, New York.

THE ORIENT BUILDING IN WALL STREET.

Our readers will remember that at the sale of the Jauncey estate some two years ago, the old Jauncey Court in Wall street was sold to the Orient and Queen Insurance Companies of this city. The property, with a frontage of sixty-one feet on this world-known street, was jointly purchased with the intention of erecting a common building on the land so secured. The two companies having asked for plans, quite a competition arose among numerous architects as it furnished them with an opportunity to construct a grand edifice worthy of New York's great financial centre, and which would be at the same time an ornament to the street, that is, during this generation, at least to command the purse of the entire country. Differences of opinion, however, arose between the two companies and the property was divided, the Orient securing the eastern, and the Queen Insurance Company the western plot of what once used to be so well known as Jauncey Court. The result of this partition of property is now tangibly before us, and instead of one grand edifice, Wall street has been beautified by two distinct buildings, so distinct in all respects that the architects seem to have vied with each other how not to do what the other did. And, withal, both have done well. The one that first attracts attention is the Orient Building, erected with an independent, bold finish, showing that the architect has entirely cut loose from precedent. If there is any style of architecture on the building at all, it may safely be termed the nineteenth century style, as it is progressible in conception, and progressive in execution. The architect, Mr. Alfred H. Thorp, seems, apparently to have understood that the problem of erecting an office building to-day, is quite different from that which had to be solved by the builders of the Greek or even the middle ages, and that archaeology is not architecture. Any body can copy the past, but in this material age, such copy does not pay the owner an interest on his investment. Neither does it prove profitable to the owner, if an architect instead of erecting a sensible edifice, builds a monument for his own renown.

In the Orient Building all superfluity has been evaded and right down honest, practical work stamps it all over, from cellar to roof. The structure is six stories high, including basement, and covers a lot measuring 30.6x125. The party walls start at three feet thick but all the walls throughout the building buttress each other at right angles. The front is entirely of marble, from the Snow Flake marble quarry at Pleasantville, in this State, whose city offices are at 117 Broadway, and the peculiarity of construction is that all the blocks of marble have been put in their places first, and the carving has been done after the blocks were arranged in proper position. The whole of this front has been constructed with secondary reference to architectural effect. The main object was to secure all the light and air possible for this beautiful office building; hence large square openings were cut in this front for light, and the architectural effect was studied afterwards. In fact whatever of decoration there is on the front was made subservient to the great desideratum for light and air inside. There is, of course, any amount of decorative carving, but only horizontal and vertical lines without arches mark the course of the marble blocks. The lintels of the windows are single blocks of marble also, so moulded as to admit of still more light passing the sills of the story above and resting directly on them, and so beveled as to admit of a view of the street below from the upper rooms.

On the fifth floor is noticeable a balcony, serving not only as a matter of convenience to the occupants of that story but its construction there gives the entire building the aspect of not being quite so high as it really is. Before we take leave of this front, we take especial delight in calling attention to the pains taken in the carving of the marble after it was placed in position. Mr. James Whitehouse, who had charge of this work first, made for the architect models in clay for every piece of carving. It was then put up, so that its effect could be properly judged from the street, and only after having been thus approved of did he begin with the actual carving.

The peculiar construction of the main entrance hall at once gives the Orient Building quite an inviting appearance. It is a sort of half story, over which is a gallery, forming part of the first story front office, and allowing the full width of the house for the basement. The result is that the building is easy of access, and lower than one would expect in such a high structure. Great credit is due to the builder Mr. Samuel Lowden, with whom a contract was concluded for the entire work on the building, except the iron work and the cabinet finish. He has heartily co-operated with the ideas of the architect and owners, who have spared nothing to make this not only a substantial, but also a useful office building throughout.

Practically, it is the most fire-proof building in the city. Under the superintendence of the Fire Proof Building Company, of New York, L. F. Beckwith, President, every single beam and every single column has been provided with a coating of cement, separated from the columns by air spaces, and the flat arches, partitions and furring have also been constructed in a manner to make them fire-proof. The roof, which is sloping in front and flat on the top, is covered with Portland cement, felt and gravel. All the floors are constructed on iron beams and flat arches covered with marble tiling in basement and lower story, and with wood in the upper stories.

The stairs are of iron and quite ornamental, from the well known house of Poulson & Eger, Brooklyn. In the centre of the stairway are two elevators, put up by the Whittier Machine Company, of Boston, while the cars themselves are a novelty of construction, which will make them quite popular in buildings of this sort. They are of ornamental iron, also from the same Brooklyn firm, and all open work, allowing passengers, on ascending or descending, a complete view of the interior of the building. The two boilers and engine room are in the cellar under the sidewalk.

The steam-heating has been furnished by the energetic E. Rutzler, successor to Rutzler & Ives, of Canal street. It includes an entirely novel arrangement for the introduction of air, the same system being followed in the upper as well as in the lower stories.

The front and second halls have all been wainscoated, and tiled with white Italian marble, by the Messrs. Fisher & Bird; all colors being eschewed by the owners, giving to these halls an appearance of light and uniformity most pleasing to the eye. The mantelpieces, in the main offices, are also of the same color and material. Carpenters are now at work under the superintendence of Charles F. True, of 61 West 18th street, in completing the interior fittings of the offices which are of ash finish, the floors being picked yellow pine. The furniture proper, in the two principal offices, will be of mahogany, the Orient Company having determined to have the very best of everything. All the iron beams, lintels, columns, girders, anchors, skylights, rolling shutters, &c., except the stairs, have been furnished by J. B & J. M. Cornell, of Centre street.

The rear offices being reserved for the use of the Orient Company, will be moderately frescoed, whenever Mr. Edward J. Schwals concludes the painting in another part of the building, on which he is now busily engaged. The Cathedral glass in all of the upper sashes has been furnished by R. Hamilton Sons, of Fourth avenue, the ordinary glass being contracted for with the Belgian Company. The ornamental doorknobs, locks, hinges, &c., all in artistic bronze, were manufactured by the firm of P. & J. Corbin, from special designs, the various hinges being in accordance with a recent invention, patent for which has been secured by the architect himself. The plumbing, by Timothy Sullivan, is the most perfect that can be found in any newly erected building; to the pipes is attached a novel trap, patented, which absolutely prevents the escape of sewer gas. The Fuller Meyer patent self-closing cocks, an improvement on the old Fuller cock, manufactured by H. C. Meyer & Co., who guarantee the owner to keep them in repair for three years without charge, are used over the basins, and the bowls are emptied by Weaver's patent basin waste, a simple contrivance to take the place of the ordinary plug and chains. The speaking tubes in the building are from the well-known firm of Newman & Capron.

In passing through the building, one cannot fail to be struck with the success which has attended the architect's effort in securing all the light he could from the street. There is a total absence of artificial light, no well-holes, compelling parties on one floor to breathe the air of their neighbors on another.

The total cost of the building is $125,000, being exactly the estimate laid before the owners at the time when the plans were furnished.

The Royal Insurance Company have secured the lease of the first story front, or main floor. The rear office on the same floor will be occupied by the Orient Company, and the Pacific Mutual Insurance Company will be located in the basement. The rental of the basement, that of the front office, and the amount of rent which the Orient Company charge themselves, pay the owners already a good interest on their investment, with any number of excellent offices still to rent on the upper floors.

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

No sales other than judicial were held at the Exchange Salesroom during the past week, and with few exceptions the plaintiff in the action became the purchaser. There seems to be no diminution in the number of sales under judicial decrees, as evidenced by the very large list of sales appearing below, while a reference to the advertised list of sales for the coming week shows a small increase over that of the week previous.

The following are some of the private sales made since our last report. Messrs. Duggin & Crossman have sold to Mr. William Fitch the house and lot No. 547 Madison avenue (16x65x83) for $22,000, and Messrs. R. McCafferty & Co. have sold the four story brown-stone house with lot, known as No. 14 West Forty-eighth street (25x58x100.5), (Columbia College lease.) to Mrs. M. E. Allen for $34,000.

The spring outlook for building enterprises, judged by the increased number of plans for buildings filed with the Superintendent of the Building Department during the week ending March 7th, 1878, is most encouraging. The list is far larger than for any corresponding period during the present year and embraces some buildings deserving special mention. Messrs. Levy Bros. intend to erect at No. 472 Broadway a five-story iron front store, the estimated cost of which is $60,000, and at No. 833 Broadway a similar building will be erected by R. Goelet, at a cost of $22,000. On Fifty-ninth street between Fifth and Sixth avenues a six-story Nova Scotia stone apartment house will be built at an estimated cost of $70,000, and Mr. J. G. Lynd proposes constructing five four-story brown stone houses on Fifty-fourth street between Fifth and Sixth avenues. At No. 5 Thompson street a five-story factory will also be erected at a cost of $13,000. The New York Mutual Gas Light Company propose to make extensive alterations of their building at the corner of Union Square and Sixteenth street, at an estimated cost of $6,000, and alterations of the building No. 351 Spring street will be made to cost $10,000.

The following are the sales at the Exchange Salesroom for the week ending March 7:

Boulevard, e s, 75.6 s 95th st, 50.4x138.3x50.5x135.5, to Joanna S. Auchmuty (plaintiff)... $4,800

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICK.—The general market has lost tone somewhat, and while not making any very serious reaction prices have shaded from former extremes. Receivers give no very positive reason for the change except that they appeared to have rather more stock than could conveniently be disposed of, and had to offer some inducements to secure buyers. Demand is said to be quite as full as last week, and from some quarters a trifle larger, but taken altogether does not afford an outlet calculated to produce animation or excite competition, and consumers seem rather to await the approach of seliers to open negotiation than to take the first step themselves. The arrivals have been almost entirely from the "Bay" up to the present writing, but the condition of the river makes it pretty certain that supplies remaining at any other point must soon become available. About a top rate was $5.75, and sales ranged down to $5.25 per M. There has again been a little Long Island stock offering, but it did not appear to be in much favor, and scarcely quotable above $5.25 per M. Pales have eased off again and $3@3.25 per M named as best figures, the latter rather extreme. Fronts remain quiet and without new features. We find considerable canvassing over the future of the market, and much irregularity of feeling, but a great many of the trade rather incline to the belief that, with regular consumption, a probable renewed call for railroad work on the upper end of the island and shipping orders, a fair season's business will be done.

We quote Pale, ₱ M., $3.00@3.25; Hards. Up-rivers, nominal; Haverstraw bay, $5.25@5.75; favorite brands, —@$6.00; Fronts, Croton—brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $23@27; Baltimore, $34@38.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5 00@6.00 on fronts.

CEMENT.—The market for domestic does not undergo much change. Demand is irregular and with few tendencies to reach very large proportions on domestic account, buyers still confining themselves to parcels suited to immediate consumption. Some few shipping orders are filled but not enough to make any great impression. Supplies are said to be comparatively small in dealers' hands, though as business goes there has been enough for all calls, and with the river re-opening there i little danger of a scarcity for any protracted period. There is no strictly wholesale rate, but city dealers sell at $1.20@1.25 per bbl. Saylor's Portland is in better demand at full former rates and several good sized contracts have recently been concluded. Foreign meets with some inquiry, but is without special activity and has shown some irregularity on volume. The quoting rates remain about as before, but we hear that sales were recently made below $3.00 for Portland, ex-ship.

HARDWARE.—The general position of the market does not greatly change. City orders are moderate, few and far between, and give no great promise of increase, but the country demand is pretty good at present, and appears more likely to become larger than diminish, on all regular outlets. There is also to be found an occasional order on foreign account, of no mean proportions, and the export trade appears likely to hold its own, whenever goods from this country have been properly introduced. On values, the tone as a rule, is steady. Only a few recent ch nges are announced.

The Wheeler, Madden & Clemen Manufacturing Company, have issued a new discount sheet to apply to their list of January 15, 1877. They quote: Circular, shingle, mulay, mill, drag, pit and cross cut saws, all kinds, all discount 35 per cent; hand, panel and rip saws, pruning saws, (excepting combination), buck and half-buck saws, butcher, bow, and kitchen saws, compass saws, handy saws, butcher bow webs, mill webs, felloe webs, turning webs, hack saws, keyhole blades, compass saw blades, cabinet scrapers, saw mandrels, hand-saw handles, upset punches and repairing saws, all discount 20 per cent; one man crosscut, ice saws, wire gauges and cross-cut handles, discount 15 per cent; wood saw frames, billet or wood saw blades, with common, champion, conqueror or Boston tooth, cooper webs, wood saws, framed, all kinds, corn knives and hooks and combination pruning saws, all net; files (with special rates for large purchases), discount 15 per cent.

LATH.—There is not much of a market to write this week, the business proving moderate and so far as we can learn the price as before, say $1.85 per M. Supplies, however, were by no means plenty and in reality the position has not had a fair test, under which a different state of affairs might be shown. Indications of anxiety among buyers are not plenty or general; consumption is slow and a few cargoes scattered around among receivers seeking a market could not prove of much benefit to the seeling interest just now.

LIME.—The demand for Eastern has been slow and indifferent, and while the arrivals could scarcely be called heavy they overran the outlet and left an accumulation on hand. Receivers, however, not being in expectation of additional cargoes, were in no hurry to realize and have kept the line of valuations as before. On the State lime matters do not vary much according to reports made. Local calls are moderate and the shipping orders basis for most of the light trade doing.

LUMBER.—A moderate run of business continues on most outlets, and the general market has an annoying monotony, when we find ourselves compelled to write out a weekly report. We can heartily sympathize with some of the dealers, whose crusty answers to periodical applications for "something new" in the way of information, are a fair index of the unsatisfactory condition of affairs. Matters, however, are not so bad but that they might be worse, and making due allowance for the natural exuberance consequence upon the disposal of goods under the condition of the market, we here and there find a dealer making sales, which are reported as fair up to good, and there is also a continuation of the hopeful feeling, that as soon as the weather becomes more open, matters will pick up on home account. The export movement seems to be somewhat erratic, the indications for a time being considered quite favorable, and then suddenly taking doubtful shape, buyers on foreign account proving timid. Especially is this the case on full cargoes to go forward from the primary markets to Europe as the wants of the trade abroad are not supposed to be sufficiently urgent to induce the payment of remunerative rates. The South American and West India outlets promise fairly, but are calling slowly and carefully for what they require. Accounts from most of the interior markets are inclined to a cheerful tone, and grow stronger the nearer they approach the base of supplies, on the expectation that the current year is to restore, more or less vigor to the lumber trade. It is possible, the general country consumption may conduce to this result, but the present outlook on the seaboard markets does not promise much aid.

According to the circular of John Norton & Son, the exports to the River Platte, from the United States and British Provinces during the month of Feburary, etc., were as follows:

	Feb.	Previously.	Total to Mar. 1.

The following vessels were loading March 1st, 1878, for River Platte.—At Portland, Bark Blanche How, about 375 M; at Burrards Inlet, Bark Cleta, about 375 M, and Sch. T. D. Harrison, about 375 M; at Brunswick, Schr. A. W. Smith, about 350 M; at Savannah, Bark Bristol, about 400 M, and Brig Francisco Aballi, about 116 M. Loaded to clear for a market in South America.

Eastern Spruce on the amounts coming to hand or expected for some little time is not likely to be offered greatly in excess of the outlet, and the tone for the time being, remains steady. Receivers, however, are not, as a rule, talking quite so stiff regarding the coming season. The call for contracts has shown smaller volume than expected, the supplies are not likely to be short, and certain straws already have shown that customers who are most desirable to secure, are also the most difficult to induce to submit to a full price. Figures are marked up somewhat. We quote at $15@16 for random, possibly $16.25@16.50 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $15@17.00 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White Pine is quoted "about as before," but values are more or less irregular, and sellers adapt their figures to the necessities of the trade under negotiation. Stocks are not particularly large, in some cases have fallen off materially within a few weeks, and could be easily controlled, and withdrawn were circumstances favorable, but business in such shape as to indicate a steady offering of desirable supplies as the most judicious plan. We quote at $15@17 per M for West India shipping boards; $19.50@20.50 for South American do; $15@16 for box boards; 17 for do wide and sound; and timber at $16@18 per M.

Yellow Pine is not called for to any great extent on local account, and shipping orders are comparatively scarce. Sellers' views, however, remain pretty much as before, and the range of quotations is nominally unchanged. We quote random cargoes at $19@22 per M.; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do; green flooring boards, $21@23 do; and dry do do, $22@24. Cargoes at the South, $14@16.50 per M; hewn timber, $7.50@14.

Hardwoods are firm on all good stock and not plenty in first hands. The manufacturing interests, however, buy moderately and carefully, and affords no great stimulus to the general market, the export outlet proving the best. We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $77@85 ₱ M; ash, $32@36 do; oak, $35@40 do.; maple, $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d $30@35; do. do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $45@75 do.; white wood, ¼ and ⅝ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $28@35 do.; hickory, $27@30 do. for Western, and $40@50 for good nearby stock.

At the yards there is in some cases quite a good little trade going on, but nothing out of the usual course, and the movement is literally of a retail character. Prices are steady in a general sense, but variations occur according to quantity of stock handled, the delivery, the terms of payment, etc.

Some of the lumber charters reported of late are noted as follows: A schr, from Savannah to a port in Spain, lumber, at $15 gold and primage; a schr, 190 tons, from Jacksonville to Demerara, lumber, $8 gold; a schr, 143 tons, from Jachsonville to Bahia, lumber, $25 gold and primage; a schr, 200 M lumber, from Brunswick to Harrington, Me., $6.75; a schr, 160 M lumber, from Pascagoula to Philadelphia, $6.75; a brig, 300 M lumber, from Pascagoula to Boston, $8.50; a schr, 136 tons, hence to Jacksonville and back with lumber, $8.25 for the round; a schr, 240 M lumber, from Savannah to Bridgeport, $5.25.

THE TIMBER BILL.

The President, on Wednesday last, sent to the House of Representatives a message vetoing the bill authorizing a special term of the United States Court to be held in Mississippi to decide the timber cases.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From Lumberman's Gazette as follows:

BAY CITY, Friday, March 1, 1878.

During the past week a number of buyers have been in the Valley and a few sales have been made. In every instance we understand that the prices paid were $6, $12 and $28, at which figures about a million feet in this city and some two millions at East Saginaw were sold, all of it to go East.

A report was current at East Saginaw during the week that 16,000,000 feet, half dry and half next season's cut were sold in that city at $5.50, $11 and $26, but the Daily Courier says the report was not an authentic one.

The buyers do not seem as yet to have made up their minds what they are willing to pay for lumber, neither do holders feel like disposing of any large amount at $6, $12 and $28.

Work in the logging camps since our last report has been almost wholly suspended. The rains which prevailed all over the State last week have been followed by very mild weather, and the roads have become so soft that a fall of snow would be practically of no use. Unless the weather becomes cold enough to stiffen up the roads the amount of logs put in from this out will be very small, and even in case of a freeze-up the balance of the season now left is so short that it will be impossible to make any very extensive addition to the quantity of logs now banked.

It is difficult to give any quotations, as the market is in a very unsettled condition.

The following quotations cover the range of prices at which stocks are held.

Three uppers	$28 00@30 00
Common	@12 00
Shipping culls	@ 6 00
Lath	1 15@ 1 25
Shingles, river mills	@ 2 75
Shingles, country mills	2 40@ 2 60

The certainty that the amount of logs which will be got in this winter will fall considerably short of a full supply for a whole season's sawing has already had an effect on the machinery trade. Parties who were about to add machinery to their mills have concluded to wait until another season, as they say that in all probability they will be able to run but a portion of the season, and do not, therefore, care to go to any expense in increasing their sawing capacity.

At the time we went to press last week rain had been falling for some two days previous, and from that time up to the present the weather has been so mild that the frost is nearly all out of the ground, and if snow should fall it would be of very little benefit in the logging camps, the roads being so soft that hauling could not be prosecuted save at an expense that would more than eat up the value of any logs that might be got in. We have no reliable data to estimate the percentage of the amount cut during the winter which has been banked, but shall endeavor to get it as near as possible in our next issue. Information on this point is a somewhat difficult matter to procure for reasons that our readers will readily understand. It is within the bounds of safety to say that a half stock has not as yet been secured.

The Gazette's Chicago correspondent says:

I have nothing startling to report this work. The demand is all that could be expected, considering the state of the roads, and prices are well maintained—are in fact growing more firm daily.

The Mississippi River is open to Hastings, and now what is wanted is water to float the logs out, and the ball will open for 1778, and a lively season is predicted on all sides.

A considerable advance has taken place all along the river towns, indicating conclusively that lumber will be lumber this season.

In many grades prices are very firm here, notwithstanding the mud embargo now prevailing throughout the West, and when the roads are dried up and the spring crops put in look out for the finest trade experienced in many a long day, and at good strong prices.

We have every indication now for a lively local demand here, and in fact it has already commenced, and those who should know say the demand for building material will be heavy throughout the season.

I think we have already had one arrival of lumber and may in the near future expect many, as vessels are putting on sail and going out now quite frequently, and we have every indication of an early season and a lively one.

The Saginaw Daily Republican says:

The following letter was received from one of the best informed lumber operators in the West, who has been over the ground carefully, and knows whereof he speaks. He says:

The weather all over the lumber regions of the Northwest continues warm; no snow, little frost, and getting warmer every day. The log crop on the bank is now estimated about as follows:

Upper Mississippi, 80,000,000 out of 225,000,000 intended to be cut.

On the St. Croix, 50,000,000 out of 200,000,000.

On the Chippewa, 70,000,000 out of 400,000,000.

On the Black, 35,000,000 out of 250,000,000.

On the Wisconsin, 25,000,000 out of 175,000,000, including railroad mills.

Many of the loggers are deserting the woods, and others are attacking shore timber. It may safely be set down that not over one-third of a crop can be secured of new logs unless there should be a winter when we ought to have spring. Many of the contractors will be driven to the wall, but the mill and lumber dealers will do better in 1878 than they have done for ten years in the Mississippi Valley.

Lumber here is stiff at $13.50 for common boards and dimension stuff. Saginaw seems to be the banner city for cheap lumber. Even Chicago is up to $13 on her common.

THE EAST.

A correspondent of the Lumbermen's Gazette writes from Oldtown, Me., under date of February 25, 1878.

We have had excellent sleighing here for the past two weeks with about ten inches of snow, and times have been lively with wood and bark haulers.

Up in the logging country they are getting in logs very fast, with snow enough to make good roads.

The Lewiston (Me.) Journal as follows:

At Monroe the mills are laying in a good supply of short lumber.

At Exeter quite a large quantity of logs are being got into the mills this winter.

At Waldo some ship timber is being hauled in from the country towns and a revival of ship building is expected.

The lumbermen on the Androscoggin are now doing good work. There is about two feet of snow in the woods. Good reports also come from the Kennebec. The teams and crews are enabled to move about in any part of the woods with the greatest ease, so that an abundant harvest of logs, to be floated down the river, and made ready for the summer's work in our midst, may be expected. The Kennebec Land and Lumber Company, and Sturgis, Lambard & Co. have each two camps; the men are enjoying good health, are in fine working trim, and if the present weather holds on, will perform an unusually good winter's work.

THE SOUTH.

FOREIGN.

The Timber Trades Journal has the following :

LONDON, Feb. 15th, 1878.

Though a good deal of business has been done in the trade on the spot during the last fortnight, it is still difficult to get a paying price for any but choice goods offered at the public sales ; nor do we see yet any considerable diminution in the degrees of comparison between the stock of foreign deals and other sawn wood at the present time in the docks, and those at the same period last year, as the quantity on hand now may be roughly estimated at double as much as it was then.

On the 1st of February, 1877 and 1878 respectively, the numbers of pieces of foreign deals, battens and boards were 5,957,000 and 11,271,000, and though the demand now is perhaps larger than it was at the former period, the excess is too great not to act as a warning to our Swedish and Norwegian friends to hold their hands a little with regard to this market during the season which is now coming on.

The Canadian supply has been much more even ; of pine and spruce deals and battens there were at this time, or say 1st February last year, 3,616,000 pieces, and this year 3,748,000. This corroborates what we pointed out in our summary of the year past, that there has really been no more sent into London from our own colonies than the trade had occasion for, and that the stock of this description on hand cannot be considered in any manner excessive.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 13th, 1878.

This business having now been satisfactorily arranged, we may presume that the chances of a more confident feeling springing up in the trade will be soon exhibited. No auction sales of great importance have been held during the past fortnight. Messrs. Farnworth and Jardine offered, on the 11th instant, a cargo of Norway spars and poles, and also a part cargo of pitch pine timber, and deals. There was fair competition for the former, but the bidding for the latter was confined to a few buyers (in fact, two-thirds of it was sold to one buyer) owing to its being sold by calliper measure, and not string measure, as usual for timber.

LEITH, Feb. 13th, 1878.

Importations for last fortnight need not be enumerated. We will, however, have arrivals shortly, and are daily expecting two or three cargoes pitch pine from Darien.

We have two sales. American and Baltic logs, deals, and battens, &c. The attendance of buyers was not so large as might have been expected, but several large parcels were sold. Prices ruled low.

CANADA.

The Toronto Monetary Times publishes a review and statistics of the lumber and timber trade of the Dominion. While the grand total of exports for 1877 is considerably in excess of 1876, and somewhat under 1875, there is shown a very marked falling off to this country. Referring to this the Times says :

Nothing more is required to explain why our lumber interests have been and continue to be depressed, than the great contraction which has taken place in our exports to the United States. In consequence of the hard times in that country, the demand for lumber has, for several years been extremely limited ; and besides this, in consequense of cheaper production, and the unusually low freight charges which have prevailed, Michigan lumber has of late years competed strongly with Canadian in the New England States. The result is seen in the rapid decline of our exports ; in 1873, they were of the value of $12,498,000 ; in 1874-5 and 6, they fell to $9,651,000, $6,335,000 and $4,973,000 respectively, and last year, as the above table shows, there was a still further fall to $4,522,568. The British demand has not been very active, and Baltic timber has given Canadian dealers keen competition ; nevertheless, our exports to Great Britain have increased since 1873. In that year, the value of our shipments was $13,749,000, they rose to $16,394,000 in 1875, and declined again in the following year to $14,031,591 ; last year they were $16,737,568.

During 1877, very little improvement has manifested itself in the lumber and timber trade. The most hopeful indications at present are the partial revival of business in the United States, and the stiffening of freight rates, which must affect the price of Michigan lumber in the New England markets. With better times across the lines, will come a stronger demand and better prices for our lumber and timber, and there are reasons to hope that the summer of 1878 will witness at least a partial revival of this highly important branch of business.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot was slightly modified on cost, and at the reduction the stock moved with greater freedom. This has given matters a steadier tone again, but without resulting in positive reaction. We quote at 17¼@17¾c. for Lake. Manufactured Copper in about average demand on small invoices and ruling steady at full former figures. We quote as follows : Brazier's Copper, ordinary sizes, over 16 oz., per square foot, 28c. per lb; do. do., do. do., 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per square foot, 30c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per square foot, 32c. per lb.; do. do., lighter than 10 oz., per square foot, 34c. per lb.; circles, less than 84 inches in diameter, 31c. per lb.; do. 84 inches diameter and over, 34c. per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 31c. per lb.; locomotive fire box sheets, 28c. per lb.; Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz., per square foot, 26c. per lb., and Bolt Copper 28c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig meets with a slow and dragging sale and the foreign accounts proving unfavorable prices are heavy. We quote at $23@26 per ton, according to brand and quantity. American pig moves out in small quantities only and the tone of the market is weak and irregular. We quote at $18@19 for No. 1 per ton, $17@18 for No. 2 do, and $16@$17 for Forge. Rails have been dull on iron, but more active for steel, and at about former rates. We quote at $31@35 for new iron, and $40@43 for Steel at the mills. Old Rails, $19@19.50 per ton; scrap, $22.00@23.00; the latter slow. Manufactured iron moderately active and commanding about old rates all around. Common Merchant Bar can be had in round lots at 1.7c. and Refined at 1.9c., but for ten-ton lots from store, 1.9c. and 2.1c. are respectively insisted upon. Common sheet, 3c., and best R. G. American, 4c. from store. LEAD—Domestic pig has continued in buyers' favor and sold slowly with the tone of the general market still heavy. We quote at about 3¾@4c. currency. The manufacturers of lead are quoted: Bar, 5¾c.; Pipe, 6c., and Sheet, 6¾c. - less the usual discount to the trade; and Tin-lined Pipe, 15c. Block Tin Pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig has been a little more active, and though the stocks are full owners hold them with a show of greater confidence. We quote at 17¼@17½c. for Banca, 14½@14⅝c. for Straits, 14¾@14⅞c for English Refined, and 14⅝@14¾c. for do. common. Tin plates have been quite dull and a little slack, but without positive change on the general range of valuations. Spelter has had a slow sale and weakened further on value, with 5¼@5¾c. now comparatively full prices. Sheet Zinc moderately active and about steady on jobbing parcels. We quote at 7⅝@7¾c. gold for foreign and 6½@6⅝ 7c. currency for domestic.

NAILS.—The demand has shown a little more life in some cases but scarcely enough to bring the market into a condition of activity. So far as known, stocks were ample for all calls made, and while production is to be stopped a couple of weeks it is hinted that manufacturers have been pushing their works in anticipation, and have a good accumulation on hand. We quote on a basis of $2.60 for 10d. to 60d. with usual discount to trade.

OILS.—The demand fluctuates somewhat, but seldom reaches a point where sellers are not found ready to meet it, and the market is not greatly stimulated. Values, however, are sustained and there is no pressure to realize. We quote linseed oil at 61@63c. from crushers' hands.

PAINTS.—A pretty good demand prevails for jobbing parcels and the market has a fairly cheerful tone. Dealers are a little disappointed over the volume of distribution, but are getting their proportion of general business.

PITCH.—Care is still shown by the average buyer to select just enough stock for immediate consumption, or to satisfy the orders in hand, but allowing for this, business may be called fair. Prices rule about steady and are quoted at $2.00@2.25 for city delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—The amount of stock moving out into consumption does not vary greatly and buyers are still indifferent beyond actual wants. The tone of the market has been rather slack, but no great concessions were allowed. The closing rates stand at about 32@31c per gallon, according to quantity of stock handled.

TAR.—Demand moderately active on local account, with a sprinkling of shipping orders, and the market rules pretty steady all around. The supply is equal to the call made both in quantity and assortment. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½ for Newberne and Washington, and $2.25@2.50 for Wilmington.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C. and C. a. G. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or incumbered.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Insure your Plate Glass at the "Lloyd's," No. 113 Broadway. The underwriters have combined assets of over $750,000. They insure Plate Glass Windows and Doors against breakage by accident. Good security. Prompt payment of losses. Low rates.

LOCAL ITEMS.

The Sanitary Superintendent reports to the Board of Health that about three years ago he recommended that the Superintendent of Buildings be requested to insist on accepting a specification in the following particulars:

1. That iron soil-pipe and waste-pipe be extended through the roof, for two feet, at their maximum calibres, and that the water-pipe be independent of the soil pipe.
2. That every basin, sink and bath-tub be properly trapped.
3. That the pipe connections be lead-caulked or otherwise securely sealed.
4. That the location and direction of the house drains be accurately indicated by a diagram with measurements, or by measurements from walls, or other permanent land-marks, so that it may be readily exposed when necessary.
5. That the use of brick or wooden drains, as substitutes for pipe drains be forbidden, and that separate sewer connections be required when practicable.
6. That the house drain be trapped under the area or near the cellar wall in addition to all other traps whatsoever.

Since that time the subject has remained in statu quo. The Inspectors have systematically complained when traps have not been found and soil and water-pipes extended through the roof, and through their efforts many defects have been revealed and remedied even in the most expensive dwellings. The discovery of radical defects in plumbing and house drainage connected with sickness or death] is literally of daily occurrence.

If the plan suggested is impractical, some other should be devised by which the public may protect itself against avaricious builders and unprincipled plumbers.

EQUALIZATION OF CITY TAXES.

We have already demonstrated to our own satisfaction that fully ten-elevenths of the present enormous budget of taxation is indirectly and directly derived from real estate. There is probably no immediate prospect of either a change of the present law or a modification of the present system of tax assessments, although, in point of fact, the two have little or no natural affinity. The law says one thing, wisely providing for an equitable taxation value of all classes of property; the present system says the law, as defined, cannot be executed and therefore the officials charged with its execution must become a law unto themselves and establish such assessments as seem good in their eyes. Now, if ten-elevenths of taxation were derived from organized capital and only one-eleventh from real estate, it might be a matter of very small moment as to how this latter fractional portion was distributed, since in that case hardly any land-owner would be able to complain of an oppressive burden. But when we come to reverse these figures, and find that one-eleventh of taxation is levied upon organized capital and ten-elevenths upon real estate, then it becomes a question of the greatest moment how this vast total of taxation is actually distributed among the various owners of real estate.

Our land-owning readers must certainly be aware and perhaps the majority of business men are also aware, of the manner in which taxation is distributed in this city. Deputy assessors, as they are now called, ward assessors as they were formerly called, are supposed to examine annually every piece of taxable property in the city; affix an arbitrary value to the same; and return it in a list, to the accuracy and truthfulness of which the assessor is obliged to certify under oath.

The duties of the three tax commissioners are to revise and equalize the lists of the sub-assessors, and their final decision in regard to tax valuations is authoritative and binding upon the tax payer. The proportion of taxation which each individual land-owner is required to bear is determined by the amount of assessed valuation of his property. The ratio or percentage that the whole budget of taxation bears to the total of correct assessed valuations furnishes the percentage rate; and the calculation of this percentage rate upon individual valuations furnishes the amount of respective tax bills.

The tax valuations of real estate, as compiled in the tax commissioners' office at the present time, constitute a great mosaic or patch-work. These valuations have never been assessed and determined as they should be upon a scientific and comprehensive method. They have been continuously handed down through successive lists or books as the work of a long succession of appraisers, and succeeding officials have increased or diminished existing valuations ostensibly according to the judgment but really according to the whim, fancy or caprice of the acting deputy assessor.

Since the establishment of the tax office, there has always been a leading and reliable expert in the matter of valuations, and at times in the corps of deputy assessors there have been a few men who were qualified by experience and training to intelligently fulfil the duties of their office, but of the majority of these sub-assessors it may be truthfully and not uncharitably said, that they have no special aptitude or proper training for the discharge of their delicate and responsible duties, and this the more candid of them would frankly acknowledge. Green, inexperienced and untutored, they are sent out like babes in the woods, to trace their way through the labyrinth of New York valuations. We doubt if any surer system could be devised than this for defeating the proper valuation of property for taxation. Besides erroneous calculations, misjudgments and perverse, partial or malicious estimates of value, there has crept into the whole system, marring and dishonoring it, an element of political partisanship which took root in a preceding and corrupt generation, but the effects of which, it is to be feared, are in the main perpetuated to the present day. There was a time under the Tweed regime, when an office was opened on Broadway, of which the avowed business was the procuring of arbitrary and inordinate reductions in tax valuations. For such service a fee was exacted amounting to one-half of the sum of taxation that the property owners might save. The motto of this office was, "Politics is a business."

It is more than suspected that under the same corrupt regime partisanship and political influence operated to establish widely disproportionate tax valuations in a great number and variety of properties.

It would be impossible to say whether these inequalities and disproportions of valuations still exist without a careful and laborious inspection of the tax commissioner's books. It is sufficient, however, to declare that such an impression is abroad in the community, and whether right or wrong the clamor resulting from it cannot be silenced until the commissioners consent to publish in book form their lists of tax valuations in real estate, if not in real and personal both. This would enable curious and apprehensive citizens to satisfy their doubts and misgivings upon this vital topic. If the tax valuations are just and equal, as the commissioners perhaps believe and are ready to declare, then what objection can there be to giving property owners and tax-payers, who are deeply concerned in the subject, the satisfaction of seeing the proof with their own eyes. But, if, as can hardly fail to be the case, there are existing disparities in valuations of extensive and ramified sorts, perhaps entirely unknown and uncognizable to the present commissioners; then it becomes equally the duty of the city and of these special officials to furnish tax payers with the data by which they can form a clear and intelligent judgment and ascertain the actual facts of the case. The first measure of reform—the first practical step to be taken in the direction of the just equalization of city taxes—is that of printing in convenient and cheap shape the present lists of tax valuations.

But as long as the pretense is continued of executing the present law under the system now in vogue, it becomes of the highest importance that the apportionment of taxation of real estate be made upon the most equitable and scientific principles. An effort, at least, to secure this desideratum will commend itself to the fairness and sense of justice of every tax-payer.

We have before outlined the system upon which this can be done easily and comprehensively, and the more we reflect upon it the more we are convinced of its suitableness for accomplishing the object in view. Until a better method is suggested, we shall continue to reiterate our demand for the adoption of this special plan as the most exhaustive and satisfactory that can be conceived of for covering the entire case. In its practical operation we believe that this scheme will be found to be more efficacious, economical and satisfying than the present method, or lack of method. It is simply this:

1. To let a reliable, intelligent expert, like Mr. Coleman, of the tax office, or any one, or half a dozen of the leading qualified experts in the city, take the city maps, and establish arbitrary and consistent land values for every block in the city. A number of adjacent blocks might be grouped together in a section, and a uniform system of valuation applied to the property within this section—corners, at such a price; avenue lots, at such a price; street lots, at such a price; fractional lots to be computed according to the standard unit of land measure, to wit, a full lot of twenty-five by one hundred. These land values clearly ascertained and closely defined should be as nearly as possible uniform in given sections. After this scheme has been applied to the whole city, the ground work would then be laid of a uniform, consistent and reliable valuation. Well-informed city experts conversant with our city property might be able to make these land valuations without leaving the office, especially with the aid of the excellent maps and charts of city property which can now be obtained.

2. The next step in the system would be to organize a corps or several corps of men experienced in matters of building. In each corps, there should be at least one builder, one architect and one surveyor. Thus constituted, each of these staffs of building experts should be sent out to value the improvements in each of the sections already defined. The valuations of one set, should be supplemented and verified by the valuations of another set sent independently over the same field. By means of these two sets of building appraisements, the tax commissioners would be able to form a clear judgment as to the proper valuations to be put upon building improvements.

3. After defining these two classes of value, to wit, the land value and the improvement value, their separate existence should be preserved on the tax books and their aggregate in each case should be the extent of individual valuation, and the total of these valuations should constitute the area of taxable real estate values in the city.

Instead of deluding ourselves with an imaginary valuation of sixty per cent, it would be more just, equitable, and acceptable to tax-payers to have the entire real estate of the city valued according to the language of the law, "at such value as under ordinary circumstances it would sell for." The establishment of this scale of values is just as possible as the establishment of figmentary fractions of value, the latter course serving to confuse the mind of the tax payer with regard to the value of his property and the basis on which his taxation is levied. Besides this adoption of a percentage of valuation, less than the whole value opens the door for abuses of power, and furnishes a screen and possible justification for the most reprehensible practices.

There is no branch of the municipal government which stands more in need of revision and remodelling, as to methods and details, than the tax commissioner's office, and we may add there is no office in which the personal interests of the tax payer are more largely centered and more vitally concerned than in this one.

THE HYGIENICS OF BUILDING.

II.

LIGHT.—Under this heading, we propose to discuss the sanitary conditions relating to the interior of buildings. Many, if not all the specifications laid down in the preceding section, are equally applicable in this case. The particular use which we desire to make of this branch of the discussion, is to enter a vigorous protest against the practice of building dwellings of extraordinary depth. The old-fashioned, and almost discarded method of building dwellings three rooms deep, as it was termed, is occasionally revived with no advantage to the building or to the occupants. The three-story back building, or extension, has in later times taken its place. In the latter case the main house is apt to be of shallow depth, while the extension, built as a set-off, may run in depth clear to the end of the lot. Our notion is that extensions are only suitable in detached houses where there is a free circulation of air and flooding of light. In city rows, they should be confined to houses of extra width, thirty feet front, being the least width that should receive a high and deep extension. The practice of adding these extensions to sixteen feet front houses, or to houses of any width between this and twenty-five feet is clearly unjustifiable, and its folly can be easily demonstrated by an inspection of the interior of such houses. Their dark, gloomy appearance is repulsive and oppressive, while the absence of a proper flooding of sunlight is apt to render the interior atmosphere dank and noisome. For light, as well as for air, a liberal provision of yard room is necessary in dwelling house construction, and this oasis of a city residence should be uniformly exacted by house buyers.

With a view of securing a sufficient flood of light it would be well to observe the following proportions:

A house sixteen or eighteen feet front may be built from fifty-five to sixty-five feet deep, the central space being usually taken up with closets, which are or should be lighted with large well-holes or light shafts. The standard house of twenty or twenty-two feet front should never exceed in depth fifty-six or fifty-eight feet, and the houses of these widths, that are fifty feet deep, are by far the most popular and suitable for family residence. Houses of twenty-five feet or more in width should not exceed the maximum depth of sixty-five or seventy feet, and this depth is then only warrantable when interior air and light shafts are freely used, or when that excellent method is adopted known as saloon chamber floors, in which the front and back rooms are separated only by double sliding doors, the opening of which makes them, in fact, one long chamber, extending from the front to the rear of the house, through which the light and air can easily penetrate and circulate. A very convenient house has recently been built of the dimensions of twenty-six feet front by forty-five feet deep. These are unusual proportions, but it is instructive to know how much popular interest this particular house excited. We throw out this suggestion to active builders, as an indication of popular taste.

VENTILATION.—The confused philosophy, the conflicting theories and the inexact science of ventilation are more than enough to bewilder the average student. We have no intention of attempting to unravel the tangle.

It may be a theme of congratulation that modern intelligence has learned to discard the unsightly and ineffectual opening in the wall connecting with a brick flue, which was supposed to be open at the top of the parapet wall (but which more frequently was entirely covered with coping), which our grandfathers used to rely upon as a proper means of ventilating dwellings. Even when these flues happened to be open at the top their principal office was to conduct cold air, rain and dust downward to the interior of the house: and if the exhausted atmosphere of the dwelling ever penetrated to this flue its upward progress was quickly arrested by the solid plug of cold, heavy atmosphere which it was bound to encounter half-way in its vertical motion.

No human device has been able to surpass the principle and practice of the open grate as a means of ventilating the interior of buildings. The two most favorable conditions are here afforded of a heated flue communicating directly with outside space and commencing at so low a point in a room as to insure the certain movement of all portions of the atmosphere. With this provision of an open grate fire, the seams of the windows and doors of too many of our city dwellings may be relied upon to furnish a copious supply of fresh air, although the modern weather strip is apt to put a complete check upon these inlets. Grate fires are troublesome, expensive and dangerous, especially with children in the family. Their use on an extensive scale is apt to be cultivated only in the most luxurious mansions. The hot-air furnace is a readier and less expensive means of warming a house, and plays an important part in ventilation, provided a satisfactory outlet can be furnished for exhausted air. Air shafts or light holes, so called, though indispensable on other accounts, are really inefficient and unreliable as means of perfect ventilation, as the air in them is apt to become motionless in the absence of any established current, and when in motion the fetid atmosphere is more than likely to be only conveyed from one floor to another.

In houses that are furnace-heated an admirable means of ventilating the cellar is provided in what is called the Boston damper, affixed to the smoke pipe of most modern furnaces. This performs the double office of moderating the draft and perfectly ventilating the cellar. The kitchen is the next important room that needs ventilation, and the means are so ready and inexpensive that there is really no excuse for not adopting them. A simple hood of galvanized iron placed on the breast of the range chimney, so as to catch the vapors and odors that arise from cooking, can be connected with a pipe of two or four inches diameter, running up the range flue or adjoining it to the top of the house. This will effectually carry off all smell of cooking and thoroughly ventilate the kitchen. The main hallway can be easily ventilated through the dome light by raising the inside sash of the dome on blocks so as to leave an open space of an inch around it, and then surmounting the outside sky-light with an Emerson Exhaust Ventilator. The space between the domelight and skylight forms a capital exhaust chamber, in which the temperature is apt to be a mean between that of the inside and outside atmosphere.

For an inexpensive and efficient ventilation of parlors and bedrooms nothing can excel the opening of small vent holes in the plaster centre piece that surrounds the gas pipe of the central chandelier. Over these openings a tin box can be enclosed connected by a one or two-inch iron pipe which can be carried up the nearest hot flue to the top of the chimney, and by this means an upward draft will be established. If the flue through which the pipe passes happens to be a cold one, the heat generated by the combustion of the illuminating gas in the room will sufficiently warm the pipe to establish an upward current.

All interior well holes and shafts should, as far as possible, be built solid to the roof, and there surmounted with a ventilating skylight. Where these can be associated with warm flues in the wall their efficiency will be greatly enhanced. It is necessary to bear in mind that circulation is an indispensable part of ventilation. In a word, that it is impossible to ventilate a box. There must be an inlet and an outlet and a circulating current of air through a given shaft to afford ventilation. Tightly built houses should have provided a special cold air duct for each room, not large enough, however, to occasion cold draughts.

There are many elaborate and expensive schemes of house ventilation which are only suitable for adoption in the dwellings of the wealthy.

The suggestions which we have presented would involve but a trifling cost if attended to during the original construction of a building.

A CARD FROM THE CHAMBERLAIN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE REAL ESTATE RECORD:

My attention has but just now been called to a paragraph in your issue of Feb. 23d, in which you express a doubt whether some recent investments of the Court Funds by this office have been judicious, and you express surprise that loans should be made on property in the outskirts of the city.

To correct any misunderstanding on your part or that of your readers, it will be only necessary for me to say that, of the nine mortgages mentioned by you, five of them were taken at the particular instance and written request of the parties interested in the trust moneys loaned, they having the right, by many years usage of the office, to select the security for their money. I should add, however, that the valuations of these mortgaged premises fully warranted the loans made.

The remaining four mortgages will, I think, commend themselves to any person who is familiar with the property covered.

In conclusion let me say the Chamberlain will be glad to find property "centrally located" or otherwise, for the investments he has to make in discharging this very difficult and responsible official duty.

Yours, very truly,

J. NELSON TAPPAN.

NEW YORK, March 9, 1878.

THE QUEEN INSURANCE COMPANY BUILDING.

The Queen Insurance Company building, which has recently been erected on the site known as part of the old Jauncey Court in Wall street, is well deserving of special notice. It has a frontage on Wall street of 30 feet, 6 inches, is six stories high, and has a basement and subcellar. The front is composed of Baltimore brick, trimmed with Wyoming blue stone and New Jersey brown stone. All the granite work was furnished by the Hinsdale Doyle Granite Company whose New York office is at No. 658 Broadway. The basement and first story are constructed of Hallowell granite; the capping over the second story windows of Bay of Fundy granite and the black granite columns of black diamond granite, and the carving of all this granite, which has been used to a large extent in the construction of this building, has been elaborately and richly finished by Robert Ellin & Co., the mason work being by David S. King, Jr.

The style of architecture of the front is a Victorian Gothic, basement of granite elaborately carved as already stated, first story windows are of polished red granite, supported by piers of Wyoming blue stone and columns of black granite with richly carved capitals and bases of Wyoming blue stone, over which an arch is extending, covering the windows of the first story front, composed again of Wyoming blue stone and New Jersey brown stone. The doorway is protected by a portico of the self-same stones and supported by same columns, with a beautiful portrait of the Queen in bronze in the tympanum of the arch. The front steps' are of iron and patent vault-lights from the Cornells, in Centre street.

The second and third stories are of Baltimore brick window and arches of the same stone as the lower stories, the piers being divided by oiled blue stone, which makes an agreeable contrast. The fourth story windows are the same, but have black granite columns. The entire front is surmounted by an elaborate cornice of blue stone, a Mansard roof and tower, the dormer window being of brick trimmed again with the same stones as below. The tower terminates in a pointed roof, ornamented with a richly decorated finial.

The main office on the first floor is eighty-three feet deep, with an average width of nineteen feet, and is to be occupied by the owners of the building—the Queen Insurance Company. This office is elaborately finished in mahogany by Marcotte & Co., of Union square. The rest of the finished woodwork throughout the building, the doors as well as the trimmings, are in maple and cherry, all the carpenter's work being done by Jesse W. Powers. The first story hall including the first flight of stairs, are wainscoted with two and three different kinds of foreign and domestic marble. The main doors and window sashes are all highly finished, the principal trimmings being also done by Marcotte. The same firm has also taken great pains in beautifying the Director's room in the rear of the Queen office, the size of which is 18x21. The architects have here succeeded in securing light on two sides of this room, an advantage that will be greatly appreciated by the gentlemen when they discuss the affairs of their Company. Aside of this, however, an extraordinary good light has been secured for the entire building by means of the shafts, which even now that the front windows are all boarded up, throw a flood of light upon every floor.

There are ample closets and dressing rooms on the first story and in the basement, two special rooms being set apart on the same floors for two of the largest Herring's safes, which are enclosed with masonry. There are also any number of closets and small rooms on the second and third stories, each room being provided with basins of the latest pattern, furnished by Timothy Sullivan, of East Seventeenth street, who has carefully attended to all the plumbing work throughout the building.

The building is entirely fire proof, some of the floors being constructed of the material furnished by the Fire Proof Building Company, of which Mr. Beckwith is President, and the remaining floors being constructed of brick arches. All the beams are of iron, and the roof is covered with cement, felt, tar and gravel. Great care has been taken by the architects, Messrs. Clinton & Pirsson, of 56 Wall street, in making this building not only fire proof but thoroughly substantial, the cellar walls being three feet thick, the basement walls two feet eight inches, the first story walls two feet four inches, the second story two feet, with the remainder of the walls averaging a proportionate thickness, the minimum being sixteen inches. The iron girders besides being all supported by iron columns, also from the Cornell foundry. Messrs. Johnson Brothers, of Nos. 215 and 217 Grand street, furnished the Mansard roof, towers and sashes, also interior skylights, the others being supplied by Georg · Hayes, of 71 Eighth avenue. The glass used, which is imported French polished plate in front, is from E. A. Boyd, successor to Platt & Boyd, 79 Murray street.

The stairs are of iron throughout the building, except the top of the handrail, but as in such a building very little use is made of the stairs, one of Otis's finest elevators has been provided, with a handsomely ornamented car. Baker, Smith & Co. have attended to the steam-heating, the gas works and pipes being furnished by Mr. Sullivan, the plumber. Except as to matter of ornamental finish, the same care has been taken in regard to steam-heating and plumbing in the upper story, the sixth, where ample rooms are provided for the janitor and his family as on the first and main floor.

So far as ornamentation of the front is concerned, great credit is due to Hurst & Treanor, under whose superintendence all the stone for the Queen Building has been cut, a job of peculiar difficulty in this instance, where so many different sorts of granite were selected for the purpose. The architects may well be proud of the work they have placed before the business community of New York.

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The following noteworthy judicial sales were held at the Exchange Salesroom since our last report: The entire block of land bounded by Fifth Avenue, Madison avenue, One Hundred and Sixth and One Hundred and Seventh streets was sold under a first mortgage, the amount due on which was about $132,000, for $204,050. Under partition proceedings, the house with lot (47.10x100) on the east side of Fifth avenue, known as No. 45, was sold to Anne Walsh for $42,000. Several other valuable parcels were disposed of, the details of sale appearing below.

At private sale, Messrs. Duggin & Crossman have purchased the four lots on the southwest corner of Madison avenue and Forty-ninth street for $60,000. We learn it is their intention to immediately commence the erection of five first-class houses on this property. It is also reported that the brown stone house with lot (35x100 situated on the northeast corner of Madison avenue and Thirty-ninth street has been sold to N. D. Higgins for $110,000.

In the general market there are decided symptoms of renewed activity. Foreclosure sales have for so long a time monopolized the attention of dealers, and with so depressing an effect on real estate interests that many owners of property not compelled by force of circumstances to offer it for sale have manifested a decided reluctance to test the temper of the market by a bona fide offering.

An opportunity, however, will be afforded on Tuesday, March 28th, inst., to test the real values of properties situated in the choicest part of the city, on the occasion of the offering by the owner, Mr. Josiah Jex, of probably the most valuable parcels of Broadway real estate ever offered at one time for sale, comprising the premises on the northwest corner of Broadway and Thirtieth street and Sixth avenue; premises on the northeast corner of Broadway and Thirty-eighth street premises on northeast corner of Broadway and Forty-second street, now occupied by Acker, Merrill & Condit, and the premises on the northwest corner of Broadway and Forty-ninth street.

Plans numbering twenty-four, embracing forty-one buildings, were filed with the Superintendent of the Building Department during the week ending March 14, 1878. The following are the noteworthy buildings projected: At 77 Park avenue, Mr. Benjamin Brewster will erect a four-story brown stone front house, at an estimated cost of $40,000, and on the west side of Lexington avenue, between Ninety-fourth and Ninety-fifth streets, a plan has been filed embracing eleven three-story brown stone front houses, the total estimated cost of which is $88,000.

The following are the sales at the Exchange Sales room for the week ending March 13:

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICK.—On Common Hards there has been a slow and rather dragging market with values again off somewhat, and the tone still rather slack, as we write. To a considerable extent this may be attributed to the somewhat remarkable season past and present. The open condition of the weather, during the greater portion of the winter, has permitted the pushing forward of work with a much greater degree of rapidity than usual, so that pretty much everything in hand is now completed; and with contractors as yet scarcely prepared to commence upon their new engagements, there is a partial lull in the consumption which narrows demand down to a comparatively narrow limit. In conjunction with this, the river opens earlier than anticipated, navigation is resumed, and shipments made from the points of supply to an extent exceeding the exhaustive capacity of the market, giving, of course, a surplus accumulation, and thus forming a combination of adverse circumstances against which the selling interest finds it difficult to contend. There has not, however, been any great pressure to realize, and the additional decline since our last is comparatively slight, especially on the finer qualities, the inclination being to hold for a while in hopes of more cheering influences. We still find evidence of confidence and hope in a fair trade as the season more fully opens and progresses, and receivers and dealers can discover no reason for slaughtering prices, though admitting that something of this kind must occur if manufacturers will insist upon forcing supplies forward faster than they can be used. A great deal of binding in one way and another is projected and will no doubt be taken in hand, but it is too early to expect a general commencement of operations. The offerings have been in the main from the "Bay" with the top price, now about $5.75, and some sales as low as $4.50. The latter, however, were mostly washed stock and $5.00 is as low as we shall quote for the time being. Some "Up Rivers" have come to hand and are valued at about $5.00. Nothing more offered or expected from Long Island. Rates have been quite dull and have also gone off in price with $3.00, high enough to quote, except extra choice, few of which are to be found. Fronts not very active, but have found a few cars for Crotons and former rates were obtained on all grades. The supply is not large, and owners very little inclined to urge sales.

We quote Pale, ₱ M., $2.75@3.00; Hards, Up-rivers, $5.00; Haverstraw bay, $5.00@5.50; favorite brands, $5.50@6.00; Fronts, Croton—brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $25@27; Baltimore, $24@25.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5.00@6.00 on fronts.

CEMENT.—With the resumption of navigation on the river, and the "creek" free of ice, communication with the primary points is restored, and the wholesale market on domestic has opened for the season of 1878. Demand, however, is found to be extremely moderate and the offerings thus far sold slowly, while rates are a little lower than had been calculated upon by many manufacturers, the figures standing at 90c. at "creek" and $1.00 per bbl. here for Rosendale. Production has not as yet been fully resumed, but preparations are progressing rapidly and manufacturers have a fair amount of old stock on hand. Saylor's Portland is in good steady demand and rules firm. Foreign is not active, and terms are kept pretty easy. Portland having sold from pier at $3.60, and somewhat lower than before from store. There has not been many recent arrivals, but a very good accumulation had previously been made.

GLASS.—Not much general or decided activity is shown on any outlet, but trade is gradually working into better shape, and dealers are somewhat encouraged to the belief of a good, fair spring business. Desirable assortments in the interior are moderate in quantity, and quite a movement, it is claimed, must ensue if only to fill up, but in addition there have been shown evidences of a better consumption, and a demand in accordance is calculated upon. Stocks not having been greatly disturbed of late are fairly assorted, but the accumulation is not large, and holders steady, especially as cost is really low and should be attractive.

HARDWARE.—A fairly active trade is doing on country orders, and the tendency seems to be toward a still further growth. The stocks of interior dealers are low and broken, and even for the most ordinary business purposes they must replenish to some extent, while indications of an increased consumption in some quarters are not wanting and lead to the hope of large orders. City trade is dull and unpromising as a rule, though dealers appear to think the class of stock adapted to builders' use has rather the best chance. Since our last, few changes in lists have been announced, and none in the line of goods in which our readers are interested.

LATH.—Up to the time of closing our report we hear of no parcels offering afloat, and to a certain extent the wholesale market is a nominal one. Such dealers however as may be in want of a little stock are drawing upon the piled out accumulation, and understood to be very generally paying $1.85 per M. The consumption is moderate at present and it is thought, can make no great increase for some time to come, as building operations in hand have got beyond lath, and new work has made little progress.

LIME.—Eastern has again found a limited, uncertain sale and the market weakened to the extent of the recent advance, putting prices down again to 80c. for common, and $1.00 for lump. There has been few if any additional arrivals and none of importance are expected; but a small stock is not of much advantage to holders in the almost entire absence of demand. On State the tone is unsettled and quotations, as given, vary materially, but stock could no doubt be reached at a shading proportionate to that on Rockland.

LUMBER.—Activity is by no means a characteristic of the lumber market, and the average report from dealers has an unsatisfactory tone. On the whole, however, there appears to be an under-current of rather greater strength and confidence than heretofore, with a belief that the period of improvement is approaching. The expectations are not great, but the outlet in the ordinary course of events must naturally expand somewhat, and with this a hardening of values would naturally follow, and especially as desirable parcels in first hands have worked down to comparatively small compass. The shipping trade is looked upon with most favor, and dealers who make this a specialty, either on parcels from spot or from the coastwise primary markets, consider the outlook as promising better than last season. Doubt still prevails over the local consumption, but on this, too, matters are a little more cheering, as near-by dependent points give evidence of wanting considerable stock even to an extent sufficient to partially counterbalance a continuation of slow and moderate calls for city use proper. It is also evident that the reports from the points of supply are having some effect and induce a stiffer feeling among owners of desirable goods. It is always to be expected that adverse circumstances respecting the run of logs will be magnified to the greatest extent possible, but making due allowance for this natural tendency at the primary markets, a shortage on the supply appears certain this season. No actual famine or remarkable scarcity is calculated upon, but it seems likely that the amount will be small enough to come under fair control and give sellers an opportunity to insist upon better terms with some degrees of success.

Eastern Spruce retains a pretty firm position for all desirable stock, and attractive cargoes have thus far been placed soon after arrival—if not sold before—upon a full line of prices, without difficulty. It is claimed in some quarters that ruling rates will be likely to attract increased shipments, but receivers assert that there is very little ready to come forward, and the mills are not ready to increase the quantity at present. Some of the yards here are selling at about the same basis as wholesale valuations, but this does not appear to have hurt the sale of cargoes. Not many specials are called for at present. We quote at $14.50@16 for random, possibly $16.25@16.50 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $15@17.00 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White Pine has a steadier tone on most of the stock, but especially the shipping grades. The accumulation has worked down into a compass of comparatively easy control, and while the demand is spasmodic and uncertain, it is taking out enough in the aggregate to afford ecouragement and permit holders to assume a confident air. We quote at $15@17 per M. for West India shipping boards; $19.50@20.50 for South American do; $15@16 for box boards; $17 for do wide and sound; and timber at $16@18 per M.

Yellow Pine on the ordinary local consumption does not find much of an outlet at present, and the orders for shipment to other domestic points are not very plenty. Receivers, however, are delivering on previous contract to buyers from "up the River," along the Sound, etc., and also a considerable quantity has gone to and is still due for the use of the elevated railways. Export orders are occasionally filled, but are not very plenty. Most of the Southern mills are busy, and some have to refuse offers. We quote random cargoes at $19@22 per M.; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do; green flooring boards, $21@23 do; and dry do do, $23@24. Cargoes at the South, $14@16 50 per M; hewn timber, $7.50@14.

Hardwoods remain in very good shape and are meeting with a fair demand. Local wants improve a trifle and the foreign orders keep up to about the former average with walnut and maple rather the favorites. We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows, walnut, $77@85 ₱ M; ash, $33@36 do; oak, $35@40 do; maple, $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d $30@35; do., do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $45@55do.; white wood, ¼ and ⅜ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $32@35 do; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $40@50 for good nearby stock.

Yard business is again reported quite fair among a portion of the trade, who find that while sales are moderate singly, there is enough of them to make a pretty good aggregate and stocks commence to show the effect. Values are supported and the position as a rule may be considered quite steady.

The assignment of Russell W. Adams and Charles E. Rogers (R. W. Adams & Co., No. 112 Wall street, lumber dealers, to Henry C. M. Ingraham, was filed on Monday last. The schedule annexed shows the firm's debts to be $812,149.69, and of this $587,461 85 are secured, and $224,687.04 unsecured. The firm's nominal assets amount to $1,119,262.13, and the actual $814,171. GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From Lumberman's Gazette as follows:

BAY CITY, Friday, March 8, 1878.

The most noticeable feature in the market is the constantly increasing upward tendency in the views of holders of lumber and a strong indisposition on their part to make figures at which they will sell. There has been considerable enquiry from dealers who are willing to pay the prices at which they might have bought some weeks ago, but the manufacturers will not accept those rates now. Offers of $6, $12, and $23 are made without finding takers, except in a few instances, in which the amounts that have changed hands have been very small. Stocks are held at considerable of an advance upon the foregoing figures, but what that advance actually is it is difficult to quote, as opinions as to what should be asked vary very much. We know of firms who hold their stocks at $7, $14 and $30, but although these figures may be reached before many days, yet they are somewhat extreme as yet.

The usual suspicion with which purchasers have looked at all representations of a short supply does not seem to have any tangible ground to base itself upon this season.

During the past week we have made very general inquiries among lumbermen as to the amount of logs cut by them during the winter, and also as to what proportion of the same they have been able to bank. From the best information we have been able to get upon the subject we can not figure up a better showing than 35 per cent. This may, during the season, be increased so as to reach a half supply. This estimate, with present indications, may be considered a liberal one.

Work in the logging camps has been almost totally suspended, and nearly all the men and teams have come out. Preparations for driving have begun, and in fact running logs has already commenced on some of the streams emptying into the Saginaw Bay, such as the Au Gres, Pine and Rifle.

We quote rates as follows, the lowest being those offered, and the highest those at which some parties hold lumber:

Three uppers	$28 00@30 00
Common	12 00@14 00
Shipping culls	6 00@ 7 00
Lath	1 15@ 1 25
Shingles, river mills	2 75
Shingles, country mills	2 40@ 2 60

A correspondent of the Gazette, Chicago, says:

The past week here has been as fine spring weather as ever experienced in this latitude at the time of year—in fact, a part of it more like May than March and it still continues at this writing.

The speculations and guesses in regard to the winter's cut of logs has resolved itself into a conviction that the cut will not average a two-thirds crop throughout the pineries of Wisconsin and Minnesota, and the prospect of getting this cut down the stream is growing more feeble now daily, as there is no snow, and the amount of rain required to raise the streams unaided by snow, would be immense, and more than could be expected, so that the loggers are no sooner out of one trouble until they are in another of equal importance. The scarcity of snow throughout the lumbering districts of the country, making the short crop general, will have a greater effect on trade than most imagine. A partial failure of the crop of the Saginaw Valley would have its influence upon the whole country; but when this failure extends to the whole pine region of the north, its influence upon the lumber trade of the country can scarcely be realized at this time.

The condition of the dirt roads throughout the country renders it impossible for much of a demand; but notwithstanding this fact the demand is fair and at firm prices. If the whole stock of the city was considered as one, the assortment would be fair, but many of the yards have no assortments, but that vein of generous hospitality for which the average lumberman is noted, enables him to make it up from his neighbor's, and thus fill his orders.

Several barge loads of lumber are expected from Grand Haven in a day or two now, most of the arrivals up to this time being wood, ice and sundries.

So far as can be judged at this time, the indications are fine for a very large and satisfactory trade here this season, and I think results at the close of the year will bear me out in the prediction.

Orders still continue to come from far west of the Mississippi, and this new trade, developed last season, will be likely to continue.

The Lumberman and Manufacturer as follows:

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., March 7, 1878.

The events of the week have been important to the lumber trade. The question of more hauling snow is now considered as definitely settled, and the results of the winter's efforts are being summed up. The totals are represented by small figures. The upper Mississippi and Rum rivers have 90,000,000 and may approximate 100,000,000 feet. The St. Croix will not exceed 75,000,000, the Chippewa 30,000,000, and the Black 60,000,000, while the Wisconsin is set down at 7[illegible],000 feet more; or, in round numbers, 400,000,000 feet of logs have been banked, and with the 600,000,000 feet of old logs hung up, make a total of 1,000,000,000 feet, of which it is not reasonable to expect more than 60 or 65 per cent. to come out, and to do that we will have to get very heavy rains, and lots of them, the chances being against securing that amount, especially on the Chippewa and Black rivers, where the bulk of the old logs are hung up. Desperate efforts will, however, be made to drive out.

Lumber has advanced in Minneapolis to $15 for common, and the rise has been met by corresponding figures at St. Paul, Stillwater, Winona and LaCrosse, and a still farther advance seems far more probable than any recession of prices. Chicago seems to be busy discussing a rise of from $1 to $2, but will probably wait until they are dead sure of selling out. The several river markets are also anticipating a serious advance.

Sales of raft lumber at $13.50, $15.50 and $17.50, delivered at St. Louis, are reported from the Wisconsin river, to be delivered this spring.

The news from Michigan indicates so short a crop that advanced prices can and doubtless will be maintained at all the manufacturing points.

Trade is all that most holders ask, and large orders have been refused at rates.

The Oconto Reporter, March 2d, says: It would be but a vain repetition to say that lumbermen of northern Wisconsin never experienced such a mild or snowless winter. The jobbers went into the woods, as usual, about the middle of December, and commenced skidding logs leisurely, until snow should come, when the crews would be increased and the work would be "pushed." They have kept skidding and waiting, and waiting and skidding, week after week has passed and still no snow.

There are quite a number who are putting in timber where it is close to the river, hauling on travoys. These are doing comparatively well. In addition to these some of the mill firms have moved their camps to points where the timber is close to the river, and from these will the mills on this and adjoining rivers draw most of their stocks, which will probably be considerably curtailed. Though, on looking over the ground, we are convinced that considerably more will be got in than was supposed, two or three weeks ago, would be possible without some snow. On the whole, we think it safe to say that the mills on the river will have banked, whether they are driven down or not, three-fourths of the usual stock for day runs, with the possible exception of the Oconto Company, who did not propose from the start to do a heavy winter's work.

The Winona (Minn.) Republican says the lumber dealers of that city have advanced the wholesale prices one dollar a thousand on common lumber and two dollars a thousand on fencing. Lower grades are also up a dollar, but the higher grades are unchanged. Shingles and lath remain the same. The advance is caused by the prospects of a short crop of logs and by the rise at Minneapolis, Stillwater and other lumber markets.

Montague Lumberman, March 2.

The lumber prospects have not changed materially since our last issue. Up to March 1st, 30,000,000 feet of logs have been put into White river. This is not far from one-third of the usual stock. Reports from Muskegon, Manistee, Grand and Pere Marquette rivers show about the same proportion all along the shore. Under favorable circumstances the quantity of logs banked can be doubled for the coming season, which will leave a shortage of not far from 300,000,000 feet on the east shore of Lake Michigan for 1878. The farmers' teams from the southern part of the State, on which our lumbermen largely depend, are returning home in droves every day, being tired of paying board and getting no work. The season is too far advanced and prospects for a long period of sleighing too poor for them to return, and should we get two or three week's sleighing this month our lumbermen will not be in a situation to take advantage of it. Many of the camps are already breaking up, as most of our lumbermen have all along been of the opinion that if we had no snow by the first of March it would be useless to make further efforts on long hauls.

THE EAST.

The Kennebec Journal publishes a review of the lumbering operations of Maine during 1877, from which has been prepared the following summary of the cut for 1877 as compared with the year previous:

	1876.	1877.
Penobscot river	115,121,191	117,867,745
Kennebec	113,000,000	65,000,000
St. Croix	63,000,000	60,000,000
Saco	24,000,000	20,000,000
Union	30,000,000	24,000,000
Naraguagus	12,000,000	10,000,000
Androscoggin	5,000,000	5,000,000
Total	302,121,191	301,867,745

The same authority states that from present indications the lumber product of 1878 will exceed that of 1877 if it does not equal that of 1876. Hard times have had a depressing effect with Maine lumbermen.

CANADA.

In the Canadian lumber regions matters are in a very unsatisfactory condition. So dull is the prospect that some of the leading Quebec timber merchants state that they do not intend chartering any vessels for spring business.

The Pembroke Observer says that owing to the want of snow, and consequent difficulty of drawing timber and logs, a good many shanties are already broken up. There will not, therefore, be anything like the quantity of lumber got out this season as compared with last year, and the stock of timber on hand in Quebec will have a better chance of disposal than otherwise, if the demand is only moderately brisk. It is to be hoped that war will be averted, as it is feared that in that case it would further depress the lumber trade.

The Bobcaygeon Independent, of March 1st, says:—The season is now so far advanced, and the snow fall so insufficient, that very little hope is entertained of getting the log crop to water.

The St. John, N. B., Telegraph says the hauling is splendid, great quantities of ship timber are continually pouring in and lumbermen generally are very busy. Vaughan & Co.'s new mill is nearly ready to start.

Some six inches of snow fell at Parry Sound on Feb. 26th, which was welcomed by the settlers and lumbermen in that locality.

Ottawa (Ont.) Daily Citizen, March 4:

A correspondent who has lately visited the Kippewa lumbering section writes:—This month (February) so far is very favorable to those engaged in the lumber trade in this section. There is a depth of 12 to 16 inches of snow, and the work of hauling seems to be well up in most of the shanties here. But this does not appear to be the case in other lumbering districts, such as Petewawa, Indian river, Bonnecherre and Madawaska, where, in several instances, teams were discharged, as they could not proceed with the work of hauling on account of the scarcity of snow, and as the season for this work is now quite short, the probability is that a considerable quantity of logs and square timber will remain in the woods. Teams are offering to work for 75 cents to $1 per day, and are unable to find employment even at those figures. Shanty supplies are being delivered this year at lower rates than has been done for the past fifteen years.

The prices for lumberers' supplies are very low at Pembroke this winter, which is in a measure owing to the facilities which the Canada Central road affords for carrying freight.

FOREIGN.

Latest mail advices from Rio Janeiro report:

Pitch Pine—But one cargo with 319,668 feet has arrived, and brokers quote 31$000@35$000 ₱ doz., 3 by 9 by 11.

White Pine—Receipts, 480,617 feet. Sales have been made according to quality at 65@75 rs. ₱ foot.

NAILS.—Matters remain much the same in the way of the movement of stocks. Home buyers are cautious and take little beyond quite positive necessities. The shipping calls are light and business lacks general animation. A suspended production, however, prevents further accumulation of supplies, and holders are firm at full former rates. We quote: 10d. to 60d., common fence and sheathing per keg, $2.60; 8d. and 9d., common do. per keg, $2.85; 6d. and 7d., common, per keg, $3.10; 4d. and 5d., common do., per keg, $3.35; 3d. and 4d., light, per keg, $4.10; 3d., fine, per keg, $4.85; 2d., per keg, $4.85. Cut spikes, all sizes, $2.85. Floor casing and box, 75c. above the same sizes of common. Finishing, $1 above and fine finishing $1.25 above.

CLINCH NAILS.

1¾ to 1¼in.	2 & 2¼in.	2½ & 2¾ in.	3 in. & longer
$5@$5.25	$4.75	$4.50	$4.25 per keg

OILS.—Business moves along slowly, the city wants proving small and interior orders few and far between. About former rates are asked in most cases, and dealers appear to have sufficient control of the market to preserve a steady tone. We quote: Linseed, about 61@63c. ₱ gallon; lard 56@58c. for No. 1, and 50@51c. for No. 2, crude cotton seed, 44@46c., and refined summer yellow do. 53@55c.

PAINTS.—As has happened on so many other markets, the supposed encouraging indications have not in all cases been verified among our dealers in paints and among both wholesalers and jobbers there is to be heard expressions of disappointment. Buyers come forward in fair numbers, but their wants are remarkably small for the season, and all seem determined to refuse goods in excess of almost certain ability to redistribute at an early date. Still, business keeps moving to some extent, and as letters at hand would lead to the impression that the country accumulation is quite limited, it is possible that matters may mend as spring progresses. On values, there has been few changes of importance, and the situation of the stocks, rather leads to the belief that holders can carry most of the advantage with little or no difficulty.

PITCH.—Demand fluctuates, some days finding a pretty full amount of stock moving out, and business then dropping off into almost a prostrate condition. The supplies, however, do not appear to be uncomfortable, and most holders are steady in asking former rates. We quote at $2.60@2.75 for city delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—A moderately active inquiry is current coming from most regular sources, but without show of haste among buyers, and the stocks proving heavy, holders are more anxious to realize. We quote at 32½@33c. per gallon, according to quantity of stock handled.

TAR.—Supplies are held on a basis of about former figures, and with a comparatively firmer tone. There is not, however, any special display of buoyant tendencies, and at full bids most sellers are found willing to negotiate. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½ for Newberne and Washington, and $2.25@2.50 for Wilmington.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C. and C. a. G. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or incumbered.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

STATE TAXATION.

There have been many and great discussions during the past five years concerning State taxation, the merits of which we will venture to say are entirely unknown to the general reader beyond the allegation that in the apportionment of State taxation the city is being defrauded by the country. The bases of this allegation are neither easily accessible nor readily comprehensible. We purpose, however, to present to our readers a connected and intelligible account of the controversy. Great reputations have been founded in an ability to handle this question, and excellent men have talked themselves hoarse in dilating upon its intricacies. It is to be feared that one of our Tax Commissioners has actually impaired his health in blowing a fog-horn upon this recondite subject. A proper analysis and discussion of this theme are comparable only to the study of human anatomy, so articulated and ramified are its issues. The pillars of the main questions in dispute rest upon the foundation of assessed and apportioned values, and of their ratios, upon comparisons of population and acreage, and their productiveness, all duly formulated in dreary and bewildering columns of numerals, which are supposed to furnish the ammunition for a deadly aim at the very heart of the controversy.

In the first place we will present to our readers a table showing the aggregate of the State tax levy for 1877, and the manner of its apportionment between the city and the country:

STATE TAX LEVY.

	Rate.	Taxed Valuations.	Amount of tax
For Schools....	1⅛ mills	$2,755,740,318	$3,100,207 85
For general purposes.....	1 11-24 "	—	4,018,787 92
For the new Capitol and other buildings.....	¼ "	—	688,935 08
For canals.....	⅓ "	—	918,580 16
Total.....	3 1-6		$8,726,511 01

Apportioned as follows:

New York County.....	$4,162,883 85
Fifty-nine other counties.....	4,563,627 16
Total.....	$8,726,511 01

The real subjects of controversy are whether this levy of taxation is now inequitably apportioned among the various counties of the State, and if so, whether there is any way of effecting an equitable apportionment.

To a correct understanding of the premises, it is necessary to bear in mind that the entire State is divided into minute sub-districts called wards or towns, for the purpose of local tax assessment. For all purposes of town or local taxation, the sub-assessors within these districts are supreme, and their valuations and the rate of taxation growing out of them are conclusive and binding upon the residents of such sub-districts. These sub-districts are aggregated into counties as the next highest division, and upon such aggregated valuations the county taxes are levied.

Finally there are three State Assessors having jurisdiction of the assessed valuations of the separate counties of the State for the purpose of levying State taxation. In 1859, in order to secure a fair and just apportionment of taxation, a special office was created, to wit: the Board of State Equalization and Apportionment, consisting of the three assessors already named and, besides, seven of the highest officials of the State. This board has the power to make arbitrary changes in the lists of county valuations that are presented to them by the State Assessors, and their final determination and distribution of gross valuations establishes the basis of distribution of the State tax levy for any given year.

The town of which we are citizens happening to be co-equal, and co-extensive with the county, its valuations are determined and adjusted for local purposes by a Board of Tax Commissioners who are aided in their duties by a corps of about a dozen deputy assessors. In the other counties of the State, excepting Kings, and perhaps some of the counties in which are situated the leading provincial cities, the assessment districts taper off to such small limits as to embrace as a minimum not more than two or three hundred tax payers. In these small communities the circumstances of each tax payer are likely to be well understood by the others, and hence there is less opportunity of concealing subjects of taxation than in larger towns and cities. Some idea however may be formed of the crude, bungling and inexplicable results that characterize, and we may say vitiate and taint the assessed valuations throughout the State by a scrutiny of the following table taken from the last report of the Comptroller of the State, which we prefer to incorporate in his own language as the most appropriate in which the story can be told.

"Notwithstanding the universal shrinkage in values, the assessed valuation of real estate by local assessors is constantly increasing.

In 1853 it was returned at.....	$1,015,762,791
In 1873 it was returned at.....	1,750,628,918
In 1876 it was returned at...	2,376,252,178

"It required twenty years of combined prosperity and inflation to increase the valuation of our real estate $700,000,000, whilst only three years of unmixed disaster and bankruptcy increases the valuations upwards of $600,000,000.

The figures would seem to demonstrate that adversity is more conducive to wealth than is prosperity."

The whole gravamen of the charge in respect to unequal State taxation lies just here: it is claimed that the practice prevails with the country assessors almost as an invariable rule of assessing as a taxable valuation one-third only of the market value of property; whereas, the Tax Commissioners of New York assert that their assessments represent at least sixty if not eighty-five per cent. of total value. In performing their duties the State assessors choose to place their own construction upon these various estimates of value; and possibly it may be interesting to our readers, as it will certainly furnish them with some idea of the perplexity of the problem presented to these State assessors, if we refer to a table which has already been published showing the ratios used by local assessors, and the ratios adopted by State assessors for the same counties.

	Ratio of assessed value to total value used by Local Assessors.	Ratio of assessed value to total value used by State Assessors.

It is claimed that the State assessors, in exercise of the plenary powers conferred upon them, arbitrarily and despotically choose to consider the valuations established by country assessors to be one-half instead of one-third total valuation; whereas, the claim of the city Tax Commissioners, that they have valued taxable property in this city at sixty per cent. of its value, is entirely repudiated by the State assessors, who claim that such valuations do not represent more than fifty per cent. of such total valuations. That is they level up the city valuations and level down the country valuations.

The State Board of equalization and apportionment, acting upon the representations of the State Assessors are guilty of further acts of autocratic and arbitrary power, in apportioning these various valuations. It will probably be seen that the country valuations, instead of being placed at three times the sums assessed by the local assessors, are thereby placed at only twice these amounts, whereas, the city valuations, though claimed to be in the neighborhood of seventy-five per cent of actual values, are treated as if they were one-half said values, and in this wise, there is a large reduction upon the country valuations, equal to one-third of the total established and sworn to by the local assessors, and a correspondingly heavy addition made to the valuation for this city, the amounts assessed by our own commissioners being doubled in order to obtain the full valuation, whereas, it is alleged, the result thus obtained amounts to from one hundred and twenty to one hundred and fifty per cent of our entire taxable property.

This, we may say, is the gist of the quarrel that has been so persistently and actively waged before the State Board of Equalization. The implements of this warfare are principally tables of numerals, and its strategy consists in fulfilling the adage that, "figures will prove anything." Re volving tables of numerals are presented in kaleidoscopic arrangement to demonstrate given conclusions. All sorts of unkind and unhandsome things are said about the State Board of Equalization, and very naughty acts are alleged against the State and local assessors. For example that the three State assessors were taken from three separate country counties, and immediately upon their accession to office, it was found that the total valuation of each of these counties was considerably reduced, although the proof was not wanting that there had been a very marked increase in the wealth of those very counties.

Although the whole argument in this discussion rests upon assessors returns, and upon the enforcement and construction of the tax laws, nevertheless, it is freely alleged on both sides that the law is treated throughout the State as practically a dead letter; that valuations are imposed arbitrarily and without reference to any fixed or reliable data; and that the lists of valuations are sworn to by the several local assessors in a manner which it is believed would render them liable to indictment for perjury. In fact, one country assessor, more scrupulous or sensitive than the rest, actually resigned his office on the ground that it was impossible for him to make up and swear to any list that would be likely to conform to the existing law, and come within the qualifications of the prescribed oath. If not the first, this is certainly the most prominent case where litigants or controversialists have set out to impeach the very testimony on which they propose finally to establish their cases. But this, nevertheless, is what is done in this great controversy in respect to State taxation. We are met throughout the discussion with the statement of the impossibility of administering the present laws with respect to personal taxation, for the reason that the tax-payer's oath as to the amount of personal property, which he might hold subject to taxation, is totally unreliable and untrustworthy. At the same time, it is tacitly admitted, if not openly charged, that the oaths of the official assssors verifying their tax lists are empty formalities, and are really of no account whatever, their perfunctory or merely formal character being justified by the consideration that such verifications are not likely to deceive anybody.

We can readily see that the assessed valuations in country districts are interesting to the local tax-payers not for their aggregate, but for their distributive effect among individuals. That is, if all the tax-payers of a town assemble together, and give in, in person, or allow themselves to be assessed, just, honest, and true valuations, of their taxable possessions, it matters little to the individual tax payers whether one-tenth, one-quarter, one-half, or whether the whole amount of taxable values be taken as the basis of the local tax levy.

It is even supposable that these countrymen might assess their property at its full value, and to gratify their rural pride might unwittingly consent to state it as only a fraction of the whole, in order to represent their borough as being more wealthy than it really is. At all events, in these small communities, there is altogether less danger of evasion, concealment and misrepresentation than in cities. Whatever proportion the sum of their assessment may bear to the whole intrinsic value of taxable property, it is quite certain that as between individual tax-payers the apportionment is likely to be equitable and just.

There is no pretense of any such equalization of assessed valuations in the city. Here the commissioners claim that their total is either sixty per cent. or eighty-five per cent.—they don't know which—of real estate values; while it is known that in regard to personal estate, the assessed valuations have been allowed to dwindle to an almost inappreciable sum, the amount being assessed in the proportion of one half to real estate mortgages, and the other half in unequal proportions to organized capital and personal capital, and the total representing but two hundred millions, as the taxable personal property of the third city in the world. It would exhibit an uncomfortable degree of ignorance or stupidity to assert that the present total of two hundred million represents anything more than ten per cent. of the aggregate taxable personal property in this city.

With respect to real estate valuations, while it may be true that the aggregate represents a large fraction of entire value, it is believed by the best authorities and experts to represent not more than fifty per cent., or one half; and, then, in making up this average percentage there are inequalities of valuation ranging from fifteen per cent. to 150 per cent. of total value. Consequently, the claim of our tax commissioners, that the assessed valuations in this city represent no less than sixty per cent. of the total, can hardly be accepted as true or fair. The decision of the question, after all, turns upon the authenticity of the various assessor's returns, upon the credibility of their oaths and upon the mutual relation of the various totals of value thus set up. We confess that the solution of this problem is altogether a baffling and bewildering task, and it would seem as though no just or acceptable conclusion could be arrived at, upon the data presented, and that a fair settlement could only be reached by some process other than the one which has been heretofore tried, to wit, of first impeaching testimony, and then reasoning upon it. This new process of settlement must originate in considerations altogether extrinsic to those which have found a place in past controversies.

That the argument presented by our city tax commissioners is considered faulty and inconclusive by the State Board of Equalization, is shown from the fact that its premises and suggestions were practically ignored and disregarded in its final action, and, instead of any reduction being made in the city valuation, an increase was actually imposed upon it. While this action of the State Board may seem to be unjustifiable in the light of the published returns, we must remember that the privilege has been claimed by contestants of going behind these particular returns, and demonstrating their utter falseness. Under these circumstances we cannot see what other course was left open for the State Board to pursue, than that of arbitrarily adjusting and apportioning the gross valuation in accordance with their own unbiased and unprejudiced, though, perhaps, preconceived notions of what was meet and proper, and according to general principles of abstract right and justice. That some country counties have lately increased their valuations, is no valid argument in favor of the city view of the case, but an admonition for the city to do likewise. We think there would be no difficulty in proving that this city is possessed of total taxable values in both real and personal estate aggregating at least three thousand millions of dollars, and when we are doomed by the State Board to pay one half the State tax, it is probably no more than our honest share of the obligation.

The difficulties surrounding the adjustment of this question really reside in the defectiveness of our present tax law, and probably will never be cured short of a radical reconstruction of that document. Various measures have been proposed with the view of satisfactorily solving this problem. One proposition that attracted considerable attention at one time, was to abandon all taxation of personal capital, and levy taxation upon a gross valuation made up of the full market value of real estate, to which should be added besides a valuation equal to three times the rental value of improved property, and also a certain amount of organized capital. This foolish scheme has been consigned to the oblivion which it richly merited, and although emanating from well-known and prominent gentlemen, may certainly be set down as a most lame and impotent conclusion upon a topic of prime importance.

Another proposition, and one which gained for itself considerable notoriety and applause, was to remove taxation off personal estate entirely, and permit the State to collect its tax from certain specified objects instead of by apportioning it among the various counties. The fact is, whatever appearance of merit this scheme possessed at its inception has been taken away from it since by the whirligig of time, the benefits, which as was so volubly promised were to result from its adoption have been already attained in the ordinary course of affairs, and without any disturbance of organic laws, to wit: the large reduction of State taxation by the economies of recent State administrations, and the reduction of the current rate of interest on mortgage loans to six per cent. through plethora of money. The total exemption of personal property with no provision for drawing taxation from other objects than real estate, may be set down as an unwise and intolerable suggestion. Besides, nothing could be more obnoxious and un-republican than the proposition of setting apart certain objects of taxation for a direct State levy, when in all likelihood these very objects would be largely identified with our city, and such a levy would constitute separate tax upon our people. It is objectionable, also, to multiply tax-gatherers. We have federal and municipal ones already, and they are enough. Moreover it is contrary to sound democratic usage, maxims and traditions to permit the State to levy direct tax on the people. The existing method of collection is a time honored, wise, judicious and salutary one, and one which we hope may never be changed or disturbed, namely that of apportioning State taxation among the various counties, and compelling the counties to incorporate it in their budgets.

Without claiming to be wise above our fellows, or possessing any peculiar skill in the handling of this question, we will venture to submit two propositions, which may at least be as worthy of consideration as any preceding ones that have been offered in connection with this subject.

1. Discarding the basis of the assessors' returns, which are admitted to be unreliable and untrustworthy, let New York City bargain with the balance of the State for a fixed and invariable division of State taxation. It is a disgraceful spectacle for a great metropolis like New York, whose wealth flows in bounteous streams from every quarter of the globe, and every section of the country, to be haggling with country fellow-citizens in reference to a few dollars of State taxation. Those persons are entitled to neither commendation nor reward who have devoted their abilities to an attempt to wrest from the feeble and impecunious towns of the interior a greater share of State taxation than they have been accustomed to pay. By actual figures we think it may be demonstrated that the taxable wealth of this City is equal to, if not greater, than that of all the rest of the State together. The question is not one which can be settled by per capita distribution or by apportionment as to acreage. It is a tax which should be assessed upon moral and abstract grounds. Not only the possession of wealth, but the capacity for producing it, should be the main elements of the calculation; and to the largest extent should the consideration be taken into account of the need of legislative protection and assistance. In this view of the case we would suggest that a proposition be made to our country fellow citizens, that if they will encourage and promote impartial and fair consideration in the legislature for the interests of the City of New York, the City will cheerfully undertake to bear one-half of the State tax.

2. More generously still, instead of placing New York in the position of the eldest brother in a wealthy English family, who has already entered into the fruition of his right of primogeniture and who then attempts to saddle on the other members of the family a pro rata of the expense of maintaining the household, let New York, showing a different spirit, propose to the State, that if the State Capital be removed to New York and the State canals be made free the city will then charge itself in return for the benefits which it is likely to derive from these measures with the payment of the whole amount of State taxation.

At any rate under the present wise and capable administration of the State government, there is every likelioood that this item of State taxation will dwindle to such a trifling amount as to render further discussion of its apportionment an unfruitful and idle task and the zealous and persistent agitators of this subject will be left as orators without themes.

THE HYGIENICS OF BUILDING.

III.

WATER SUPPLY.—Despite adverse criticism it is still the pride and boast of New York to be situated in close proximity to an abundant and wholesome water supply. We mean to say that such are its characteristics at its source. Until a comparatively recent period the delivery of this supply was sufficient in quantity for the use of the city and the purity of its fountainhead remains unchallenged. That its volume has appeared recently to be failing is due rather to the fact that we have outgrown the early appliances of delivery just as we have outgrown the street car and the omnibus. Additional supply is really only a matter of providing enlarged or supplemental mechanical contrivances for its delivery. The Croton is pure and wholesome at its springs, but owing to accidents of delivery, arising principally from conditions which exist around the fountain sources and in channels of conduit, it becomes contaminated and vitiated before it reaches the point of consumption. The questions of interest then are, how can these mechanical impurities be removed? and when removed will the water be restored to its pristine purity? It may be classed among the vices of our ignorant and careless population, that they are contented to imbibe the Croton water without raising any question as to its purity or impurity. The believers in its continued purity after delivery had better visit the region of the Croton water-shed and trace its course through reservoirs, aqueducts, basins and mains until its final delivery. The slightest investigation will demonstrate the desirability of its complete filtration before being used for household purposes or introduced into the human system. Any one of the various devices for filtering will serve this purpose. The preference should be given to those intended to be applied at the main house service, so that the water may be filtered under pressure, and the entire volume subjected to reliable filtration. The delivery of water in the street main by the Croton Board and the tapping of this main for the owner of a building complete the relations between the owner and these municipal officers, except the reservation and payment of an annual rent. The appliances for utilizing this supply are furnished by the plumber or sanitary engineer, so called, a much berated and stigmatized individual.

The merit or demerit of plumbing lies more in the quality of workmanship than in the quality of materials or style of fixtures, though all of these elements are essential to mechanical and scientifle excellence. Good materials and costly fixtures serve but a poor purpose when put together by unskilful mechanics. Lighter materials and plainer fixtures may serve every useful, desirable and reasonable purpose when skilfully put together. The Croton Board allows a tap of five-eighths of an inch for each building, but after the main is once tapped with an orifice of this calibre we may immediately attach a supply pipe of any size. The calibre usually called for in good work is from one inch to an inch and a half diameter. The size of the service must be proportionate to the quantity of water intended to be used. The greater the calibre the greater the volume supplied. Difference in calibre of main does not necessarily affect the head or pressure since water will always reach its natural level. A small pipe supplying many outlets below the water level will naturally loose more of its force than a large pipe doing the same service. For family purposes the main supply should be of at least one inch calibre and of the very best quality of pipe, called A A by the trade. Branch services may be made of A pipe, and for ordinary drain pipes, such as the waste from basins and tubs, a quality as low as B pipe may be used. All pipe below this latter quality is unfit for use in dwellings.

After specifying quality of pipe and character of workmanship there is, in fact, but little more to be said in reference to household plumbing, except as to the various fixtures.

The inadequacy of the Croton pressure to reach the upper stories of many of our dwellings compels us to resort to the use of tanks placed at a proper elevation, which must be filled by a force pump or by that ingenious apparatus called the automatic pump. When the tank is used it becomes necessary to have a double boiler in order to supply hot water from the tank pressure.

Respecting kitchen sinks, wash basins and bath tubs, there is small choice as to styles since they are quite stereotyped and really admit of but little variation. Those complicated devices for supply through the waste outlet, intended to dispense with supply cocks, are objectionable in use. Of wash tubs there is quite an interesting variety. There are wooden tubs, slate tubs, marble tubs, soap stone tubs, enamelled iron tubs and finally crockery tubs. The choice, however, really lies between the first and the last. The wooden tubs are the least expensive and are easily kept in order until they literally wear out. In the early stages of decay they can be caulked and repaired. The principal objection to their use is that they contract in time a disagreeable odor which is apt to defy any attempt at disinfection.

The crockery tubs are cast in a solid form or set of triplets, and are by far the cleanest contrivance ever designed for the purpose. The only objection to them is that they are very expensive. The mineral tubs, such as slate, marble and soap stone are objectionable as having a tendency to chill the water, besides being rarely found in a water tight condition. The difficulty of properly caulking the joints is an insuperable obstacle to their general use.

The enamelled iron tub is very attractive when new, but through exposure to sudden changes of temperature the enamel is apt to crack off and leave the iron uncovered. This soon becomes rusty and unsuited for laundry purposes.

The chief interest in plumbing fixtures, after all, centres in the water closet—by far the most important fixture that is set up in a house. The time-honored pattern is the pan closet supplied from a cistern. This style has held its ascendency almost undisputed for generations in the minds of plumbers and householders, but at last has met with a competitor which threatens to destroy its supremacy. The objections to the pan cistern closet are the inadequate volume of water delivered in the bowl as at present adjusted and the certainty owing to its funnel shape that deposits in the bowl will smear and slime the surface of it. These two-fold objections give rise to a nasty appearance and ensure the pollution of the closet atmosphere. Another objection is the decay of the pan through absorption of gases and the action of acids, also the smallness of the water seal usually contained in this pan. From constant use, the hinge of the pan grows weak and it is apt to drop and tip thus completely unsealing the bowl, and admitting into the apartment the gases generated in the iron container or receiver on which the crockery bowl rests.

Modern taste in plumbing seems to favor the introduction of what are called valve closets—those in which the Croton supply is furnished by means of a valve cock, and the volume of water retained in the bowl, after use, is also determined by the action of a nicely adjusted valve. The variable and unreliable pressure of the Croton water renders the action of the valve cock an uncertain matter. We are compelled to say, from our acquaintance with the subject, that the valve cock system is far from perfect, and its introduction thus far has not been attended with satisfactory results. The prejudice against the pan closet, however, is decidedly a growing one, and the popularity of the English valve closets is on the ascending scale.

The feature of the improved closets is a spacious broad-bellied bowl, the outlet to which is opened or closed by a plunger resting on a rubber or porcelain seating. This plunger controls the water supply, and when in position makes a water-tight and air-tight seal at the outlet. The supply to these closets is so arranged as to deliver over two gallons of water into the bowl after the plunger is dropped in its socket. The great recommendation of these bowls is their capacity for containing a broad volume of water. Fæcal matter floats suspended in this body of water and fails to slime the surface of the bowl, and is carried down the drain-pipe in a semi-fluid or soluble state by this sure and efficient system of water carriage, resembling a miniature Niagara. When these closets are used in connection with a cistern of liberal dimensions so as to insure the delivery of at least three gallons of water as an after-wash or residuum every time the handle is raised, the maximum merit of water closet fixture will then be attained.

THE "BELLA" APARTMENT HOUSE.

All of our readers will remember the miserable old Fourth Avenue Depot and its adjoining rookeries on Twenty-sixth street, where milk cars used to abound and the entire farming interest of Westchester County used to revel in dirt and nastiness, when that block was the terminus of the Harlem Railroad. On turning that identical corner now, one almost forgets that it is the same locality, so completely has the southwest corner of Fourth avenue and Twenty-sixth street been metamorphosed by Mr. Oswald Ottendorfer, the well-known proprietor of the leading German newspaper in the United States. On a site covering fifty feet on the avenue and 150 feet on Twenty-sixth street he has erected an apartment house called "Bella," after his much loved daughter, and which rivals in architecture, style and fittings, the very best of that class of houses erected during the past ten years. It certainly has all of the elaboration of the Stevens building, and presents along the street an appearance equally imposing as the Albany or Saratoga. The architect, Mr. William Schickel, has succeeded, with the aid of the very best artistic talent and mechanical skill, in erecting, not only a first-class apartment house, but an edifice that is really an ornament to that section of the city. The "Bella's" exterior is of Philadelphia brick, with Dorchester stone trimmings which, in combination with the red brick, forms a most pleasant contrast. All the stone was cut to order by James Gillies, at 50th street and North River, and the master builder Marc Eidlitz claims, that in the erection of the building more bricks were laid than can be found in any other structure of equal size.

The grand entrance is on Twenty-sixth street, where a low stoop affords ready access, through a roomy vestibule, to the spacious hall. The polished granite columns on the front are from Quincy, Massachusetts, while whatever of iron-work has been used in the construction has been obtained from the Cornells in Centre street. Two large stores on the corner, to be occupied by the Municipal Gaslight Company, do not in the least detract from the appearance of the building as viewed from Twenty-sixth street, where it rises in its artistic grouping of masses to the fifth story as a building exclusively devoted to domestic life and comfort. The main entrance hall, laid in marble tiles by Brahm & Loderose, of 211 East Twenty-second street, who have also furnished all the marble work throughout the building, including nine Italian mantels, at once reveals the fact that the "Bella" divides itself naturally into two sections, each consisting of two sets of apartments on each floor. One section is the Fourth avenue wing, the other section is on Twenty-sixth street. In all there are eighteen different suites. Each suite has one entrance to the main staircase, and every room in the house has windows opening to the outside. In fact, the flood of light is perfectly amazing for an apartment house. Sun and air abound everywhere, in the kitchens as well as in the parlors, and while of course the excellent locality of the building has a great deal to do with this, it must be admitted that Mr. Schickel has taken advantage of it in such manner that not even the least suggestion can be made how he could possibly have secured more air and more light for each suite of rooms.

Before entering upon the details of the various suites we should say that Messrs. Grissler & Faussel, of East Seventeenth street, furnished from their own manufactory all the wood work throughut the building, to the entire satisfaction of the owner, who is well pleased with the character of the work performed by this firm, one of the largest manufacturers of wood in this country. The floors from cellar to roof have been deadened by the liberal use of Schillinger's cement, and the entire building is thoroughly fire-proof.

Several innovations have been introduced in the fitting up of the various apartments. The heating put in by Gillis & Geoghegan is by direct radiation from steam pipes, but in the larger rooms open fireplaces with fine ornamental grates from W. H. Jackson & Co., in Union Square, have been provided in addition. This firm has furnished for the building forty-eight grates of rich bronze with nickel trimmings, and panels and English fenders. The mantle pieces have been specially designed, and J. Ziegler & Co., of 32 Bleecker street, have succeeded in placing there some fine specimens in wood. Over each mantle piece is a large plate glass mirror, the full width of the chimney breast. The bedrooms are all provided with wardrobes, finished in hard wood making elegant pieces of furniture.

The plumber, Thomas J. Byrne, of 253 Fourth avenue, has supplied a constant and plentiful supply of hot water for laundry and culinary purposes from a boiler in the celler, the usual kitchen boilers for each separate range being happily avoided. Mr. Byrne has also looked after the gas arrangements, the gas fixtures having been designed by the architect himself with direct reference to the rooms they occupy. Mr. Byrne has also looked carefully after the sewerage of the entire building. The waste and soil pipes run to the roof—the soil pipe measuring not less than four inches, while the main soil pipe from the closet measures not less than five inches, and is so arranged that any trap waste is impossible.

The elevators, provided by Hale, have been conveniently placed in separate shafts, instead of rising in the staircase-well as usual. This will enable visitors to study more closely the ornamental balusters of the stairs, made specially by the Messrs. Lamb, of Carmine street, whose excellent workmanship we are happy to welcome outside of a church edifice. Of course our readers are aware that Mr. Hale's elevators are run by hydraulic power, without any outlay of manual labor. As a precaution against fire, the elevators are run in brick shafts.

Workmen are now engaged in frescoing the halls and the lofty ceilings, Messrs. Artman & Fechteler, of 956 Sixth avenue, putting their very best artistic skill, especially on the main hall. This will give to the entrance, along with the rich newel posts by Lamb, and the bronze balusters, an exceedingly impressive coup d'oeil.

Throughout the "Bella" nothing has been omitted to secure the utmost in the way of privacy and comfort, speaking trumpets by Newman & Capron communicating with the janitor's office, who, in addition, has charge of the reception room on the first floor. A porter is also to have charge of a small room in the immediate vicinity of the main entrance. Tenants of the "Bella" will find here a building, which in addition to its convenient rooms, furnishes a janitor in the true sense of the word, not a menial who is a mere porter, but a man of business, who takes charge of all the business of the house, rents its suites, receives the money therefore, and furnishes receipts. Mr. Ferguson, the gentleman selected for that post, has heretofore filled responsible positions in large edifices and he knows what now-a-days is required from a janitor. His room and office is in the rear of the main hall, and that of the porter in front on the side of the vestibule.

The dimensions of some of the principal parlors are 15x22, of the dining rooms 13x17½, while there are two courts affording light even to those rooms not facing on the street. The rents asked by Mr. Ottendorfer range from $750 to $2,000 per annum, and he has been so successful in his management of the same thus far that out of the eighteen suites of apartments only one suite remained unrented when the writer visited the building recently, while at the time several applicants called upon the janitor and were disgusted to find that everything had been disposed of. The entire cost of the building is about $170,000, and so convienently located in the vicinity of clubs, theatres and the heart of the city, that no better investment can possibly be found anywhere in New York.

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The sales held at the Exchange Salesroom during the week were numerous and some of them important. The chief interest centered in the sale of an extensive list of improved and unimproved property by order of the executors of John D. Lewis, deceased. Below will be found the details of the sale.

The following private sales are reported, showing considerable activity in the general market: Geo. D. Archer, of No. 5 East Fifty-second street, has sold the four-story brown stone house with lot known as No. 399 Madison avenue, northeast corner of Forty-first street, to Mrs. Fannie I. Helmuth, for $15,000. Two lots, each excavated, on the south side of Fifty-eighth street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, have been sold by Theron R. Butler to Thomas McManus, at $18,000 each. The Messrs. Lynde have sold the last two of the six houses built by them on East Fifty-sixth street, near Fifth avenue, each in size 20x65x100.5, at $33,500 each; one to Francis P. Freeman and the other to Joseph Packard. The Messrs. O'Reilly have sold their new house on West Fortieth street, opposite Reservoir Park, to Mr. Curtis, for $50,000, and G. N. Williams has sold one of his houses on East Sixty-eighth street, near Madison avenue, for $29,000. Five lots on the northwest corner of Sixth avenue and Fifty-sixth street have been sold by the Messrs. Scholle Bros. to Jacob Campbell. The price is not stated but supposed to be in the neighborhood of $85,000. It is understood that Mr. Campbell intends to erect model apartments and stores at an early day. It is said that S. L. Bradley has sold his fine apartment building on Fifty-ninth street to Counsellor H. A. Mott, on terms which have not yet transpired.

The sale of the valuable and improved property belonging to Josiah Jex, attention to which was invited in our last report, will take place on the 28th inst. A full description of the property offered appears in our advertising columns.

Seventeen plans embracing twenty-six buildings, the estimated cost of which is $502,700, were filed with the Superintendent of the Building Department, during the week ending March 21. Among such plans appears one for the erection of the six-story Nova Scotia stone and brick apartment house on Seventh avenue, between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth streets. Several weeks ago the attention of our readers was directed to the fact that Mr. Edwin Clark proposed to erect this structure.

The following are the sales at the Exchange Sales room for the week ending March 13:

Bleecker st (No. 323), e s, two story and attic brick house, 19.10x76.3, to George W. Sherwood $9,200

Canal st (No. 508), s s, 61 w Greenwich st, three-story brick house, 19x88x4x82, to Philip Bayer 6,450

Chatham st (No. 46), w s, four-story brick building with lease of lot; Corporation lease, May 1, 1878, term 10 years, ground rent $1,300 per annum, to Edward Place.. 6,900

Delancey st (No. 118), n s, 25 e Essex st, five-story brick store and tenement, 25x50.11, to Benjamin W. Floyd and E. W. Burr (trustees and plaintiffs). (Amount due about $10,950) 10,000

East Broadway (No. 156), n s, 79.2 w Rutgers st, three story and attic brick house, with lease of lot 25x65 .....

Canal st (Nos. 32 and 34), s s, in rear of above, two two-story frame houses, with lease of lot 30x50x25x60 ..... leased May 1, 1877, term 10 years; ground rent $600 per annum, to Alfred Clark..... 4,600

Fitch st, s s, 40 w Madison av, 25x108, to Albert Ayres (plaintiff). (Amount due about $4,125) 3,500

Horatio st (No. 8), s s, bet Greenwich and 8th avs, two-story building, 16.8x87.6, to Wm. Grant 5,700

Hudson st (Nos. 603 and 605), w s, 50.8 s West 12th st, brick cottage and office, with plot 31.7x76x32.1x72.4, to George R. Read..... 9,000

Jane st (No. 9), n s, 130.4 w Greenwich av, four-story brick house, and three-story brick building in rear, 25x87.6, to James O'Donnell 8,200

Jay st (No. 3), n s, bet Hudson and Greenwich sts, two-story frame (brick front) store and dwelling, 21.9x58.10x24.1x58.9, to J. W. Dimick. (Amount due about $5,900) 6,550

Madison st (No. 414), s e cor Grand st, three-story frame (brick front) dwelling, 25x99.7, to Henry Huschild. (Amount due about $7,125) 6,175

Old slip (No. 25), w s, five-story brick store, 29.6x30, to William Rose (trustee and plaintiff). (Amount due about $6,000).... 6,000

11th st, s s, 143.7 e 6th av, runs east 13.3 x south 94.10 x west 35.8 x north 60.4 x west 4.1 x northeast 43.6 to point of beginning, to L. J. Callanan..... 4,800

11th st (No. 124), s s, 156.10 e 6th av, three-story brick dwelling, 22x94.10, to L. J. Callanan. (Amount due about $9,575) 10,600

11th st (No. 122), s s, 178.10 e 6th av, three-story brick dwelling, 22x94.10, to L. Mulry. (Amount due about $9,500) 10,700

11th st (No. 120), s s, 200.10 e 6th av, three-story brick dwelling, 22x94.10, to Sophia Sterns. (Amount due about $9,300)..... 10,500

19th st (No. 157), n s, 417.4 w 6th av, three-story brick house, 20.5x92, to George R. Read 6,500

19th st (No. 38), s s, 242 w 4th av, four-story stone front dwelling, 22x92, to Edwin T. Butler (plaintiff). (Amount due about $32,500)..... 28,492

23d st, n s, 506 w 9th av, four-story building, with lease of lot 22x117.6, lease dated May 2, 1866, term 20 years, to Union Mutual Life Ins. Co. (plaintiff). (Amount due about $11,700)..... 6,000

25th st (No. 211), n s, bet 7th and 8th avs, three-story brick house, 21x98.9, to Jeremiah Pangburn 10,985

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICK.—The market for Common Hards has undergone no very decided change since our last. Buyers may possibly be able to show a trifle more advantage, but without reducing the upper limit of valuation, and on really fine stock holders n ake some little show of steadiness. The offering has been composed in the main of inferior and washed lots, but the crowding off of these at a low rate cannot be accepted as a basis for merchantable stock, indeed arrivals in the aggregate have been smaller, and it is understood that manufacturers, appreciating the unprepared condition of the market consequent upon the mild winter and early opening of navigation, are inclined to withhold supplies for a more propitious demand. Of this there is as yet only indications, but these appear to be encouraging, and our principal dealers are calculating upon a pretty good trade before the new crop makes its appearance. Some of the very interior lots were sold at $4.25@4.50 ₱ M, but for general run of supplies $4 75@5.25 for "Up Rivers" and $5.25@5.75 for "Haverstraws" are about fair quotations. Pales have shown most weekness, the supply proving very full, the demand extremely moderate, and even at a concession, the sales slow. As low as $2.25 has been accepted and it requires the best of quality to reach $2.75 ₱ M. The outlet for all kinds has been almost entirely local, no shipping orders coming to hand. We hear nothing further said about the anticipated demand for the Provinces. For most Fronts there is a light, uncertain call and nominally the same range of prices.

We quote Pale, ₱ M., $2.25@2.75; Hards, Up-rivers, $4.75@5.25; Haverstraw bay, $5 25@5.50; favorite brands, $5 75@6.00; Fronts, Croton—brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $23@27; Baltimore, $31@38.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5 00@6.00 on fronts.

CEMENT.—Demand does not improve on local account to any extent, and receivers can scarcely place the amounts coming to hand, which if not particularly large are sufficient to form a surplus against the very limited outlet. Some shipping orders, however, are being obtained from the south, and recent freight engagements were made for Baltimore at 13c. per bbl. from here, and 18c. do. from Rondout. On price the tone naturally is weak, and since our last there has been a decline of 10c. per bbl., bringing the cost down to 90c. here and 80c. at the "creek." Foreign is in moderately active demand with an irregular tone on prices, the advantage mainly in buyer favor.

HARDWARE.—Much the same old report may be given. On local account there is a small jobbing call extant, covering about the ordinary assortment of standard goods, but no anxiety among buyers, or intention to anticipate their wants. Out of town orders being fair and still promise further growth, with dealers correspondingly encouraged, though expectations of a full business this spring do not appear to be quite so general. In the majority of cases prices are sustained to a steady level, but occasional intimations of cutting are given. On Butts a little irregularity exists, and Box wood and Ivory rules also favor the buyer. The nominal discounts are 60 and 10 per cent. on the former, and 50 and 10 per cent. on the latter, but it is understood that buyers are constantly obtaining 5@10 per cent. better terms.

LATH.—Demand has been moderate and uncertain, and the tone of the market heavy with lower prices accepted especially where buyers could be found willing to handle full parcels. Consumption generally is moderate, but many dealers were almost or entirely out of supplies, and by peddling small invoices to this class of buyers $1.85 per M. was obtained in some cases. This, however, subsequently became an extreme, and as low as $1.75 was accepted, though latter a cargo of St. John lath brought $1 80, which may be considered as about the wholesale rate.

LIME.—There has been no further change on price reported since our last, and the wholesale rates for eastern remain at 80c. and $1 for common, and lump respectively. Demand, however, does not improve, and the arrivals, while not what would be called large under ordinary circumstances, prove quite as much as wanted and to some extent have to be carried. Lime, in fact, like all other building material, feels the unfavorable influence of an unusually early opening of the season after a mild winter, when about all old work is completed, and contractors not as yet prepared to commence on new work. State lime is selling slowly in small lots at about 75c. for common and $1 for finishing.

LUMBER.—Business commences to look a little brighter in some respects, and while a portion of our dealers do not as yet find the attendance of customers quite as full as could be wished for, even at this season, the fact that others are doing a somewhat better trade leads to the hope that the improvement may soon become general. Manufacturing interests give signs of slight revival, and the work planned in the way of building operations will, if carried out, lead to considerable consumption, and we find that the belief is comparatively general that contractors really intend to do more work and less talking than last season. As a great deal of the demand, however, will be dependent upon the cheapness of lumber, it is evident that no immediate reaction on prices can be successfully maintained, and a larger portion of the principal dealers will, for the present, be satisfied if they can secure a more liberal movement for their stocks and give prices a stronger basis. The early opening of navigation has as yet had no decided influence upon the position, but naturally the tendency is not to stimulate, in view of the larger amount of stock made available. Our latest market reports from the west were of strong tenor and indicated a general inclination to mark up prices, but there seems to be an impression among our dealers that late storms of snow have changed the prospects of the log crop materially and that in many sections banking and running will now become possible to the full extent of the cut, if the lumbermen so desire.

Eastern spruce has an unsettled tone but hardly so much strength on values as heretofore, buyers becoming rather more cautious as the season p ogresses. Consumptive wants are just as great, on the increase, if anything, but a larger number of cargoes are naturally expected and the inclination is to postpone purchases until the last moment. The credit question from present appearances, seems likely to come forward somewhat prominently again this season, and will no doubt have a decided bearing on prices. Since our last, some sales of slightly undesirable stock have been made at $1 @3.50, and 15, now appear, to be about the top for random cargoes. We quote at $13.00@$15.00 for random, possibly $15.25 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $14.00@16.00 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White Pine remains about steady and in fair demand, but without specially noticeable features at the moment. On local account the distribution had increased somewhat and the export outlook is slightly more promising, but the prospect of obtaining offsetting supplies is better and acts as a coun erpoise against any great addition to values. At the moment the trade seems to think the western lumbermen have a better chance to verify their annual claim of a short log crop than for many years, but feel no alarm about high prices. We quo e at $15@17 per M. for West India shipping boards; $19 50@20.50 for South American do; $15@16 for box boards; $17 for do. wide and sound; and timber at $16@18 per M.

Yellow Pine shows no great change, except that one or two dealers report a little better demand for special bills on local or nearby account, and good desirable parcels of flooring boards are also wanted to some extent. Export calls for cargoes to go on direct are occasionally developed, but not to a fully encouraging extent. Receipts here have not been quite so large as for the corresponding period last month, as some of the contracts for railroad work have been about filled. We quote random cargoes at $19@22 per M.; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do; green flooring boards, $21@23 do; and dry do. do. $23@24. Cargoes at the South, $14@16.50 p r M; hewn timber, $7.50@14.

Hardwoods have not been very active on home account, but now and then a fair order is received, and there is indications that manufacturers in some cases are rather anxious to secure supplies. Exports of maple and black walnut continue to a fair amount. We quo e at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $77@85 ₱ M; ash, $33@36 do; oak, $3 @40 do.; maple, $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d $3 @35; do., do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $45@.5 do.; white wood, ¼ and ⅝ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $33@35 do.; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $40@50 for good nearby stock.

Yard distribution has been fair again, a little larger if anything; a great many calls for stuff required for repairs, alterations, etc., coming in, dealers however, had stock and assortment equal to all wants, and have been ready sellers at about former rates, especially under the offer of cash.

Among recent lumber charters, past last week we note the following:

An Am. Barque from Brunswick to Montevideo, lumber, $19 net, up river ports $3 extra; a Br. Barque 811 tons, from St. John, N. B. to Liverpool, Deals, 6fs. 6d., and Timber 22s. 6d.; a Schr., 209 tons, from Jacksonville to Martinique, Lumber, $7.50; a Schr., 284 tons, hence to Fernandina, $150, and back with Lumber, $5.60; a Schr., 142 tons, hence to St. Augustine and back from Jacksonville with Lumber, $9 for the round; a Schr., 230 M Lumber, from Pensacola to New York or the Sound, $7; a Schr., 350 M Lumber, from Pensacola to New York, $6 50; a Schr., 225 M Lumber, from Fernandina to New York, $5.50.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From Lumberman's Gazette as follows:

BAY CITY, Friday, March 15, 1878.

The market for lumber continues in the same unsettled condition as at our last report. The views of buyers and sellers are so wide apart that no sales of any consequence are made. Some manufacturers will sell at $6, $12 and $28, while others hold their stocks at $6.50@7, $13@14 and $28@30. There have been a number of Eastern buyers in the valley during the week, but as above stated no sales worthy of note have been made.

The advance in the price of lumber in the Western States does not affect rates here to any great extent, as the great bulk of Saginaw lumber finds its market east and south, and in those parts of the country the demand has not as yet been strong enough to make dealers at Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, &c., willing to pay prices asked by the manufacturers in the valley.

The log supply is still a question which lumbermen are trying to solve. At our last issue, we gave 35 per cent. as the probable amount banked at that date. The various railroads, tramways, slides, &c., which are being built will increase that estimate, but the next difficulty which the logger will have to encounter will be probably a scarcity of water for driving purposes. There is no snow in the woods to melt and heavy rains will be necessary. Lumbering this season has been of the most vexatious and trying character and has also been carried on at a much increased cost above that of former years, and the results of the winter's work have been decidedly unsatisfactory.

The wholesale quotations following are the prices at which manufacturers hold stocks.

Three uppers	$28 00@30 00
Common	12 00@14 00
Shipping culls	6 00@ 7 00
Lath	1 15@ 1 25

The Gazette's Chicago correspondent says:—The demand for all kinds of stock for the past week has been active and prices well maintained, with a tendency upwards, notwithstanding the continued almost impassable condition of the roads throughout a great part of the west. It is now very evident that this market will, for the coming year, have to supply, to a great extent, the treeless regions beyond the Mississippi, as her usual supply will doubtless fall short 60 to 70 per cent., while the supply of the whole pine regions of the north will fall short of expectations fully 40 to 50 per cent. The bulk of the demand for pine lumber is in that great treeless region throughout the Mississippi and Missouri valleys, and heretofore this demand, for years, has been supplied from the pineries of Wisconsin and Minnesota, and just now when this country demands the greatest supply of stock and a better quality than has heretofore been required, and is better able to pay for it, for she is developing rapidly. The pineries of the northwest cannot supply it, and the 600,000,000 feet deficit down the Mississippi will have to come from this market. There has never been a time in the history of this country when so many prosperous and well-to-do emigrants with money in their pockets, were moving to the far west as now and for the past two months. The central and western parts of Kansas and Nebraska are flooded with them and it takes much of the surplus products of these States to feed them. Aside from this fact the people west of the great river never needed lumber so much as they do now. They have bought little for three years and have grown richer all the time, and now that one of the staples of the great west is made a basis for the future prosperity and material greatness of the whole country, they feel encouraged and want to spread and grow like a green bay tree, and will make a demand on this market that will stimulate the trade of the whole country.

The harbor is open—in fact, it has been all winter—and the departure and arrival of vessels is of daily occurence, but I have no receipts of lumber to note as yet. The demand for the upper grades of stock from the east the past week has only been equaled by the demand for the more common grades from far distant western points, and before my next report look out for an advance all around here.

Four hundred thousand feet of fencing changed hands the past few days, at quotations, cash, to a shrewd dealer in the city.

From above source, the following items:

Sales of raft lumber at $13.50, $15.50 and $17.50, delivered at St. Louis, are reported from the Wisconsin river.

An advance, to take effect on March 18th, was made on some of the lower grades of lumber by the Cleveland dealers a few days ago.

Log driving on the Au Gres, Pine, Rifle, Chippewa, Tittabawssee and its tributaries, is being prosecuted, fair heads of water being reported on these streams.

The shipment of lumber by water from this river will open unusually early this season. Steamers have commenced running on the Huron shore route already.

The stock of logs secured for the Alpena mills is estimated at sixty-nine million feet, with a probability that twelve to twenty millions more will be got in on tramroads now building or projected.

The manufacturers and dealers in lumber at La Crosse have agreed to advance the price of common lumber one dollar a thousand, and to leave the prices of a higher grades unchanged. Common lumber is now worth $13.

Minneapolis lumber dealers have made a still farther advance in prices, common being now quoted there at $15 per thousand feet. The increase in price has been followed by the dealers at St. Paul, Stillwater, Winona and La Crosse. A still farther advance is said to be probable.

The Minneapolis Lumberman and Manufacturer as follows:

The shortage of the log crop is so definite and universal that, for once in a century, perhaps, there is no difference of opinion as to the propriety of better prices or the certainty of selling all the lumber which has been cut without supplying the demand of 1878. The only men who express any doubt of the wisdom of the recent advances are occasional exclusive shingle makers and the men who worked and sweat all last season to get rid of their lumber at $9 and $9.50 at Minneapolis and $7 in central Wisconsin, and have no stocks to sell now. Several of them seem to doubt the ability of dealers to maintain present figures, or advance again. Visions of grasshopper plagues, crop failures, disasters from floods and fires, Asiatic cholera, yellow fever, measles, itch, woman's rights, and a host of other reasons dance through the imaginations of these men until they are as nervous as a man with St. Vitus' dance.

The new crop of logs in the whole Mississippi valley is still footed up at 400,000,000 as an outside figure. Driving has commenced on the Black, Wisconsin, and eastern tributaries of the Chippewa. No large rise has taken place, but the rise of last week swelled some of the brooks a little, and the owners put crews on to break rollways and do a little at driving. On the Black they are blasting out rocks and other obstructions, and making a general preparation for a clean drive. If they get it, it will be by hard work and good luck. The enormous amount of old logs in the Chippewa renders the drive there difficult and doubtful. On the St. Croix they will reap the benefit of their extensive river improvements, dams, etc., and will get out their logs. The bulk of the crop on the upper Mississippi is in no danger of hanging up. Some anxiety is felt on the Wisconsin river about the great jam of logs on Grandfather Bull Falls, which will require a large rise to move.

Michigan has furnished nothing new, the general situation being the same as in the West, except that the crop of logs will be proportionally less than in the valley.

The Winona Republican reports enlargements in the lumber sawing capacity of that place which will double the product this season. The shipments and sales last season were: Lumber, 33,425,000 feet; shingles, 563,000; lath, 7,217,000.

Logging prospects are commented upon as follows. Green Bay Advocate:

The weather for the past week has been mainly marked by overcast skies, with occasional rain, and warm days and nights. If there were any logs to run, of any consequence, we would hear of there starting down this week. In lieu thereof, our lumbermen are getting trucks, with heavy, broad-faced wheels, ready to get logs out of the woods with. Some are building tram railways, either for horse or steam power. This is largely the case with the mills along the Wisconsin Central, and one firm at Stevens Point is at work on orders for 100 wheels for log trucks. Here in Green Bay, as many more, perhaps, are in course of manufacture.

Winona (Wis.) Republican:

At present the outlook of logs continues to discourage, and has resulted in the advance in prices in the lumber market which was noticed last week. There are enough logs of last winter's cut, now on the main Chippewa, to supply many of the river mills, and hopes are entertained that the spring rains will give the loggers a clean drive on the comparatively few logs that they have been able to bank this winter. But under the most favorable circumstances the few weeks that are left can do but little toward increasing the supply, or the chances of getting out the logs already cut.

The Eau Claire News says, that according to the closest estimates that can be made, the quantity of logs banked up to March 1st, on the Chippewa and its tributaries, is as follows: Eau Claire, 10,000,000; Flambeau, 33,458,000; Red Cedar, 31,500,000; Chippewa, 30,000,000; total, 104,958,000. To this amount may be added 215,000,000 feet of old logs left over, and we have the total 320,000,000 feet as the supply—providing there is a good drive—for the coming season, and the Chippewa Herald adds: The general impression seems to be that, on account of the lack of snow necessary to make a drive, of the 320,000,000 feet, not 100,000,000 will be received.

METALS.—COPPER.—Ingot has been only moderately active and without much strength on values, and buyers have become more indifferent since the prospect of an early re-opening of navigation through the straits. We quote at 17c@17¼c. for Lake. Manufactured Copper in light demand, and while the official or combination rates remain as before, there is said to be some cutting. We quote as follows: Brazier's Copper, ordinary sizes, over 16 oz., per square foot, 28c. per lb; do. do., do. do., 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per square foot, 30c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per square foot, 32c. per lb.; do. do., lighter than 10 oz., per square foot, 34c. per lb.; circles, less than 84 inches in diameter, 31c. per lb.; do. 84 inches diameter and over, 34c. per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 31c. per lb.; locomotive fire box sheets, 28c. per lb.; Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz., per square foot, 26c. per lb., and Bolt Copper 28c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig in very limited demand, and the market generally showing a dull and nominal condition. We quote at $23@26 per ton, according to brand and quantity. American pig is rather more sought after, but not active as yet, buyers and sellers being unable to agree upon terms. We quote at $18@19 for No. 1 per ton, $17@18 for No. 2 do, and $16@$17 for Forge. Rails have met with a very fair inquiry for both kinds and the tone of the market is steady all round, old rails in fair demand, and scrap iron moderately active. We quote at $31@35 for new iron, and $40@43 for Steel at the mills. Old Rails, $19@19.50 per ton; scrap, $22.00@23.00; the latter slow. Manufactured selling slowly and at about former rates. Common Merchant Bar can be had in round lots at 1.7c. and Refined at 1.9c., but for ten-ton lots from store, 1.9c. and 2.1c. are respectively insisted upon. Common sheet, 3c., and best R. G. American, 4c. from store. LEAD—Domestic pig not very active and the stock seeking a market is comparatively full, but, if anything holders views are a shade steadier. We quote at about 3¾@4c. currency. The manufacturers of lead are quoted: Bar, 5½c.; Pipe, 6c., and Sheet, 6½c. —less the usual discount to the trade; and Tin-lined Pipe, 15c. Block Tin Pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig selling slowly and showing an absence of decided strength on value. We quote at 17@17½c. for Banca, 14½@14¾c. for Straits, 13¾@14⅛c for English Refined, and 13⅝@14⅝c. for do. common. Tin plates slow and uncertain, but held about as before. Spelter dull, slow and weak at 5¼@5½c. Sheet Zinc in limited demand and only barely steady in price. We quote at 7⅝@7¾c. gold for foreign and 6¾@6⅞ currency for domestic.

NAILS.—There is not much change on the market. The demand now and then spurts up a trifle, but shows no positive or continuous activity, and notwithstanding the reduction of the product sellers can gain no important advantage. We quote on a basis of $2.60 per keg for 10 to 60d.

OILS.—The demand for consumption does not vary to any great extent, as most buyers adhere closely to the hand to mouth policy, and simply take from day to day the amount of stock they think they can handle to immediate advantage. Prices about steady. Linseed oil quoted at 60@62c. from crushers hands.

PAINT.—A moderately active trade appears to be doing in all standard goods, and the tone of the market in a general way rules about steady. Some dealers express disappointment of the spring trade, but the distribution has evidently been in full proportion to other goods.

PITCH.—A few small sales are made on the ordinary distributive calls and the supply quite equals the wants of the market. Prices much the same as before, with a nominally steady tone. We quote at $2.00@$2.25 for city, delivered.

SPIRITS TURPINTINE.—The jobbing distribution continues moderately active, and in this way sellers preserve a reasonably full range and values as compared with last week. Demand, however, is not quick enough to infuse decided buoyancy, and, indeed, if anything, prices are a trifle easier. We quote at 30@33c. per gallon according to quantity handled.

TAR.—Demand continues moderately active, and comes from pretty much the same regular sources. Supplies are ample, and though under fair control, holders offer with some freedom, and the tone is easy. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½ for Newberne and Washington, and $2.25@2.50 for Wilmington.

Exchange Salesroom,
111 Broadway (Trinity Building), N. Y.

BROADWAY AND FORTY-SECOND STREET—This magnificent Plot of improved and unsurpassed piece of Broadway Real Estate, situated on the northeast corner of Broadway and Forty-second street, and occupied by the large Grocery House of Messrs. Acker, Merrall & Condit, and the Standard Club; which is sold subject to the present two unexpired leases thereon, of less than three years. There is not a piece of ground of its size in the city, that has a larger future commercial value.

BROADWAY AND FORTY-NINTH STREET—A superior, and a very large Plot of Land, with certain buildings thereon, situated on the northwest corner of Broadway and Forty-ninth st, extending 125 feet 6¾ inches frontage on Broadway, makes this indeed a most desirable investment in every respect. This prorerty is sold subject to one present unexpired lease thereon of three years from May 1, 1878.

BROADWAY, SIXTH AVENUE AND THIRTIETH STREET, embracing three fronts—the very choice and first class improved large plot of land, situated on the northwest corner of Broadway and Thirtieth street, with front on Sixth avenue. The improvements are in every way complete and perfect, with four-story Philadelphia brick fronts, handsomely trimmed with white granite; basements complete in finish; sidewalks vaulted with patent lights; buildings heated with steam. The apartments over the stores are fitted up for families, with all the modern conveniences.

BROADWAY AND THIRTY-EIGHTH STREET—This elegant plot of ground possesses many advantages on account of its size, and its commanding position for substantial improvements, as the city now demands; and parties desiring to secure such a fine location should examine this property.

THE HYGIENICS OF BUILDING.

IV.

HEATING.—There are three methods or classes of appliance usually employed for the purpose of furnishing artificial heat for warming modern buildings. It must be observed that the differences between them lie in the apparatus employed and not in the methods, for the system of modern heating is practically one and the same, whether steam, hot water, or hot air, be the conducting agent made use of, combustion of fuel lying at the bottom of all. In any of these cases the theory involved is simple and intelligible. It consists in heating a given surface of iron to a high degree of temperature and then causing to be impinged upon this surface a current of cold air led to it by means of a duct or set of ducts. After being heated upon this iron surface the attenuated air is conveyed through another set of ducts to the various rooms where it is required. This, in brief, is a fair statement of the modern theory of heating. The necessary part which it plays in the ventilation of buildings and the vital consideration that it usurps the function of supplying atmosphere for respiration to all inmates of a house, together render the subject one of primary importance and worthy of thoughtful study.

We will consider the various methods of heating in detail—

STEAM APPARATUS.—This consists of a fire-pot and tubular boiler wherein steam is being constantly generated and supplied to stacks or coils of pipe called radiators, suitably arranged to receive it. These radiators may be placed either in the room intended to be heated, where by means of direct radiation the atmosphere is constantly heated and re-heated; or, the radiator may be placed in a box in the cellar at the foot of a line of conducting pipe carried up to any given apartment or number of accessible rooms. The cold air ducts or boxes, as they are termed, carry the cold air from the street directly to this coil of steam pipe. After being heated the air passes up the conducting pipes, and distributes itself through various openings or registers.

The advantages of steam heating are now fully recognized. It has this decided superiority over the hot air furnace, that whereas the latter is circumscribed in its action to such points as may be conveniently connected with a central hot-air chamber, the steam pipes of the other apparatus may be carried to an almost unlimited distance from the boiler and fire-pot, and at remote points made to do efficient service. Besides when managed and superintended by a capable engineer the steam heating apparatus is found to be more reliable and more easily controlled than any other. For heating large public buildings, warehouses, depots, hotels, and all structures of the arger size, it is to-day literally without a rival.

There are two difficulties, however, which stand in the way of using the steam apparatus in private dwellings. The statement of the manufacturers to the contrary, notwithstanding, it is indispensable that it should be managed either by an engineer, or by a person having some of the qualifications of an engineer. In the absence of such management, and in the hands of incompetent persons, this appliance is the source of a great deal of annoyance, apprehension and sometimes serious accident. Boilers have been known to explode, and the steam in the pipe coils, through lack of continuous supply, has been known to condense into water and then to congeal into ice, through the action of cold draughts of air on the coil, thus preparing the way for the bursting of the pipe as soon as the apparatus is started again in full motion. The cost of these appliances also operates against their general use for private dwellings and consequently we are apt to find them only in the mansions of the wealthy. When used in dwelling houses the method of direct radiation—that is the introduction of the radiating pipes into the room that is to be warmed—acts unfavorably in three ways. It churns over and over again the same air which is constantly being polluted with the products of respiration; besides it extracts all moisture from the air and produces a dry and suffocating atmosphere; and finally the clanking of the radiators is especially annoying to nervous and sensitive persons, and during the night becomes the reverse of soporific. Even when these coils of pipe are placed in the cellar, there is the same serious objection of a dry atmosphere. At times the coils become heated to so high a temperature as to fatally parch and vitiate even the fresh air brought in from the street. To render steam heating popular and serviceable in domestic use some method must be devised of imparting moisture to the air that has been heated over the steam coils.

HOT-WATER APPARATUS.—The principles of this appliance are so closely allied to those of steam that in describing one we may say we describe the other In the hot-water apparatus the boiler answers the purpose of a large caldron or teakettle in which the water is allowed to reach the boiling point, but is restrained from expansion into vapor. What little steam is generated by this process is quickly condensed again. The hot water is introduced under pressure into coils placed at the foot of conducting pipes, and cold air is led against the coils and introduced into the dwelling in precisely the same manner as described in the previous section. The serious objection to this form of heating is the difficulty of maintaining the temperature of the water at or near the boiling point after the pipes which contain it have been exposed for a length of time to outside atmosphere at a low temperature. Having one stage less to pass through than steam, the reduction of the temperature of this water to the freezing point is a comparatively easy matter, and in practice the water in these pipes is found to be quickly and readily chilled and at proper temperature reduced to ice.

We are not aware that this mode of heating is either popular or satisfactory. The greatest and the only merit ever claimed for it is that it presents a moderately heated surface to the incoming cold air, and in consequence only gently tempers it without extracting from it either moisture or any of its other life sustaining properties. But in a variable climate like this, subject to cycles of extremely cold temperature, it is quite necessary to have a radiating surface for heating purposes which is capable of being readily adjusted to climatic variations.

HOT-AIR FURNACES.—The fixture that is most acceptable and more universally used is the hot-air furnace. Devices of this kind are literally legion in number. Almost every plumber, stove maker and whitesmith who ever rose to any dignity in the profession seem to have exercised their ingenuity in devising some hot-air apparatus for heating. In contradistinction to the steam apparatus the hot-air method is admirably suited for the heating of domestic buildings, though it is quite inadequate or fails entirely to answer the purpose in large buildings, or for the heating of spaces of extraordinary cubical dimensions. All hot-air furnaces are constructed upon very much the same model. Nearly all patterns are presented in what is called the portable shape, which means that the furnace is merely enclosed in a covering of galvanized iron instead of brick work. The objection to this style of furnace is that it is apt to draw its air for transmission to the dwelling from the cellar—a condition which should never be tolerated or sanctioned. When these portable or iron-cased furnaces are used they should be supplied with cold air by an air duct or box from outside, and the atmosphere and gases of the cellar should be studiously excluded from them. The regular house furnace is usually enclosed within walls of brick work. This is done for the purpose of confining the heat within the core of the furnace structure and for more completely excluding the deleterious gases of the cellar and for protection against the ignition of adjacent wood work. The furnace proper, to wit., the iron structure itself, is enclosed within a brick dome called the hot-air chamber. This dome, or chamber, is also enclosed at a distance of six or eight inches, within four outside walls carried to within a foot of the ceiling. The space between the brick dome and the outside walls of the furnace might be called the cold air chamber or continuation of the cold air ducts, as into this the cold air box delivers its supply of fresh air from outdoors. The cold air than drops by its gravity to the lowest point in this air space, and is sucked into the hot air chamber through openings left at the foot of the dome enclosure for this purpose. The hot air pipes intended to carry the heated atmosphere into the dwelling penetrate directly through the outside walls, and the cold air space into the dome or interior enclosure. As fast as the air is sucked into the hot air chamber it becomes heated to a high temperature and volatilized, rising by its own buoyancy through these hot air ducts into the several chambers where it is required.

In most of these furnaces a pan supplied with water is placed in the hot-air chamber, and a steady evaporation of its contents is effected, causing a mechanical mixture of moisture with the heated air to supply the place of that which may have been abstracted from the natural atmosphere in the operation of heating.

In brief outline this is a full delineation of the make-up of the ordinary style of furnace. The variations in different patents are more in name than in practical effect, and they consist in placing the iron radiator either at the top or bottom, or at one side or the other, or on all sides of the fire-pot. There is so little difference in the designs of these furnaces as to render a description of any special models quite unnecessary. Some are constructed so as to cause a freer ignition of the coal in the fire-pot than in others; and as heat is the result of the combustion of coal we may assert, as a rule, that the greatest consumer of coal is usually the furnace that gives out the greatest amount of heat. We do not, of course, refer to a wasteful consumption of coal, but to a consumption proportioned to demand for hot air. It is idle to expect great heat from a furnace in which the coal is not constantly and freely consumed and combusted, therefore, we say that the freest consumer of coal is apt to be the hottest furnace.

We would, by no means, think of disparaging or undervaluing the skill and ingenuity of those gentlemen who have undertaken to perfect this method of heating. If any one is interested in the subject of thermic philosophy, we can imagine no better opportunity of studying it than in company with one or the other of the celebrated makers of furnaces.

The principle of the hot-air furnace is, however, perfectly simple. A huge enclosed stove forms what is called a fire-pot. In itself, the stove or fire-pot would not furnish sufficient radiating surface to heat the incoming cold air. Consequently the surplus heat of this fire-pot is diverted to conformations of iron, called radiators, attached to the fire-pot. To be efficient, the furnace must not only be a liberal consumer or combuster of coal, but it must be capable of heating an enlarged radiating surface. As a rule, the greater the amount of well heated radiating surface the greater is the amount of hot air generated. In point of moderate expense, easy management, simplicity of action, and readiness of control, we can conceive of no more acceptable instrument for heating than a first-class hot-air furnace.

There is a controversy between makers, as to the merits of using cast-iron or wrought-iron. We recognize the weight of the arguments on either side, and are not prepared to express a decided preference. As a rule, the wrought-iron is believed to be a healthier surface for radiation, but more perishable. Though readily heated up, it as quickly gives up its heat and chills. The cast-iron radiating surface is supposed to give forth a deleterious element of carbonic acid gas. It takes longer to heat up the cast-iron surface, but it retains its heat for a greater length of time.

There exists one serious objection to the use of the hot-air furnace, one that would apply to any form of furnace in which the coal combuster or fire pot is placed within the hot-air chambers, and one that makers have striven in vain to permanently overcome. That is the liability, we might say the eventual certainty of an escape of coal gas into the hot-air chamber, whence it is readily conveyed throughout a building. Coal gas taken into the system by respiration, is as dangerous to the health as sewer gas, laying the foundation for pulmonary complaints and otherwise undermining the human constitution. The contraction and expansion of the furnace metal by the extremes of temperature which it undergoes, cause the opening of seams and joints, and the fracture of the metal itself. These fissures are usually closed with cement, which affords only a temporary remedy as it is likely to drop off. A cracked or gaping furnace should be replaced promptly with a new one. In gas-tight qualities the wrought-iron is believed to surpass the cast-iron. In selecting a new furnace, preference should be given to the one of fewest joints, and these joints should be lap-welded and made adjustable to the effects of expansion and contraction.

There is a chance for as great dishonesty in furnace work as in plumbing. In fact, of all house mechanics, we think plumbers and furnace men stand most in need of a missionary. We have no time to stop and describe bad work, but will content ourselves with drawing attention to certain points which the house-holder himself can easily examine. As a furnace fire is apt to be the strongest one in the house, it is of the utmost importance to know that the furnace smoke-flue is solidly and securely built. The building department is now wisely exacting the introduction of earthen cylinders of the form of an ellipse, which are carried up the entire height of the flue. Besides this precaution this flue should be carried up in a breast, projecting and properly framed on both sides of the wall. It is necessary to see that the length of iron smoke-pipe extending from the furnace to the flue is properly and tightly jointed as any gaps or seams in these joints will permit the passage of sparks and cinders into the cellar, and seriously interfere with the draught. This smoke-pipe should have a Boston damper, so-called, which any furnace man will describe, for the purpose of cooling the furnace smoke flue when overheated. At the joint where the smoke pipe enters the wall, there should be a pocket conveniently attached for cleaning out the soot that collects at this particular point without being obliged to take the pipe entirely down. Care should also be taken to see that the hot air pipes, which distribute the heated air through the house, are well soldered together in the lengths which pass through the cellar; and particularly where these pipes enter the wall, so as to prevent the passage of cellar gases into the hot air pipe. As protection for the beams in the basement floor, owners should be particular to exact the inclosure of a furnace within two brick surfaces; to wit: the inner dome and the exterior cube. An air space of at least a foot should be left between the top of the furnace and the basement floor beams; and this space should be left open for ventilation. The air box, which supplies the furnace with cold air, should be made of galvanized iron with tight joints, and should be carried up some distance, say four or five feet, above the street or yard levels.

A critical and responsible part of furnace work is piping the walls. In cheap speculation houses two stacks only are used—one front and one rear, and three or four registers may be attached to either or both of these lines of pipe, the capacity of the pipe being usually quite insufficient to supply more than one or two registers. The best practice, however, is to carry an independent pipe of full dimensions, say eighteen or twenty-four inches if oblong and twelve or fourteen inches if circular, to the basement and parlor floors. This may be let in on the side wall or carried up through the floor. Then a separate pipe may be carried to the second, third and fourth floors. Where these pipes are intended to serve two or more registers, the continuation should be made from the side of the pipe at the joint where the first register is inserted instead of carrying the pipe up in a direct vertical stack. This forms a choke or brake which throws a proper proportion of the heat out of the first register, and prevents the entire volume rising to the top of the house as it is otherwise apt to do. In gable or exposed walls the pipes should be double—that is, an inner and an outer pipe and the space between—certainly on the exposed side—should be filled in with plaster of paris to prevent the chilling of the pipes and the radiation of heat through the wall. Evaporating pans are best supplied with Fuller cocks, so as to insure an automatic flow.

The secret of successful house warming lies in the proper management of these furnaces. A poor furnace well managed may be made to render very satisfactory service, while the best furnace that is not attended to will certainly disappoint its owner and plague its inventor. The faulty and unsatisfactory heating of dwellings is due in the majority of cases to improper management.

All furnaces are alike efficient in mild weather, but the great puzzle with housekeepers is to extract the necessary warmth from them in bitterly cold weather. Inefficiency in cold weather is apt to be due to defects in the smoke flue. Unless the iron smoke-pipe enters very directly into the wall flue, it is necessary to use a cowl or chimney cap so as to exclude the down-currents of cold air which so often effectually plug the flue and prevent a prompt and active draught.

A controversy exists between makers as to the degree of heat which it is proper to present in radiating surface. The principal differences between furnaces are referable to the conflicting views of makers on this point—some claiming that large volumes of moderately heated air will warm a house more effectually and healthfully than the delivery of a small volume of superheated air. As a rule the furnace that heats a house satisfactorily in the coldest weather will render it insufferably warm in milder weather, even though the furnace may be put under the greatest restraint. We are disposed to advocate the cause of the moderate heat producers on the ground that in extremely cold weather reliance can and must be placed upon open grate-fires.

Under any condition of the external atmosphere, the introduction of super-heated air into the atmosphere which we breathe is decidedly prejudicial to health. The best furnace to use is the one that will reliably produce through all variations of external temperature the largest volume of moderately heated air.

THE SPINGLER BUILDING.

Whatever new edifice tends to beautify that now historic spot appropriately called Union Square, is worthy of being mentioned in these columns, but when that new addition is part and parcel of a reconstruction policy in the changed character of New York's business streets it at once takes a pre-eminent place in the record this journal makes of the shifting scenes in Metropolitan busy life. It is within the recollection of young men, who have only just reached their majority, that on the spot where the Spingler Building now loftily towers up with its massive five-stories of solid iron, next door to Tiffany's well-known establishment, a hotel was erected called the Spingler House. Fourteenth street, right adjoining, was then the extreme limit of New York's retail trade, and in fact exclusively devoted to first-class boarding houses. The rapid growth of its ever-increasing commerce, however, has made it and Union Square the centre instead of the limit of Metropolitan shopping, and today hardly a boarding house even worth the name can be found in that beautiful and wide street, so far as it extends to Sixth avenue at least. Its entire character has undergone a metamorphosis, and of all the property there located the Van Buren estate alone resisted the inroad of commerce's merciless demands to the very last. It had to succumb at last, first by tearing down one brown stone mansion after another in Fourteenth street proper, where now mammoth furniture warerooms occupy its place, then finally laying hold of the hotel which had during not quite a score of years filled a conspicuous site on the west side of Union Square. It soon was leveled to the ground, and on the three valuable lots having a frontage of seventy-seven, and extending to a depth of one hundred and ten feet, with an additional extension of 29x49, there now rises aloft the magnificent new Spingler Building that at once strikes the beholder, whether he approaches it from the corner of Broadway or from the east side of the square as one of the most imposing structures in New York. The wide plaza in front adds materially to the prominent place it fills in the public eye.

It took Mr. H. B. Weeks the mason builder several months to tunnel thoroughly the wide sidewalk which now has been vaulted up to the very curbstone so as to make room for the numerous boilers and engines required to provide the steam for hoisting and heating in this mammoth building, and with the care and solidity that always characterizes all of the structures erected on the Van Buren estate, the basement walls were laid with a thickness of two feet and four inches, so as to furnish along with the solid foundations ample support for the immense mass above. That mass consists of five stories above the basement, extending all along the seventy-seven feet that constitute the width of the building, and the front is of ornamental iron from Cornell's great foundry, 41 Centre street. Each iron column is provided with a Corinthian cap, each story with appropriate cornices, a pediment and rich balustrade, with the title of the building in bronze letter conspicuously displayed in the tympanum of the pediment.

On entering the grand store the visitor is struck at once with the flood of light which the architect, Mr. Benjamin H. Warner, of 132 Broadway, has provided for the accommodation of the business to be transacted within the walls of the building. The same good light is to be found in the basement, for which, however, the large iron skylight in the rear of the lower store is in the main responsible. It must be borne in mind that above the first floor the upper stories fall back eight feet, which has enabled the architect to take advantage of this additional light and spread it over the lower stories.

Mr. Mathew Keiley, of 46 West Fifteenth street, has had the carpenter work of the Spingler under his charge, and like all of Mr. Keiley's work it is stamped throughout with the evidence of care, solidity and honesty. In perfect accord with the owner that no fancy tinsel job should be permitted to appear anywhere, Mr. Keiley with the aid of his army of excellent workingmen has from basement to top done work which other owners should inspect to see what an honest job can be done even in these times of low-priced materials. Georgia pine flooring is excellently laid throughout the building, the sashes are all neatly finished, and the stairs are arranged in a manner usual for stores of this kind. In this connection it would perhaps, not be out of place to say that there is but a slight difference in the ratio of height in the various stories of this large building, the main difference being five feet, and that is only between the relative height of the very top and the very lowest story. It should also be stated here that the glass furnished for this large warehouse has been obtained from the London and Manchester Plate Glass Company, J. A. Waller, Jr., agent, 94 Maiden Lane, the successors of the late Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, whose excellent business reputation has been judiciously transferred to the enterprising firm, now furnishing so large quantities of all the glass used in many of our large business structures.

The architect has provided ample washrooms and closets, not only in the basement but also in the fourth story, and it must be said to the credit of Mr. Harkness Boyd, of 95 Grand street, that all of his plumbing work has been finished within the contract to the satisfaction of owner and architect, Mr. Boyd having applied the latest and most scientific principles in the construction of water and sewer pipes throughout the building. On the fifth story is an immense tank with the capacity of holding five thousand gallons of water, that will be supplied with the aid of the steam pump.

The well and favorably-known Angell & Blake Manufacturing Company have carefully and conscientiously filled their contract here for all the machinists' work and steam-heating throughout the Spingler. Both the freight and passenger elevators have been erected by them under the superintendence of the Otis firm. These gentlemen have placed in this building one of their inproved steam passenger elevators, fitted with the best safety appliances. The car is finished in mahogany and satin wood, with suitable mouldings. The freight elevator is run from the basement to the top story, and will lift from 3,000 to 4,000 pounds. It is also fitted up with safety retchets and an automatic safety brake, to guard against accidents. The building is well protected, both in front and rear, by iron shutters, the usual rolling shutters being in the front and iron doors for the rear windows.

The cost of the entire b lding is about $115,000. Cornell's contract for the iron alone footing up $35,000. It is understood that already many leading firms have made application for the lease of the building, but as it is par excellence the great location in New York City, Mr. Van Buren can well afford to bide his time in arriving at a decision, who shall occupy this most conspicuous business place in New York's greatest business centre.

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The leading event of the week was the important sale of parcels of property situated on Broadway, by order of the owner—Josiah Jex. The first parcel offered by the auctioneer, Richard V. Harnett, was the large plot of land on the northwest corner of Broadway and Thirtieth street with front on Sixth avenue, the buildings thereon consisting of four-story Philadelphia brick fronts handsomely trimmed with white granite, used for stores and apartments. At the hour named for the sale, the Exchange Sales-room was well filled with leading operators in real estate, and after the auctioneer had read the conditions of sale, one of which provided that the owner reserved the right to reject any bid not satisfactory, the bidding commenced by an offer of $225,000, which was advanced to $296,000, at which sum the parcel was struck down to F. P. Furnald. Although it is generally the belief that this was an actual sale, we are enabled to state that the contrary is the fact. The next parcel offered for sale, and situated on the northeast corner of Broadway and Forty-second street, part of which is occupied by the firm of Acker, Merrall & Condit at a rental of $4,000, and the remainder by the Standard Club at a rental of $13,230, started at $120,000 and was increased to $160,000, but the owner availing himself of his right to reject any bid which was not satisfactory, refused to accept the offer. On this parcel the Mutual Life Insurance Company hold two mortgages, one for $100,000 and another for $25,000, and the owner at one time refused from F. M. Peyser, an offer of $400,000 for the parcel. It is now known that the owner has disposed of the property at private sale to Mr. O. B. Potter for $165,000. No bid was received for the parcel on the northeast corner of Broadway and Thirty-eighth street, on which the Mutual Life Insurance Company hold a mortgage of $100,000, although the auctioneer offered to start it with a bid of $150,000, which would unquestionably have secured the property, and a like offer was made to start the parcel on the northwest corner of Broadway and Forty-ninth street with an offer of $100,000—the mortgage thereon amounting to $50,000.

Since our last report a large number of sales under contract have been negotiated. Messrs. Duggin & Crossman have sold to Mr. A. T. Sullivan the house and lot No. 40 East Fifty-seventh street (18x65x100), for $28,000. It is reported that Daniel Hennessey has sold the house and lot No. 22 East Fifty-fourth street (22.6x95x100), to A. D. L. Jewett for $40,000. R. W. Stuart, the banker, has purchased the house and lot No. 83 Park avenue for $28,000. J. Rufus Smith has sold to the Messrs. Lynd three lots on the north side of Fifty-fifth street, between Fifth and Madison avenues, for $50,000, with a building loan, and a lot on Fifth avenue, between Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth streets, for $35,000, on a joint account contract for building. Messrs. O'Reilly Bros. have sold one of their five houses on Forty-fifth street, near Madison avenue, the particulars of which have not transpired.

The same firm have also sold to A. J. Garvey a house and lot on the south side of Forty-fifth street, next to Madison avenue, for $40,000, taking in part payment lots on Madison avenue, between Sixty-seventh and Sixty-eighth streets. Mr. R. Irwin has sold to James B. Ames, President of the Clinton Fire Insurance Company, a lot (25x100) on the south side of Fortieth street, about 250 feet west of Fifth avenue, for $16,000. In our last report we noted that S. L. Bradley had sold his fine apartment building on Fifty-ninth street to H. A. Mott, Esq., on terms which had not then been made public. The details of the transaction appear in the records of this week. Mr. Mott has conveyed to Mr. Bradley the houses and lots known as Nos. 85, 97 and 99 Park avenue, and the Bradley Apartment House has been conveyed to Mr. Mott. Oliver Bryan reports the sale of the four story brown stone octagon front house, 25x70x100.5, on the south side of Fifty-eighth street, about 420 feet west of Fifth avenue, to Mr. Geo. G. Williams, President of the Chemical Bank, for $45,000 cash.

Attention is directed to the important sale of Broadway property, to be held on Tuesday, April 2, next, when Joseph McGuire will offer the valuable parcel, situated on the southeast corner of Broadway and Fifty-fourth street, having a frontage of 101.3 7-8 feet on Broadway. A full description of the lots appear in our advertising columns. This locality is one of the best in this city for the purpose of investment and the site is desirable for an apartment house, hotel, or store—being within three minutes walk of the Gilbert and New York Elevated railroads, and two blocks distant from the "Rockingham," "Newport," "Albany," "Saratoga," and several other handsome buildings.

During the week ending, March 28th, inst., 26 plans, embracing 43 buildings, were filed in the office of the Superintendent, of the Department of Buildings, at an estimated cost of $268,450. Messrs. Breen & Nason will erect five four story brown stone dwellings on Sixty-sixth street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues; and Scholle Bros., of 84 Thomas street, will erect five four-story brown stone dwellings, on West Fifty-eighth street, near Central Park, at a cost of $75,000. Mr. D. Loonie purposes constructing on the south side of Fifty-second street, between First and Second avenues, four five-story brown stone flats.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICK.—There appears to be a slight turn for the better on the market for Common Hards. During the early portion of the week under review, matters continued in a dragging condition, and supplies tended toward an accumulation, but demand subsequently commenced to pick up and fully developed into a fair degree of animation, which removed about all the surplus afloat. The outlet was, in the main, toward city and near-by consumptive points, and dealers seem to think a reasonably steady business can now be anticipated, as there is little danger of any serious interruption to work by unfavorable weather. Values have stiffened a trifle without making much of an advance, and on the general range may be quoted at $5.00@$6.00, the latter, however, only for very fine Haverstraw. Some lots of washed have again changed hands at $4.25@$4.75, the inside for quite inferior. Pales were in liberal supply, and dull until another concession on price took place, and this drew out increased demand and worked off a goodly portion of the offering, most of which went to Harlem and Brooklyn. Some of the trashy lots sold at $2.00, but as we write good stock may be valued at $2.50 per M. As to the amount of supplies remaining at the primary points, some difference of opinion exists, but as a rule estimates are below the amount at this time last year with an impression that the general run of quality must be good owing to the miserable lot of stuff with which the market has been inflicted this Spring. The probabilities of an export demand are still uncertain, though inquiries as to cost, etc., have been received from St. John. Fronts remain steady on a basis of about former figures all around, and demand quickens a trifle.

We quote Pale, ℔ M., $2.50@2.75; Hards, Up-rivers, $5.00@5.25; Haverstraw bay, $5.25@5.75; favorite brands, $—@$6.00; Fronts, Croton—brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $23@27; Baltimore, $34@38.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5 00@6.00 on fronts.

CEMENT.—Business has taken place on a basis of about former rates, and 80c. at "Creek" and 90c. per bbl. here for Rosendale remain as current quotations. Demand does not greatly improve, and the movement is slow. White stocks continue ample, though manufacturers are not much inclined to hasten or increase production. Foreign shows some irregularity, but not much tendency to regain strength on prices, though interior orders are on the increase.

GLASS.—Dealers are inclined to speak somewhat hopefully still, and in a few cases, are making predictions of a very roseate character. There is not, however, any likelihood that this branch of trade can develope. Special animation in contract with the general run of business, and the more conservative operators merely look for a distribution equal to last spring, and hope it may be greater. On the American product, former discounts represent the nominal position, but on French prices, have "gone all to pieces," through the breaking up of the combination, and every dealer now fixes upon his own rate. A new association is talked of, but does not appear to meet with general favor, as recent experiences have shown that it is next to impossible under ruling conditions of trade to keep members of a combination to the letter or even spirit of agreement for any length of time.

HARDWARE.—Business has a somewhat variable tone, but scarcely tends to any great animation especially on local account. There is reason to believe that the city consumption will somewhat exceed last year on all standard goods, but buyers are not anxious to anticipate their wants, and simply order in small parcels to keep up stocks. Indications from the interior are fairly encouraging with orders rather on the increase, though a great many sections are scarcely doing as well as had been expected from the promises of the early season. Values are somewhat unsettled and the tendency in buyers' favor as a rule. The following reduced rates have been adopted by the Stanley Works: Bronzed Light Narrow Butts and do. Loose Pin, 30 ℘ cent. discount; Butts, Light Narrow, Loose Pin, list of Narrow, 15 & 10; Butts, 2 by 2 and 2 by 2½, Loose Pin, list of Loose Joint, 40 & 10; Butts, 2 by 2 and 2 by 2½, Loose Joint, list of Loose Joint, 35 & 10; Butts, Light Narrow, Smooth Bright Iron, 35 & 10; Butts, Narrow, 40 & 10; Butts, Back Flaps, 35 & 10; Butts, Table, 35 & 10; Butts, Inside Blind, 35 & 10; Butts, Chest, 40 & 10; Butts, Pew Door, 40 & 10; Butts, Broad, 40 & 10; Butts, Loose Joint, 40 & 10; Butts, Reversible (list Loose Joint), 50 & 10; Butts, Light Inside Blind, Smooth Bright Iron, 40 & 10; Butts, Parliament, 50. List Cast Butts—Butts, with Acorns and Friction Roller, Butts, Loose Point with Japanned, Bronzed or Silvered, Acorns, Butts, Japanned, Loose Joint without Acorns, and Butts, Loose Pin with Silvered Acorns 65 & 10 ℘ cent. discount.

LATH.—There has been much irregularity of tone on the general market since our last, but with a gradual shrinkage on cost. Sellers have made a strong effort to sustain former rates, even to the extent of covering operations with secrecy, but buyers who secured a gain were not adverse to letting the fact become known, and at least 20c. per M decline may be recorded. Sales making at $1.60 from filed out stock with rumors of cargo sales still lower. There has been no unusually heavy amounts received, but the slow and careful demand left an offering in excess of the outlet, and concessions were necessary in order to bring negotiations to a successful issue. It is also intimated that the quantity on the way is likely to prove quite as full as the market can take care of unless demand very materially improves.

LIME.—No very large amount of stock has been offering afloat, but still without any great improvement in demand. There was quite as much as the market could take care of, and the tone was a little slow. Prices have remained as before, and may be called about nominally steady, the figure being so low as to scarcely give basis for the hope that further concessions may be granted.

LUMBER.—The slight gain made on business, as noted for a week or two past, is retained, but there does not appear to have been much additional progress made, and at the best the market can only be called moderately active. As noted last week the indications point at present to rather more consumption for building purposes, as the season gradually opens, and some portions of the manufacturing trade will want stock, but buyers evidently do not intend to hurry themselves until they can handle their purchases to immediate advantage. There seems to be a rather doubtful feeling over the prospects for the export trade, not only as supplies at this point may be drawn upon, but as to the amounts likely to be wanted by cargo and direct shipment from primary markets, a large business in the latter being done through agents here. As a rule however we think there is not quite so much hope as at the commencement of the year. West India advices are not cheerful and the South American accounts at latest dates gave no better indications that increased shipments would find a free sale at profitable returns. From the South supplies have already started to a considerable extent and more are to follow for the European (mostly English) markets, but the quantity is said to be less than last year, and it is possible that the sound advice given American shippers by the Timber Trades Journal respecting the over-loading of the markets of the United Kingdom may be having a salutary influence, not only upon the Southern, but upon the Eastern and Canadian lumbermen as well, inducing them to forward with greater care. Some of the Trade seems to think that, with almost a certainty, that cargoes will be sold at a slaughter under the weight of liberal offerings, they must still pour lumber into the foreign outlet as the only vent, when home and regular shipping calls fail, and to a certain extent this is true. But why create the necessity for continually seeking buyers by making a surplus accumulation? Producers have for several years past been looking for an improvement in lumber, but every season found matters worse, and they are not likely to realize expectations until they take a lesson from consumers and come right down to the economical hand-to-mouth policy. Stop the reckless, slap-dash manner of cutting logs and sawing lumber; allow supply to adjust itself to demand, then, and not until then, will be obtained the solid basis from which values must soon find their legitimate level. Our latest mail dates from the West, indicate a short run of logs and firm market, but the more recent snow storms reported, it is thought, may increase supplies in some sections.

Eastern spruce has not changed much since our last, demand was not particularly active but, with moderate arrivals, the market was kept clear of surplus accumulation and about former rates maintained. Buyers appear to be somewhat particular over quality, and short, undesirable stuff sells only at inside figures. The supply will in all probability be fully equal to last year. We quote at $13.00@15.00 for random, possibly $15.25 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $14.00@16.00 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White pine has a firmer tone. The prospects of a short log crop at the west, the enhansed views and confident tone of manufacturers, commence to have their influence, and with holders at Albany asking relatively as much as rates current here, the natural tendency is to look for full rates. But as yet our dealers are not encouraged by much demand. Local wants are small and unpromising and the export movement is confined in the main to the ordinary light run of regular orders. About former figures must be retained for the present, but they are low as compared with rates asked at primary points. We quote at $15@17 per M. for West India shipping boards; $19.50@20.50 for South American do; $15@16 for box boards; $17 for do. wide and sound; and timber at $16@18 per M.

Yellow pine has been moderately active on a basis of about former rates, some call for local orders were met and export orders, on both European and South American account, filled, but nothing out of the ordinary run. We quote random cargoes at $19@22 per M.; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do; green flooring boards, $21@23 do; and dry do. do. $23@24; Cargoes at the South, $14@16.50 per M; hewn timber, $7.50@14.

Hardwoods moderately active and nominally steady. The foreigh movement has continued to some extent though in part on through shipments, and the local wants appear to be in the main satisfied with small irregular parcels. We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $77@85 ₱ M; ash, $33@36 do; oak, $35@40 do.; maple, $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d $30@35; do., do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $45@75 do.; white wood, ¼ and ⅝ inch. $25@27.50, and do. inch, $33@35 do.; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $40@50 for good nearby stock.

Among the yards there was a fair seasonable trade without features of special remark. Buyers make the ordinary selection, confine themselves to actual wants, and pay somewhat variable rates according to quantity handled, terms, etc.

We hear of no charters this week beyond the ordinary run of coastwise engagements and these were mostly at about formes rates.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From Lumberman's Gazette as follows:

BAY CITY, Friday, March 22, 1878.

There has been a number of sales made at this end of the valley during the past week. Prices have ranged from $6@6.50, $12@13, and $28@30. We learn from the East Saginaw Daily Courier that sales aggregating nearly 10,000,000 have been made in that city. Prices paid there have been the same as paid here. That paper says that they have heard of no sales less than $6, $12 and $30.

The quantity of lumber which has changed hands during the past week would have been much larger were buyers fully convinced that manufacturers will not make concessions from rates asked. If any concession has to be made, it looks to us at present as if it would be on the part of purchasers, and that figures will range still higher for dry stocks.

Navigation from this port may be said to be open, but as yet no lumber has been cleared. Boats have been running to the Lake Huron shore ports north of here, also on the river route, during the past two weeks.

The sawing season will also open earlier than usual. The work of getting the mills ready have been going on for some time.

The wholesale quotations following are the prices at which manufacturers hold stocks.

Three uppers	$28 00@30 00
Common	12 00@14 00
Shipping culls	6 00@ 7 00
Lath	1 15@ 1 25

THE PRICE OF LUMBER.—The price of lumber here as elsewhere shows great firmness on the part of holders. That the stock of logs in all the lumbering regions of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota is universally a short one has been by this time settled beyond a doubt, and the feeling among manufacturers is in favor of holding at present rates if not in favor of a still farther advance. We are inclined to think that the highest rates have not yet been reached, and that when full particulars of the shottage of logs have taken actual shape in figures, still higher prices will be asked.

The East Saginaw Daily Courier of March 20th says that a large number of dealers from abroad have been in the valley during the past week, and evince considerable eagerness to pick up stock. While manufacturers have not been disposed to fix prices, or manifested any anxiety to sell, it is calculated that about 8,000,000 or 10,000,000 feet has changed hands, mostly cash transactions. We note a sale of 1,000,000 feet to Cincinnati parties; two lots, one of 500,000 and one of 1,000,000 to eastern parties, at $6, $12@30, and we have heard of no transactions below that figure, while one firm refused to part with 1,500,000 at $6.50, $13@30. It is understood that lumber has advanced $2 per M at Cleveland. Certain it is that the market is very firm, and the outlook cheering for those who have lumber to sell.

The Stillwater (Minn.) Gazette of March 13th says: "The better grades of lumber are selling to day at an advance of $5.50 a thousand from the rates of last August. Common lumber has only advanced from $1 to $2.

The Ludington Record says parties from Chicago have been there offering an advance of $1.50 per M on lumber over last year's prices, but failed to find any manufacturers who would sell at that rate.

The Chicago correspondent of the Lumberman's Gazette writes:

The spring-like weather of the past month still continues. The song of the robin, the croak of the frog, and the blooming of early spring flowers are unmistakeable evidences of an unparalleled early spring. The trade in lumber still continues active and at firm prices, and the docks are being cleared, so to speak, for active business soon, and active, vigorous and healthy trade is predicted by all. The demand for stock from far beyond the Mississippi river is still active and with every indication of continuing, as it is now well known that the demand from west of that stream will be double that of previous years, with less than a half crop to draw from. The emigration to the western and southwestern States and Territories has nev r been so heavy as in the past six weeks, and generally consisting of a class of men in condition to buy and pay for lumber, and the ordinary drafts upon this market promise to be equal to any made heretofore. The dealers of this city in convention assembled, sat down heavy on the retail dealers' associations throughout the country, claiming that they do not solicit the consumers' trade, but claim the right to sell when and to whom they please. There was evidently a good deal of commercial ignorance displayed in the conception of this scheme.

Anxiety in logging and lumbering circles is as great now as at any time during the past six months on account of the apprehended want of water to float the stock that was banked to market. The lack of snow in the pine regions of the northwest gives this apprehension some coloring, but in all probability there will be water enough before the first of July.

The demand for stock here in the city is good, and the indications are that the local demand will be heavy, and that the call for stock will be very active in the western and interior part of the State, as they have not bought to any great extent for several years, and they are now in condition to buy and pay for it. There have been no receipts worthy of mention yet. Stocks are very much broken, and prices remain firm at quotations.

The stocks on hand at Chicago, March 1st, as compiled by Secretary Stockbridge of the Lumberman's Exchange, were as follows:

Sawed pine lumber and timber, feet	317,863,739	290,077,843
Hewn timber	8,000	900
Pickets, pieces	1,750,000	2,846,710
Lath, "	40,552,900	28,523 400
Shingles	126,987,250	61,724,750

The receipts of lumber, Jan. 1 to March 1, were, by lake and rail, 13,151,292 feet, against 14,200,682 feet same time in 1877, and shipments 53,654,855 feet, against 67,801,839 feet same time in 1877.

The Tawas City Gazette says:

A large number of men are now engaged driving logs on the East Branch of the Au Gres, which is in splendid condition, with just water enough for running the logs rapidly. They will soon have the logs down below the forks and into the Boom Company's domains. They are also driving on the West Branch, and making good progress. S. H. Webster broke his roll-ways and drove out 1,000,000 feet in three days.

Peshtigo, Wis., Eagle as follows:

The camps of the Peshtigo Company were all broken up this week, with the exception of one which will probably run a short time longer as it has good, ground to work on. The total cut of new logs for the season amounts to 32,000,000 feet, which with the old logs will give them 38,000,000 feet for the season's supply, provided they all come down.

The total cut of logs on the river this winter, including the Peshtigo Company, is about 50,000,000 feet, which with 10,000,000 feet of old logs from last season gives a stock of 60,000,000 feet available for this season. This is considerably less than the amount started out for last fall.

THE EAST.

A correspondent of the Lumberman's Gazette writes as follows:

OLDTOWN, Me., March 16, 1878.

The weather here is very mild, the snow is all off in this vicinity, and bark and wood teams have all suspended operations.

In the lumber country the most of the teams are at work, but will nearly all leave the woods in the course of the next two weeks. On the whole most of the teams have done well, and there is more lumber cut on the Penobscot this winter than last.

The Penobscot Lumbering Association held their annual meeting at the Penobscot Exchange, in Bangor, yesterday morning. During the past year the Association have reduced the standing debt nearly $3,000, and made numerous repairs on the booms and piers. The election of officers resulted as follows: Presidens, Wm. B. Hayford; Clerk and Treasurer, Abram Moore. Directors: Chas. G. Sterns, Joai W. Palmer, John P. Weber and J. M. Hodgkins.

At a meeting of the Association held in the afternoon the rafting of all the logs to come through the boom this season was put up at auction, and was bid off by Webster & Lent, at 30 cents per M feet, they to pay all the wages, furnish rigging, &c.

NAILS.—The market has had a better tone, but made no decided gain. The reduction of manufacturers has prevented the accumulation from growing, and the demand keeping up to full former volume or possibly making a slight increase, gave the selling interest confidence and some advantage. All calls, however, were readily met on full bids. We quote: 10d. to 60d., common fence and sheathing per keg, $2.60; 8d. and 9d., common do. per keg, $2.85; 6d. and 7d., common, per keg, $3.10; 4d. and 5d., common do., per keg, $3.35; 3d. and 4d., light, per keg, $4.10; 3d., fine, per keg, $4.85; 2d., per keg, $4.85, Cut spikes, all sizes, $2.85. Floor casing and box, 75c. above the same sizes of common. Finishing, $1 above and fine finishing $1.25 above.

CLINCH NAILS.

$5@$5.25	$4.75	$4.50	$4.25 per keg

OILS.—For jobbing parcels the market has remained about steady, and was fairly active but not quick, and consumers not only buy closely to actual wants but make those wants as small as possible in all cases. In a wholesale way some fluctuations, but none of magnitude. General stocks ample, and very well assorted. We quote: Linseed, about 60@62c. ₱ gallon; lard, 52@56c. for No. 1, and 49@51c. for No. 2; crude cotton seed, 14@16c., and refined summer yellow do, 55@57c.

PAINTS.—Wholesale dealers, importers and manufacturers continue to complain of the dull and slow business, but among the jobbers a fair movement seems to be going on, and while the volume is not as yet running equal to last spring, the final aggregate, it is believed, will be as large. The selections made by customers show evidences of much care in writing up memorandums, and a large proportion of the assortments taken is composed of standard goods, especially of the cheaper qualities. This latter is due to constant calls from consumers for low priced goods and while the actual economy of using a common article instead of a finer quality merely to save on first investment the small difference of cost, is open to argument, it is nevertheless a fact that such is the present policy in a great many instances.

PITCH.—A moderately active call has prevailed from day to day, mainly in the way of small jobbing orders, and the market developed no positively new features. The supply at all times appeared equal to the outlet, and values much the same as before. We quote at $2.00@$2.25 per bbl. for city, delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—Stocks remain fairly under control, and are not offered with much freedom. There seldom appears to be a scarcity upon the market, however, and the somewhat unsatisfactory demand is all supplied. As we close, the quotations remain at about 30½c.@32c per gallon according to quantity handled.

TAR.—There has not been much doing outside the ordinary run of jobbing business, and nothing new is shown on the market. Prices somewhat unsettled at times, but on the general range made no great variations. We quote at $2.00@$2.75 for Newberne and Washington, and $2.12½@$2.37½ for Wilmington.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C. and C. a. G. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or incumbered.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

THE NEW TAX LAW.

There has been introduced into the State Senate by Senator Sessions, and passed by that body with the celerity of a lightning flash, a law professedly intended to relieve the holders of heavily mortgaged real estate. Before this bill is railroaded through the Assembly, it will be worth while to stop and consider its provisions and their probable effects. Any legislation relating to taxation must be interesting to citizens at large in the present exigency of affairs, and of exceptionable moment to those whose interests are specially affected thereby. It is difficult and perhaps unfair to criticise a legislative enactment upon the meagre abstract furnished as news by the press. We shall procure an official copy of the bill as soon as practicable, and will then give the framers and promoters of it the benefit of any new readings which the bill itself may disclose. This bill has a very plausible exterior, but it appears to be ingeniously framed, to cover sinister and special objects. If our construction of it, based upon present data, is warrantable and just, its obvious effects will be highly detrimental and prejudicial to sound and meritorious real estate interests. If it seeks to establish a more certain and comprehensive taxation of mortgages, this object could be far more effectually accomplished in a simple and easy way, namely, to cause an inventory to be made at the Register's office of all outstanding mortgages arranged according to the alphabetical order of the mortgagees; then with the aid of a city directory, or by special inquiry of the mortgagors, or present owners of the properties mortgaged, it could be quickly determined whether the mortgages are taxable. If the object is to relieve real estate of the double taxation now imposed upon it—to wit: the tax upon the fee simple, and the tax upon the mortgages covering the fee, then the true and effective way to accomplish this end is to exempt all mortgages from taxation. Upon the enactment of such a law the interest rate on mortgage loans would drop to four per cent. for prime loans, and would probably never exceed five or six per cent. per annum in normal states of the money market. Neither of these objects, we believe, is honestly or sincerely contemplated by the present law, or if they are, its direct effect will be to defeat such ends, and its indirect effects will be to heap up additional and unwarrantable taxation upon free and clear, or lightly mortgaged properties, and to seriously embarrass the negotiation of mortgage loans. The motives concealed in this bill, and the interests favored by its enactment, may be bound up in three categories. It may be the desperate effort of the owners of heavily-mortgaged vacant lots to relieve themselves entirely from taxation at the expense of more fortunate owners of property free and clear, or lightly encumbered. It may be an effort on the part of monied corporations to secure the monopoly of lending money on mortgage, which will include the fixing of the rate of interest and the costs or bonuses. It may be an honest but ignorant effort on the part of city politicians, to enlarge the area of taxable values. Under the operation of this law, the owner of a Boulevard lot mortgaged, say to an Institution for $10,000, and tax valued at $10,000 will escape free of tax, and as the Institution (Life Insurance Company or Savings Bank) is exempt by law from taxation on mortgages, the amount of tax thus waived will be reassessed upon free and clear, or lightly-encumbered property.

We have no time now to trace out the full effects of this law, but can see at a glance enough evil consequences that are likely to follow in its trail, to warrant us in sounding a note of alarm to all conservative and bona fide owners of real estate and personal investors on mortgages, as we believe their interests are being placed in jeopardy.

We will summarize our criticisms upon this law as succinctly as possible, leaving our readers to discover at their leisure the links of cause and effect in the positions we shall assume with relation to it.

It offers a large premium to owners of property that is heavily mortgaged.

It imposes a correspondingly heavy penalty on the owners of free and clear or lightly encumbered property.

It will give to monied corporations in this State and to individual capitalists residing out of the State a complete monopoly of Mortgage Loans, as the former are exempt by law from taxation and the latter cannot be taxed by this State, nor can interest be withheld for them when due.

It discriminates severely against the capitalist or lender on mortgage in this State, by compelling him to pay out of his present income of six per cent. a tax of two and a half per cent., leaving him a net income of three and a half per cent., or in lieu of this compels him to take up with such borrowers (the poorest of all) who will agree to pay the tax out of their own pockets. This means poor bondsman and poor security.

It appears to limit its operation to purchase money mortgages, a very small percentage of existing mortgages. The principle and heaviest mortgages of this description are now covering vacant lots. This feature seems to indicate that the bill has been prepared expressly and especially for the relief of holders of some uptown lots, that are now mortgaged for more than the assessed tax valuation.

It will have the effect to withdraw from the Tax lists all mortgages that are now taxed and to impose upon free and clear or lightly encumbered real estate an additional burden, which in the case of lightly encumbered property will more than neutralize the apparent benefit which it may derive from the operation of the law. It will precipitate the calling in, or immediate foreclosure, of all past due mortgages held by individual residents of this State, and throw serious and insurmountable obstacles in the way of negotiating fresh loans from similar sources.

It will impair existing contracts and hopelessly confuse the basis of fresh negotiations.

It represents class or special legislation of the most objectionable kind. Its operation would be harsh, unequal, oppressive. It would add just the additional ounce to a load of misfortune which real estate is not able at present to bear.

It encourages rascality and recklessness, and discourages thrift, prudence and honest dealing.

It will open possibilities for widespread evasion of taxation on real estate. Owners will have merely to cover their properties with fictitious mortgages to the amount of the assessed tax valuation, and thus escape taxation entirely. The city will be seriously and hopelessly defeated of its revenue.

Its apparent relief of mortgage debtors is really deceptive and illusory. It will depreciate the value of their property through the hardships thus imposed on real estate, and render extensive foreclosures inevitable. If owners could borrow at four per cent. by agreeing to pay the tax the rate would amount to more than the ruling one to-day, while owners are sure to be met under the operation of this law by increased tax valuations, and largely increased taxes. It will have the tendency to ultimately establish the highest legal rate as the ruling one for loans, and introduce the vicious system of discounts, bonuses and shaves for procuring loans, when mortgages on city property should be, and would otherwise be, eagerly sought after as the choicest and most reliable securities, available and negotiable at the lowest rates of interest.

THEORIES OF TAXATION.

When, in less than thirty years, the total taxation of this State, including State, county and school tax, has increased from four millions to sixty millions, having declined only in recent years, after five years of signal disaster, to its present standard of fifty millions, it behooves the tax-payer most certainly, and relatively the press and the entire people of this State, to give heed to questions of taxation. After the settlement, or unsettlement rather, of the currency question by the general government, there is no issue more certain to loom up in portentous and overshadowing proportions, both in the Federal and in the State governments, than this very question of taxation.

It is computed that the total governmental taxation, Federal and State, imposed upon this State in a year amounts to fully one hundred millions of dollars. It is needless to say, that this is an intolerable and unprecedented burden upon the business interests and industries of the Commonwealth, and, in view of the prolonged revulsion through which our whole business community is passing, it becomes an interesting study to note the issue of the struggle between honest business effort and the cormorants of government.

It may be esteemed a prime misfortune that the science of political economy, if it can be called a science, has made so little progress since its birth. Although among the earliest generalizations of instructed and enlightened human genius, we are compelled to look for its highest authorities in works which were produced between two and three centuries ago, and it measures the progress in this department of thought and knowledge to say that the standards then set up are the authoritative and controlling ones to-day. Political economy must take its place in the category of undeveloped and inexact sciences, such as meteorology, psychology, theology, sociology, etc. Its principles are made up of crude and undigested theorems or dogmas, which appear plausible enough at first sight, but which soon disintegrate and dissolve upon the least touch of intelligence. We were almost tempted to say, that the monstrous absurdity and fanciful fiction of many of the avowed principles in this department of knowledge have deterred rather than invited the investigation of this study by analytical and inquiring minds.

The deficiencies of this science are nowhere more prominent than in the sub-department of taxation. The best attesting evidence of the truth of this statement is the fact that for sixty years the Empire State of New York has tolerated no change and effectuated no improvement in its scheme of taxation, and that to-day the revenue of its government, State, county and city, is derived under the operation of laws so defective and nugatory that the officers charged with their administration actually substitute their own preconceived notions and favorite fancies for the law itself. It would be a fair statement of the case to say that the people of this State are all taxed to-day strictly according to the despotic will of the tax-assessors. It will be a blessing for this city and State when practical and experienced financiers come to the front, and bestow their thought and attention upon the practical problems of taxation. Heretofore, these problems have been left to the mercy of mere theorists, and the delusory and chimerical projects which have been thus evolved are rather ominous of what we may expect in the way of improved methods of taxation in the future, unless practical men can be induced to take the subject in hand.

All the prominent ideas connected with State and local taxation crystallize about two cardinal principles or theories, as we may call them. One of these has been fitly termed the atomic principle, inasmuch as it asserts that to effectually and justly administer a scheme of taxation, it is necessary that a levy should be made upon every tangible and accessible object. This principle cannot be more clearly enunciated than in the language of the present and ancient tax law of this State, which was intended to illustrate this theory. Quoting from one of its sections it reads:

"All lands and all personal estate within this State, whether owned by individuals or by corporations, shall be liable to taxation."

The other theory is that of the self-diffusion of taxation, and its leading thought cannot be better expressed than in these words which we have borrowed:

"That equality of taxation consists in a uniform assessment of the same articles or class of property that is subjected to taxation, and that all taxes equate and diffuse themselves, and that if levied with certainty and uniformity upon tangible property and fixed signs of property they will by a diffusion and repercussion reach and burden all visible and also all invisible and intangible property with unerring certainty and equality."

It is to be remarked that these two principles agree in the common end in view, although representing opposing schools of theorists and applicable to totally dissimilar methods of operation. The one object had in view and claimed in either case is that of the universal application of taxation. In both cases it is recognized that taxation to be just and equal must be universal. In the first case the intention is to make it so by direct application to all possible objects. In the other case a pure abstraction is created to serve the purpose of the bewildered tax gatherer, who has shrunk abashed and disheartened from his attempt to carry into practical operation the principle of the first theory. Universal taxation represents not only heartless despotism, but also a genuine and sincere effort to spread the burdens of government evenly and impartially throughout the body politic. Undoubtedly if all men were honest, or equally honest, and willing to disclose the true taxable value of their possessions the labors of the tax gatherer would be exceedingly simplified. A scheme of taxation, however, to be effectual and equitable must provide not only for inequalities of station in life, but also for inequalities of character. The beau-ideal of theorists is to devise a system of taxation which will be simple, economical, automatic and efficient in its operation. In practice the atomic or universal theory has been found to be impracticable and self-defeating. No intelligence short of omniscience can discover the actual total of taxable objects. Consequently all efforts are directed towards framing a system that will be sufficiently productive of revenue, and at the same time plain, inoffensive, unevasive and pervasive. The moment the concession is made that it is impossible to carry out a scheme of universal taxation then the claims for exemption begin to arise from the people; and excuses are made on every side why such and such objects should be left untaxed. As a rule, theorists seem to have settled down to the conviction that the true policy is to tax such things as are immovable, either by their fixity like real estate, or by indispensable associations like horse-car roads, ferry companies and other corporate franchises as well as a great deal of organized capital. This peculiar drift or tendency of modern thought cannot be better illustrated than by the present method of collecting taxes in this State. Although the law professedly enunciates and, is intended to enforce the atomic theory, it has been in its main provision so far totally disregarded that the taxation of personal estate has nearly ceased to be operative, or rather the total of this class of property now levied on by the assessors is so small that its exclusion from the tax list would scarcely produce any appreciable effect, while in practice, of the amount annually assessed for taxation, one-quarter or one-half fails entirely of collection. Thus the entire budget of the State intended by law to be distributed among many objects is levied almost exclusively upon real estate and real estate mortgages —a small proportion only being levied upon organized capital.

This condition of things has come about through the indifference and inattention of the people and press, and through the inertia and incompetence of the officials having the subject in charge. In a measure it may be attributed to a confusion of ideas upon the subject of taxation and to a bitter prejudice against existing laws, which have heretofore led officials to overturn completely, or render nugatory the present statute, and substitute for it an original system of their own. It has come to that pass, at any rate in the City of New York, where ten-elevenths of the total taxation (the budget amounting to much more than the total of all the other county budgets of the State put together) is levied wholly and exclusively upon real estate. That this was not the intention of our statute cannot be disputed. Whether the present practice will be allowed to remain is a question for tax-payers and citizens generally to consider.

The only warrant or excuse for this state of things is the blind and bigoted adoption of the plausible theory or dogma of the self-diffusion of taxation. It had its origin, we believe, in the bold imagination of Thiers, and finds its only, but insufficient recommendation, in a supposed analogy or resemblance to the physical phenomena of light, electricity and gravitation. This astute political philosopher claimed that the true principle was one in which taxation irradiated and reflected itself like rays of light upon every object within its reach. Others have chosen that pleasing simile of the operation of the laws of gravitation affecting every ponderable object brought within their influence. But taxation is neither light nor gravitation, nor is it a gas, vapor or liquid capable of being atomized and indefinitely desseminated and diffused. From such premises of absolute scientific and physical excellence theorists have been led to imagine that a system could be devised whereby taxation could be diffused with corresponding equality and certitude. From so imagining they have come to give currency to the idea that taxation levied upon any object whatever, and in any way will through its natural diffusiveness pervade and operate upon every object within its sphere. This latter conception is the one which frequently appears in public discussions, in pamphlets, and particularly in the daily press, where, as compared with general intelligence, a woful ignorance exists upon this subject of taxation. The extreme advocates of this doctrine argue in effect that if the whole bulk of taxation were levied upon the lamp-posts of a city, compelling the man opposite whose property the lamp-post happens to stand, to pay the taxes so levied, that by such a system these taxes would be uniformly and equally diffused throughout the entire community. They lose sight of the fact that this high standard of scientific excellence in taxation, to wit: the power of perfect self-diffusion is only possible by the mechanism of a system as absolutely and infallibly perfect as the prototype of this idea. To render taxation self-diffusive depends upon the system under which taxes are administered and not upon the arbitrary levy of taxes upon any given object. There is no power of diffusion in taxation beyond what the system through which it is administered may confer upon it and energize into it. The ability to construct such a system cannot be reasonably questioned, but partial or limited applications of taxation, under the delusion of the necessary action of any such principle as this, can only end in disappointment and failure. The levying of taxation upon any one article, as for instance upon real estate, is sure to result in hardship, disaster, impoverishment and a plentiful outcropping of all the evils connected with the mal-administration of government.

The existing status of the tax levy, in this city, is winked at and tolerated for two reasons. First, the obvious and palpable relief from direct taxation, and indeed from any taxation of a vast amount of property; and second, the delusion cherished by many ignorant as well as intelligent men, that by levying taxes in this manner they will naturally and widely diffuse themselves through the community.

In point of fact, the result of this principle of limited taxation is gradually but surely throwing into the hands of the landlords the supreme power —a power which they may not choose, may not be able to exercise until the return of business prosperity, but one which, nevertheless, they are certain sooner or later to put into full operation—of reassessing taxation upon tenants in a harsh, unequal and oppressive manner. A moderate acquaintance with human nature will afford the assurance that this reassessment will cover the full share of original taxation, and perhaps include a sufficient sum to afford indemnity for any possible losses to accrue in the future, or already sustained in the past.

This system of taxation warrants and encourages the principle of unduly stilting the rental and purchase values of property, so as to effect a recovery from lessee and vendee of the amount paid for taxes, thus determining in the most offensive and effective manner the rigid exclusion of a large body of population, which may not be able to respond to the prices asked, and defining but two possible grades of improvements —princely palaces and pauper tenements.

The truth is, all our ideas and systems of taxation are just now in a state of chaos, and stand in need of reconstruction more than any other interest in the State. It is not in the adoption of either of these two avowed principles of taxation —the intensely practical one of taxing all objects or the extremely finical and delusive idea of the necessary self-diffusableness of taxation—that a sufficient remedy can be found. The framer of a future tax law, must undoubtedly steer his bark by these twin principles, as the mariner guides his ship by the compass and the North Star, but his sailing course to be successful must avoid multiplicity of details and objects; and at the same time, endeavor to fasten direct taxation upon those objects which are of necessary and daily use, and of ready negotiability in the market, so as to determine the yearly production of the given tax, through daily increments in actual sales. As the yard-stick for measuring out taxation such an unwieldy, unnegotiable, but indispensable object as real estate defeats the very end had in view. The adoption of such a tax measure creates proprietors of vast estates, shakes out moderate well-to-do residents and leaves the people at the mercy of autocrat tax-gatherers, equal in number to the number of property holders. Real Estate, wherever situated, as the source and foundation of all wealth should be left as nearly free from taxation as the circumstances of society will permit.

ECONOMICS OF BUILDING.

Editor REAL ESTATE RECORD.

DEAR SIR: In a communication from a builder published in a recent issue of your valuable paper, there is some talk about trained architects, respectable builders, etc., intimating that a builder should be satisfied with the constructive branch of his business, and should not aspire to a "higher profession," ignoring the fact that the appellation builder, like that of captain, includes both inception, plan, and fulfilment. Your correspondent may not be aware that a large number of the leading architects in this city, were educated as practical mechanics, in some one of the branches connected with building before they started as architects. "Builder" seems to labor under the impression that a man having been brought up in some other avocation, yet having the natural taste and ability, and also the opportunity to become an architect and builder, cannot by any possible human means accomplish his object; he "Builder," seeming to confound the lack of ability to design and construct, with respectability, saying in substance, "that no respectable builder undertakes a construction without first consulting an architect."

It is undisputed that this republican country owes its unparalleled growth and prosperity to the fact, that the natural gifts and talents of individuals have been permitted to find their proper sphere of exercise, "notwithstanding race, color, or previous condition of servitude," spurning the anti-republican idea, that in whatever rut or groove one's lot is first cast, he must follow it to the end of his days, with due respect to his superiors, his only blissful moments being those in which he might accidentally enjoy the spectacle of a respectable builder cooling his heels in the ante-chamber of some architectural moquate. "Builder's" communication would seem to convey the impression, that a builder to be successful and respectable, must consider himself a very inferior sort of being, to the so called trained architect, in fact, must be one of those "who do crook the pregnant hinges of the knee, that thrift may follow fawning." QUERICUS.

THE CLAY HEATER.

Last week in an editorial article on "The Hygienics of Buildings," in alluding to the merits and demerits of the hot-air furnaces, made from cast-iron or wrought-iron, the vital importance of excluding coal gas from premises where the furnace is used, was alluded to. Since then, our attention has been called to a heater constructed of clay, which, it is claimed, answers all the objections we raised at the time. Philadelphia has used the clay heater now during several years, and from a hygienic standpoint alone, aside of the smaller cost, it will be well for New York to secure a general introduction of these heaters, for which the Messrs. Kreischer & Sons, foot of East Houston street, are the agents. In the clay heater, manufactured by the Crary Clay Heater Company, of New York and Philadelphia, the air is kept moist and healthful and freed from all poison it may contain this being absorbed and consumed by the hot clay.

This heater is constructed of vertical fire clay pipes, with square flanges at top and bottom, which leave enough space for the fire to circulate freely around the pipes. The flanges of these pipes form the top and bottom of the combustion chamber, bottom of the hot-air chamber, and the top of the cold-air chamber, while the fire passes all around the pipes, it does not come in contact with the air that passes through them, the air being admitted from under the same, and heated in its passage to the hot air chamber. The pressure of the cold air passing through the pipes being greater than that of the gases surrounding them, gas cannot get into the hot-air chambers. In iron heaters the pressure of gas will often find an outlet somewhere through the joints of the pipes, but with the clay heater the whole action is reversed. When it is remembered, that in hospitals heated bricks are placed in sick rooms to absorb all poisons, that in houses heat is conducted through clay pipes, never through iron pipes; it is strange, indeed, that the numerous advantages presented by the construction of a clay heater have never until now presented themselves to the otherwise ingenious minds of our builders and contractors, and as to householders themselves, whose main object is to guard the health of their families, they must see that the heat derived from clay pipes is an excellent heat for our homes.

There are other advantages which the Crary clay heaters present, and which should not be overlooked. A clay heater will not so often require repair. Wood, also as well as coal, can be used for fuel in these heaters, and even after wood has been used, it will give out a comfortable heat for hours after. While abundance of coal should be used in the ordinary iron furnace, so as to produce sufficient warmth in a house, the clay furnace does not at all require it, in fact, can get along with much less fuel, and doing the work on a cold day without injuring the health of the family. While generally not favoring economy in the construction of anything that belongs to the proper fitting up of houses, it must nevertheless be added that the cost of this clay heater will compare favorably with the common iron heater, and is much less than hot water or steam. The Company that constructs these heaters guarantees them for fully two years, and experts employed by them take great pains in adapting each furnace to the particular house for which it is intended.

"THE FLORENCE."

It will be of interest to numerous material men and mechanics who are readers of THE RECORD to let them have an insight as to what is expected to be done with the northeast corner of Fourth avenue and Eighteenth street, now in course of improvement. They will be the more interested when informed that a large number of contracts remain yet to be given out for this building, which is being erected in strict accordance with the ideas so frequently urged in these columns. The very fact that neither owner nor architect desire the least allusion to be made to this structure until completed, even if then, have induced us to take especial pains to ascertain if there has been any departure from the hum-drum plans for erecting apartment houses in this city. The duty of this journal is to point out either defects or improvements in the conception and execution of new structures in the city of New York, and it does so, and will continue to do so, regardless of the wishes of any particular individual, be he owner, architect or mechanic. We address a constituency of the real estate and building fraternity of the American Metropolis, and to them are we responsible should any remissness on our part fail to call their attention to whatever is new in their particular trade. It certainly is a matter of pride to THE RECORD that since it has begun to call attention to the ethics of building, there has been a marked improvement in various localities, and along with these changes new men have come to the front, courageous enough to, for once, let us see in the concrete what architecture really is. To create an effect, without showing an attempt at making an effect, is the secret of success. To be simple and still imposing is as true of a building as it is of the distingue gentleman. And if we are not mistaken, if all our anticipations are not cast to the winds, this is to be the leading character of "The Florence" apartment house, which Mr. Mathews is erecting on the corner of Eighteenth street and Fourth avenue.

As far as it is has already progressed, the aim seems to be, to provide a good substantial structure, showing by its outside, that there is to be comfort within for the tenant. Ornamentation is not being "sat upon," to use a vulgar phrase, but wherever applied, it is combined with utility. That this utility is, however, the main object kept in view will become more evident, if our readers will follow us closely through the various observations, to which we desire to call their attention. First, it should be stated that "The Florence" occupies a frontage of two hundred feet on Eighteenth street and fifty-three feet on Fourth avenue, and that there will be in this apartment house, suites of rooms for three distinct classes of people, first, for the family, that adheres to the old style of housekeeping, next, for the young married, who desire to keep house without being burdened with any of its cares and troubles, and last, but not least, for the old bachelor class. Hence, there are to be suites with kitchens, and suites without kitchens, a restaurant on the main floor for the exclusive use of tenants, providing all that will be required even in the absence of a kitchen, and then there will be on each story, at least two suites, each consisting of bedroom, parlor and dressing-room for the bachelor of the period—a class of gentlemen to be found more frequently in that section of the city than elsewhere. In all, there are to be no less than forty-two suites of rooms, all the work for which, has yet to be given out, but only in accordance with the exact specifications that will enter into the minutest details, without leaving anything at all, so to speak, to the fancy of the mechanics employed.

"The Florence" will be seven stories above basement, French roof and tower, built in accordance with the teachings of the Florentine school; which is deducted from the Renaissance style. There will be no mixture of gothic about it, no Roman arches, but it will be a centre pavilion standing well forward, flanked by two wings of equal proportions, and the whole crowned by a massive dome. The front is now sufficiently advanced to show that when completed "The Florence" will be an imposing apartment house, every part of which has been symmetrically arranged, and which under an appearance of simplicity, shows true elegance.

In laying the foundation walls, the Messrs. White & McEvoy, who are charged with the mason work, have used Trenton-faced brick, which, though obtained at lower figures from the well known firm of Rowe & Denman, are of equal service as the ordinary Baltimore or Philadelphia brick, an item of economy in building that in these times cannot be overlooked. The walls rest already upon a stone bottom, bedded in a sufficient quantity of cement to secure a level bed. As a great many complaints have heretofore been made that basements were uninhabitable, owing to the dampness of the walls, it is designed to build an area all around The Florence. The stone used on the front comes from Berlin, Ohio from the quarries represented by Mr. C. P. Williams, and the porches, some of them already elaborately carved by Fordyce & Co., are supported by four granite columns. The Ohio stone has, in this instance, been preferred over the Dorchester stone, owing to its greater uniformity, though Mr. Williams, who has just taken the agency for one of the best Dorchester stone quarries, showed the writer some excellent specimens from the quarries that have just confided their business to his care. There is a good deal of granite used on this front, and we understand that Mr. Robert Logan, agent for the Bay of Fundy quarries, as well as Mr. F. W. Redpath, of Stony Creek, Connecticut, whose office is in Platt street, have both secured contracts for this. In fact the entire tympanum of the front will be of granite, with the word "Florence" in letters five feet high, conspicuously raised and displayed on the same. The polished granite, especially, which Mr. Logan has furnished is certainly the very best that has ever come under our observation, during a long experience with new buildings, and if all the granite used on apartment houses generally were in such excellent state as that delivered from the Bay of Fundy quarries, not so much fault would be found with this useful material.

The most correct part of the architectural work on the front is the manner in which the entrance is constructed. The portico forms part and parcel of the entire structure. There will be two bay windows in the centre of each wing, and two projections in the centre, between which rises the tower. As to this tower, we ought to add that it will not only be ornamental but useful, as room will be found there for water tanks and other matters. The mansard roofs, one of them on each wing, will be used for servants' bedrooms and laundries. It is understood that Mr. Schweizer, of 71 Broadway, who for years has made a study of laying roofs of iron, is to be charged with the construction of this part of the work.

There are to be ornamentations on the front. Between the second and third floor, as well as between the fifth and sixth, tiles of Fleur de Lis are to be used. A flower, somewhat similar to the old Florentine flower, will be required for these tiles, which, with other elaborate tile designs, will be supplied by Anderson Merchant & Co. These tile ornaments, alternate with the ornamental iron railings that cover outer and equi-distant portions of the front. There will be also a heavy balcony under the fifth floor to be constructed of Ohio stone, which will give a fine finish to the front.

Though no doubt the Messrs. Pottier & Stymus will obtain the contract for most of the indoor carpenter work, it will be well for others to watch the progress of this indoor construction, as the designs for all trimmings, and, in fact, for all the wood-work inside, are now being done in advance of the contract, by the architect himself, who insists that his orders shall be obeyed to the very letter. There will be no tortuous passages in "The Florence," no dark alleys and corners, but all apartments, corridors and chambers are made readily accessible.

Four elevators for passengers, one for freight, will be wanted, and we understand that Mr. Hale has been once more the successful competitor for this job. There will be fire proof stairs for servants, and also a package lift. Two tubular boilers of suitable capacity for steam heating will be required with regular system of supply and return pipes, and, on this subject, steam-heating, contractors might as well know beforehand that the architect is a peculiar adept at this particular branch, as he has made it a study for years, and we should not be surprised if the Angell & Blake Manufacturing Company, Gillis & Geoghegan, or E. Rutler, will be charged with this part of the work, especially as we think that the building should be supplied with a Whittingham boiler. The valves proper, which every sensible architect understanding his business now selects himself by going to McMann & Russel in Gold street, will be purchased independent of any arrangement made with the steam heating contractor.

Exclusive of the chimney flues there are to be in "The Florence" ventilating tubes at the highest point in each room, to which the hot air tends to flow. The fresh air is to be brought in tubes, and will establish a circulation between them and a shaft in the centre of the building, thus ventilating also the halls. There will also be a ventilating shaft for each of the forty-two suites of rooms, and the contract for this has been awarded to the Messrs. L. W. Leeds & Co., of 102 Broadway, who have made a great study of this important ventilation question. It would be honoring not only the men, but a science, which they have virtually made their own, if the superintendence of constructing the heating arrangements of "The Florence" were also entrusted to the Messrs. Leeds. They are the only engineers in the United States who have made steamheating construction a specialty, and that too with considerable success.

The stairs in the building are considerably set back, so that the best part of the house can be more amply displayed. For the information of stair builders we may add that the staircase will have to be treated with taste and effect, as it more than anything else impresses a tenant with the character of the building. The architect certainly can do no better than to entrust this part of the work to the Messrs. Graham & Sons, whose excellent stair work at the Buckingham is admired by all the visitors to that popular hotel.

In conclusion, we call the attention of vault light manufacturers to the fact that a large number of them will be required for this apartment house, as we have already stated, that an area is to be constructed all around the building. Though the contest lies, as we understand, between Mr. Dale and Mr. Hyatt, both excellent manufacturers, we nevertheless know from experience that Hyatt's careful and conscientious work has always given great satisfaction.

We had almost forgotten to state that Mr. Hugh Adams, of Pine street, agent of Atkins & Co., of Pottsville, Pa., has secured the contract for iron beams, and that the inevitable Geo. Hayes will surely be called upon to furnish his best skylight for "The Florence."

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

A larger proportion than usual of the sales held at the Exchange during the week have been of an unjudicial nature. On Tuesday, last Joseph McGuire sold the property situated on the southeast corner of Broadway and Fifty-fourth street (100.5x73.1x101.3x624), for $54,500. Following are other public auction sales:

	PURCHASER.

42d st (West), No. 520, 19.7x98.9.	N. J. Griffith	6,900

The details of all the foreclosure sales held during the week appear below. Under private contract of sale, Mr. McManus has sold to Napoleon J. Haines the house and lot No. 24 West Fifty-eighth street (25x75x100), for $15,000, and it is understood that Talman has sold all his houses in Fifty-third street at satisfactory prices. H. W. Coates has sold the three-story and basement brick dwelling, with lot No. 239, East Thirtieth street (20x98.9), for $8,800.

The following tables show the amount of consideration expressed in the deeds recorded in the Register for the first three months of the year 1878, and the corresponding months in 1877, excluding the 23d and 24th wards:

	1877.	1878.
January.....	$5,353,956	$4,996,760
February...	6,016,768	6,526,952
March	7,158,189	7,602,381
Total.....	$18,528,913	$19,126,093

Following are the amounts of mortgages recorded during the same period:

MORTGAGES.	1877.	1878.
January.....	$13,282,766	$3,087,216
February.	27,906,111	3,161,169
March.....	3,462,484	3,395,509
Total.....	$44,651,361	$9'643,894

The total number of foreclosure suits commenced in the City of New York during the first quarter of the present year is 635, against 638 for the corresponding quarter in 1877.

Twenty-three plans embracing forty-nine buildings, were filed with the Superintendent during the week ending April 4, 1878, the estimated cost of which is $314,350. Thirteen three-story brown stone front dwellings will be erected on Fifty-first street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues, at an estimated cost of $4,000 each. On Sixty-seventh street, between Fourth and Madison avenues, and on Fourth avenue, Mr. Anderson Fowler has begun the erection of fifteen houses, five of which are to be built on the street and ten on the avenue. Four three-story brown stone houses will be built on Eightieth street, between Third and Fourth avenues, and at the corner of Cherry street and Pike slip Mr. George Hecker will erect an eight-story flour mill at an estimated cost of $15,000. Mr. G. N. Williams has started the erection of three houses on Sixty-eighth street, between Fourth and Madison avenues, and three other houses on the same block will be erected by Robert M. Cafferty.

Several important partition sales are announced to take place during the week, and one or two parcels by order of executors. Special attention is invited to the peremptory sale by A. H. Muller & Son on Tuesday, April 9th inst., of the valuable improved and unimproved property belonging to the estate of Charles M. Conolly, deceased, a description of which appears in our advertising columns on the second page. The improved property consists of the premises known as No. 55 Water street and No. 129 West Forty-ninth street. Five choice lots situated at the southeast corner of Broadway and Fifty-ninth street, opposite Central Park, eight lots on the easterly side of the Boulevard, between One Hundred and Twenty-ninth and One Hundred and Thirtieth streets, and lots on Ninth and Tenth avenues, 211th, 212th, 213th, 214th, 215th and 216th streets and water fronts on Harlem River, comprise the unimproved property.

The following are the sales at the Exchange Salesroom for the week ending April 4th:

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICK.—The market on Common Hards shows no further decided improvement, but has held its own, and generally the tone seems to be about steady all around. Builders are commencing to get to work, now that the weather promises to remain open, and the consumption grows accordingly which acts as an offset to somewhat increased receipts, and wholesale dealers have, as a rule, managed to prevent more than a temporary accumulation afloat. The distribution has again been almost entirely local, few domestic shipping orders coming to hand, and no call developing for export. The general range of selling prices has been at $4.75@$5.25 for "Up River," the latter for Fishkill Bay; and $5.50@$5.75 for Haverstraw. A few Jerseys came to hand, and are understood to have sold at $4.50@$4.75 per M. We learn that preparations are making along the river at nearly all points for the commencement of the new crop, but of course, as yet, no actual work accomplished, and no clear indication as to how deeply manufacturers propose going into the production. Pales have not been much wanted, but were rather less plenty, and have ruled at about $2.50, a few common going down to $2.25, and some of the very best at $2.75 per M. Fronts in fair proportionate demand, and prices, as a rule, are about steady on all grades. Supply not very large.

We quote Pale, ₱ M., $2.50@2.75; Hards, Up-rivers, $4.75@5.25; Haverstraw bay, $5.25@5.75; favorite brands, $—@6.00; Fronts, Croton—brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $23@27; Baltimore, $34@38.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5 00@6.00 on fronts.

CEMENT.—There has been only a moderately active demand from local sources, for domestic buyers still refusing to anticipate their wants, and prices gain no basis for recovery, old figures remaining current. Shipping orders, however, are fair, and further sales have been made for Baltimore, etc. Foreign is not active, but dealers report a very good average demand with indications of growing, especially on orders from the interior. Supplies are ample at the moment, but no recent important additions have been reported. On Portland the cost continues to vary from $3.00 up to $3.40 according to quantity, terms, etc.

GLASS.—We find quite an assortment of reports upon the condition of the market ranging from an almost "blue" tone, up to a decidedly cheerful expression regarding the present amount of business, and hope of a continuation, if not increase for the future. There certainly seems to be a greater number of parcels going out than a short time ago, and while operations can scarcely be magnified into anything really remarkable a movement of stock toward consumption has the natural tendency to impart a basis of greater confidence. The breaking up of the importers' combination, however, has an unsettling influence upon prices and renders quotations almost entirely nominal, though there is little doubt buyers could now obtain much better terms than a month ago.

HARDWARE.—Demand has been rather better from many quarters and some of our dealers are gradually increasing their distribution, though the movement is not as free as could be wished for in all respects. Buyers seem to be in a more careful mood even than last year and while their stocks at home are small, they evidently do not intend to add to them beyond pretty well assured ability to make an early distribution to consumers. Local calls are moderately active but, in small lots, take out a fair aggregate of supplies. On values about the former general range is as a rule quoted, but combinations do not appear to be working well in all cases and more or less "cutting" is hinted at on which the buyer, of course, secures advantage. Manufacturers have issued the following list: Doty's automatic revolving scrapers—30 in. iron bottom, each, $16.50; 30 inch steel do, $18; 33 inch steel do, $19; 36 inch steel do, $20; discount, 25 per cent. Plows—Road or contractor's plow, each, $30; Mammoth Hardpan RR. plow, each, $66; discount, 25 per cent. Jacob's patent barrows—Railroad or canal, $20, net, per doz.; ore or mortar, $30, do; wharf or oyster, $33, do; stone, bent handles, $42, do; stone, straight, $36, do; stone, light, bottom not strapped, $22, do; farm or garden, No. 4, large size, $60, do; farm or garden, No. 3, medium, $54, do. The Enterprise Manufacturing Co. announce a reduction on net prices of patent measuring faucet to $36 per doz., the old rate having stood at $42 per doz.

LATH.—The turn of the market has continued in buyers' favor, and we have a still further reduction on cost to record for the week. Holders and receivers have been making a slight show of resistance, but could not overcome the influence of an offering in excess of the outlet, and prices have gradually shaded down. About $1.50 per M appears to be the rate as we write for either piled stock or cargo lots, with the feeling somewhat uncertain, though not tending to recovery. Dealers appear to be satisfying the consumptive demand with much smaller quantities than anticipated.

LIME.—The inquiry has not been a brilliant one, and business proved rather slow all the week, with a small amount of stock carrying over unsold. With cost down to almost a song, however, receivers could hardly be expected to make any further shading, and prices remain as before. On State lime a moderate amount of animation is shown, but little of a positively encouraging nature, and values are tame on both grades.

LUMBER.—There is a tendency to somewhat greater firmness on the general lumber market and it appears to be more in sympathy with advices from some of the primary points, than through any local stimulus. Indeed the business here is by no means active and while in some respects promising an increase as the season opens more fully it is evident that not the faintest tinge of speculative feeling prevails even to the extent of taking in stocks against almost certain wants some two or three months ahead. Dealers have every reason to believe that consumption cannot be expanded on any increase of cost, the foreign outlet still fails to give signs of affording relief against a contracted home demand, and until there is better prospect of finding buyers, the policy of accumulating and carrying stocks is not apparent. In fact upon lumber as upon so many articles of merchandize the tendency is to crowd supplies as far back towards the primary point as possible, there to remain until wanted for actual use, and especially so at the commencement of the season. The possibility of a deficiency in the new supply is admitted particularly at the west but it is a question if this is not more than offset by the diminution of demand and the more rigid economy among consumers and corresponding reduction of waste. There is also a goodly amount of old lumber on hand, and all careful observers have noticed that "short crop" theories have brought their supporters to grief during the past few years on pretty much every product of the country, no matter how strong and brilliant the prospect may have been at the outset. Goods are now bought for use only, and not for speculation and waste, and consumption is seriously curtailed by the enforced economy of the times. Extreme caution as well as over confidence leads to many errors, but mercantile affairs appear to be gradually recovering from the effects of both these evils and settling to the legitimate basis of actual supply and demand.

Eastern spruce remains very much as last noted. Buyers are not in a very anxious mood about securing stocks and the open demand can hardly be called quick or general, yet an outlet sufficient to exhaust most of the offering has been found and rates remain about as last named. About $13.00 is the figure on short lenths and it would be difficult to sell any random above $14.25@15.50 per M. unless very liberal terms as regards time, etc., were granted. We quote at $13.00@14.50 for random, possibly $15.00 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $14.00@16.00 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White pine remains firm, and is indifferently offered with holders in some cases unwilling to negotiate except at an advance over formert raes. From all primary points the reports are more or less buoyant in character, and this is the main stimulating influence. Home demand is slow, and mainly of a jobbing character, though some of the box makers have been "feeding around" latterly. Exporters show no great anxiety, and sales to the foreign outlet continue moderate, but advices from South America are thought to be more encouraging. We quote at $15@17 per M. for West India shipping boards; $19.50@20.50 for South American do; $15@16 for box boards; $17 for do. wide and sound; and timber at $16@18 per M.

Yellow pine not selling very freely at the moment, and the general market presents few features of decided interest. The stock here is fair and reasonably well assorted, but would not stand the draft of a very free or liberal demand. We quote random cargoes at about $19@22 per M.; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do; green flooring boards, $21@23 do; and dry do. do. $23@24; Cargoes at the South, $14@16.50 per M; hewn timber, $7.50@14.

Hardwoods are ruling steady, and meeting with a demand proportioned to other woods, with no very large amount of desirable stock available. The export trade continues, embracing in the main maple and black walnut, but the form of clearances through the Custom House is so ambiguous as to prevent obtaining any reliable record of the amount going out. We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $77@85 ₱ M; ash, $32@36 do.; oak, $35@40 do.; maple, $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d $32@35; do., do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $45@55 do.; white wood, ½ and ⅝ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $32@35 do.; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $40@50 for good nearby stock.

Yard dealers are, if anything, increasing their business somewhat, but hardly reaching a point of activity, and the market developes no really new features worthy of record. On the general ranges prices vary but little, though there is in some cases a tendency to harden on the more desirable styles of stock.

The Albany lumber market is reported by the Evening Journal as follows:

There has been a fair attendance of buyers during the week, but sales have not been so lively as on the opening of navigation. The supply of all kinds is fair, that of hemlock and spruce being replenished by receipts per rail. Shingles, also, are coming in by cars sufficient to meet the demand. The Erie canal will not be open for navigation until the 15th to 20th inst., and the Cnamplain not until a later period. The lakes are open, and vessels are reported loading in Michigan, so that by the 1st of May receipts in Albany are probable.

Among recent lumber charters were the following: An Am. ship, 1,201 tons, from St. John, N. B., to Liverpool, deals, 6ls.; a Br. barque, 641 tons, from Pensacola to Greenock, ship plank, £5.15s.; a Ger. barque, 422 tons, from Darien to a direct port United Kingdom, timber, 37s. 6d., foreign charter; a brig, 523 tons, from Savannah to Montevideo or Buenos Ayres, lumber, $18.50 net; a schr., 300 M Lumber, from Pensacola to Rio Janeiro, $19 net; a schr., 275 M lumber from Pensacola to New York or a Sound port, $7; a schr., 260 M lumber, from Brunswick to New York, $5.75; a schr., 275 M lumber, from Wilmington, N. C., to Bath, $5.50; a schr., 110 M lumber, from Jacksonville to Stonington, at about $6.50; a schr., 195 tons to Jacksonville and back with lumber, $8 for the round; a schr., 207 tons, hence to Jacksonville and back, lumber, $8 for the round.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From Lumberman's Gazette as follows:

BAY CITY, Friday, March 29, 1878.

During the past week the lumber market has been very quiet in the valley, and things remain in about the same condition as at our last report. We hear of but very few sales having taken place since our last issue. There have been and are at present a few dealers in the market from both east and west, but they do not seem inclined to buy at the prices asked by manufacturers, who are firm at our last quotations, viz., $6, $12 and $28@30, some going to $7, $14 and $30 for choice lots.

The condition of the various streams tributary to the Saginaw is now exciting considerable apprehension, as many of the logs are as effectually hung up as they would be in July. Considerable rain has fallen during the past few weeks, but the streams have not been raised as was to be expected. Manufacturers, therefore, seem to be firm in their prices, feeling confident that the supply will be short, and that ere the season is closed there will be an active demand for lumber and at an increase rather than a decrease in prices. Dealers, however, do not seem to view the matter in the same light, and continue to hold off, apparently waiting for something to turn up. Present appearances are decidedly in favor of the view taken by the manufacturers, for although many millions of logs will be taken to the streams by tram railways, unless we have very heavy rains they will remain in the streams until another season, it being impossible to float them down at the present stage of water.

At the present writing there is quite a lively demand for shingles, and large quantities are being shipped from the valley. Some of the prices paid are as high as $2.65, and it is quite probable that in sympathy with the advance in lumber there will be a like advance in the price of shingles. A large manufacturer in the Saginaws stated the other day that shingle timber had advanced from $1.50 to $2 ₱ M.

Navigation has fairly opened. The first tow of the season arrived on Tuesday last and is now loading for Buffalo. Freights open at $1.50 to Buffalo and $1.25 to Ohio ports.

Some of our saw mills have already commenced the season's work and others are expected to start up in a few days.

The wholesale quotations following are the prices at which manufacturers hold stocks.

Three uppers	$28 00@30 00
Common	12 00@14 00
Shipping culls	6 00@ 7 00
Lath	1 15@ 1 25

The Muskegon News and Reporter as follows:

A prominent lumberman, who has just returned from an extended visit through the lumbering regions of Northern Michigan, brings most discouraging reports. Everywhere during the trip through the pineries he saw huge piles of skidded logs that cannot be banked and run down this season in consequence of the small amount of snow that has fallen this winter. The average annual cut of timber at the different points along the shore of Lake Michigan is about 750,000,000 feet, and logs equal to that amount were cut this winter; but it is doubtful whether, under the most favorable circumstances, one-half the entire stock can be got down to the mills. The balance will remain in the woods, subject to the danger of destruction by fire, which, if last year's experience is repeated, will cause a loss of millions of dollars to the owners. The situation is about the same in Northern Wisconsin and Minnesota, and a marked advance in the prices of all grades of lumber is anticipated. The Muskegon lumberman are making preparations for trucking logs to the river; some are building railroads, and they are determined to have a full stock of logs any how.

The Lock Haven, Pa., Republican has the following on the Square Timber trade:

Owing to the panic in the money market during the past few years the square timber trade in this city has been exceedingly dull. The owners of lands did not feel justified in cutting their timber and running it to market as long as prices remained at such ruinous figures. As a result of this there has not been a sufficient amount of square timber cut during these years to supply the market, and prices have been gradually going up until they are now fully 75 per cent. higher than they were two years ago.

Most of the timber that has come down on this flood is of an excellent quality—better, old pilots tell us—than any they have run for several years. This, of course has some influence on the price, but not sufficient to warrant the heavy increase.

The opposite side of the river presents an exceeding lively appearance. The river is lined with rafts from the centre to the shore and extending from the dam to what is known as the "White House"—a distance of two miles. Merchants are present in abundance, and owners have no difficulty of disposing with the timber. Prices range at from 12½ to 17 cents for pine; 10 to 15 for oak and 5½ to 7 for hemlock.

It is estimated that about 500 rafts have come down on this flood, 300 of which have gone down and 200 yet remain in the dam. This is written March 18th, and of course most of these will have departed for the lower markets ere this paper reaches its readers, hence the necessary allowance must be made.

CANADA.

An Ottawa dispatch says:

The past winter has been an exceedingly unfavorable one to the lumberers. Very little snow has fallen, and the frequent thaws have kept the roads in the worst possible condition. As a consequence, although work was possible in the woods, all logs and timber which are left on creeks in expectation of being floated to the parent streams in the spring, will be left high and dry, and in the case of logs where the men have not taken the precaution to bark them, they will be rendered almost useless by the worms, while square timber, if not materially injured, will at least be deteriorated in appearance, which will not add to its market value. The agreement entered into by the mill men to take out only three-fourths of the usual cut of logs has been fairly adhered to, and as not more than two-thirds of the logs cut can be got out unless we have an unprecedented wet spring, the supply will be only about one-half the usual quantity. But, of course, most of the mills have last year's surplus to work on, so that if necessary they can be kept running on full time. This, however, is very improbable, although nothing definite can be said on the point until the season opens.

Opinions differ as to the prospects for the coming season. Some hold that they are worse than last year, but others are as sanguine of a very marked improvement, and certainly the fact that one of our leading firms are holding their stock at set figures augurs well for the latter belief. The firm referred to have already refused several offers for general lumber at last year's figures, preferring to wait in anticipation of an advance. The news regarding a short supply from the Western States is looked upon as very encouraging to the trade in Ottawa. The stock of better kinds of lumber on hand here is fully as large as last spring, and the extra demand which would be occasioned by the shortage mentioned would tend greatly toward clearing off the surplus of the past few years.

Deals have fallen considerably lately, owing to the adverse reports from Great Britain, and it is thought a larger percentage of finer classes of lumber will be made this year to the exclusion of deals.

Forwarders have reduced the wages of the crews of barges and lumber boats 20 per cent., owing to a falling off in freights, and this, with other reductions, will leave them in about the same position as last year with regard to profit. The following are the rates already contracted for: To Quebec, $2.25; Montreal, $1.00@1.25; Burlington, $2.12½, gold; New York, $3, American currency; Albany, $2.75@3.00, American currency.

FOREIGN.

The Timber Trades Journal as follows:

LONDON, March 15th, 1878.

We regret that now in the middle of March, we are unable to speak very hopefully of the prospect for those who hold any considerable stock of sawn or planed wood in the London market. Say there is a good—even a great trade going on, which in comparison of good times gone by may be regarded as a fact; but a still greater business must be done before the demand will be able to keep pace with the supply that is weekly put forward, and almost forced on the public, for what they will give at the fall of a hammer which is impatient of a pause in the bidding, on account of the quantity of lots to be got through in a given time.

HULL, March 13th, 1878.

Since my last report it is generally held that the wood trade of this port shows a slight improvement. This is no doubt traceable to the prospects of peace upon the Continent and the resumption of the steady business habits which, in the absence of the excitement of war, characterize the English people. The stocks here are heavy for the time of the year, and the fall in the market value of the same creates a desire on the part of holders to dispose of their stocks in preference to entering into new engagements. We hear of a few contracts being effected for Baltic goods, but the buying so far as this year has progressed is on a very limited scale.

GLASGOW, March 13, 1878.

In looking at the stocks of wood on hand as the spring now advances we find that log timber is not moving so freely away as desirable. Ship builders still continue comparatively quiet, a number not being quite prepared meantime to buy for finishing purposes. A considerable depletion, however, has taken place in the stocks of American pine and spruce deals. Third quality yellow have been most difficult to move off, but first quality have sold pretty freely. Recent imports of Wisconsin deals were readily taken up, the superior dimensions being an attraction. Of lower port spruce deals the market is comparatively bare. On the whole, our stock of deals, 3 inches thick, is by no means large for this time of the year.

LEITH, March 13th, 1878.

The only importation to note for last fortnight is the arrival of the "Onward" from Darien with pitch pine. Another vessel is shortly expected; and also one for Granton, viz., the "Gefion."

The timber trade still remains dull, and the demand is very limited.

Messrs. Mitchell, Thomson & Co. exposed for sale at their saw mills, Granton, yesterday, 12th, American timber, deals, battens, flooring, &c. There was a very large attendance, and the prices obtained were very fair. Several large lots were disposed of. The entire lot of cut yellow pine as advertised found buyers, viz., 76 lots, averaging 5¾d., 11-16d., 9¾d., to 1¾d., 2d., 2¼d., 2⅜d., and one lot 2 6-8d., running foot; 14 large waney logs, sawn into boards, brought 2s. 6d., 2s. 7d., 2s. 8d., 2s. 8¼d. per cubic foot. Waney logs, large size, 2s. 4d., 2s. 5d., 2s. 6d., and one lot 2s. 8d. per cubic foot.

Mail advices to March 2d, from Rio Janeiro (A. C. Nathan & Co.) report as follows:

Pitch Pine Deals.—The arrivals consist of 248,130 feet per Palestine from Brunswick, sold at 34$000; 153,700 feet per Jean from Pensacola, sold at 32$500; 348,471 feet per J. L. Pendergast from Brunswick, 312,317 feet per Joshua Loring from Mobile, and 302,514 feet per C. S. Bayles from Brunswick, all sold at 32$000 per dozen. The coming in of these 5 cargoes with 1,365,132 feet has enabled our dealers to force down prices and as they are well aware of another 6 cargoes being nearly due there is no probability of the next arrivals fetching above 32$000 to 32$500 per dozen.

White Pine Lumber.—The arrivals consist of 100,795 feet per Callao from Philadelphia, sold at 75 rs.; 45,445 feet per Sarah Wallace from New York, sold at 75 rs.; 1,952 feet per D. C. Chapman from Baltimore, sold at 60 rs.; 57,499 feet per County of Richmond from New York, half on order and half sold at 75 rs.; and 2,000 feet per Agnes Barton from Baltimore, not sold.

The market is very steady with a good consumptive demand, and we quote to-day 70 to 80 rs. per foot according to quality.

METALS—COPPER.—Ingot has met with a some what better demand, and the market gains tone, a reduced supply and prospective light receipts tending to further this end. Quoted at 17@17¼c. for Lake. Manufactured Copper meeting with some jobbing inquiry, but showing no activity and values without change. We quote as follows: Brazier's Copper, ordinary sizes, over 16 oz., per square foot, 28c. per lb; do. do., do. do., 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per square foot, 30c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per square foot, 32c. per lb.; do. do., lighter than 10 oz., per square foot, 34c. per lb.; circles, less than 84 inches in diameter, 31c per lb.; do. 84 inches diameter and over, 34c. per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 31c. per lb.; locomotive fire box sheets, 28c. per lb.; Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz., per square foot, 26c. per lb., and Bolt Copper 28c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig remains under more or less neglect, the only movement being of a jobbing character, and rates are unchanged. We quote at $23@26 per ton, according to brand and quantity. American pig has shown only moderate animation and some irregularity on value, but very little tendency toward an increase of strength. We quote at $18@19 for No. 1 per ton, $17@18 for No. 2 do, and $16@$17 for Forge. Rails selling slowly and bids ranging low. Most of the mills, however, are busy on old contracts and production is kept up very well. We quote at $32@35 for new iron, and $41@43 for Steel at the mills. Old Rails, $19@19.50 per ton; scrap, $22.00@23.00; the latter slow. Manufactured has had rather a dull market, with the tone slack, but about former rates preserved, except on planished sheet, which is reduced to 9¼c. for second, and 10¼c. for first quality. Common Merchant Bar can be had in round lots at 1.7c. and Refined at 1.9c., but for ten-ton lots from store. 1.9c. and 2.1c. are respectively insisted upon. Common sheet, 3c., and best R. G American, 4c. from store. LEAD—Domestic pig has become quite dull, with increased offerings of stock, both on spar and to arrive, and prices easier. We quote at about 3¾@3¾c. currency. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 5½c.; Pipe, 6c., and Sheet, 6½c.—less the usual discount to the trade; and Tin-lined Pipe, 15c. Block Tin Pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig has found only few buyers, and the general tone of the market was quite tame on all styles. We quote at 17@17¼c. for Banca, 14½@14¾c. for Straits, 14¾@14⅞c. for English Refined, and 14⅝@14¾c. for do. common. Tin plates moderately active, and about steady for the leading styles. Spelter jobbing in small lots at about former rates. Quoted at 5¼@5½c. Sheet Zinc quiet, but about steady in job lots. We quote at 7¾@7¾c. gold for foreign and 6¼@6⅝c. currency for domestic.

NAILS.—Demand has at times been fair, but never active beyond the ability of sellers to meet it promptly, and supplies appear to have been parted with quite as readily as they were called for. Stocks on hand are not large, but the accumulation is sustained and former rates are all that can be secured. We quote at $2.60 per keg for 10d. to 60d.

OILS.—Jobbers are doing a fair steady trade from day to day, in both illuminating and lubricating oils, at former rates. Linseed oil meets with a pretty good demand also, and rules about steady for small lots. Quoted at 59@61c. from crusher's hands.

PAINTS.—Business does not vary much. In some quarters the reports are dull, in others more cheerful, and on the average about the usual distribution is made. Prices, too, are without positive variation on the general range, though amount of invoice and terms of settlement influence cost occasionally.

PITCH.—The supply has continued about equal to the wants of the market, and former rates were as a rule accepted. Holders, however, incline to offer rather indifferently, and the tendency is toward greater steadiness. We quote at $2.00@2.25 per bbl. for city delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—For consumption the inquiry keeps about the ordinary form and volume, and is met by a sufficient supply. Holders, however, do not press their stocks, and generally look for about former rates, the valuations, as we write standing at 30½@32c. per gallon according to quantity handled.

TAR.—Operations are still confined in the main to small parcels for immediate consumption, and the market is without much life. About former rates current, but as the cost is low, holders of the stock are steady, especially on jobbing parcels. We quote at $2.00@2.75 for Newberne and Washington, and $2.12½@3.37½ for Wilmington.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C. and C. a. G. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or incumbered.

DRAINAGE.

Ancient Drainage.—In the first place let us brush away the cob-webs of ancient practice. The principal defects and vices of past methods may be defined in five specifications, to wit: the use of crockery pipes, buried pipes, unvented pipes, the mason-work stench trap, and party sewer connections. Let us consider these separately.

Crockery Pipes.—In years gone by a lively controversy was waged concerning the respective merits of crockery and iron soil pipes. Either kind found many and zealous champions. The argument in favor of crockery pipe centered in its cheapness. It was supposed also to possess superior resistance to the action of acids, and also this prime recommendation that its interior surface was smoothly glazed, and thus admitted of a free and ready passage of sewage. In point of fact and experience, it has been demonstrated that crockery pipe has no greater resistance to acids than iron pipe, if indeed it has as much. A strong argument against the use of crockery pipe is its extreme brittleness, being liable to yield readily to the least strain of superimposed pressure. Its last and fatal condemnation lies in the difficulty of making a satisfactory joint either with pipes of its kind or with iron pipe. The usual, and about the only method of sealing the joints of crockery pipe, or of closing the opening made in it for the introduction of an iron pipe, is by the use of cement. This joint is proverbially unreliable, and yields to the action of acids long in advance of the disintegration of the pipe itself. For use in modern dwelling houses the crockery pipe must be discarded. Whatever service it may render in the drainage of farm lands or open lots, there is no use which a skilful mechanic can make of it in modern house drainage.

Buried Pipes.—As if to add to the condemnation of crockery pipe, the former custom was invariably to bury it in the cellar bottom, and also to use it in making underground connections with cess-pools. The practice of burying pipes, whether earthen or iron, is thoroughly condemned by sanitarians. The objection to this practice is not altogether theoretical, but mechanical and practical. Whether crockery or iron pipe is buried in the soil one result is likely to ensue, to wit: its rapid disintegration. The action of the sewage gases from within, and of mineral salts from the earth on the outside, are pretty apt to cause a rapid decay. The practice of burying pipes, particularly under cellar floors, is objectionable from the danger of some great pressure being imposed upon them, such as the dumping of coal and the chopping of wood, or even the fall of footsteps, any of which forces is apt to cause the loosening of the joints, or, at all events, the dislocation of their continuity in a way to cause obstructions and prevent effective drainage. The moment joints are loosened or a fracture is made two conditions are apt to result: the escape of sewer gases into the cellar, and the distribution of sewage matter under the cellar bottom. If the surface of the cellar floor is tightly sealed with cement, the outlet of sewer gases may be confined to the pipe, but the percolation of the sewage matter is likely to go on until the whole under-surface of the house is flooded with a putrid and filthy mass, causing one of the most baleful conditions of defective sewerage. This ancient custom of burying soil pipes within house enclosures must be totally given up and avoided by any builder who desires to make his buildings conform to the modern standard.

Unvented Pipes.—Another untenable practice of the past is that of running up a soil pipe into the dwelling without providing a vent for the same at the roof. The common supposition in former days was that the connection of the roof leader with the main soil pipe afforded sufficient egress for foul air and gases. But modern science has proved that this expedient alone is not sufficient, and that it is unjustifiable and even criminal to carry soil pipes into the upper stories of houses without also carrying them to the roof and there providing a proper vent.

Mason Traps.—The mason-work stench trap is one of the crudest devices of uninstructed mechanical genius. It consists of a pit or a cube, about two feet in dimensions, sunk in the bottom of the cellar. The house soil-pipe enters it on one side so that this pit or sink becomes a receptacle for the entire sewage of the house, and the outlet for it is by another pipe fitted to the opposite side continuing out to the street sewer. Midway between these two sides, and parallel with them, there is let into the lateral sides a drop flag, which usually extends to within four or six inches of the bottom of the sink. This was supposed to constitute an effectual and reliable seal against the ingress of odors, gases, and rats from the sewer. This system exists to-day in many thousand cellars in this city as the only device that builders of the past generation could invent for the sanitary protection of buildings. This contrivance is nothing but a perpetuation of the ancient privy-sink, and possesses no merit to recommend it, while it is open to fatal attack on mechanical and sanitary grounds. The advantages which it was supposed to secure are more efficiently attained by more modern contrivances; and it is doubtful whether any practical good results from its use. It provides a lodgment for excremental deposits, which should be hurried into the main sewer with the utmost dispatch. It becomes, besides a magazine of active gases, which must find their way either through the joints of the flag cover, or else through the soil-pipes leading into the house. An intelligent examination of the obvious effects of this stench-trap will satisfy the least experienced person that it is prejudicial to sound sanitary conditions. Where it now exists it should be abolished, and its further use in new buildings should be entirely done away with.

Party Sewer Connections.—It is a common practice with careless builders even at this late day, to make one sewer connection serve for the drainage of two, three or more houses. In a rock bottom the saving effected by this expedient is very large, while in earth bottoms the economy of this method is obvious enough to commend it to unscrupulous builders. It is the natural outgrowth of the buried pipe system. To make one sewer connection serve three or more houses, it becomes necessary to run the soil pipes of some houses through and under the cellars of others. When pipes are buried out of sight, usually under the cellar floor, builders can trail them whithersoever they choose. It would be a safe assumption in any case where the main house soil pipe is thus buried, that there is not an independent sewer connection. Honesty and sanitary security require all plumbing and soil pipes within the house walls to be fully exposed to view and made easily accessible. Under these circumstances, it would be possible to readily determine, in examining a row of houses, whether independent or party sewer connections have been made.

The objections to the party sewer connection are social, mechanical and legal, sufficient, together or singly, to utterly condemn it. Adjoining households are not ordinarily conducted with equal care, consequently, under the party sewer system, the more cautious household is apt to be incommoded by obstructions which may choke the joint pipe through the remissness or bad practice of a careless neighbor. Besides the joining of pipes in this way involves long stretches of horizontal pipe and other mechanical conditions exceedingly favorable for causing obstructions in the pipe. This arrangement of pipes was once deemed to constitute an easement, and to create dominant and servient estates, but these doctrines have been exploded. The man on whose lot the actual sewer connection exists may summarily order off all joint users of the connection as intruders.

Modern Drainage.—The science of modern drainage is already crystallizing itself into three distinct schools, to wit: the exponents of the principle of exclusion, of ventilation and of a mixed principle of exclusion and ventilation combined.

Exclusion.—The dogma of this school is, that by the introduction of numerous well distributed traps a perfect exclusion of sewer gas from soil pipes may be effected, and thus the necessity for ventilation may be done away with, and all apprehension of the invasion of sewer gases may be allayed. In the practice of this school, a trap is placed on the main soil pipe where it first enters the building, on all standing pipes as they rise into the interior of the house and upon all fixtures within the house. This theory seems to be plausible enough, but the difficulty is that it utterly fails in practical working. A multiplicity of traps is found to be a hindrance to proper drainage, inasmuch as two or more consecutive traps, unprovided with intermediate vents, are sure to give rise to an air-bound condition. That is, the column of air between the seals of two traps will have resistance enough to impede, if not to wholly obstruct the flow of drainage. On the other hand, a suction force exerted in the main sewer having sufficient power to unseal one trap in the series, will be sure to unseal all the others. Thus the system will be left exposed to the in-cursion of sewer gas until the traps are once more filled up.

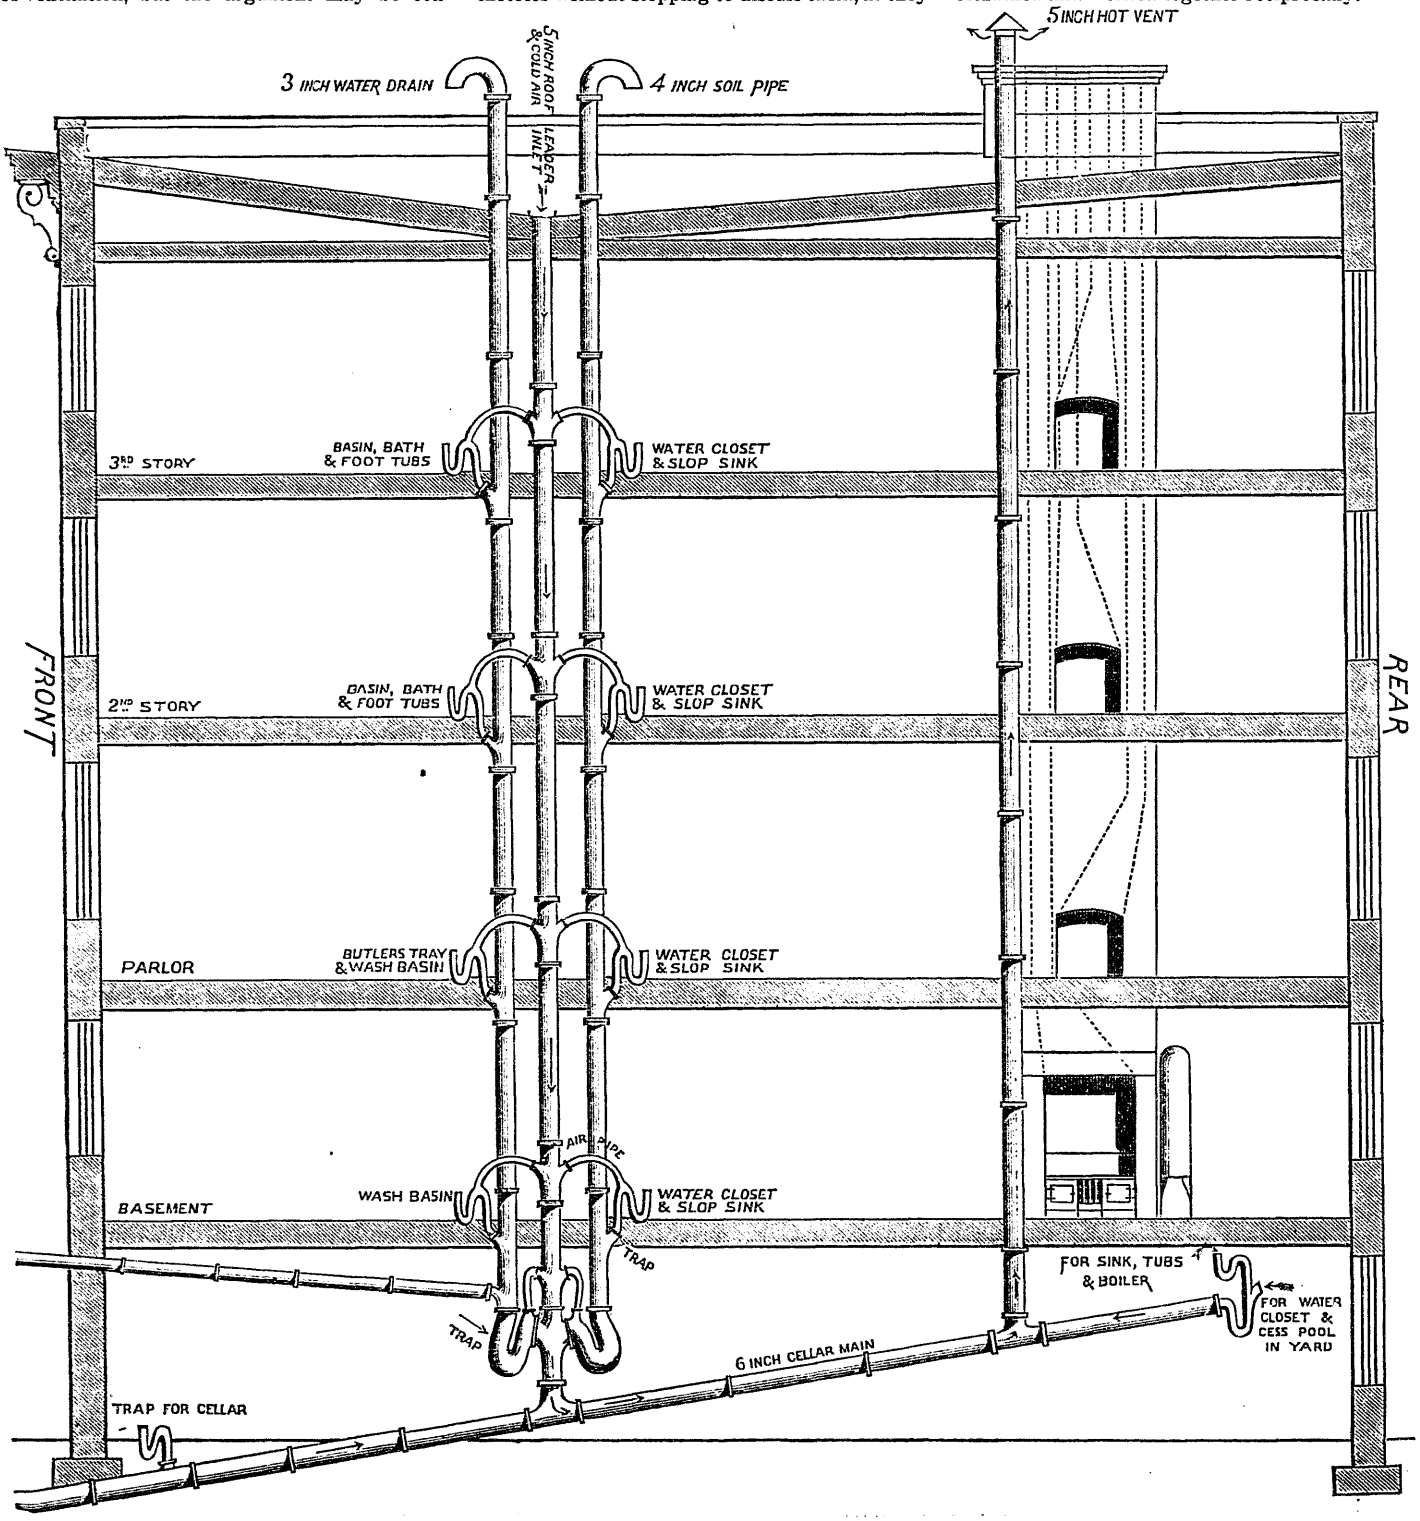
The system of exclusion really constitutes but one branch of the science. It represents one of the earliest and least effectual attempts at reforming the prevailing ancient sewerage system. Practical experiments have demonstrated the real utility, service and limitation of the trap system.

Ventilation.—Another school of theorists advocate the abolishment of all or nearly all the trapping of drain pipes.

It is their peculiar hobby that, in the adoption of a proper system of ventilation of soil pipes, lies the effectual and reliable remedy of escaping sewer gas. The dictum of this school is ventilate, ventilate, ventilate. We will not now stop to consider what is deemed to be a sufficient system of ventilation, but the argument may be condensed in a single statement, to the effect that provided sufficient venting or ventilation of soil pipes is secured, the sanitary condition of soil pipes and of buildings can be best effected by the absence of traps. It is claimed that traps actually prevent proper circulation of air, and reduce the sections of pipes above them to the status of tight boxes which no ingenuity has yet been able to aerate. Consequently, in the practice of these scientists, we find that soil pipes are connected with the sewer, brought into the house, run up to the roof as air vents and leaders, and all necessary vertical connections made entirely free from trapping. Some go so far as to discountenance the trapping of fixtures, while conspicuous leaders in plumbing reform have invented and offered for sale what are termed trapless water-closets. We content ourselves with stating these theories without stopping to discuss them, as they serve to represent the slow steps of scientific progress in the elucidation of this subject.

Exclusion and Ventilation.—We come now to consider the latest, most acceptable and, we may add, the most scientific theory of modern drainage. It is that one which seeks to combine the benefits of the two systems of ventilation and exclusion—exclusion to prevent as far as possible the incursion of foul gases, and ventilation to effectually dispose of such gases as may be generated in the pipes themselves, or such as may accidentally escape through the traps provided. Such a system, probably, represents the maximum of attainable results in this department of household science. Observation and experiment have demonstrated that neither system alone is reliable enough to warrant its single adoption. For efficient drainage, the two systems must be combined and worked together reciprocally.



Under the inspiration of these ideas, a general system has been devised, laid out, perhaps, on too elaborate a scale for adoption by house builders, but still embodying and illustrating many of the best thoughts connected with the subject. This system starts with the double trapping of the main soil pipe at the point where it enters the house. Between these two traps an air pipe of the same bore as the soil pipe is carried up vertically to the roof. This serves the double purpose of preventing an air-bound condition between these traps and providing an outlet for incoming sewer gas when the seal of the first trap is broken. It is likely that this air pipe will sufficiently protect the second trap against suction and back pressure to insure the permanence of its seal. Then all vertical pipe connections are carried up full bore to the roof, and all fixtures let into these vertical pipes have traps which are also ventilated at the top for the protection of their seals. To prevent the formation of an air cushion in the pipe between the down-flowing sewage or roof water and the double trapping of the cellar soil pipe, a separate pipe is carried obliquely from the cellar soil pipe just beyond the second trap to the street gutter. This feature seems to us to be superfluous, as the air pipe, already mentioned, as being provided between the two traps might be expected to answer the purpose. Besides, this gutter pipe is almost certain to be choked up in time with mud or ice and thus rendered unserviceable, or, if it could be kept open, it affords the outlet for the contained gases of the pipe at an unsuitable and dangerous level.

At all events, this system fully represents the duplex idea of ventilation and exclusion, and as far as we can discover, it is lacking for its completeness in only one essential feature, to wit: the element of force or heat to insure the establishment of a current whereby the whole atmosphere of the system may be kept in motion and its delivery at the top of the building guaranteed. No proper ventilation can be secured without the application of force or of heat, and of these two the latter is the most convenient in ordinary dwellings.

Another objection to the system we have described, as it has been presented, is that the fixture traps are ventilated into the main soil pipe itself, whereas better results could be secured if this ventilation were associated with a separate air pipe.

The common and accepted method of discussing this question is by means of pictorial illustrations, and, for a subject apparently so complicated and controverted, this is no doubt the most perspicuous plan. The enterprise or temerity of the Board of Health led that highly respectable body of gentlemen to put forth the initial pictorial illustration which, however, proved on examination to be nothing more than a publication of the prevailing ignorance even among intelligent men and professed experts upon the practical elements of the subject. The system thus proposed was found to abound in all the leading defects that pertain to improper drainage.

Up to the present time the conflict of views upon this subject, and the controversies growing out of them, have excelled the theological polemics of the middle ages. It would be a disgrace to our modern science and civilization if some practical good failed to be derived from the extensive agitation which this subject has undergone. We have taken the pains to examine the latest and most improved theories, and have aimed to combine in the accompanying chart all the excellences of them. We have applied our powers of investigation to the discovery of some simple practical system, which we could recommend for adoption by house builders at large. Having in view the promotion of the best results at the least possible outlay, we claim nothing more for our scheme than the merit of a sincere study of the science of drainage. Whatever failures or defects may be observed in it, can be rectified by subsequent explorers.

Referring to the cut which accompanies this article, we would say that we have aimed to make the diagram self-luminous and explanatory. It is intended for the criticism of practical and experienced men, although we trust its details may be intelligible even to unprofessional readers. We have eschewed the introduction of any fixtures, for the reason that they unnecessarily load and complicate a sectional diagram of this kind, but we have provided all the inlets that can be needed in the most extended system of plumbing.

General Drainage.—It is perhaps unnecessary to premise that we have adopted as our choice and judgment the twin system of exclusion and ventilation. The principle of ventilation, however, is the conspicuous and controlling one in our conception. The principle of exclusion by means of traps is applied mainly with a view of shutting out the poisonous gases of the street sewer, while at the same time, we have provided the means of ventilating the very pipes from which the sewer gas is excluded. The effectual ventilation of this system is secured by means of what we will call the hot-vent pipe. This is the central and indispensable feature of this system, which being once established, all the other pipes can be easily disposed with relation to it. This hot-vent pipe is intended to be carried from its connection with the cellar soil pipe up through, or alongside of the kitchen range flue. In occupied dwellings the range is supposed to be in continuous use the year round, and even if its use is intermitted for a day, there is usually sufficient heat retained in the flue to answer the purpose in view. The heat of this pipe establishes a strong current or suction which will draw its supply of air from every other pipe connected with it, and consequently through this hot-vent pipe the gases and fetid atmosphere of the soil pipes will be carried up to outside space, and a current of fresh air from the cold inlet pipe made to flood the entire system.

The inlet or cold air supply pipe is also intended to be used as a roof leader. The double use of this pipe is here presented as a feature of economy, although not an obligatory or necessary one. Where the expense can be afforded, it would probably be better to provide a separate pipe at the rear for roof drainage, although we favor the practice of a roof leader built in the wall, especially when it can be so placed as to be accessible at all points. It insures the protection of this pipe from frost, which is an unavoidable and troublesome incident of the exposed roof leader. Besides the principle of using this inlet air pipe as a roof leader is scientifically correct, because the rush of roof water through it will have a tendency to increase the down current of fresh air, and thus promote the ventilation of the system at a time when scientists tell us it stands most in need of it.

Another feature introduced into this system, though not an original one since it is commonly adopted in all good work at the present time, is that of providing a separate soil pipe for water closets; and another one for basins, tubs and foot baths. The propriety of maintaining separate drainage for these two kinds of sewage must be obvious. The water closet and its soil pipe are the active generators of foul gases within the dwelling, and when the basins and tubs are connected with this soil pipe, or, as they too often are, with the very trap itself of the water closet (a most reprehensible practice), additional risk is run of the penetration of these gases into the dwelling or of the backing of the filthy liquid of the water closet trap into the drain pipes of the other fixtures. By providing separate pipes the drainage of each is carried directly into the trap in the cellar without any chance of being intercepted, and the sanitary condition of the basins and tubs is guaranteed. It would probably be a further improvement upon this system if instead of connecting the drain pipe of the basin and tubs directly with the soil pipe in the cellar, as shown in the cut, this drain pipe should be disconnected and allowed to empty into a trap or box in the cellar of larger diameter than itself. By breaking the continuity of this drain pipe in the cellar we run only one risk, to wit: that of the incursion of cellar atmosphere into this pipe; but as it is provided with an outlet at the roof and all fixtures connected with it are trapped, this risk becomes trifling and harmless. The great advantage of breaking the connection of this pipe is that it removes it, and all the fixture traps connecting with it, from the action of those mysterious and uncontrollable forces which are at work, day and night, in the street sewers and which seem to be clothed with an inscrutable power of forcing the seals of traps at the most remote distances. This system might be further improved by introducing the double trap and air pipe in the cellar soil pipe just where it enters the front wall of the building. We consider this provision superfluous and extravagant in ordinary building since it is certain that with the provision of an active upcast shaft, such as our hot vent pipe is intended to be, there will be no chance for incoming sewer gas to find its way into any other pipe but this hot vent.

The most extensive and radical application of this principle of an up-cast shaft is to be found in certain public buildings, particularly in the large charitable institution erected by the State of New Jersey, at Morris Plains, where all the soil pipes of the building are ventilated into an up-cast shaft of suitable capacity. All traps, even fixture-traps, are dispensed with in the drainage of the building, and it is claimed that not only the entire sewerage system is thus ventilated, but that the interior of the building is also kept in a state of wholesome ventilation, by the suction which is constantly being exerted through the drain pipes.

We believe that it is within the power of leading speculative builders to adopt the system which we here present in the construction of even ordinary houses, as the additional expense will be limited to one line of pipe, to wit: the hot vent-pipe; or, at most, to two lines of pipe—the hot vent-pipe and the extra soil-pipe.

Special Drainage.—But little more remains to be said to exhaust the practical application of this system, and that relates to the introduction of special waste pipes into these general soil-pipes. Where the system of double soil-pipes is used, the special system becomes simple and free from possible risks. In these lateral or special waste-pipes the principal precaution to be observed is that of avoiding horizontal lines. Every pipe leading into a standing soil-pipe should have as much dip as possible. The waste-pipe of every fixture should be trapped either at the fixture itself or at the soil-pipe—the first method being preferable; and in every case this fixture trap should be ventilated at the top of the trap, that is between the seal and the vertical soil-pipe to prevent the forcing of the water seal in the trap by suction, as well as to prevent the unsealing of the trap by any back pressure. This venting or ventilation of the trap should be effected with a pipe of the same bore as the waste-pipe itself, and carried into the cold air-pipe where this is provided. By means of these ducts really leading from the soil-pipe to the cold air-pipe the ventilation of the whole system is secured, since the suction of the hot vent-pipe will be sufficient to draw the air of the soil-pipes through these special air ducts. Water closets need a double ventilation; that is by a pipe, of at least three inches bore, leading from the top of the trap between the water seal and the vertical soil pipe, and another pipe leading from the section of trap between the bowl or bowl-pan and the water seal. All safe wastes should be drained into a weeping pipe, having its outlet in the cellar floor and not connected with any soil or sewer pipe. If the basin and tub drain pipe is disconnected and empties itself into a trap or box in the cellar, as already suggested, then the safe wastes can be let into that pipe. The tank overflow should also be connected with the drain pipe of the basins and tubs. The pipe leading from the yard cess-pool as well as the pipe leading from the front area cess-pool should be free from any trapping until it reaches the interior of the cellar and there, these pipes should be let into a trap which is likely to be kept supplied with water. That is, as shown in the cut either through the trap which takes the kitchen drainage or one of the traps that take the house drainage. Cesspool in cellar bottom should be provided with a large bell trap or with capacious S-trap, the larger the better, as this is the least controllable fixture in the house.

BUILDING SKYWARD.

To build heavenward instead of toward any of the four corners of the earth when increasing the capacity of an edifice is not exactly a novel experiment, but when an already successful corporation, without the purchase of a single inch of additional ground, materially increases its revenues by adding story after story to its building, it shows that in these regenerate times there are to be found even insurance companies who conduct their business on as energetic and at the same economical principles as a private individual. The Continental Fire Insurance Company, at 100 and 102 Broadway, occupy a building in the space of an L. on Broadway and Pine street. They have just added two stories to the main building and three stories to the building on Pine street, giving the company three entire new floors, all fitted up in excellent offices for renting purposes. These additions have been so peculiarly constructed of iron frame work resting on cement piers that they add but little to the previous weight of the old walls; a matter of great significance when the increased amount of room is considered. The iron frame again, which from Pine street especially while there are three floors, give to the building quite an ornamental finish, is filled in between the uprights with fire-proof material and stiffened on the outside by iron laths. The outside cladding is burnt clay filling quite ornamental. The attention of owners of warehouses or business houses generally is directed to this peculiarity in construction, as the plan here described enables anyone to place additional stories on his building, where brick walls would not be permitted to run up, the increased height being a matter of advantage now-a-days, where the elevator constantly in use annihilates the distance between upper floors and the street.

The rooms on the new floors are all arranged in suites to accommodate lawyers and others desirous of occupying airy and pleasant offices, as by the arrangment of an out side open court the interior of the Continental building, especially on the new floors, is thouroughly lighted and ventilated. In fact there are no dark rooms in the building.

The contractor, who has had also the superintendence of the interior fittings, is Mr. Elward Smith of 47 Ann street, and he has succeeded in placing before the use of the many parties who desire business places, in that ever thriving locality, offices that are not only substantially constructed, but have throughout a most cheerful appearance.

The iron was furnished by Post & McCord in accordance with the stipulations demanded by L. W. Leeds & Co., the architects, to whom the origin of this novel idea of construction must be awarded. So completely are the Messrs. Post & McCord satisfied with the Continental offices that they themselves intend to move into one of the suites even before the first of May.

Our readers must remember that some time ago we called attention in these columns to the fire-proof material patented by the Messrs. Lyons & Bunn, of East Twenty-ninth street. We then pointed out, speaking of the trial of the material in their yard, which was witnessed by numerous architects, builders and experts; how thoroughly efficacious their new material withstood numerous volumes of fire and flames and predicted for it great success in the future of building operations, in so far as the principle controlling the composition of their material had far more of the practical builder's talent in it than the ordinary material placed upon the market by mere theorists. Since then it has been widely used, not only in this city, but in Baltimore, Md., and we are happy to state that the Continental offices have the advantage of possessing this excellent fire-proof material, which actually does resist the dangerous element of fire thoroughly and completely.

Messrs. Galland & Co., have furnished an elevator for which they claim great superiority. It must be admitted that their elevators in the Evening Post building now work admirably. They there took the place of others which did not answer the purpose, and have ever since given satisfaction.

In conclusion it affords us pleasure to state that, from all we can hear, the Continental Fire Insurance Company has already secured quite a remunerative income from the new improvements.

OFFICIAL TEXT OF THE NEW TAX LAW.

January 21, 1878.

AN ACT—For the relief of taxpayers owning mortgaged real estate.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Any person owning real estate on which there is a lien by mortgage *[given for the purchase money, or for any debt created or incured for said purchase money,] which the owner of said real estate is liable to pay, shall have the amount of said lien deducted from the actual value of said real estate, whenever any assessment is made on said real estate.

§ 2. In case any person owning such real estate shall overstate the amount of said lien, *[or procure the exemption of any mortgage given for any other debt than hereinbefore specified,] with intent to deceive the person assessing the same, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be liable to fine or imprisonment, or both.

§ 3. The assessors at the time of making their assessment shall ascertain the value and assess all mortgages on real estate in a separate column provided for that purpose, to the person owning the same, and if the tax on the same shall not be paid within thirty days after the tax roll shall have been put into the collector's hands, the person owning said real estate thus mortgaged shall pay the tax, and the said tax so paid shall be deducted from the interest or principal of said mortgage when the same shall become due and payable.

§ 4. Any person owning said mortgage thus assessed, and residing in this State, shall have the said mortgage so assessed deducted from the amount of his personal property assessed at his place of residence, upon furnishing to the assessor or assessors where he resides a sworn statement of the assessor or assessors where the land is situated and the mortgage assessed, that the said mortgage has been assessed by them and the amount of such assessment.

§ 5. It shall be lawful for the parties to any mortgage described in the first section of this act to make and enter therein an agreement to the effect that the mortgagor will pay all taxes assessed upon such mortgage in the town where the mortgaged premises are situated, and in all cases in which a mortgage shall contain such agreement the provisions of this act shall not apply to the real estate so mortgaged nor to such mortgage.

§ 6. The provisions of this act shall not apply to corporations.

§ 7. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

§ 8. This act shall take effect immediately.

* Sentences in brackets were struck out by the Senate.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The important sales of the week were the improved and unimproved property belonging to the estate of Charles M. Connolly, deceased, and certain valuable improved property offered by order of the executors of Robert L. Maitland, deceased. Mr. R. H. Arkenburg bought the five lots on the Grand circle, Broadway, southeast corner of Fifty-ninth street, for $72,500, and Mr. Camp purchased the five-story brick house, with lot, No. 55 Water street, for $16,200. Low prices were obtained for the unimproved property belonging to the Connolly estate. The two four-story and attic brick buildings, with lots known as Nos. 5 and 7 South William street, belonging to the Maitland estate, were purchased by Francis A. Weeks for $50,000, and the five-story brick store, No. 276 Greenwich street, was bought by Charles F. Mattlage, for $40,000. We are informed that other improved property belonging to the same estate, although knocked down, was not sold. Full details of all sales, whether under foreclosure proceedings or otherwise, appear below.

The list of advertised judicial sales for the coming week is unusually large, and special attention is directed to the sale advertised to take place on April 15th, by P. F. Meyer, of two houses and lots situated on West Fourteenth street between Sixth and Seventh avenues; one flat house (seven flats) and brick stable in West Forty-fifth street between Tenth and Eleventh avenues; nine lots on the same street adjoining the above and seven lots on Forty-fourth street in the rear. This entire property belongs to the estate of Philip W. Engs, deceased, and will be sold in pursuance of an order of the court made in proceedings under partition.

An unusual amount of property will be offered for sale by financial institutions to satisfy liens acquired by mortgages. Ten sales are advertised to take place to satisfy mortgages, aggregating $141,000 or thereabouts, in favor of the Union Dime Savings Institution, and nine more in favor of the New York Life Insurance Company, aggregating $96,500, or thereabouts. The total amount of liens in favor of all institutions to be satisfied by sales of foreclosed property reaches about $310,000.

The following private sales have been made since our last report. Mr. Augustus F. Holly has sold to George Ehret, the Brewer, plot of land with temporary wooden buildings (100x100) northwest corner Third avenue and Fiftieth street, for $55,000, cash. In 1870 this property was sold for $72,500. G. N. Williams has sold to D. H. Gould, Restaurateur, a new house with lot (20x60x100.5) on the south side of Sixty-eighth street, between Madison and Fourth avenues, for $26,000. The house is remarkably well built and finished in the highest style of modern elegance.

Noteworthy activity has been displayed in the Building Department, during the week ending April 11, 1878. Thirty plans embracing 88 buildings were filed with the Superintendent, the estimated cost of which is $648,500. On One Hundred and Seventeenth street, east of the Boulevard, the New York Hospital intend to erect a building at a cost of $100,000. A five-story store at the corner of Spring and Greene streets, which will cost $30,000; and on Ninety-seventh street, between First and Second avenues, 20 buildings will be erected. Other important buildings will be erected in the upper part of the city, full particulars concerning which, appear in the list of projected buildings printed in another column.

The following are the sales at the Exchange Salesroom for the week ending April 11:

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

In the City of Brooklyn, Messrs. I. F. Bissell, Jacob Cole and Cole & Murphy, have made the following sales for the week ending April 10:

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

The Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange has finally concluded a lease upon its present premises for another year, and there will be no removal, as at one time appeared likely.

BRICKS.—On local account the demand for common Hards has not been particularly active, and the market shows no very positive change. The very fair purchases made on the first opening of the river placed a pretty good supply in the hands of consumers and following out the old policy of keeping operations to actual wants, the majority of buyers are likely to hold off until they again have use for stock. There has, however, been a sufficient outlet afforded for the current offering, which was not very large, and the former general range of values is preserved on all good lots. The stormy weather this week has slightly interfered with work, but not to any great extent. The reported strike among brick layers did not amount to much, being confined to the workmen of a few small contractors and quickly settled. Pale Brick have found a little demand but are not in very great favor, and $2 50 per M appears to be the average top price, only very choice quality exceeding this rate. Fronts are steady and moderately active. Dealers in the finer grades report a very fair prospect for Philadelphia made this season, but seem to think that Baltimores are not likely to have a free sale The most important development since our last is the re-opening of the export demand. We have before referred to the probabilty that business would be resumed on this outlet, and it is now an established fact St. John, N. B., being the point to which shipments are made. About 350,000 have already gone forward, and some nine or ten vessels are under charter to load at $2 25@2 50 per M. freight from Haverstraw Bay, and $2 25 do from Sayerville, N. J. The rates paid for the brick are doubtful, but the average valuation appears to be a fraction over $5 37½ per M. A portion of the trade apper to think that the export movement is not likely to afford much of a margin for profit, but are pleased to find a vent for surplus stock.

We quote Pale, ⅌ M., $2.50@2.75; Hards, Up-rivers, $4.75@5.25; Haverstraw bay, $5.25@5.75; favorite brands, $—@6.00; Fronts, Croton—brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $23@27; Baltimore, $34@38.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5 00@6.00 on fronts.

HARDWARE.—Operations have been somewhat variable, and confined as before in the main to parcels required on positive and well assured wants. Still, taken altogether, the amount of stock going out is on the increase, and the general market in a fairly encouraging position, so far as the movement of goods is concerned. On prices, however, matters do not appear to be quite so satisfactory, and there is continued complaint of irregularity and departures from combination rates, etc. Assortments are ample and any ordinary selection can be made without difficulty. Mallory, Wheeler & Co. have reduced the price on mineral and porcelain door knobs as follows: Nos. 216 and 218 mineral to $1.40 per dozen; Nos. 236 and 238 porcelain to $1.70 do., subject to their regular discounts. At a meeting of hinge manufacturers the price of strap and T hinges was advanced to 60 and 10 per cent discount from list, cash thirty days.

LATH.—Dealers are in no case carrying very large stocks either here or at dependent points, but, as the demand from consumers does not expand, there is about enough to go around, with a little to spare. This has been reflected upon the wholesale market for some time past, and weakened the power of the wholesale-selling interest very materially. Since our last there has been another shading on values with sales at $1 40@1 45, and the latter is probably about all that could at present be obtained, though at the close there was an inclination shown to talk matters somewhat firmer again.

LIME.—The market as yet remains somewhat unsatisfactory to sellers, inasmuch, as the demand runs light and slow, and values receive no stimulus. The indications, however, are thought to be more promising, in view of increasing energy shown in preparations and active commencement of work, and as the stock afloat keeps within narrow bounds, the tone is steadier at former quotations. The amount held by dealers is moderate of both kinds.

LUMBER.—Our local trade is not picking up rapidly, and the market as a whole fails to develope any positive animation. Some of the dealers have been pretty busy, and most of the fresh offerings of stock afloat find an outlet, but the demand is scarcely of that free open character calculated to infuse a healthy, cheerful feeling, and especially where oversanguine expectations have been entertained. Consumers find no reason to depart from the careful hand-to-mouth system, even where they could do so without inconvenience, and beside this the very early opening of the season came before buyers were really prepared to operate, and it will still require some time for all to decide what they are likely to want for early use. The matter of credit, too, it is understood, acts as quite an important factor this spring, and, with the lines drawn very close in many cases, customers find it difficult to purchase with the freedom they had anticipated. Exporters do not give much additional encouragement, and while orders are in a few cases pretty full, there seems to be apprehension of danger in sending many goods abroad. It is now pretty certain that the Western log crop will be short, but the State, Pennsylvania, Canadian and Eastern runs ample.

Eastern Spruce has not met with a free or open demand, and as a rule buyers appear to be in a careful mood, while the tendency of values is to shade off somewhat. Still there is no positive depression, and the accumulation of unsold stock afloat is moderate. About former rates remain current, but outside figures are quite extreme. We quote at $13.00@14.50 for random, possibly $15.00 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $14.00@16.00 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

Yellow Pine has not been particularly active. Some contracts were closed for local use, and also for delivery at points along the Sound, etc., with a few odd calls from exporters seeking cargoes to go out from the South. The export business, however, lacks vigor, and latest Brazilian advices were more or less discouraging. We quote random cargoes at about $19@22 per M.; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do; green flooring boards, $21@23 do; and dry do. do. $23@24; Cargoes at the South, $14@16.50 per M; hewn timber, $7.50@14.

White Pine has a surface appearance at least of considerable strength, and the majority of dealers are speaking confidently. For once, the Western lumbermen appear to have been justified in the claim of a short crop of logs, and while there is a possibility, and even a probability that this will find a neutralizing influence, the tendency at present is to infuse a better tone into the primary, distributive and consumptive markets. The business here is light on local account, most orders being of a jobbing character, but there is a little call for export, and seems to be somewhat greater confidence in the South American trade. Very little stock adapted to the latter outlet is now here, and we understand that some of the recent shipments have been made from West India descriptions. We quote at $15@17 per M. for West India shipping boards; $19.50@20.50 for South American do; $15@16 for box boards; $17 for do. wide and sound; and timber to order at $30@40 per M.

Hardwoods are reported as without any very decided change, and in general terms the the market may be called fairly active and steady. We think on the whole, however, the outlook for the market is rather better than last year. The manufacturing interest is not particularly solid, but in various ways the consumption promises to increase somewhat, and consignments abroad, where quality was at all good, have met with sufficient favor to warrant a continuation of fair shipments. Walnut and Maple are favorite styles, but there is also more or less call for oak and considerable doing in Cherry, the latter for city consumption. We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $77@85 ₱ M: ash, $33@36 do: oak, $35@40 do.; maple, $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d $30@35; do., do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $45@75 do.; white wood, ¼ and ⅝ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $33@35 do.; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $40@50 for good nearby stock.

At the yard there is about the ordinary condition of affairs, business one day proving fair, and the next quite slow, but on the whole reaching a reasonable full aggregate for the season. Cost of supplies does not vary much, and dealers find a sudden loss of interest among buyers whenever any addition to prices is talked of.

Among recent lumber charters we find the following: barque, 450 tons, from Pensacola or Apalachicola to a direct point on the Continent, boards, £6; a barque, 403 tons, from Pensacola to a direct port in the United Kingdom, hewn timber, 42s. ₱ load; a Br. barque, 582 tons, same voyage, lumber, £6; an Am. barque, 475 tons, from Portland to River Plate, lumber, $14 net; a barque, 375 tons, from Pensacola to North Side Cuba, lumber, $7.25; a schr., 197 tons, hence to Jacksonville, and back with lumber, $8 for the round; a schr., 101 tons, from Pantego to New York, shingles, $2.25 ₱ M.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From Lumberman's Gazette as follows:

BAY CITY, Friday, April 5, 1878.

The only change to report in the condition of the lumber market since our last issue is that there are a large number of buyers in the valley from both east and west, who seem more inclined to buy than at any time this season. This is especially so with those from the west, where an active demand has sprung up for lumber of all kinds. Our latest advices from Chicago show an active demand, while dealers are firm in their prices. This is not so in the east. The demand is light and dealers do not as yet feel encouraged to advance the prices sufficiently to warrant them in replenishing there now depleted stocks at the prices asked by manufacturers. We do not, however, see any reason why manufacturers should sell at prices lower than those now demanded. While there will undoubtedly be a large number of logs put into the streams by rail, unless we get very heavy rains it will be utterly impossible for them to reach the mills this season, as the water in many of the streams is now so low as to preclude all possibility of driving. The weather is clear, and there are no indications of having enough rain to raise the streams sufficiently to bring the logs down.

Shipping has commenced; the first cargoes which left the river have reached Tonawanda in safety, and we presume that ere another issue of the Gazette reaches its readers, the mills and shipping on the Saginaw river will be in full blast.

We hear of a sale of 4,000,000 feet to Chicago parties at prices which do not vary from our former quotations. There is an active demand for shingles, the prices of which has been advanced to $3 for XXX and $2 for No. 1 clear butts. Lath is firm at $1.50.

The wholesale quotations following are the prices at which manufacturers hold stocks:

Three uppers	$28 00@30 00
Common	12 00@14 00
Shipping culls	6 00@ 7 00
Lath	@ 1 50

A trip up or down the Saginaw shows that some of the saw mills have commenced their season's work, it probably will be an early quitting as well as an early beginning, as few of them have half a supply of logs.

The Gazette's Chicago correspondent writes:

The price of common lumber was advanced last week 50 cents on the thousand, and the advance has been well maintained. The trade is very active and orders heavy from both east and west, the upper grades going to the eastern markets.

There have been some receipts by lake, but only a few, and have been sent to the yards, no cargoes being as yet sold on the market. It is now thought, I believe, that the receipts of stock in this market will be light until late in the season, as the mills will not start up very early and the stock of logs on hand at the mills is low.

The local demand for stock here is heavy for the time of year, and the yard trade was never better so early in the spring. The building season is opening up lively, and bids fair to be a very active one.

CANADA.

From the Pembroke (Ont.) Observer:

It is now established beyond all peradventure that a very large quantity indeed of the timber and saw log cut of the past winter cannot possibly reach market this season. The remarkably sudden collapse of our scanty snow found many lumbermen very considerably behind with their drawing, and as time elapses the hope then entertained of receiving further supplies of that "slippery" article are found to have been entirely delusive, and nearly all the hauling teams have now been discharged and sent to their homes. If it were any satisfaction to have partners in misfortune in this respect, our Ottawa lumbermen may feel comforted.

There can be no question, too, that the troubles of the lumbermen this season will not be confined to those caused by the insufficiency of snow for hauling purposes. Everything at present seems to indicate that the water in the streams and rivers will be unusually low this spring; it is safe to say that this will undoubtedly be the case unless we are favored with a very copious rainfall. The swamps and smaller streams are being drained of their contents very rapidly by the present condition of the weather, while, as yet, there is no possibility of much being done at the drive, and there is no snow to be set in motion by subsequent thaws. Nothing, we are assured, but a large rainfall, added to a favorable condition of the weather, can save a considerable percentage of the cut of logs and timber from being left as firmly and inextricably imbedded on the banks of creeks and small streams as is that portion already abandoned in the woods and swamps.

NAILS.—There was about the ordinary call on local account, with a fair number of domestic shipping orders and the tone of the market rules steady. Manufacturers are working as near the outlet as possible, but cannot prevent some little accumulation and this checks any tendency to buoyency. We quote; 10d. to 60d., common fence and sheathing per keg, $2.60; 8d. and 9d., common do. per keg, $2.85; 6d. and 7d., common, per keg, $3.10; 4d. and 5d., common do., per keg, $3.35; 3d. and 4d., light, per keg, $4.10; 3d., fine, per keg, $4.85; 2d., per keg, $4.85. Cut spikes, all sizes, $2.85. Floor casing and box, 75c. above the same sizes of common. Finishing, $1 above and fine finishing $1.25 above.

CLINCH NAILS.

$5@$5.25	$1.75	$4.50	$4.25 per keg

OILS.—The demand for consumption keeps along in much the usual channel and buyers cannot be hastened in their movements, either by threats of increased cost, or the temptation of lower rates. As a rule however, the tone of the market is easy and the general offering of stock fair. We quote: Linseed, about 60@62c. ₱ gallon; lard, 52@56c. for No. 1, and 49@51c. for No. 2; crude cotton seed, 38@42c., and refined summer yellow do, 48@50c.

PLASTER PARIS.—In common with other articles in the building material line, calcined plaster has had rather a slow market this spring and especially on local account. Consumption, however, was checked in a measure by the fact that winter work under the open weather progressed much more rapidly than usual, and reaching the finishing toucher several weeks ahead of time, left a blank peroid during which scarcely any supplies were wanted. In the meantime however, a fair number of shipping orders were filled on home account with some calls for export and this kept business moving moderately. Prices generally remain about as last noted, and steady, the present outlook being considered as more encouraging. On rock the position is to some extent nominal, no price having been fixed, though it is thought the variation from last season will not be very great.

PITCH.—Business does not become very active and the movement of supplies is confined in the main to the old form of jobbing out parcels on orders for immediate consumption. To meet the current call supply is ample and offered readily on a basis of about former rates. We quote at $2.00@$2.25 ₱ bbl. for city delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—The market does not show many new features in a jobbing way. Demand keeps along about steady and finds stock enough to meet it, but sellers make a show of considerable steadiness for small lots of goods and rather more money is asked at the close. We quote at 31@33c. ₱ gallon, according to quantity handled.

TAR.—The supply is ample and to spare, with the offering readily made and terms kept easy. Buyers, however, do not move until they are ready to use stock and then only to the extent of immediate consumptive ability. We quote at $2.00@$2.75 for Newberne and Washington, and $2.12½@$2.37½ for Wilmington.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C. and C. a. G. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or incumbered.
