INDEX TO VOLUME XX.

With this issue of THE RECORD we furnish a more copious index to its contents than we have hitherto been in the habit of preparing.

First—All the conveyances in New York City (23d and 24th Wards excepted) which have been printed in this journal since the 1st day of July last, have been carefully and accurately indexed in such a manner as to enable one at a glance to find any sale of which there is a record in the office of the Register, between the months of July and December, both inclusive. The arrangement of the index is simple and easily comprehended. The name of the street or avenue is first given, and the numbers following refer to the pages of THE RECORD on which the memoranda of the conveyance may be found. All the streets are subdivided between certain avenues, and the avenues in their turn are subdivided in relation to the streets, as follows:

23d st, east of 3d av, pages 714, 869, 910.
23d st, bet 3d and 6th avs, page 949.
23d st, bet 6th and 8th avs, pages 559, 631, 679, 809.
23d st, west of 8th av, pages 695, 714, 949, 1010.

Second—An index to all buildings, plans for the erection of which have been filed with the Superintendent, is also given. This will prove of immense benefit to builders, material men and others who are interested in acquiring information respecting any buildings erected, or in process of erection, during the past year. By referring to the street as printed in the index, the number of the page on which appears the plan of the projected building concerning which information is sought will be found, and all details in reference to the same.

Third—A full list, properly paged, of all the subjects which have been discussed in the editorial columns during the year 1877 appears at the end of the index.

THE REAL ESTATE RECORD.

In entering upon the eleventh year of its publication, we deem it proper to offer to our readers a few cursory remarks touching the position and policy of our paper.

No development of the science of journalism presents more interesting features than do the trade newspapers. The great daily papers, which furnish us with news from all parts of the world, of latest quality and in most abundant supply, are, in some senses, a necessity and, in others, a luxury But the application of the principles of journalism to the service of special callings and trades is a matter of actual practical utility, and of real commercial value to the patrons of such journals. THE REAL ESTATE RECORD is an apt and fit illustration of the pith of this statement.

An enterprise begun in inexperience, diffidence, and amid discouragements, has at length asserted for itself a recognized position among the many trade journals of the city, and is now able to command not only the patronage, but the commendation and good wishes of a large and increasing list of subscribers.

A comparison of the condition of real estate interests twenty years ago and as it exists to-day, suggests the contrast of darkness and daylight. Then these important interests were totally lacking in any press exponent whatever, failing even in any proper consideration from the daily papers. All transactions in real estate were covered—not exactly with a veil of secrecy, but rather of oblivion— except to those whose business compelled them to study official records. The business was conducted wholly in the dark, save so far as individual operators might come together to exchange views, and communicate information of current transactions. The least informed person as to any variety or breadth of transactions was looked upon as a literal prodigy of research, by comparison with the dense ignorance which characterized the great majority of dealers in real estate, in respect to daily dealings. It may perhaps be said, in explanation, that the limited volume of business then hardly called for a representative paper. It is certain, however, that the necessity of such a journal became keenly felt as soon as the dimensions of business were permanently enlarged, particularly in the climacteric period immediately succeeding the close of the war.

Just before the establishment of this paper, a feeble and ineffectual attempt had been made to serve this great interest, but it may be truthfully said that it found no adequate or satisfactory service until the publication of THE REAL ESTATE RECORD, in 1868. The faithful, reliable, and accurate publication of the current matters of record affecting real estate, has probably given this paper its highest value, a value, too, that will continue to attach to it for all time to come as a book of reference, truthfully mirroring every item of fact that finds official record. As our readers are aware, the first conception of this journal was cast in an iron mold, from the general form of which there has since been scarcely any variation. Though our ideas of its particular function and service were crude and inchoate at the start, we have steadily persevered in our efforts to render our records more intelligible, accessible, and reliable as the years roll by. At the present time we hold the journal up in its completeness as a model register of real estate affairs. For the future we intend to spare no effort to retain the confidence and good will of our large circle of readers; and no practical or valuable improvements that may occur to us, or be suggested, will be overlooked or left untried. It would afford us satisfaction to be able to print in full the list of our subscribers, in order to give the public some idea of the widespread interest which is taken in matters of real estate. It would be wholly an inadequate conception that limited the patronage of this paper to those directly concerned in real estate dealings. The mercantile element is largely represented among our subscribers, while the interest of banking, insurance, and other corporate institutions is abundantly testified by their liberal representation in our list. We can claim as subscribers almost every prominent individual in any way connected with real estate interests, and the distribution of our paper extends largely among those who lay no claim to the dignity of great operators, but are representatives of small and well managed estates.

Touching the policy of our paper, past and present, we have only to say that we repel with contempt the insinuation that we cater to the interests of either the bull or the bear element. The absurdity of such reflections is too apparent to admit of argument. The ebb and flow of real estate values are determined, like the ocean tides, by influences quite remote from newspaper criticisms. In the absence of requisite financial and commercial conditions, the united intellectual force of all the journals in the country would fail to produce any perceptible impression on the current of real estate values. Like the winds they travel whithersoever they list. A sturdy and heroic band of speculators, willing to risk enormous capital may artificially swerve the index of the real estate compass for awhile, but it is sure in time to readjust itself and regain its legitimate bearings. The tactics of which the terms bull and bear are typical, are inapplicable and impracticable in matters of real estate. The broad distinctions that we do recognize in our special domain are simple and easily defined—to wit: the principles of Centralism and Disintegration. The advocates of Centralism in real estate believe it is desirable for the future of this city, and its legion of inhabitants, that property should be rapidly concentrated in as few hands as possible, and that power should be conferred upon this select body of property-holders to define the prices and rents of property upon scales to suit their own interests and purposes; high prices, difficulty of negotiation and heavy mortgages being considered favorable to the promotion of these views. The advocates of Disintegration in real estate believe that the true interests of this city, and of its inhabitants, lie in breaking up the titles of its property into the smallest possible fragments, and distributing them widely among the largest number of owners in order that every representative member of the municipal family may be linked to our destiny by the strong tie of land tenure. It is requisite, nay, indispensable, that this widespread ownership should be based upon a scale of prices reasonably and relatively low, and that it should be enjoyed subject to little or no incumbrance, with every possible facility of easy negotiability.

These two parties are the representative and recognizable ones in real estate circles, so far as theoretical distinctions are concerned. They bisect the great natural and universal divisions of buyers and sellers. The basis of the relations of vendor and vendee is the familiar one of aiming to buy cheap and to sell dear, and makes no pretensions to philosophic recognition. We fail to discover in any of the natural divisions of real estate interests analogies to the bull and bear factions of the Stock Exchange. Possibly these terms may be fitly employed to denote passing mental or sentimental conditions in dealers in real estate.

The operations of speculators are nearest akin to the tactics of the bull faction in stocks, though not enduring or reliable enough to constitute a permanent division in this interest.

They merely seek to confer an artificial and arbitrary value upon real estate, while contributing no appreciable improvement or intrinsic enhancement of value upon it, intending to retain their ownership only so long as to enable them to realize their profit and then to withdraw. Whether speculation has conferred any benefit upon New York property is a question which may be studied in the light of comparatively recent history. However it may be determined, it is certain, for the time being, that the spirit of speculation has vanished. The likelihood of any early return or revival of it is a proper theme for some Delphic utterance. The rapid growth of the city and practical completion of its street boundaries fix a barrier, in our estimation, to any further speculative exploits. The business of the future will concern the strictly legitimate branches of real estate: investments in lots, building investments, purchase and sale of building products, renting, mortgaging, and leasing of property; the discharge of tax and assessment obligations, and principally the attempt to adjust the burdens of taxation to the shoulders which, in right and reason, should be made to bear them. Our aim shall be to serve faithfully and intelligently all these legitimate interests of real estate. We shall study to present, in our editorial columns, honest and candid criticisms of all the principles and practices of real estate manipulation, and shall endeavor to bring within the scope of our remarks all controversial or debatable questions which concern or affect the welfare of real estate owners. We have no private ends to consider, and no mercenary or ulterior purposes to subserve. We shall direct the whole momentum and energy of our paper towards eradicating abuses, purifying and reforming methods of administration and business custom, and striving to advance the best material concerns of our great city. In a word, we claim as our motto, "The greatest good of the greatest number." Our unfailing theme in future, as in the past, will be the superlative glory and excellence of the great metropolis. No loftier theme could engage the thoughts, or lay tributary the pen, than to record the history, physical growth, and inevitable destiny of the greatest American city. As rapid as has been our civic growth in the recent past, we expect in the near future, under the impulse of sound and revived mercantile and financial conditions, and as the result of the projected mechanical contrivances on which colossal energy is now being spent, a still larger and swifter material development. The time is fast approaching when all the conditions necessary for the complete improvement and occupation of this island will be fully accomplished and realized. We hope to see, within the lifetime of men now of middle age, a complete building occupation of the entire island.

We have the satisfaction of assuring our readers that, while many representative trade journals have succumbed during the recent hard times, the affairs of THE RECORD, if not up to the standard of full prosperity, have at least been satisfactory, and we find in the present business outlook of the paper every encouragement to believe that it has a firm hold upon the favor and affection of the public.

CITY TAXES; WHO PAYS THEM?

One answer to this pertinent question comes with the sanction of a high authority, and says in effect that city taxation is so diffusive and pervasive that it operates like the law of gravitation upon ponderable objects, applying itself automaticly to every item of personal property brought within city limits. It is well to remember that this statement appears in the body of an elaborate argument intended to demonstrate the necessity of the exemption of all personal property from specific taxation, upon the plea that by taxing real estate an indirect taxation of personal property is certainly and effectually accomplished. Another answer is constantly echoed through the daily press whenever the subject of taxation is discussed, and that is seldom enough, and says, in substance, that all rent payers, even the lodgers and strangers in our city, are the real tax payers. It is necessary, likewise, to bear in mind that this statement, as recently advanced, was intended to excite and intensify opposition to a bad device for limiting the elective franchise. Both of these statements enunciate abstract theories of taxation and both alike are vulnerable to the fatal objection of failing to truthfully represent the actual results of the administration of our present system of taxation. However admirable and equitable such theories would be if fairly expounded under some wise scheme of taxation, in the face of existing tax laws, they become merely glittering and delusive generalities, serving to divert and distract the public mind from the real issues of the case, and afford no solid or abiding consolation to those upon whom the actual burden of taxation mainly falls. We have no purpose now to discuss the ways and means of taxation or to propose any measures of reform or evolve any abstract theories in this connection. We propose merely to address ourselves to the solution of the important question already propounded; to find out, if possible, from whose purses the present city budget is drawn.

If tax payers will turn to the back of their tax bills we think they will find a pretty clear solution of the riddle. Dealing with the items there set forth in lump, we find that the total tax valuations amount to $1,100,000,000, divided thus; Personal estate, $200,000,000, real estate, $900,000,000. Upon these valuations, calculating the rate of taxation for the present year, namely, 2 65-100, we find that personal estate is charged with $5,300,000 of taxes, and real estate with $23,850,000, making a total of $29,150,000.

PERSONAL TAXATION. — The assessment of bank capital, as given by the assessors, amounts to about $75,000,000. It is supposed there are mortgages existing on New York city real estate to the amount of $400,000,000, and it is presumable that at least one-fourth in amount, or $100,000,000 of these mortgages is caught within the meshes of the tax gatherers net. The assessment of the capital of fire insurance companies may be placed at a taxable value of $12,500,000—which would give the low average of $100,000—for each of the one hundred and twenty-five companies. We have then a remainder left of $12,500,000 of valuations assignable to personal property, pure and simple, such as business capital, State, city and railroad bonds, corporate securities, etc. The utter inadequacy of this latter assessment may be fully realized when it is considered that there are two estates alone, if not three, the personal property of each of which might be safely valued at $40,000,000; that there are also mammoth business corporations, such as the Standard Oil Company, whose gigantic operations are centralized in this city, and whose active working capital is reputed to be $50,000,000, and further that it would be easy to select mercantile houses in fives and tens whose aggregate capital would represent as much as $50,000,000. Without proceeding to any finer analysis of the subject, enough is here indicated to demonstrate the utter paucity of a tax valuation of $12,500,000 for personal capital alone. It disposes of the whole subject of personal taxation in this city to say that upon a valuation probably not exceeding $12,500,000, personal capital pays a tax this year of $331,250; that out of their redundant profits banking institutions, upon a valuation of $75,000,000, pay the sum of $1,988,000 of taxes; fire insurance companies, upon $12,500,000, pay $331,250; and the balance of $100,000,000 of valuations, yielding $2,650,000 of taxes, may be set down as chargeable indirectly to the owners of real estate. From these premises the assertion, therefore, stands proven that, laying aside mortgages, bank and fire insurance capital, of the many thousand millions of personal capital owned, controlled and actively operated in this city, only about $12,500,000 is actually assessed. Obviously, the owners of this species of capital are least entitled to complain of the present administration of the tax laws.

REAL ESTATE.—The tax valuations of real estate laid down on the assessors' books amount to $900,000,000 to which must be added the total which we have assumed as representing mortgages, to wit: $100,000,000, making a gross tax valuation of $1,000,000,000 which is directly and indirectly assessed upon the real estate owners of New York city. Let there be no question in the future as to what principal source furnishes the disproportioned share of our mammoth city budget when ten-elevenths of the whole amount are drawn from the owners of this class of property. The collection of this vast total of taxation is as readily enforced as would be the collection of a mercantile debt and with far greater certainty of payment.

It only remains for us to consider what chance there is of real estate owners recovering any share or the whole of this immense tax lien from sources other than their own personal estates. The vague assumption that all personal property is made to respond to this colossal charge is shorn of its illusion the moment we come to examine the premises. In its broadest sense this statement amounts to no more than if it was said that men with money pay taxes, and men without it do not; or that taxes are paid in bills or bank checks; or that, inasmuch as taxes cannot be paid with dirt, therefore the means to meet them must be drawn more or less directly from the resources of personal property or personal industry. The statement that every rent-payer and every lodger are also tax payers is dependent upon so many and such remote contingencies, that it cannot but fall upon the ears of the actual tax payers as a familiar but idle tale.

Let us consider a few of the cases in which under the present system, the tax payer, that is the property-owner, pays the taxes levied upon him out of the avails of personal property or by the appropriation of rentals received from real estate, but with no hope, chance or possibility of recovering this tax payment from any other source after its outgo from his own exchequer.

1. The man, whose property is confiscated for arrears of taxes, may be said to have discharged the debt in the fullest and most literal sense, and without any hope of after recovery, inasmuch as the operation leaves him bankrupt in capital and destitute of the property which he once proudly claimed as his own.

2. The owner of vacant lots, whether salable or unsalable, as long as they are kept in his possession, pays the taxes upon them with no chance or possibility of a return of the same except in the final disposition of the property by sale, and then the actual return of the taxes paid is dependent upon the merits of the sale when effected.

3. The owner of improved property whose tenant defaults, becomes bankrupt or perhaps runs away, may be placed in the category of those who have actually paid taxes with no chance of recovering them.

4. The owner of property purchased and capitalized at the topmost prices of the inflation period, although he may receive his rent regularly, has been subjected through its ownership to such a serious impairment and loss of capital as to swamp completely, past any hope of redemption, all the investments he may have made in city taxes.

5. And, finally, assuming the true usance of money to be not more than four per cent., such property owners as are actually in receipt of a net income of this per centage or more upon the capital invested in real estate, are the only ones of whom it may be truthfully predicated that there is an ultimate reclamation upon the public of the amounts paid for taxes.

If it were possible to initiate the system which prevails in other cities, of leasing property at certain rentals, with the condition that the tenant is to pay the city taxes, such a system, universally established and successfully carried out, would fully realize the beau ideal of taxation that theorists have been wont to present to us. Except in a few isolated cases this system does not obtain in New York, and, as far as we can ascertain, there is little likelihood of any such practice ever being adopted by our landlords or of its favorable consideration by tenants. The mere fact that city taxes constitute a prior and unavoidable lien upon property, renders it imperative upon the land owner to attend in person to the payment and discharge of the same, for the simple protection of his property. The performance of such a delicate duty would be delegated with reluctance to a tenant, and, in the few cases where this is now done, it forms no small part of the landlord's anxious duty to ascertain that the lien is promptly discharged, and, in case of default, to discharge it himself and trust to collecting the amount from the tenant. Doubtless, if the present system of taxation is continued in its notoriously crude and inequitable operation, an effort will be made, on the part of the great land owners, who are apt to deal with the most responsible class of tenants, to enforce this peculiar condition in the renting of property. We despair, however, of any wide spread adoption of it, and the landlords of the future will, doubtless, continue to foot their yearly tax bills with the alacrity and imperturbability which proverbially characterizes them. The fact stares us in the face, in seeking an answer to the question which serves as our caption, that the land owners of New York are the principal, we had almost said the sole, tax payers, and their chances of recovering the moneys so paid, in the present condition of things, are about equal to those of recovering a lost umbrella.

It will probably be asserted that the present law contains an implied permission to land owners to reassess their taxes upon tenants and to collect the same. It is ominous of the future of this subject that the leading and most intelligent reformer in the domain of city taxation has no better device to propose for the relief of the overburdened land owners of New York than that personal property, which is scarcely reached by taxation, shall be entirely exempted. The consequence of such a measure can be easily foretold. The burdens of the present principal taxpayers will be largely aggravated, with no remedy or redress but in the application of this odious principle of taxation, to wit, that the land owner shall collect his taxes from his tenants. This method of taxation, which threatens to become the salient feature of any future system, and which is deemed to be a latent if not operative idea in the present one, is the most vicious that can be employed in any scheme for raising revenue. Its viciousness is of a two-fold character. It delegates to land owners a power which should be the exclusive prerogative of government, especially of city government. No condition of things could be more offensive to the masses of the people if once fully realized or attempted to be carried into practical operation, than the exercise of any such delegated power or function on the part of the small minority of the population who are property holders. The indifference which is now manifested to this subject on the part of the people, and particularly of the daily press, arises in reality from the complete failure of the landlords to assert this prerogative in times like the present. If the owners of personal property in this city are so successful in evading the claims of the tax gatherer under the present law, so also, it may be asserted, the rent payers of the city are equally astute and dextrous in evading any possible claim which the landlord may urge for repayment of taxes. The other vice of this system arises from the efforts of the landlords to assert this delegated prerogative in more prosperous seasons; and shows itself in the extreme fluctuations of our rental valuations. During periods of depression like the present, it is well understood that the majority of landlords are obliged to hand over to the city one-half of their rental incomes in payment of taxes, and out of the other portion to make payments of all the expenses incidental to real estate ownership—such as insurance, repairs, agents' commissions, bad debts, etc., leaving the net result an extremely small percentage upon the invested capital. As a reaction from this state of things, during more prosperous times, the determination of landlords to reimburse themselves for the bad results of poor times, and to recover as much as possible of the taxes paid and lost, leads them to force their rentals to the highest attainable point where they become actually prohibitive of business. This constant ebb and flow of our rental valuations have also a disturbing effect upon land valuations of which the former are the chief and sensitive indices. The provocation and excuse for this state of things are ever present and ready in the landlord's mind, to wit: the excessive burden of taxation which he is called upon to bear.

The immense disparity and disproportion between the tax collected from personal estate and from real estate suggest the importance of a speedy revision of existing tax laws or else the induction into office of a new set of commissioners who will more successfully administer the laws as they now stand. In the meantime, let us call things by their proper names, and not say that personal property pays all the taxes, when probably not more than one per cent. of the amount in individual hands is directly taxed; nor that all tenants and lodgers are tax payers, when it is every landlord's experience that some tenants pay rent in such amounts and at such times as please themselves. It remains to be seen how long New York land owners will continue to pay the major share of taxation, with small hopes of recovering the same and without resistance or remonstrance.

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The record of transactions for the year 1877 shows that at the Exchange Salesroom the sales aggregated $19,906,846, as against $26,118,905 for the year 1876, and $19,537,679 for the year 1875. The total number of conveyances recorded in the office of the Register of the City of New York during the year 1877, not including the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards, was 6,179, as against 6,384 for the year 1876; 898 deeds conveying property in such wards were recorded, the aggregate consideration amounting to $2,125,579. As compared with the transactions of the year 1876, the total consideration expressed in the deeds recorded in the Register's office, excepting the last-named wards, shows a decrease of $15,264,520, the figures being $71,469,285, as against $86,733,805 for the year 1876, and $145,285,753 for the year 1873.

Mortgages, numbering 5,728, aggregating the sum of $76,929,717, were recorded in the office of the Register, 670 of which were made to insurance and trust companies and banks, amounting to $7,588,781. The total number of foreclosure suits commenced in the City of New York during the year 1877 was 2,259, showing a decrease of 274, as compared with the year 1876.

The following tables show the amount of consideration expressed in the deeds recorded in the Register's office for the last five years and the amounts of mortgages recorded during the year 1877:

The number of new buildings embraced in the plans filed with the Superintendent of the Department of Buildings in the City of New York, during 1877, was 1,432, showing an increase of 53 over the number embraced in the plans for 1876. The total estimated cost was $13,349,414, as against $15,898,250 for the year 1876, showing a decrease of $2,548,836. The total estimated cost of alterations for 1877 was $3,215,125, as against $3,635,478 for 1876. During the year 1,316 new buildings were begun and 1,301 completed.

The following private sales are reported: Mr. Henry J. Barbey has purchased from F. W. Stevens the premises situated on the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-ninth street (33.9x100), with lot 25x100 on Forty-ninth street, 100 east of Fifth avenue, for $79,000. This same parcel was bought by Mr. Stevens, about five years ago, for $130,000. R. B. Lynd & Brother have sold the house and lot (22.6x65x100.5) situated on Fifty-fourth street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, to Mr. Aitkin, of the firm of Aitkin & Miller, for $37,500.

The following are the sales at the Exchange Salesroom for the week ending Jan. 3:

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

REVIEW OF ALL THE LEADING ARTICLES FOR 1877.

With this week's issue we give our annual review of the markets for Building Material. The reports upon the various articles enumerated will be found quite full and exhaustive, and contain much information not to be obtained in any other journal. The salient features of the year's business are noticeable in a distribution of supplies in all cases admitted to be equal to 1876 and frequently an excess, but at a lower range of cost, an extremely limited margin for profit as a rule, and the return in dollars and cents without increase. Neither can the swelling of the volume of sales be attributed to a corresponding growth of local wants, but rather to the attraction of low prices which has drawn demand from many interior and coastwise points, and also added to the export movement. In deed city trade alone has not been as cheering as hoped for, either in volume or form, and while among distributors the failures have proven few, consumers were less successful in maintaining themselves, and compromise settlements and extensions were annoyingly frequent. Another development is a system of so-called economy, pushed to such an extent which, if not criminal or dangerous, is certainly reprehensible. Contractors have planned their operations in too many cases upon the theory of the greatest amount of material for the smallest possible expenditure of money, and this constant sacrifice of quality for quantity has so evident a result in the class of buildings produced that further comment seems unnecessary. Regarding future prospects, very little idea can be obtained from the present situation. There is less than usual in the way of old work carrying over, as the remarkable condition of the weather has permitted the pushing forward and completion of out-door operations almost without interruption to date, and very little in the way of new engagements are as yet under contract. It is not believed, however, that consumption of material can fall behind during the coming year, and some chances favor an increase, and as production and supply are more closely adjusted to demand, sellers generally feel that they have reached hard pan on values. No speculative or unusually buoyant views are entertained, however, and with a prospect that the chance to move stocks and the necessity for securing them will bring sellers and buyers together upon a conservative basis, the outlook for the market is cheerful and fairly encouraging.

We append to many of our reports below tabulated statements of the movements of the articles mentioned, mostly, however, in the way of exports and imports. These have been carefully compiled from the published statements of the Custom House and the manifests of vessels, and on this basis may be accepted as correct. As to domestic receipts, destribution and stock on hand, there is a chaotic state of affairs which can only be appreciated by those who have attempted to obtain information, and we are unable to place upon record any figures of value. Statistics of much interest could no doubt be secured on many articles in the line of building material by the suppression of certain jealousies among receivers and dealers, and a unanimous agreement to furnish information of arrivals, deliveries, etc., to one general head or bureau, such, for instance, as the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange, where a compilation and dissemination could be made in such manner as seemed most judicious.

The following shows the export movement on leading articles of Building Material during the past year:

	Value.
Bricks	$70,629
Cement	25,423
Doors, Sashes and Blinds	79,543
Fire Brick, Tiles, &c	5,418
Lumber and Timber	1,899,078

BRICKS.—The market for common hard brick has had an easy, slow tone throughout the entire year, and a chronic tendency to grumble on the part of the selling interest was a characteristic feature. The distribution has in the aggregate been very fair, rather larger we think than for the preceding year, but partly owing to the form of the demand and partly owing to bad management the margin for profit proved small and the net return to the manufacturer unsatisfactory. Matters must have been still worse had not one or two fortuitous circumstances occurred through which outlets were opened for several millions of stock beyond what could by any possible chance have been sold to the ordinary consumption, except at a very low rate, even as compared with values current, though there is a doubt about an increase of demand from local sources at almost anything short of a gift. The sources of relief to which we refer were the export movement to the British Provinces consequent upon the rebuilding of St. John after the disastrous fire, and the settlement of litigation which has within a few months enabled the elevated railroads to push forward their work with great rapidity, and for their pier foundations they became quite liberal buyers of brick. The winter and early spring prices up to the opening of navigation ranged from $8 down to about $6.50 on Haverstraws, and when communication with the yards was resumed from 75c. to $1 more per M. gradually came off, though for awhile a very good trade was consummated. Weather proved good, the production was full and the quality attractive from nearly all points, however, and as summer opened buyers became, as usual, less plenty, and supplies soon accumulated. A strike among the workmen about this time took place which, for a day or two, threatened to become serious and stop the production, but the disorderly form of the demonstration caused its early suppression by the strong hand of the law, and the market was only temporarily influenced. Then came the yearly attempt to form a combination among manufacturers and control the market, resulting in a more stupid blunder than ever, and making matters worse than before for the selling interest. An appearance of firmness was for a short time gained, and absolute necessity compelled a few purchases, but buyers, instead of being frightened into taking hold, gave evidences of their independence, and, in a great many cases, withdrew altogether. As manufacturers had, in the meantime, merely sought to manipulate supplies, and deal them out as they saw fit, in the expectation that the brick must be wanted, instead of exerting themselves to reduce the production, they soon found the weight of accumulation very heavy, and first one breaking the compact and then another, eventually brought a free offering and a shrinkage on cost to about $4, and, in some cases, a fraction lower. At this our city dealers, without showing any great haste, commenced buying and making a careful selection until finally nearly all piled away the bulk of what they supposed would be required for winter use, and found only a small recovery on price. This stock they have, of course, allowed to remain, and drawn such amounts as they subsequently required from the floating cargoes. About the time the market had commenced to react a trifle from the lowest point the export movement set in, the shipments being made direct from the primary points and finally reaching, according to clearances through out Custom House, some 12,000,000 brick. The effect upon values, however, was not very great, and, indeed, we find many of our dealers who seem to think that, instead of being beneficial, this export call has proven detrimental, inasmuch as it had the effect to spur a great many manufacturers into a full production again at just about the time they were ready to shut off, while hints are current that consignments of brick to St. John have not panned out to the extent expected. Since October 1st or thereabouts the elevated roads have been using brick to the extent of about 40,000 to every street block of road built, and with a pretty good general consumption, a great many brick found sale at the latter end of the season. An ample stock at the point of supply, however, and very open weather gave an offering equal to wants, and prevented as much of a hardening on values as might have been expected, and had not the means of transportation been curtailed by the withdrawal of the barges or floats there is a possibility that supplies would have proven too plentiful. The closing rates may be named at about $4.50@5.50 per M for Haverstraws. A few contributions of stock have been made from the Jersey yards, but were not required. Pale Brick have at times found a very good market, and shown greater relative strength on value than Hards at the corresponding period, but have also frequently been found under the most decided neglect, and rates dropped as low as $2, the same inside figure as last year. There is supposed to be none of this class of stock used in this city owing to certain legal restrictions, but buyers seem to come from some source, and Brooklyn, as usual, gets the credit.

Croton Fronts have made a further shrinkage of $1 per M on the leading and favorite brands, and more on the poorer grades, some of which have sold close down to the rates for Hards, the superior quality of the latter from a few makers exciting direct competition. At the cost Croton Fronts have found a very good market, take it altogether, and there is not a heavy stock to carry over. The export demand gave a vent on this grade also, about 1,000,000 having been shipped to the Provinces. For the finer styles of Fronts the market has been slow throughout, but not through any fault of sellers, who have been willing and anxious to operate, as evinced in the ready offering, and a figuring down of cost to the very lowest possible notch short of actual loss. This, however, had little influence influence upon the average buyer, with whom the spirit of economy has become so strong that every dollar is made to show, and quantity, rather than quality and finish, has been the guide for expenditures, accompanied by the most rigid calculation to actual wants. On this theory, therefore, such business as has been transacted in the fancy bricks was confined largely to the Philadelphias. The Baltimores, however, have found friends to some extent, and have again met with the hearty approval of architects, contractors and indeed all consumers whose desires for beauty and durability have overcome their scruples in regard to cost. The yard distribution has been moderate during the past month or so on all kinds, the open river permitting the securing of cargoes afloat, and these always have preference where they can be utilized.

In regard to the productive capacity of the Hudson River yards there has been some reduction through the winding up of the affairs of several manufacturers, and 550@575,000,000 would now probably cover the maximum output if taxed to the utmost. The number of brick made during 1877 it is thought by the most competent authority will not exceed that of the preceding year, or say 300,000,000 at the outside, and this with the additional outlets afforded and the protracted open weather left the stocks much less than last winter, especially at up-river points. We give our usual detailed comparison of stocks as follows:

CEMENT.—On the market for domestic or Rosendale cement there has been nothing of an exciting or very remarkable nature to advise, business moving along from week to week and from month to month in a comparatively uniform manner, and, after the usual Spring irregularity, prices settling down to figures which they retained during the greater portion of the balance of the season. The two extremes may be placed at $1.20 and 80c. a barrel, with the average from 80 to 90c., though the top quotation for a long time stood at $1 per barrel, in part to cover certain favorite brands on which buyers were willing to pay a little premium to satisfy the notions of the customers to whom they distributed. These figures, it will be seen, are considerably below last year, which averaged about $1.10, and, allowing for the cost of production, relatively cheaper than lime. It is calculated that, if pressed, the mills on the "Creek" could, during an ordinary open season, turn out 1,500,000 barrels, and have this year produced 1,100,000, or possibly 100,000 barrels more. Of this amount, about 300,000 barrels may be placed to the credit of our local calls, and the balance distributed on orders for shipment "up river," to the Eastward and South, to California, and to some extent for export. The city demand has come from regular sources during most of the season, and, while of a slow and cautious character, required a fair aggregate amount of supplies, with consumption somewhat increased during the past few months by the wants of the elevated railroads in building the numerous foundations for their upright columns. There is a reasonable stock now on hand, but no full accumulation, except, possibly, with a few dealers.

A domestic Portland Cement, now pretty well known under the title of the "Saylor" brand, has made rapid strides into favor during the year, and in many cases has supplanted the foreign, not only on account of its lower cost ($2.65 per barrel), but in view of the satisfactory manner in which it has met some of the most severe tests. It has been used largely by both the Dock Department and the Brooklyn Bridge Co., in addition to ordinary trade outlets.

Foreign Portland and similar grades have come out freely at times, and, taken altogether, the importation exceeds that of 1876, against which the demand was being good, though a little erratic and uncertain in its development. Competition, too, has been sharp and protracted, through which values have gradually eased off, and averaged below the preceding season, with a great many sales made at $3.10 per barrel, though closely discriminating buyers have frequently been willing to pay a little more, in order to secure brands on which experience had taught that a slight premium was profitable. Local wants have been fair, all things considered, but the main dependence was upon the interior demand, which has kept up very well, and promises good for the Spring. It would seem, however, that New York is very likely to lose a great deal of this trade, owing to the extreme cost of transportation to the points of inland consumption. The freight tariffs of the trunk lines are complained of as always having been enormous, and as no modification could be obtained commensurate with the lower price of Cement, the situation finally became prohibitive for shipments to many sections, except at a loss. One of our leading importers tells us that he has already, by letter and cable, ordered supplies to Southern Atlantic and Gulf ports, from whence he expects to distribute to the West, and secure a fair margin. The finer grades of foreign, such as Keene's, etc., have also shaded off on cost somewhat, but met with a very good and sufficiently encouraging demand to induce importers to believe that the addition to arrivals during 1877, as compared with 1876, can be made still greater during the year just opening. The general accumulation of foreign stock in store is moderate, and stated to be less than the aggregate at the corresponding period last year.

DOORS, SASH AND BLINDS.—This division of the building material trade has had its full proportion of business, and the leading dealers appear to think they have secured all that could be obtained out of the market. Indeed the distribution of goods will, if anything, exceed the preceding year, though with the lower cost and narrower line of profit the return in dollars and cents is no greater. The demand on local account cannot, as a rule, be depended upon to afford any decided relief, yet considerable stock found this outlet and buyers were generally inclined to come back when they wanted fresh supplies. However, the principal operations have been on shipping orders from the country consumptive points, with some coastwise and Southern shipments. There has also been a fair export business, confined, in the main, to Doors, so far as the Custom House records go, but it is possible that a considerable amount of this class of goods has cleared out or been entered up as manufacturers of wood. As usual at this season the accumulation of supplies is allowed to run down until after inventory, but already signs of a revival of production are shown, and this is said to be the outgrowth of an increasing demand. The cost of material and labor, both, has been lower during the year past, and constant improvements in machinery are making, which, coupled with a strong competition among manufacturers, seems to forecast a continuation of low figures on the next revision of price lists.

DRAIN AND SEWER PIPE.—There does not appear to be very much to say on this market, the year having passed without unusual incident. As during the preceding season the consumption on corporation contracts has, with few exceptions, been kept down to very narrow limits, and frequently not allowed to go beyond absolutely necessary repairs, not only in the cities, but in small towns and villages, and this curtails greatly an important outlet. Local calls, too, have been limited and confined simply to the small parcels required for immediate use in the ordinary course of building. Still, some stock has gone to the above sources nearly every month, and this, with constant reaching out for orders from various points in the interior, has finally made an aggregate distribution about equal to last year, and some manufacturers claim a little more. No additional demand is to be credited, but simply the fact that sellers have sought and found new customers, and thus secured an increased outlet for their goods. On lists about the same general range was continued throughout, but the discounts have been increased from time to time, until the margin for net profits has pretty much all disappeared, and the producer now barely comes out even on cost of making and delivery. We hear of no foreign stock having been offered, and consumption from this source has about ceased while the low rates on vitrified about kills the miserable attempts in the way of substitutes on the home product. The only exports reported during the year were 2,132 pieces, valued at $750, to Brazil.

FIRE BRICK.—For the imported grades we hear somewhat more cheerful reports than last season. The business has not been either a large or a quick one at any time, but orders for small invoices were comparatively numerous and in this way a fair aggregate distribution was made, with indications that consumption will continue as manufacturing industries seem to be in better shape. The cost of stock has receded and averaged lower than in 1876, but at the reduction the tone shows a fair degree of steadiness, and there is not much of an accumulation of supplies on hand. On the domestic article business has on the whole been very good so far as the amount of stock moving was concerned and the aggregate sales will, in all probability, exceed the total of last year. The distribution has included a fair amount for local consumption, but dependent mainly on shipping orders from the interior. A goodly portion of these have come from the Eastward, though there has been some call from the lake region especially for the larger and finer grades. The manufacturer, however, with the increased business has not found a corresponding addition to profits, the margin over cost at all times proving extremely limited and the return frequently barely sufficient to save actual loss. This is due in a great measure to strong competition between producers through which buyers had their advantage and to which submission was necessary as against the alternative of closing the factories. Manufacturers of the finer grades in particular have felt the influence of this cutting on prices, as they were compelled to keep up the standard of quality at all hazards and suffer from the competition with an admitted poorer article, but which found favor on the mere fact that it required a smaller expenditure to secure it. Reputation, however, has been preserved, the services of experienced workmen retained, and factories kept steadily producing, and as buyers already show signs of having discovered that a merely low priced article is not always the cheapest, there is a feeling of some hope for the incoming year. American fire-brick have been greatly perfected in quality during the past few years, and except where certain old prejudices have not as yet been overcome, readily supplant the foreign styles.

The imports recorded for the year 1877 are as follows:

	Number.		Number.

Total import.....			303,870

The exports reported as Fire Brick are 39,915, valued at $1,990, and 250 cases, valued at $444. Dealers, however, tell us that a great many brick are cleared as Tiles, and of these we have record of 3,282, valued at $2,701, and 109 cases, valued at $283.

FOREIGN WOODS.—This market has shown a very quiet tone all the year for the majority of cabinet woods, so much, indeed, that it has not been thought worthy of report. Operations were confined in the main to the smallest possible invoices with which buyers could satisfy their wants, and it was seldom that any inducement of low cost proved sufficient to alter this policy. Economy among consumers seems to be the main cause to which the light business is to be attributed, and especially as our domestic walnut continues a strong competitor. Values have been lower on most kinds, but close steady, and there is a somewhat hopeful feeling over the prospect for the incoming year. Lignumvitæ has found a fair sale for use in ship building, tackle, block wheels, etc., and sold close to supply. Cedar has throughout found a good quick sale, and though prices were at times somewhat variable, the seller has had greater advantange than on any other imported wood. The consumption was as usual largely for the production of cigar boxes, and up to the close of the year did not appear to have been in any way checked by the strikes of the cigar makers. The figures given below are compiled exclusively from the regular weekly statement of the Custom House, and we print them for what they are worth. The accumulation of stock remaining in first hands is very small and poorly assorted.

GLASS.—Business has been somewhat irregular, and on the foreign grades rather disappointing to many importers on the year's operations. For certain purposes the goods from abroad have been in favor, and indeed at times the demand was quite fairly active, but the outward movement was not a continuous one, and buyers have stoutly resisted any important addition to cost. During the earlier portion of the season, while a nominally steady tone was preserved on prices, the list rates and discounts were in reality continuously departed from, and in nearly every instance favorably for buyers, the form of demand and the condition of trade compelling sellers to allow many favors to secure customers. Subsequently, however, meetings were held by importers and greater uniformity decided upon with some recovery on extreme low rates made, though there was a failure to infuse a positively strong or buoyant tone. Supplies have not been excessive at any time, and assortments were frequently quite low, but never so much of a scarcity as to prevent the filling of orders. Dealers in the domestic articles as a rule speak cheerfully of the year's business, and in some cases are very enthusiastic over the progress and development of the manufacture of American glass, which they seem to think is rapidly crowding the foreign product out of the market. There is of course much extravagance in an assumption of this kind, but at the same time the home make of glass has unquestionably made another stride into favor among a large class of consumers, and from present indications seems likely to hold its own. Manufacturers, through experience, have perfected quality and adapted their product generally more closely to the requirements of the market, which, coupled with an attractive range of cost, has not failed to secure the endorsement of buyers, guided by the most thorough spirit of economy, and may also be accepted as a solid reason for the reduced call for foreign. Values have fluctuated to a considerable extent, but steadied up in sympathy with French glass, and for some little time past have been more uniform. Domestic plate has sold quite in proportion to ordinary window glass, and some of the product has proven of very fine quality. Foreign plate met with a very good demand in the aggregate, and does not appear to be the source of much complaint among importers, except that the margin for profit has been very narrow, and the year's results in dollars and cents is, at the best, only fair.

	Pckgs.	Value.
Glass	322,115	$972,011
Glass, plate	7,840	1,794,251
Total	329,955	$2,466,292

HAIR.—In plasterers' hair there has been a rather dull tone shown on the market at all times, and indeed so entirely void of interest was business, that "nothing new" was about the only report that could from time to time be made. Supplies have been ample, both in quantity and assortment, and prices have scarcely varied during the entire year, the figures standing at 10c. for cattle and 12c. for goat per bushel of 7 pounds on January 1st last and so remaining at present writing. While, however, as noted above, the movement has been slow, the outlet, from week to week and from month to month, has been gradually making a market for a considerable amount of stock, and the leading dealers inform us that their aggregate of sales show quite a little increase over 1876.

HARDWARE.—The amount of business transacted has been very fair during all regular seasons, and the majority of dealers appear to be pretty well satisfied with their year's work. The South has proven the most liberal section with its orders, which at one time really drove dealers to their utmost in order to satisfy all calls, though other portions of the country were very well represented either by personal attendance of buyers or through sales made by traveling agents. The latter demand, however, has had less the form of animation and partaken more of the old, cautious spirit which dictates a close calculation to actual wants and frequent duplication of orders, if necessary, rather than run the risk of being compelled to carry a little surplus. A good, fair export business has been done, including the introduction of a great many American articles into countries where it was thought impossible to sell anything except the European product, and dealers who have made this portion of the trade a specialty speak hopefully of a further expansion of the foreign outlet. On local account the demand moderately active, and confined mainly to substantial and serviceable styles of goods, to the exclusion of the fancy and elaborate, owing to the general tendency toward economy. Prices have ruled easy throughout, under strong competition, and this has resulted in the breaking up of many combinations of manufacturers. Builders' hardware in particular has been selling free of any agreement for a standard range of cost and discounts, the most noticeable styles being Locks and Cast and Brass Butts. Wood Screws have also been quite irregular, but with advantages mostly favorable to buyers.

The following shows exports of Hardware and Cutlery from New York during 1877.

	Pckgs.	Value.
East Indies	19,579	$149,366
Europe	21,801	671,817

LABOR.—The market has been well supplied, both as to quantity and skill, and indeed over supplied, if anything, and cost has consequently ruled low. No disturbing elements have come between employer and employee in this city or Booklyn, beyond a few unimportant flurries, and generally the position affords few features of interest. The workmen at the brick yards in the neighborhood of Haverstraw were forced by certain lunatics into a demonstration, which, for a time, assumed a threatening look, but as soon as the leaders were squelched, the rank and file saw their folly and quietly returned to work. During the railway strikes fears were entertained that common laborers, etc., here would improve the opportunity to resort to mob law, but the preparations made to entertain those inclined to violence, as an expression of imagined wrongs, were such as to act as an effectual curb to any untoward movement, except the letting off of a few idle threats of a communistic character. Indeed, the intelligent mechanic has taken pains to steer clear of all leaders whose teachings tended to shackle the hands of a workingman in the disposition of his own labor, as another year's experience has shown more clearly than ever that independence in this respect is the only safeguard for really skilled operators. As bad as the times were, a first-class workman was seldom more than temporarily idle, and whatever he earned he retained in the absence of any necessary contribution to aid a "strike" of less competent and dissatisfied "Union" men, and to help support the blatant-mouthed demagogues who set themselves up as leaders.

LATH.—A lower point of cost has been touched and prices generally averaged somewhat under 1876, but, as a general thing, the market was free from decided depression, and has really been in better shape than any other article connected with the building material trade. This was not due to the demand, but rather to good management between manufacturers at the East and receivers here, who have so handled their supplies as to prevent any serious accumulation, and frequently produced an actual scarcity on which an advance could be engineered. Following this, the caution of buyers would commence to show itself in the way of reduced orders or a withdrawal altogether, and frequently calculations have been upset just at the time when it was supposed that a liberal exhaust was about to be offered for cargoes, and competition enough excited to infuse considerable annoyance. Especially was this the case during the fall and first of the winter months, when, contrary to custom, dealers here were, with few exceptions, the most indifferent operators in the market, even after extreme rates had been shaded. Luckily a very good outlet was found at points along the river and in New Jersey which took off the surplus readily, and, by checking further shipments, sellers managed to settle matters into a fairly steady channel, and though not exactly enabled to establish the extreme rate desired, expressed themselves satisfied with the close of the present season, and confident of a good opening for the next. Pretty near everything is reported as having been cut up this year, the winter production will amount to nothing it is said, and spring demand must bring full prices according to calculation. Our dealers are certainly scantily supplied, with a few exceptions, and though several million are piled out in first hands they are only on a full limit, and to be reached must receive bids well up toward $2 per M. Two or three of our receivers, however, while expressing hopeful sentiments in common with the majority of the Trade, do not overlook the independent sort of economy of buyers which reduced demand materially, and when a really fair bid can be obtained it is pretty sure to be accepted. The fluctuations on value for the year may be noted as follows: Commencing at $2, there was a gradual drop to $1.50, then quickly up to $1.75, and as quickly back to $1.50 again early in April. Fluctuating between the last named rate and $1.40, the market continued until June 30, when $1.35 was the rate, followed by quick changes to $1.50, then $1.40 up to $1.55@1.60, with $1.65 reached by middle of August. From this, under the full supply of stock, there was a break to $1.25, and then a gradual improvement set in which carried values up, step by step, to $1.60@1.67, where there was a slight pause, and considerable stock piled out. Prices afterward went temporarily to $1.95 per M and fell back to $1.65, and then down to $1.60 on a few sales, but quickly recovered to $1.65 again, where it closed firm, with the few parcels here under good control, and no stock said to be expected or even available, from the Eastward. For exports, etc., during 1877, see LUMBER.

LIME.—On Eastern lime the market has had rather a slow appearance throughout, with not many fluctuations, and week after week has frequently passed without the development of a really new feature. The slow movement, however it appears, has been rather deceptive as to its magnitude, the steady distribution as is now shown on the footings for the twelvemonths really exceeding the amount handled in 1876 by quite a snug total. Operations were throughout conducted with caution, all around, buyers seldom going beyond early requirements, and sellers aiming to adjust supply to demand very closely. The latter effort was in the main successful, as forwarders and their agents have been in close accord and were enabled thereby to regulate arrivals pretty nicely to the exhaustive capacity of the market. There is a fairish stock here now, in dealers' hands, but nothing calculated on large demand, should such arise. On prices the inside figures of last year were not quite touched, but the average was lower, and the margin to the producers very small, against which the increase of sales was scarcely sufficient to keep up the average of profit. It is evident, however, that every fraction possible was obtained out of the market, and it may be a sort of consolation to the manufacturer to know that considering the difference in the cost of production lime has been relatively higher than cement throughout. The opening prices on Rockland lime in 1877 were $1 on common and $1.25 on lump per bbl., followed by a drop in April to 80c. and $1.15. After this, lump receded to $1 and then went back to $1.10, the latter on July 6th, followed on the 25th of the same month by common to 85c. On August 31st, both grades were at exactly the same price, viz., $1 per bbl., but common soon weakened, and then gradually dropped back to 80c. per bbl., where it remained during the balance of the season. Lump in the meantime undergoing no change. On State Lime the fluctuations have been very much the same as for the Eastern product, with the two extremes during the open season, as near as we can learn from actual sales, standing at 58 and 70c. per bbl. for Common, but since canal navigation closed, 10@15c. more per bbl. has been asked, with the finishing at a dollar. All the agents report a larger amount of business than last year, about twenty-five per cent. being the average estimate of increase. A portion of this is claimed on local account, but a large amount has been done in the way of shipments to the Eastward and on Southern orders, the latter particularly calling for the finer quality, adopted for consumption by bleachers, dyers, sugar refiners, etc. As an offset to the present demand, the supply is ample, but said to be twenty or twenty-five per cent. less than last year.

LUMBER.—It has been the fashion among lumber dealers generally during the past year to complain of the condition of trade, and a cheerful view of the situation was the exception. The final results, however, are better than these indications would have led one to suppose, and while a thoroughly bright tone has not as yet been infused, the feeling is evidently more hopeful. The amount of profits which the majority of dealers will lay away on their operations for 1877, must of necessity prove very small, owing to strong competition among sellers, rigid economy among buyers, and the natural sequence of low prices and narrow margins. Yet with a steady avoidance of credits, wherever such policy could be carried out, a large amount of lumber has been turned into cash, and it is found that in peddling out small lots, a great many odds and ends have disappeared which previously were to some extent considered dead stock, and the general footing shows in feet an excess, if anything, over last year. In making up new invoices, care has been taken to calculate closely on cost and assortment, and, if possible, an underestimate of quantity has in some cases resulted from over caution. This strengthens the position of the general line of holders. Some failures have occurred, but they were in the main to be attributed to the dry rot of preceding years, and did not include any very heavy concerns. Altogether, therefore, we consider the Trade as in good healthy shape and the chances more in favor of an improvement than a further retrograde turn of affairs, and according to our exchanges this appears to be the feeling on nearly all the primary, distributive and consumptive markets. The crop of logs must eventually prove something of a factor in determining values, but speculating and theorizing upon the subject at this season of the year has grown into decided disfavor. About the main alarm expressed is over the possibility that the law making quidnuncs at Washington will do something to unsettle the financial situation of the country, instead of bettering matters by their tinkering the questions and issues before them.

Among the salient features of the business during the season has been the continued light call for all kinds of manufacturing purposes, although the consumption of lumber on this outlet was if anything larger. The anomaly may be explained by the fact that consumers were for a time in direct receipt of supplies from the West, etc., and neglected the offerings here, but with a probable exception in the case of box-makers, recent indications seem to show that this plan of operations is gradually being abandoned. Buyers find it difficult to so regulate their orders as to prevent some undesirable surplus remaining on their hands, and have frequently found an entire arrival utterly useless for the purpose on which they had been impatiently awaiting its advent, and then being obliged to exhaust funds in securing a supply here, the shipper was made to suffer a very much less favorable settlement than calculated upon, causing trouble all around. The chances are, therefore, that regular dealers will be more frequently called upon in the future, and their natural facilities for reaching all classes of consumers enable them to find a market for the various grades without more than the ordinary difficulty. In building operations the finer grades of lumber have formed but a small component part, as the average consumer has had an eye single to obtaining the largest amount of stuff for the smallest amount of outlay, and the result was to be found in the demand concentrating upon coarse and cheap grades generally. Indeed, the testimony of some of our leading dealers goes to show a consumption of a grade of lumber, in a large proportion of the so-called first-class tenements of all kinds, that would a few years ago have been indignantly repudiated as altogether too inferior by some of the worst Cheap Johns among our contractors. The Export trade has been a very good one, and shows a large increase over last year. Agents have concluded a great many contracts for shipments direct from the points of production along the coast, while the movement through this port has been free. The line for profit was not a large one, but it is a cash trade principally, and this is an attractive feature. South America and the West Indies have afforded the main outlet on shipments, but latterly there has been some increase to the Continent of Europe and also to the United Kingdom, the latter in part fine selections on an experimental venture, the results of which are not as yet clear.

We annex to this report an exhaustive detail of the exports of lumber, wood and the manufactures thereof, which may be accepted as complete according to the weekly summaries furnished by the Custom House. We make no digest, as the figures explain themselves. We also place upon record all the figures we have been enabled to obtain of arrivals, but do not consider them worth much as giving an indication of the receipts at this port except from the points designated. Neither have we wasted our time over an attempt to compile the stocks, as former efforts have taught us this would be fruitless and unappreciated. Indeed, one of the most singular features of our lumber market is the apathy of the dealers in regard to any movement tending to give them practical information regarding the article in which they deal, and the entire absence of any organization calculated to identify the trade as a body. Dozens upon dozens of interior towns and cities are far ahead of us in this respect, as well as about all the seaboard cities, while New York appears to have a Board of Trade for nearly every article of merchandise except lumber, and in many cases where the money interest represented is very much less. We know that some of our leading lumber merchants are in favor of a proper organization and can see no reason why they cannot by judicious proceedings bring the matter into some sort of shape during the present year. The failure of a somewhat crude attempt a few years ago should not be accepted as a precedent, and the only opposition seems to come from a few monopolists whose equivocal excuse that "the trade know too much already" would seem to indicate that a little investigation might prove wholesome.

Eastern Spruce has, during the greater portion of the regular season, been subject to diametrically opposite reports. One portion of the trade was continually talking buoyantly of the great advance just at hand, through some sudden expansion of demand, against light supplies available, and no chance for replenishing, the latter argument, ornamented with the well-worn story about the "last log" being cut, etc., while, on the other hand, a doleful complaining sort of expression was current, with a further break on values regularly predicted from week to week. Neither of these theories have been fully verified, the actual market occupying a midway position, a conservative basis being agreed upon for average operations; and, though in comparison with the preceding year, the range of values has been lower, covering all grades, really attractive stock has brought a fair return. With the flush of the spring demand about $13@13.50 was obtained, and some very good randoms brought $14. After this as low as $12 was reached, but with a few fluctuations, cost ranged during the greater portion of the season at $12.50@13@13.25 per M, for average cargoes. On quality at all "off" and short sizes, buyers have had decided advantages at times, and rates ranged down to $11, and even $10 per M, where sales were forced. "Cash" and "credit" have also been elements influencing cost, the latter basis, of course, drawing the highest figures. At the close of the what may be called the regular season, the market here was pretty firm, and no large amount of stock remained in yard, the consumption of the city and vicinity having run liberally to this class of lumber, and prevented much of an accumulation from the purchases of randoms, while the ordered specifications throughout had been calculated so closely to actual wants as to seldom leave a foot over. This, in connection with the effects of the summer drought at the eastward, which prevented a run of logs, or the sawing of the few on hand, and left the principal primary markets, according to report, almost denuded of supplies, has imparted a very strong tone among manufacturers and receivers, and expectations are confidently based upon a high opening of the market next spring. There is no sawing going on this winter calculated to furnish much of a supply. Lagging preparations have been extensive, but the result is doubtful as yet.

White Pine has again had rather a slow year at this point, and the result of business does not prove altogether satisfactory to dealers who look to the local demand for an outlet. The call has been of quite a moderate and careful character, on what may be termed the general wants, both in the way of building and manufacturing, and buyers constantly crowding, for low rates, preferring, apparently, in many cases, to content themselves with a cheaper grade of lumber, rather than pay a price which would simply let the holder out whole on cost and expenses. The larger consumers, such as the box-makers, etc., have bought a few bills here, but as a rule, were enabled to secure their supplies on direct shipments from the interior. Among exporters there is a somewhat variable expression over the year's business, a portion inclining to a cheerful tone, and others rather complaining, though the latter seems to be the result in part of some falling off on orders within a few weeks, against calculations of a contrary nature. There has certainly been a very fair amount taken out since January last, on both the South American and West India orders, and the urgency of the demand, on one or two occasions, afforded base for some advance, while generally there was an apparent margin. Some few shipments made to Europe, also, as a sort of venture, are understood to have proven remunerative, with a possibility that increased quantities may be forwarded. Altogether, we should say, the foreign trade had been a fair one, and better, if anything, than that on home account. As to coming supplies it is useless, as yet, to form any estimates, as both the reports from the woods and the primary markets are undecided in tenor, and past experience shows cannot be taken as a guide at this season of the year. No scarcity of logs, however, appears to be apprehended. During 1876, some 23,000,000 feet of deals passed through this city, on direct shipment to Europe, but this year the total amount does not reach 11,000,000 feet—and the bulk of this was shipped during the early months, in the completion of back contracts. It may, therefore, be assumed that deal shipments from the West, to England, have not proven profitable, and have for the present, at least, been abandoned. Increased freight charges from the interior to the seaboard, by rail, have possibly tended somewhat to this result; but certain little straws go to show that matters are not at present ripe for a continuation of the movement, notwithstanding the fact that American deals generally appeared to meet with favor abroad.

Yellow Pine has found a somewhat irregular market, but on the whole the trade was very good, and the deliveries at this port in excess of last year, while dealers assert that the average of prices obtained will run very little if any lower. A good many specials were sold early in the season, on which time of delivery was not urgent; and this has enabled shippers to take advantage of favorable opportunities on freight charges—though, as a rule, these were at no time very high. Flooring boards, at intervals, suffered considerable neglect—so much so, as to render values more or less nominal; but since fall there has been a better demand, and good seasoned stock ruled pretty firm at $21. Quite a trade has been done in Carolina and Virginia flooring, mostly at $16@$18, covering some very nice stock, we understand. Agents here have done a good business in cargoes for direct shipment from the Southern ports, our Eastern markets taking a fair amount, but the principal outlet on foreign account. South American and West India shipments have done fairly until a month or two, but supplies sent abroad—especially to Great Britain—did not give quite so encouraging a return. From all we can learn, however, the latter appears to be in the main the result of a little recklessness on the part of our shippers, who have tumbled in their cargoes, one upon another, until the English markets simply broke down under the pressure, and dealers sent out a prayer for a cessation of arrivals from this side of the water. Some little excitement occurred in February last over a call from the Dutch government for about fifteen million feet, intended for use in harbor improvements, at Batavia, E. I., and several of our agents commenced figuring over the specifications; but it was soon found that the cut required, the mode of delivery, and the terms, were such as to leave "no money in it," and the matter was abandoned.

Hardwoods may be said to have had no regular market here throughout the entire year, and values during a greater portion of the time were, to a large extent, nominal. Indeed, some of the largest dealers heretofore making this class of stock a specialty, have abandoned the business entirely, and only here and there could a seller be found willing to negotiate. As a rule, the basis has been upon a rate at the West, subject to contingencies of cost of transportation, as the latter was at all times quite doubtful, and finally became so excessive as to give another serious blow to the business. Especially have exporters been effected by this indifference of the railroad monopolists to the interests of the city, and parcels going abroad were largely forced to seek an outlet through other ports. Our local consumption has all last year felt the influence of economical tendencies, and the use of fancy woods is figured down to the most absolute necessity, and purchases are made accordingly. A great many manufacturers, also, have been looked upon with suspicion, particularly by Western dealers, who have before sold them direct, and since experienced the beauties of granting extensions, and compromises, and this has added another influence tending to contract demand. Even those consumers, however, who had credit upon the primary markets, do not in all cases seem to think that it has been particularly beneficial, as their experience was frequently to find that a carload purchased and delivered would turn out anything, almost, except just what they required, and force them to hunt around the city, and pick up enough suitable parcels to execute the work in hand.

Eastern Piling has ruled low during the year, and does not appear to have given very great satisfaction to receivers. The demand was fair on the whole, and indeed at times quite a little show of activity could be noted, but the amount available was equal to the call in every instance, and generally something to spare. In fact, there finally became a decided surplus, and the accumulation in chains this winter is unusually large. About 3½@4c. per running foot for average sticks has been the price.

Shingles have found a good market, at steady fair range of prices. Especially has Southern stock been in favor, and the product of the Dismal Swamp sold at times with great freedom. Cypress shingles were wanted by shippers, and while enough offered for the outlet there was no surplus, so that values, after some early fluctuations, ruled pretty steady at say about $6 for Saps and $9 for Heart 6x20. The principal business, however, has been in machine-dressed Cedar shingles which, first sawed and then planed, have, by their uniformity and superior finish, attracted decided attention, and not only kept the supply sold up but frequently ahead of production. The distribution was largely to points along the Hudson, though a general country demand prevailed. For a general line of quotations the rates were on 30 inch in length by 5 to 7 inch in width, $23.75@33.25 per M for No. 1, and $16@22.25 for A; 24 inch by 4 to 7 inch $12.25@23 for No. 1, and $8@16 for A; 20 inch by 4 to 7 inch, $8.50@15.75 for No. 1, and $5.75@10.50 for A. We also hear of a fair trade having been consummated in Eastern Cedar shipping shingles, with some irregularity in values, but recent sales at not far from $2.50 for sawed and $3.25 for shaved.

The yard business in lumber of all kinds has been of rather monotonous character during the entire year, and there is but little of interest to write. Buyers have adhered with much tenacity to the plan of taking just what their positive wants required and nothing more, and were rarely coaxed into the belief that any thing was cheap or would pay to handle against future possibilities of consumption. Another feature, too, has been the inclination to make a dollar bring just as many feet and inches as possible, without regard to condition or style of goods handled. In short, it was a direct sacrifice of quality to quantity, and dealers tell us that it was really surprising to see the class of lumber taken for what were called first-class building contracts. Prices have undergone very little alteration, the few figures changed being mostly in buyers' favor; yet, as a rule, our quotations have had a slightly nominal basis. Nearly every dealer has had his own idea about terms, credits, etc., and this has caused variations which were difficult to properly cover on the ordinary form of quotations, while a buyer with cash, of course, received all and frequently a little more than the ordinary courtesies and this made another pivot for deviation. Dealers, however, have generally secured a little line of profit, and many can show fair balances on the right side of the ledger.

There has been reported on the manifests of the outward bound California clippers 31,132 pcs lumber and 53,080 staves.

The following is a record of every figure we have been enabled to obtain of receipts at this port, and are, in the main, made up from the manifests of vessels. They are, of course, altogether too imperfect to be of any great value, but may serve as a hint of what could be done were the Trade to unite upon some plan, whereby a thorough system of statistics would result.

In addition to the above, we have a record of 569 cargoes of lumber and lath received from the Maine coast, but the quantities per cargo were not reported. We shall publish next week a comparative table of cargoes received for some years past.

METALS.—Without particularizing the various articles making up the general list of metals, we may record the market as a whole under a rather unfavorable situation during the past year. Stocks have been large, competition strong and consumption slow and cautious, and the result was to be found in a continuously low range of values, with very light margins always and in some cases none at all. To a large extent, this was attributed to considerable stocks left over from last year, and a failure to properly adjust the production and importation to the reduced wants of the business, though the crippled financial condition of holders in many cases made frequent forced sales necessary and gave buyers additional advantages. Within the past two or three months, however, the weight of these depressing influences has appeared to lighten somewhat, business on many of the leading articles has picked up a trifle and the year opens with a better prospect. A noticeable feature has been the favor shown everything in the way of domestic product that could by any possible means be made to take the place of the imported article. This commenced at first on the attraction of the difference of cost which has remained a factor in retaining demand, but consumers having through actual trial become convinced that former prejudices against many American metals were poorly founded are content to continue their use. Copper has again been exported pretty freely, the European war affording quite a large market.

NAILS.—There has been a slightly fluctuating market, but seldom any protracted appearance of strength, and buyers' have slowly and surely gained the advantage on cost. Manufacturers held meetings, revised lists, formed combinations to check production and control the offering, and took all the usual measures for the protection of their interest, but efforts were fruitless against the continued slow and indifferent demand from all quarters. Consumption appeared to be unusually moderate, both interior and local, and requiring merely a jobbing distribution, while the export call was slow and afforded but little relief. Last January the rate current on 10d. and 60d. was $3.00 per keg net, and now the nominal figure is $2.40, but buyers in want of full invoices could probably do better still. The latest meeting of manufacturers again "resolved" to take measures looking to a reduced production.

We also have record of shipment by clipper to San Francisco of 47,180 packages.

OILS.—Operations have been of a comparatively moderate character through all seasons, buyers moving only as compelled by the urgent necessities of the moment. In some cases, among the lubricating and illuminating oils, a slight inclination to speculation has been shown, but all attempts at forcing values to a very full level have failed of more than temporary success. On Linseed Oil there was a few unimportant fluctuations, but as a rule the market has shown a pretty steady uniform tone, and a fair distribution of stock took place. Crushers have complained of a very limited margin for profit throughout.

PAINTS.—So far as the volume of business was concerned the showing of most dealers will compare very favorably with last year. As before, the policy has been to keep supplies in motion and prevent an accumulation to eat up interest and storage, and possibly in the end sold out under pressure at considerable loss, and, met in this spirit, buyers have responded fairly whenever in want of supplies The demand, however, has seldom gone beyond actual consumptive ability on either local or country account, and probably the only real approach to speculative operations was the usual spring flurry on Paris Green, required for a purpose entirely independent of its use as a coloring matter. Supplies have never been excessive, but at all times fair, and occasionally a little heavy for holders to carry, both in the way of the domestic product and imported goods. On values there has been more or less fluctuations, but with a general tendency to shrinkage, nearly all leading styles showing a reduced range or cost, and the final figures about the lowest. The feeling now, however, is evidently more uniform, and it is considered that the shading of prices has about ceased.

The following rules, governing the sale of White Lead by dealers, have been adopted by the Association of Manufacturers :

1. Strictly Pure White Lead in Oil is not to be sold in any quantity at less than 8½ cents ℔ lb. in kegs ; 9 cents ℔ lb. in 25 and 50 lb. tin or iron pails, and 9½ cents in 12½ lb. tin or iron pails, freight added.

2. Dry White Lead is not to be sold less than 7¾ cents ℔ lb., freight added.

3. The longest time on any sale shall be 60 days ; and one and one-half per cent. may be allowed for cash, if paid within fifteen days after date of invoice. No discount to be allowed after fifteen days. No greater discount than one and one-half per cent. to be allowed for payment before the expiration of the fifteen days.

4. No sale shall be made for future delivery at a fixed price, unless the Lead so sold shall be settled for at the time of sale.

5. No consignments of White Lead shall be made.

6. No allowance for decline in price shall be made after the Lead has been shipped or delivered.

7. No one shall meet any cuts in prices, or reported cuts, but shall give information of such cuts to the party of whom he buys Lead (and to no one else), who will investigate them.

The following is the rule that governs the members of the Eastern and Western Associations on this subject :

"No member shall meet any cut in price (or reported cut), but if the buyer shall furnish satisfactory proof of the same it shall be promptly investigated by the proper officer of the Association. The party making the offer shall pay a sum equal to double the amount of the cut into the treasury of the Association whose officer makes the investigation, and one-half of this amount shall be paid by the treasurer of that Association to the informant."

8. The manufacturer reserves the sole right to offer the rebates or allow equalization of freight, and no one else has the privilege of making these concessions, as otherwise there would be no stability in prices. The jobber's selling price must, therefore, be our list price, freight added. The manufacturer also reserves the right to change or discontinue the rebate at any time.

9. None but outright bona fide orders shall be taken or entered for shipment, and none shall be received and held for shipment "in case Lead advances or is to advance," or subject to any contingency whatever.

10. No inducement, direct, indirect or remote, other than those expressed in these rules, shall be offered or given to any buyer of White Lead.

A rebate will be allowed under certain conditions, varying from one-fourth to one-half a cent per pound, according to the amount purchased.

PITCH.—A good fair jobbing business has been done throughout, against which supplies have, as a rule, proven sufficient, and sellers quite willing to operate. Some few variations in value occasionally took place, but the general tendency of the market was in buyers favor, and the average of cost was lower than last year.

PLASTER PARIS.—The market for lump plaster has not amounted to much, most of the burners and all the leading ones now doing their importation direct, and a portion from their own quarries. Such cargo sales as were consummated included a very full share of more ordinary qualities of rock, and were to meet southern orders for fertilizing purposes. Rates have been at about $2.75@2.80 for blue, and $3.00 the ton for white. Including all receipts, however, per amount coming into port has been larger than last year, and as the accumulation left does not show any fuller amount the natural supposition is that there must have been an increase in the consumption. This is confirmed by the reports of manufacturers of calcined, who, with few exceptions, claim to have made a distribution in excess of 1876. Capacity has been increased, competition was sharp and bitter, and values crowded so low as to invite attention from consumers generally and open up new outlets for stock. Especially has this bee n noticeable in the orders from the Eastward, the low cost here admitting of successful competition with the product from Hillsboro, Nova Scotia. On local consumption the amount of calcined handled has been quite as much, if anything rather more than last year, and export orders have also afforded quite an exhaust, especially for the East Indies. To the West and South the sales are reported as smaller, with possibly an exception in favor of Baltimore, but shipments of land plaster to points down the coast are again commencing to take encouraging size. There was an attempt made during the year to introduce a calcined plaster from England, but the result was a most decided failure, neither the cost or quality proving attractive. Indeed, one of our principal makers assures us he has had offers from England, and seriously thinks of sending out American plaster to compete at the point of production with the very article brought out here seeking a market. As noted above, rates have ruled very low, so much so as to absorb all margin for profit, and as yet show no signs of recovery. The natural results of the general condition of trade are to be found in this, though the depression is no doubt greatly increased by a competition which has degenerated into feud between rival producers to the detriment of the entire business.

SLATE.—On roofing slate the volume of business for home consumption has been moderate, yet, withal, rather better than last year, and dealers have a few good words to say for the market. Local calls, as a rule, were simply in the way of small orders given under pressure of early consumptive necessity, only one or two large contracts calling for a supply; but to the country "round about" there was a very good distribution, with pretty liberal buyers to be found in some portions of Westchester County. Supplies and assortments have at all times been equal to the wants of the market, and prices easy, the range standing about $1 per square lower than last year. In Slate for billiard-table beds, ornamental work, mantels, etc., the business has been very fair, but calls for no further comment. The export movement, as will be observed by our comparative figures, foots up larger and is of a somewhat more diversified character as to points of distribution than last year. Most of this, however, went out during the first six or seven months of the season, and covers, in part, balances due on contracts of 1876, with dealers speaking much less hopefully of the foreign business in the future, especially on English account. The opening for American Slate at various ports in the United Kingdom and dependent points originally came about through the high and independent pretensions of producers there, the low cost of the article here, and light freight charges; but our shippers have now lost advantage on the rate of ocean transportation, while the foreign quarryman, through the competition, has finally found it beneficial to materially modify his ideas. It is also found that only the large sizes, say 20 inch and upward, sell readily on the markets of Great Britain, while our own consumption, and that to which the quarries are accustomed mostly, is smaller, ranging from 18 inch down, and this covers the Australian trade which requires about 16 to 18 inch sizes. Exporters, however, have not altogether withdrawn, and as they are cash buyers, all additional calls they may make will be likely to receive due attention.

As to home prospect for the incoming year the feeling is a little doubtful. Dealers may be said to scarcely take into consideration the city wants, but they have some hopes that the line of distribution for 1877 covering Eastern points, along the Sound, and up the North River, will want further supplies: and possibly Long Island, which has been a poor customer, may make amends. No dealer would be willing to contract ahead, however, on account of the uncertainty regarding the workmen, who are almost sure to strike the moment business looks like improving, and, indeed, have already done so to the stoppage of quarries, in some cases, where fair sized orders were in process of execution.

STONE.—Building Stone appears to fall into line with the other descriptions of material in point of selling to about an equal extent with last year, and at a low range of price, with a limited margin for profit. The fluctuations, however, have been felt, as cost was graded down to the lowest possible range at the outset, and current valuations remain about the same as the opening spring figures. On all the better class of work the Ohio and Dorchester (New Brunswick) Stones were favorites, both for full fronts and trimmings, and have sold in about equal proportions, with supplies left on hand amounting to almost nothing. Indeed, the stock in yard is unusually moderate, and we understand that at the points of production the Dorchester Stone ready for market is quite limited, though the Berlin (Ohio) quarries have sufficient available to meet any ordinary call, at comparatively short notice. On the ordinary run of building continuous rows of tenements the Brown Stone has been principally used, but mainly of a very poor and, in some cases, shamefully inferior quality. As we have had occasion to notice on lumber and other styles of material, the main object of contractors appeared to be to figure out the very smallest possible expenditure in all cases, with a steady sacrifice of quality for quantity, and the result is to be found in another addition to the flimsy structures for which certain portions of the island have become notorious. A description of the Blue Stone market, as given by one of our leading dealers, was short and pithy, and garnished with certain strong adjectives, which, though quite expressive in their way, were scarcely of a character to introduce into a market report, even through the medium of significant dashes. The gist of the remarks, however, very plainly conveyed an idea that matters in the general local trade had been far from satisfactory, either as to the amount of stock distributed, the prices agreed upon, or the settlements effected with buyers. Demand, indeed, was in the main for small, irregular job lots, with strong competition to secure even these, which of course gave the buyer great advantage, and which too many buyers have further increased by slow and irregular payments, with an occasional diversion in the way of no payment at all. It is, in fact, a very common complaint among all dealers, that payments have been poor and extensions numerous. During the past few weeks a considerable local exhaust for Blue Stone has been obtained through the medium of the elevated railways, who, in securing foundations for the brick piers which support their uprights, have consumed about 150,000 feet. Several thousand tons have also been exported to Cuba, but this mainly on old contracts of long standing. The poor state of trade here has had the effect to turn the attention to other points of consumption, and some of the principal quarries have already made much progress in successfully placing their product upon Eastern, Western and even Canadian markets. Price-lists show the same figures for some time current, but good customers can always get something "off." Base and foundation stone, from the bastard granite of the island, have retained about a steady range of prices, and sold quite as well as usual, and, indeed, at times producers have reported to us a very active demand, quite up to their output.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—Two or three slight speculative flurries have taken place, but they did not amount to sufficient to work any severe strain on prices, and, taken all in all, the position was comparatively uniform. The crop was full enough to satisfy all calls, both domestic and foreign, and this with a slow, cautious demand, based on known early wants and a disinclination to carry stocks for any great length of time, has had its influence on cost, which averaged lower than last year. The highest point was early in the season at 50c., from which there was a break to about 30½c., and the majority of sales have been under 40c. per gallon. From the above inside rate there was a reaction of 6@7c. and then another break, with the year closing at about 33@ 33½c. All the above rates refer to wholesale valuations for goods from first hands.

TAR.—Stocks in some instances during the year ran pretty low, and there was during the period of scarcity a firmer tone. It required but a small amount, however, to bring the accumulation up to and in excess of the wants of the market, and the least surplus of stocks sent the position in buyers favor again. Generally prices may be recorded as having ruled easy, and sellers were well inclined to do business whenever opportunity offered.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

KINGS COUNTY BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

Year ending December 31, 1877—New buildings, 1,708, of which 1,137 were brick and 571 were frame; 887 being for private dwellings, 256 for stores and dwellings, 32 factories, 5 breweries, 21 storehouses and nearly all the remainder for dwellings or stores and dwellings intended for occupancy by several families. The total cost of the buildings was $7,004,000.

To alter houses, 931 applications were made, of which 917 were granted; the total estimated cost of which was $517,782. Sixty-four buildings were removed, and 254 violations of the Building laws were acted upon.

We print these data through the courtesy of the Building Department tendered by Clerk Mr. Henry S. Campbell.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Mr. C. L. Cornish has recently commenced business as a Real Estate broker, at the corner of Fifth avenue and Fifty-ninth street, in the building originally intended for the Knickerbocker Hotel. Mr. Cornish has been long and favorably known, especially in the section he is now located, and his thorough knowledge of real estate, acquired during a period of some twenty years, renders him in every way well qualified to give entire satisfaction to those parties entrusting business to his care. Mr. Cornish is at present building the house at the corner of Fifth avenue and Sixty-first street for Mr. I. A. Bostwick.

CAPABILITIES OF THE WEST SIDE.

The extension of the Elevated Road, above Fifty-ninth street, into the heart of the section distinctively termed the West Side, will afford facilities of access such as this quarter of the city has never before known. Until quite recently, the main dependence of travelers through this picturesque but benighted region was the old-fashioned omnibus which still plods its way on the Grand Boulevard. Within two or three years the Eighth avenue railroad commenced running cars to One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, and, finally, to Macomb's Dam. With the establishment of steam transit we may expect that public attention will be particularly drawn to this quarter of the city, and, in the near future, the most interesting subject among real estate dealers and builders will be the capabilities of the West Side. It is needless now to recall the unparalleled speculation which once raged in this property. The whole intensity and momentum of the last speculative era in real estate were concentrated in operations in this section. Its results have been in no wise dissimilar from those which have attended every great and spirited speculation that had previously occurred in New York real estate. It is not unlikely that hopes may be now cherished of an early revival of speculative interest in this quarter. Sales of large blocks have recently been reported, at prices which indicate either a sudden appreciation in what was believed to be current values, or else the transactions are put forth, as feelers, by interested parties to test the amount and degree of interest which is taken in such real estate. Advertisements are cropping out from time to time in the daily journals, either offering large parcels for sale or soliciting the proffer of parcels for purchase. These are well-known devices in the manual of real estate speculation, and may or may not be prompted in such interest. As an offset to these speculative symptoms there are constantly recurring foreclosure sales of property scattered through this region, which seem to produce no better prices than have been obtained in similar transactions during the past four years. A prominent operator recently purchased, for one thousand dollars, a lot on Seventy-sixth street near Eighth avenue which he had sold five years previously for seventy-five hundred dollars—the then purchaser having carried it and discharged all liens upon it to the time of its recent voluntary sale by him. This is but one of the many episodes of speculation which receive frequent illustration, and is alluded to here more to point a moral than to establish a criterion of value. Whether a fresh speculation is to spread over this familiar field again is a question difficult to determine at this early day. We naturally call to mind the common saying that birds rarely return to a region where they have heard the crack of the sportsman's rifle.

The exceedingly low prices which are ruling in this section, represent a true and complete reaction from former high prices of inflation and speculation. That intrinsic value is above present levels must be cheerfully conceded; but whether the intervening margin is to be reaped by builders—actual consumers of the lots—or by mere speculators is a vital and important question. With the conservatism which now so deeply imbues the minds of solvent builders, it will be difficult to induce them to embark in building enterprises after values have been stilted by speculation. If speculators expect to find their profit in the manipulation of this property, they will be likely to lack the co-operation or countenance of the building community, and may in consequence suffer the penalty of having to carry their land for an indefinite period. Whereas, if the present bona fide owners are able to carry their holdings and await the appearance of acceptable master builders with whom they may deal directly, without the intervention of middlemen, the prospect is full of encouragement that the improvement of this vast area will be begun promptly and in earnest.

The advantages possessed by this section at the present time, above what it was possible to claim for it when the speculation was at its heighth, are obvious. The leading avenues and cross streets are regulated and graded, and two, at least, of the avenues and a great number of the cross streets are curbed, sewered and paved, thus rendering them quite ready for the operations of builders. Besides, rapid transit is already within hailing distance of a good part of it.

We propose to offer a passing review of the several localities of the West Side and to try and determine what classes of improvements are suitable for them:

EIGHTH AVENUE.—This avenue extends in an unbroken line to Harlem River. It is paved, regulated and ready for building as far as One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, and is regulated and graded as far as One Hundred and Forty-fifth street, the extension to the Harlem River being now under way. In any rational contemplation of the subject, it would seem to be quite an easy matter to foretell the use to which Eighth avenue above Fifty-ninth street is likely to be put in the future. The idea of attracting fashionable residence to this side of the city at all, and particularly to Eighth avenue, must be set down as a pure chimera, and in subversion of the obvious principle of our city's growth. There has been no instance in the past history of the city where a business street has germinated into an avenue of permanent residences. The attempts made on First and Second avenues to reclaim the upper portions for first-class residences have proved failures; and we doubt not that the same result would attend any similar effort on the West Side and particularly on Eighth avenue. Notwithstanding the endless pains and enormous expense which have been undertaken to forestall and insure the destiny of this quarter, we think owners of Eighth avenue lots will find their most profitable market and their surest road to adequate income in encouraging the erection of apartment houses of the first class, or of stores and apartment houses combined, such as already embellish the line of Eighth avenue at different points between Forty-second street and Fifty-ninth street, particularly in the neighborhood of the Park. These may be taken as the typical improvements which are destined to force their way on Eighth avenue. An intimate acquaintance with the taste and temper of the modern house buyer prompts the assurance that no speculative attempt at building private residences, and, indeed, no further private projection of them may be looked for on the westerly side of the Park.

THE GRAND BOULEVARD.—This magnificent monument of the era of fraud seems likely to become a standing menace and rebuke to corrupt officials and daring speculators, besides an expensive plague and constant distraction to property owners. The dreams and expectations of its originators have, so far, utterly failed of any adequate realization; and, as if to dispel them entirely, the first substantial improvements of the Boulevard consist of stores and common tenements, which have been erected within the past year at the corner of Sixty-seventh street. We confess that this class of improvements is altogether unworthy of this great avenue, and can, in no wise, be taken as typical of what is to come. Doubtless, we must reconcile ourselves to the surrender of the Boulevard to mixed commercial purposes. We expect to see in our day no erection of any notable private residence on this avenue; but rather that the tradition and character of lower Broadway will be perpetuated and fulfilled on the Grand Boulevard, which is, after all, nothing but a continuation of our great main avenue. Doubtless, imposing specimens of the apartment system will be here projected; but, in every case, we venture to assert, the first floor will be ultimately appropriated for business purposes.

NINTH AVENUE.—As the avenue on which the extension of the elevated road is to be made, property holders on this line may be regarded as performing an act of vicarious sacrifice. The great benefit which will accrue to property holders generally in this region by the completion of rapid transit is likely to be enjoyed at the expense of the owners on Ninth avenue. We can cherish no expectation that the improvements on this avenue, certainly as far as the elevated road extends, will be other than similar to those in lower Ninth avenue, that is, common stores and plain tenements; and, doubtless, this character will be maintained to the terminus of the avenue at One Hundred and Tenth street.

TENTH AVENUE.—The common tenement has gained such complete possession of Tenth avenue, and projection has advanced so far above Fifty-ninth street already, that we cannot imagine its career can be checked. As the central avenue in this great district, Tenth avenue may, in its upper portion, take on a character of the fine retail business mart similar to Sixth avenue and portions of Fourth avenue. At the upper portions, in Manhattanville and Carmansville, it is already recognized as the principal business avenue.

ELEVENTH AVENUE.—The proximity of this avenue to the river front must determine its use also for tenement-house purposes—at all events, until it reaches One Hundred and Sixth street, where it merges into the Grand Boulevard. Its title would disqualify it for fashionable purposes, as would that of Avenue Z, if one existed.

RIVERSIDE AVENUE.—This great avenue extends from Seventy-second to One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street, and is the only one, as far as we can see, on the West Side, which is likely to attract residence occupation. And yet, when we remember how completely eschewed have been the avenues on the eastern side of the city which overlook the splendid panorama of the East River, we must confess that we are a little dubious as to the successful exploiting of fine residences even on Riverside avenue. The most hopeful view that we can entertain with regard to its future is that it may be a repetition of what is known as Beekman place on the East River, calling for residences of a good second-class.

NEW AVENUES.—Topographical exigencies call for the erection of several new avenues in this district, many of which have not yet been named, and are of such short lengths as hardly to call for special notice. The principal and longest one is that which commences at One Hundredth street and runs to One Hundred and Forty-fifth street, skirting the easterly side of Morningside Park and the westerly side of the Sacred Heart grounds. We believe the interests of this section would have been promoted by bisecting the long blocks with these new avenues. By this means avenues would have been afforded having no continuous connection with the business avenues of the lower end of the island, and for this reason eligible for the erection of the better class of dwellings. The only avenues that we should expect to be devoted to an exclusively residence occupation are these few new avenues.

ST. NICHOLAS AVENUE.—Starting from the corner of Sixth avenue and One Hundred and Tenth street St. Nicholas avenue runs diagonally, crossing the intervening avenues until it reaches an angle with One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, where it is bifurcated, one arm running diagonally to the corner of Eleventh avenue and One Hundred and Thirtieth street, called Manhattan street; the other trending across One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street in a northerly direction until it reaches One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street. The lower portion of this avenue will doubtless assimilate in its improvements to those already existing in Harlem. The upper or ridge portion of it, where it really has only one side—i. e., the westerly side—suitable for improvement is likely to be occupied with city chateaux or villas. The peculiar formation and the magnificent view which is here to be obtained will encourage and define this style of improvement.

We will now consider the lateral sections of this district.

1. FROM FIFTY-NINTH TO SEVENTY-SECOND STREET.—The side streets through this belt are likely to be affected by the enormous business which is being concentrated on the North River at and north of Sixtieth street. The grain elevators, the Abattoir and other manufacturing and trade establishments which have been lately erected at this point will certainly determine the class of building improvement for many of these side streets, and it will be of a grade calculated to accommodate the employees of these various industries. The influences likely to radiate from these establishments, we believe, will extend certainly to or near the Grand Boulevard; and the side streets south of Seventy-second street may be considered as so far prejudiced by this influence as to be suitable for the erection of none but the plainest and simplest models of dwellings.

2. FROM SEVENTY-SECOND TO NINETY-SIXTH STREET.—This district embraces much of the grandeur of this famed section. Here the highest grades are to be found, and, in consequence, the most commanding interior and river views. Whatever virtue is derivable from such elements must be enjoyed in the fullest measure by the district within the present bounds. The uneven formation of the surfaces discloses itself in many unmanageable promontories of rock and reciprocal depressions of swamp. Whether these will be graded to a common level, or whether they will be subjected to a specific treatment in adapting them to some special occupation, cannot now be determined. The more enthusiastic devotees of the West Side will certainly seek to exploit their peculiar ideas in choice and select localities within this district. Doubtless, improvements in the way of private dwellings may be expected primarily on the broad streets, but ultimately on all the side streets within this precinct, which may be set down as the prospective fashionable quarter of the West Side, if it is ever to be blessed with one.

3. NINETY-SIXTH TO ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTIETH STREET.—The declivity common to the whole of Harlem commences at this point and descends into the basin known as Harlem Plains. But, unlike the easterly side, the depression is quickly overcome at One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street, where we begin to ascend the heights that terminate in Fort George and Fort Washington. The occupation of this low section must necessarily be of an inferior grade to that of the higher regions around; and, doubtless, will partake of the standard already adopted throughout Harlem.

4. FROM ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTIETH TO ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FIFTH STREET.—The region embraced within these limits may be considered the most sightly and satisfying on the whole island. At points along this line it is possible to gain, in addition to a fine view of the Palisades and the Hudson, a view of the East River and Long Island Sound. There can be nothing impertinent in suggesting that this portion of the West Side is likely to be permanently improved with the finest specimens of the city chateau, and that, before many years, this entire district will be occupied with cosy and comfortable villas.

Unless we are greatly mistaken in our calculations, the leading avenues of the West Side are to be devoted mainly, like the lower ends of the same, to business purposes. The intervening cross streets are likely to be required for dwelling houses, but in the main of plain and simple type. The permanent establishment of the fashionable quarter of the city on the easterly side of the Park would render forlorn the hope, and fruitless the attempt to create any detached and sporadic settlements of fashionable and wealthy people at points on the West Side. Rapid transit lines will effectually shut off the West Side from vital union with the East Side, and the dwellers in this region are likely to be those whose business interests connect them naturally with that side of the city, or those who can be conveniently carried to their places of business by the rapid transit line.

What ages hence may have in store for West Side owners, we will not undertake to prophesy. We have no desire to trifle with their expectations or to question the value of their estates. We are seeking simply to take a rational, practical and warrantable view of the West Side situation as it exists to-day. If it is the aim of these owners to artificially force their land to high values, or to carry the same for any great period in anticipation of its becoming a very fashionable and expensive quarter, we can only say that we think they invoke the chances of great additional expense without any assured prospect of corresponding gain. Whereas, by accepting the situation as it is plainly defined to-day, and permitting their properties to be improved in a simple, unpretentious and economical manner, they insure present and prompt income. The model dwelling that we would suggest, for this side of the city, is the semi-detached city cottage, such as is peculiar to West Philadelphia. These present the double advantage of being the most spacious and most inexpensive of any dwelling that can be erected. At the same time they furnish the opportunity of inclosing spaces of ground around the houses, which would lend a great charm and attraction to them. Otherwise, we presume, the model of our plain three and four-story houses, built shoulder to shoulder, will be adhered to in the dwelling improvements of this side. Within ten years we believe the character of this section of the city will have so far defined itself that multitudes who have cherished the most extravagant and preposterous notions with regard to it, will wonder how they ever could have been led so far astray.

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The market has not shown much activity during the week, and there seems to be a total absence of dealings at the Exchange, except in property offered under judicial decrees. The premises at the northeast corner of Madison avenue and Sixty-seventh street (100.5x125), were sold on Tuesday last for $60,000, and the parcel of land situated on the northeast corner of Madison avenue and Eighty-fifth street, with lots on Eighty-sixth street, was sold for $25,000, and the block bounded by Seventh avenue, St. Nicholas avenue, One Hundred and Eighteenth and One Hundred and Nineteenth streets, brought $30,000. The two parcels realizing $55,000, or $36,000 less than the amount of liens affecting the property. In some instances, a few parcels realized the amount of the mortgage on the premises sold.

The following sale under contract is reported: Mr. Charles Fox has sold the four-story brown stone front house, with lot (25x60x100.5), known as No. 42 East Fifty-eighth street, to Joachim Ferro, for $33,000.

The following are the sales at the Exchange Salesroom for the week ending Jan. 10:

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NOTE.—In the hurry of making up our forms for last week's issue a transposition of tabular matter took place, through which statistics of the year's movement of Cement appeared under Doors, Sash and Blinds, and figures showing the exports of the latter articles were printed under Drain and Sewer Pipe.

BRICK.—The market is in a somewhat unsettled condition. Up to the present writing we have learned of no sales showing a positive change on values, and this, in some cases, forms basis for the claim that matters can only be called steady, but, on the other hand, sellers views are firmer and higher, and it is pretty certain that the opening of any demand would give them support in the position. Of course, the main stimulus to buoyancy on values has been the "cold spell," through which the condition of the river prevents navigation and retards supplies. For the present we retain the former general range of quotations as representing the latest reported actual sales, but the figures must be accepted as merely nominal, and probably lower than would be accepted. Indeed, some of the few cargoes afloat are held as high as $6.50, and owners say they intend to "stick" there, or go higher. Demand shows much indifference, and beyond what the railroads may be using there appears to be very little consumption at the moment, while most of the leading dealers seem to be satisfied with the amount of stock they have under accumulation. Fronts are also slow and without quotable change.

We quote Pale, ⅞ M., $2.50@2.75; Hards, Up-rivers, $4.50@5.60; Haverstraw bay, $5.00@5.50; favorite brands, $5.75@6.00; Fronts, Croton—brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $22@27; Baltimore, $31@38.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5@6 on fronts.

CEMENT.—Demand on domestic is not very active, but takes fair proportions for the season, and in various ways quite a little stock moves out. The market, too, is firmer, now that the river has closed, and while sellers vary a little on their prices, according to quantity of stock handled, many refuse to name less than $1.25 per bbl. Foreign is steady and offered without show of anxiety to realize.

GLASS.—Business still fails to take the active form hoped for, and the distribution of supplies from the stock of foreign on hand is below calculations. Holders, however, are not much inclined to force the sale of their stocks, as the amount is not large, and the assortment has been carefully made in most cases so that in carrying, the risk is somewhat reduced. Values are nominally steady, but as usual on a dull market a careful buyer with an attractive order to fill can frequently manage to secure some little favor. The overhauling of supplies in taking inventory has also brought out a number of irregular parcels accumulated during the year, and holders who have these on hand are, as a rule, willing to close out cheap. American glass meets with moderate sale, and is, if anything, doing a trifle better than foreign prices, remaining about as before.

HARDWARE.—Business not very active and confined in the main to what may be considered strictly seasonable goods. Mail advices at hand, however, indicate that the wants of the country must soon increase orders from many sections, and local buyers are also likely to be in want of some additions to their stocks of standard supplies. The yearly revision of price lists has brought many changes of late, and among the most important we note the following: On Wood Screws, flat head iron, 60 per cent. discount from list; flat-head brass, 55 per cent. do. do.; round head iron, 50 per cent. do. do.; round head brass, 10 per cent. do. do., cash, 30 days from date of invoice. The American Copper Rivet Association have issued the following: "On the first day of July, 1878, parties who have purchased five hundred pounds, or over, of rivets and burs of one manufacturer in the previous six months may by that manufacturer be allowed a rebate of ten per cent. provided such parties have not sold at a less price than ten per cent. discount from list No. 6."

The manufacturers of the "Nicholson," "Western" and "Disston" files announce that the factory prices upon the above and other first quality brands for the season of six months ending June 30th, 1878, will be fixed at 35 per cent. discount, cash. The Brass Manufacturers publish a list under date of 1st inst., announcing a discount of 10 per cent. from list prices, terms cash 30 days. The list prices for brass and gilding scrap are net. The Tubing Manufacturers on 1st inst. adopted discount on brass, copper and German silver tubing at 10 per cent from list prices, zinc tubing net, terms cash 30 days. The Anchor brand of shovels, manufactured by B. Rowland & Co., are quoted 50 per cent. discount; the "Patent" and the Oxford patent at 40 per cent discount. On Butts, Hinges, etc., the following are new: Bronzed, loose joint bolts with or without acorns, 20 per cent discount; bronzed narrow, light narrow, light, inside blind, and parliament butts, and bronzed flush bolts, 40 per cent. discount; cast butts, with acorn and friction roller, do. loose joint Japanned, bronzed and silver acorns, do. without acorns, do. loose pin silvered acorns, do. parliament, 62½ and 10 per cent. discount; hinges, strap and T. long chest, hinge hasps, common staple, and crate hasps, patent swivel staples, 60 and 12½ per cent discount. The following reduced price list has been issued: Manila cordage, sizes above 12-thread, and hay rope, 13½ cents, do., 12-thread (⅜ in. diam.) 15, and do. 6-thread and 9-thread, ¼ in. and 5-16 in. diam) 13½; Manila cordage bolt ropes yarns 14, and do. 6-thread and 9-thread 15; Manila whale lines, 14½; tarred manila, 12; fine tarred manila lath yarn, 13½; sisal rope, sizes above 12-thread and hay and hide rope, 11; do. 12-thread (⅜ in diam.) 11½, do. 6-thread and 9-thread (¼ in. and 5-16 in diam.) 12; tarred sisal lath yarn, 10½; Russia hemp tarred cordage, 12; American hackled hemp tarred cordage, 11; tarred American lath yarn, 11; fine tarred American lath yarn, 12½; navy oakum, 8½; U. S. Navy oakum, 9½; and best oakum, 10½, all net cash.

LATH.—The market has not as yet given receivers the advantage they hoped for and anticipated, and prices of late were in a somewhat unsettled condition. Arrivals were not particularly free, indeed, would be considered moderate during the regular open season, but with little anxiety on the demand, and cargoes frequently held for a few days until buyers could be hunted up, instead of finding buyers waiting for cargoes, sellers have scarcely been in a position to dictate terms. We have reports of sales as low as $1.50 @1.55 and as high as $1.65 per M, but we do not think that better than the inside figures could be depended upon at the close.

LIME.—About the only noticeable feature is the absence of change in price. Receivers continue to quote at the same figures current for weeks past, and it is unusual to find the winter so far forward without an upward turn. Demand, however, is quite moderate, and even the light receipts have proven all that could be well placed. State stock selling moderately at steady rates.

LUMBER.—As might be expected, the influence of the holiday season has not as yet fully passed, and general trade remains rather dull, especially so on local account. The consumption for building purposes does not take much stock on fresh purchases, most of the deliveries to this outlet being on contract, and moderate at that. The manufacturing interest, too, keeps within rather narrow compass, and buyers operate only on the spur of some very urgent necessity, or to secure stock against the output of special orders. The export operations are variable, some dealers grumbling over the condition of trade, and others expressing a fair amount of satisfaction. It is probable, however, that the movement on foreign account is not altogether as full as many have been looking for, and that the limits of shippers also run somewhat below calculations due in part to pretty heavy amounts previously forwarded, and which have not as yet worked down closely. The axe seems to be swinging pretty lively whenever there is the least chance for work in the woods, and the lumbermen evidently intend to make all the preparations in their power for a big run of logs in the spring, though their success will depend largely upon the aid afforded finally by the elements. Latest accounts were rather more favorable for operations in most lumber sections.

Eastern Spruce is reported by Receivers as a very saleable article, for they seem to think a considerable addition to the supply of desirable stock would find a ready market. Buyers are not making an open demand on a market void of any certain supplies, yet in a quiet way are on the watch for stray offerings, and would no doubt endorse the above claim of the selling interest to some extent by a quick purchase of really attractive goods. We quote at $12.50@13.50 for random, possibly $14.00@14.50 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $13.50@15.50 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White Pine appears to be somewhat irregular, but not enough so to greatly change the general range of values. There is some little movement on local consumptive account, but scarcely enough to greatly curtail stocks. The export demand is somewhat slow. We quote at $15.00@17.00 per M for West India shipping boards; $19.50@20.50 for South American do.; $15.00@16.00 for box boards; $17.00 for do., wide and sound; and timber at $16.00@18.00 per M.

Yellow Pine remains pretty firm, and has been selling during the past few weeks a little more freely than the reports made indicated. This was mainly on special orders covering deliveries here and at the Eastward, and for direct shipment from the South. We quote random cargoes at $18.50@22 per M; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do.; green flooring boards, $21@23 do.; and dry do. do., $22@24. Cargoes at the South, $14@16.50 per M; hewn timber $7.50@14.

Hardwoods continue dull and more or less nominal on all grades, though buyers would not be likely to gain much advantage. We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $77@82.50 ₩ M; ash, $23@30 do.; oak, $35@40 do.; maple, $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d, $30@35; do. do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $45@75 do.; white wood, ½ and ⅝ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $23@35 do.; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $10@50 for good near-by stock.

Yard trade has a rather slow movement for all classes of goods, and the market is without new features for the moment. About former rates are quoted, and dealers are steady but not exacting with good first-class cash customers.

Recent lumber charters made embrace the following: A schr., 130 feet Resawed Lumber, from Wilmington to St. Pierre, Mart., $7.50 gold; a schr., 250 M Lumber, from Savannah to New York, $5.50 Resawed, $6.50 for Timber; a Br. barque, 317 tons, from Brunswick to Rio Janeiro, Yellow Pine Lumber, $19, a Br. barque (to arrive), same voyage and rate; a schr., 200,000 feet Lumber, from Wilmington to Demerara, $8 gold; a schr., 171 tons, from Jacksonville to the Windward, Lumber, $8.75; a schr., 128 tons, from Savannah to St. Kitts, Lumber, $8 gold; a schr., 200 M. W. P. Lumber, hence to Port Spain, Trinidad, $5.50 gold; an Am. barque, 235 tons from Portland to Cardenas or Matanzas, Box Shooks, 20c. gold; a schr., 223 tons, from St. John, N. B., to Matanzas, Box Shooks, 21c. gold; a schr., 227 tons, hence to Port Limon, $1,500 gold, thence and from Carthagena to Port Limon, R. R. Ties, terms private; a schr., 200 M Lumber, from Fernandina to Norfolk, $5.50; a schr., 200 M Resawed Lumber, from Savannah to Perth Amboy, $6; a schr., 160 M Resawed and Rough-edge Lumber, from Jacksonville to Wilmington, Del., $7 and $8; a schr., 250 M Resawed Lumber and Timber, from Savannah to New York, $5.25 and $6.25; a schr.,

115 tons, hence to Brunswick and back with lumber, $8 for the round, option of Jacksonville and back, $9.

The latest mail advices from Rio Janeiro report:

Pitch Pine—The cargo per Emilie fetched 38 500 ℔ doz., that per Shasta is unsold. Receipts, 487,477 feet.

White Pine—Receipts 135,824 feet, which has found buyers at 90@100 rs. ℔ foot. The cargo of Spruce per Sally Brown is reported sold at 28 000 ℔ doz., 3 by 9 by 14.

We are indebted to Wilson Godfrey for the following compilation, showing the number of cargoes of Eastern spruce and lath received at this port for the past four years.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From the Lumberman's Gazette we obtain the following:

BAY CITY, Jan. 4, 1878.

As noted in last report, lumber buyers are making their appearance in this market earlier than last year. There are a number of dealers from abroad in the Valley now, but we have not as yet heard of any sales which we can chronicle, but as they have come here to buy, undoubtedly purchases will be made before they leave. This unusually early inquiry for lumber indicates that stocks in markets at other points are low, and that a fair demand will be experienced here before the spring shipments commence.

The weather for the past few days has been somewhat colder, and slight quantities of snow have fallen, but not enough to make hauling in the lumber camps. We learn from jobbers on the branches of the Tittabawassee that up to the present they have been skidding logs with fair success, but are now getting anxious for snow in order to commence hauling. This report is about a fair sample made by others. Those who took their supplies into camp early have not experienced the difficulty that those who did not now do. Many of the latter have broken up their camps and discharged their men, on account of the roads being in such condition that food for the men and cattle could not be carried in except by packing. At present writing, the prospects are looking more favorable.

The Gazette's Chicago corrospondent of January 4th says: The past few days have been of the most delightful quality of winter in comparison to what we have had for weeks past. The old year passed out quiet and serenely, ushering in the new with a bright, clear morning, and with the thermometer considerably lowered—a state of weather somewhat in accordance with Prof. Tice's predictions and the wish of many dealers whose trade has suffered severely by the continued soft weather. The lumber trade has suffered as much or more than any other line of business on account of the protracted wet, soft weather, not only by the diminution of demand, owing to the impassable condition of the roads, but by the expense incurred in sending men, teams and supplies to the woods, which have been a constant expense for weeks, and, so far, little or no work has been done, and in many parts of the country are breaking camp and going home, after the consumption of half their supplies and the loss of two working months. The winter is now so far gone that the anticipated log crop will not be harvested possibly, even if we should have favorable weather from this on; but the loss incurred so far by the trade in the logging business will add many per cent to the cost of stock next season. Many logs that were hung up last spring have been brought forward during the past two weeks, down the Black, Chippewa and Eau Claire rivers. During November considerable work was done in Minnesota. The ground froze solid, as did the swamps and the Mississippi river, but for weeks it has been as mild as May, and steamboats have been running on the headwaters of the "Father of Waters" for weeks, and most logging business has been suspended and the gangs gone home.

The demand in this city is as good as could be expected under the circumstances. Orders are quite liberal from the large interior towns and cities, but meagre from the unimportant points.

Prices remain firm in the face of a slight demand, everyone expressing the most perfect faith in the future of the trade. It is a possible thing that the reverses experienced in this line of trade in the past two years, may culminate in a few years of most prosperous times in this traffic in the near future.

The Lumberman and Manufacturer of Minneapolis says: The very favorable change in the weather which has occurred within the last three days, gives promise of a splendid logging season. The melted snow and rain has formed as ice bottom on the road, which in many places is as good as snow, and logging is vigorously resumed. On the long hauls they will have to content themselves with skidding until there is a fall of snow, which will not probably be long in coming. We are still of the opinion that there is ample time to secure as many logs as will be needed next year, and probably more, on all the tributaries of the Mississippi. On the river above Minneapolis they have very few old logs, and can saw all the estimated cut next season, whatever falling off there is in the cut here will still leave more than timber enough to supply the demand, and few want stocks to carry over a year. The removal of the mud embargo will bring a demand for lumber, but the usual dullness may be anticipated for some weeks. There is no probability of any change in the price of lumber unless it comes from a disagreement among holders, concerning time and discounts, about which there is difference at most points, and although not serious, are liable to make very serious consequences. As when lumbermen do get hostile because others differ from them as to any matter they always take revenge by reducing the price of their own lumber in the hope that others will be obliged to do the same. It is entirely an original custom among the fraternity, and is at once a unique and dignified method wherein the advantages are so evenly distributed that no one can find fault, as they all grow poor together.

THE EAST.

Through press of matter of late, the following has been crowded out. It covers important ground however, and may yet be read with interest. The original publication was in the columns of the Kennebec Journal, about the close of last month, under the general head of

The Lumber Interests of Maine.

We present to our readers statistics concerning the lumbering operations in the State the past year compared with previous years, the prospects for the future, and other matters pertaining to the subject. The review embraces lumbering activities on the principle rivers in the State. The data was obtained from authentic sources, and the statements may be relied upon as in the main correct.

The present winter has been extremely unfavorable up to the present time, for lumbering operations on the Kennebec River and its tributaries. There has been no snow, and the lumbermen have been unable to haul logs. Teams usually begin to haul by the 18th of December; it will be a month later this year. In former years the average amount of timber cut on the river was about 125 million feet. In the winter of 1877 the cut of logs was reduced to about 60 million feet. This reduction was forced upon lumbermen by the continued depression of business. Arrangements for logging the ensuing winter of 1878 have been made for a total cut of about fifty million feet. But unless snow comes speedily, it will fall below that. Following is the cut on the river for several years: 1865, 76 million feet; 1876, 113 million feet; 1877, 60 million feet; 1878 (present year), 50 million feet.

At the present time there are very few old logs unmanufactured on the river. Usually the lumbermen "carry over" logs enough to supply the mills until the opening of navigation (about the 1st of May), when the new logs come down, so that few of the mills will next season be able to start up before the first or the middle of June. To secure the cut for the winter some 1,200 men have gone into the woods with about 250 teams.

The number of feet of lumber manufactured on the Penobscot River, and shipped from Bangor and vicinity, is as follows:

	1875.	1876.	1877.
Green pine	40,429,849	15,001,624	10,655,143
Dry pine	10,777,325	4,612,948	4,048,709
Spruce	139,415,478	82,087,987	85,180,149
Hemlock, &c.	15,820,706	13,417,632	17,683,444
Total feet	206,483,358	115,121,191	117,867,745

Quantity of logs cut on Penobscot waters, or driven into booms at mills for manufacture in the year 1867, was 178,046,040 feet; in 1876, 86,974,240 feet; in 1877, 81,948,040 feet. Estimated cut for the year 1878, 100 million feet. About 18 million feet of this is shipped to the European markets in deals—"deals" being sawed from spruce boards, mostly 3 by 7, 3 by 9, 3 by 11. Price of spruce logs at mills in 1867, $12 per thousand; in 1877, $9 per thousand. Price of spruce manufactured in 1867, random, $13; dimension, $15; 1877, random, $10; dimension, $11. It is estimated that the shingles and other short lumber, sold in that market, will be about one-quarter of the value of the long (or manufactured) lumber.

On the Passamaquoddy river, the lumbermen, as elsewhere, have been waiting for snow. It is estimated that double the amount of logs will be hauled on the Passamaquoddy and its tributaries this season than last. Some 150 men are in the woods, 80 horses and 20 oxen.

On the St. Croix river quite a number of firms have gone out of the business since 1867. If the present winter should prove a fair one for business, the stock of logs hauled will exceed that of last winter by 33⅓ per cent. Not 10 per cent of the lumber goes to foreign ports generally. The following is the amount of lumber hauled and sawed: 1876, 65 million feet; 1877, 60 million feet.

On both branches of the St. Croix 1700 men and 850 oxen and horses are employed. About 65 million feet will be cut the present winter. Prevailing prices of lumber: Spruce $10 to $13, hemlock $7 to $8, pine $10 to $12, hardwood, ship-plank and timber $15 to $20, delivered at the vessel in Calais. The stock of logs is almost entirely sawed up; the present fall and the quantity manufactured will not vary much from 1876, there being quite a stock of old logs on hand at that time. Lumber is being got at lower rates than usual the present season, but wages being low allows a fair margin for profit.

On the St. John river the lumber business this year will be double that of last. It is estimated that there will be driven into the St. John market this year more than 200 million feet. On the upper St. John, above Van Buren, there will be employed 700 men and 200 horses. The wages are $15 per month for men, and $28 for men and horses.

An intelligent gentleman in Fort Fairfield writes: The amount of lumber cut the present year, as compared with the last, will be double. Number of men employed, 4,500; number of teams, 1,200; amount of lumber cut this season, 200,000,000 feet; wages of men average $15 per month; wages of teams of two horses, $15 per month; average price of stumpage, $1.75 per 1,000.

On the Saco River.—The following figures show the amount of lumber manufactured for several years: 1874, 33,000,000 feet; 1875, 24,000,000 feet; 1876, 20,000,000 feet. It is estimated that the cut for the present winter of 1877-8 will be 18,000,000 feet. These amounts do not include that manufactured by the Bartlett Land and Lumber Company, at the head of the Saco River, who manufacture each year a little over 4,000,000 feet, and ship the same by rail to Portland. No small lumber is manufactured of cedar on the river; pine, spruce and hemlock are the kinds used. About 2,000,000 of sapling shingles are annually manufactured.

On the Narraguagus River the business will be increased from last year about one-half. Number of men employed the present winter, 200; horses, 76; oxen, 80; average wages paid to men, $22 per month; Amount of anticipated cut, 13,000,000 feet. Amount annually manufactured: Long lumber, 12,000,000 feet; laths, 8,000,000; shingles, 5,000,000; clapboard, 200,000. Prices: Pine shipping boards, $15 per M; pine refuse boards, $10 per M; spruce boards, $10 per M; laths, $1.15 per M.

On the Union River the following is a statement of the amount of lumber cut and manufactured the past season: 21,000,000 long lumber, 11,000,000 shingles, 4,000,000 laths, 10,500,000 staves, 100,000 clapboards, 500 tons Excelsior, 100,000 feet of spool wood. The above is exclusive of wood, railroad ties, hemlock barks, etc. This amount will fall short of last year's product by one-third, and will exceed that of the coming season by one-fourth.

On the Androscoggin River there has been cut, above Bethel, for the last ten years, 5,000,000 feet annually. The present season it is estimated that there will be from 26,000,000 to 30,000,000 cut. This has reference to the lumber cut for the market. Considerable is cut for home consumption.

On the Sandy River there has been very little lumber cut from 1867 to the present time, with the exception of one year. Some five years since, about 1,200,000 feet were cut.

On a review of the entire field there will, perhaps, be more lumber cut the present than the past year, and unless something unusual occurs, the low prices will prevail the next year. There have been a large number of failures during the year among lumbermen, affecting some of the largest corporations. The most of them, however, have effected a settlement, and are doing business again, their creditors having generally manifested a liberal disposition. The failures generally have not been because of bad management, extravagance or fraud, but on account of continued depression in business, and the failure of large purchasers.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Trade between England and the United States.

The United States Consul at Bradford, in his despatch to the Department of State of the 13th ultimo, refers to the subject of trade between England and the United States, and suggests that the choice woods of America might be disposed of in England to a much greater extent than at present if energetic steps were taken to introduce them. Black walnut is seldom, if ever, seen in furniture or house furnishing. Hickory is imported in the shape of carriage spokes and hubs, but the equally desirable ash and the second growth of the white oak are but little used, and, in short, the great variety of wooden household articles which are so common in this country, and which are classed under the general head of "woodenware," are but little known in Great Britain, and it is thought that a trade could be advantageously established in these articles.

METALS.—COPPER.—Ingot has met with a slow and uncertain demand, at prices showing a little weakness, though holders are not much disposed to press the sale of their stocks. We quote at 17¾@17¾c. for Lake. Manufactured Copper meets with few orders, but is held steadily on a basis of the recently reduced cost. We quote as follows: Brazier's Copper, ordinary sizes, over 16 oz., per square foot, 28c. per lb; do. do., do. do., 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per square foot, 30c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per square foor, 32c. per lb.; do. do., lighter than 10 oz., per square foot, 34c. per lb.; circles, less than 81 inches in diameter, 31c. per lb.; do. 81 inches diameter and over, 34c. per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 31c. per lb.; locomotive fire box sheets, 28c. per lb.; Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz., per square foot, 26c. per lb., and Bolt Copper 28c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig has been very dull, and values without much strength, though on the general range quoted at $23.50@26.50, still American Pig selling to some extent on the ordinary grades, but the finer qualities slow. Value without much alteration. We quote at $18@20 for No. 1 per ton, $17@19 for No. 2 do., and $16@18 for Forge. Rails in moderately active demand and ruling about steady, but without unusual strength. We quote at $31@35 for new iron, and $40@43 for Steel at the mills. Old Rails, $18@19 per ton; scrap, $22@23; the latter slow. Manufactured in good jobbing demand and steady. Common Bar is quoted at 1.80@2.0c., and Refined 2@3.3c., from store, as to size and shape. LEAD—Foreign remains entirely nominal. Domestic selling moderately, and in the main in a retail way. About former rates asked, but no strength shown. We quote at about 4¾@4¾c. currency. The manufacturers of lead are quoted: Bar, 7c.; Pipe, 7¼c.; and Sheet, 8c.—less the usual discount to the trade; and Tin-lined Pipe, 15c. Block Tin Pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig in limited uncertain demand, and values generally have rather a weak tone. We quote at 17¾@18c. for Banca, 15⅝@15⅝c. for Straits, 15¼@15⅜c. for English Refined, and 15⅛@15¼c. for do. common. Tin Plates are offered freely and on easy terms, but buyers are not attracted, and business is dull. Spelter finds a few small orders, but no activity, and ranges at about 5¼@6c. for domestic. Sheet Zinc is rather dull, and prices show less strength than heretofore. We quote at 7¼@8c. gold for foreign, and 7@7¼c. currency for domestic.

NAILS.—The demand moderate still and mainly in a jobbing way, to satisfy the regular trade wants. Prices as before with no gain of strength, though manufacturers are making an effort to reduce and control the production. We quote on a basis of $2.40 per keg for 10d. to 60d.

OILS.—On many grades there has been rather an irregular tone, with more or less of a tendency in buyer's favor, but for Linseed Oil the position appears to be quite firm, and full rates demanded on a basis of 64@65c. from crushers' hands.

PAINTS.—The demand continues moderate, and mainly confined to invoice required for immediate wants. Not much better is expected at this season, however, and dealers seem to be confident of a good spring trade.

PITCH.—Business has proven moderate and the market somewhat tame, but about former rates preserved, especially on small lots, quoted $2.12½@2.25 for city delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—A somewhat variable inquiry has prevailed, but no great amount of activity was shown, and values weakened, with sales at 32½@31c., according to quantity of stock handled.

TAR.—There was a moderately active movement on the ordinary receipt of orders, with stock enough for all calls and a little to spare. Prices without positive change and fairly steady. We quote at $2.12½@2.50 for Newberne and Washington, and $2.25@2.62½ for Wilmington.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C. and C. a. G. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:
1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.
2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or incumbered.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

THE ECONOMICS OF BUILDING.

BUILDERS.

In the common acceptation of the term, any one of the many tradesmen connected with operations of building is deemed a builder. It is barely possible that hod-carriers and other inferior workmen may also be mistaken for builders. These, however, are erroneous and inadequate conceptions. The master builder, like the general of an army or the captain of a ship, fills a distinct and responsible role, though he may never raise his hand except to rule or his voice except to command. His function is to marshal the forces of mechanism and determine the material results of enterprises. There are classifications, orders and degrees among master builders which no intelligent view of the profession can overlook or ignore. A simple and natural generalization would be to divide them into three classes—legitimate builders, speculative builders and architect builders.

Legitimate Builders.—As such we will designate a large majority of the craft who confine their undertakings to order or contract work, never accepting any risk, except that involved in agreeing to execute a certain amount of work for a given price. As ample provision is usually made in original estimates for fluctuations in prices of labor and materials, the risk in these instances is reduced to an absolute minimum. In active and prosperous seasons this line of business is usually very lucrative and much sought after. Competition not infrequently introduces an element of risk in cases where, for the sake of securing a contract, the builder encroaches too deeply upon a prudent and safe margin of profit. So long as any margin is reserved, the single risk incurred is that of being able to collect the contract price upon completion of the work. The mechanic's lien law furnishes a pretty reliable security for the contractor in addition to the responsibility of the contracting owner.

Elite representatives of this class are veritable hidalgos of the profession, being noted for their financial strength, mechanical skill and commercial integrity. With the foremost of them the practice is invariable of undertaking only such work as may be done upon percentage—that is, where materials and labor are furnished in accordance with the architect's requisition at actual cost, to which the builder adds his fixed royalty or commission of ten per cent. It will be seen that, with assured responsibility on the part of contracting owners, this business would take rank with first-class banking or commission business. It is a distinction of these grandee builders, of which they are justly proud, that they often execute their works without any written contract or obligation between themselves and owners. It is commonly understood that James Brown's residence, on Park avenue, and the banking building of Brown Brothers, in Wall street, were erected by Mr. Ross, upon word of honor, as the saying is, and without a scratch of the pen between the parties. The cost of the two works combined is known to have approached the sum of a million of dollars, an index to the degree of confidence reposed in this old and reliable builder. Besides Mr. Ross, the distinguished chiefs in this department of building are Wyllis Blackstone, William Webb, John Downey, Isaac Walton, Thomas Bloodgood, Henry Christie, Alfred Hoe, Peter O'Brien, John Sniffin, and others whose names we do not now recall.

It is also characteristic of these men, as indeed it is to their pecuniary and professional interest, that they will undertake none but the best work. Economy of construction is an element that rarely enters into their calculations. Strength, durability and good workmanship are the qualities they most delight in. The highest mechanical merit that can be found in the buildings of New York, erected prior to 1865, may be attributed almost wholly to the efforts of this select and dignified coterie of builders. However creditable their work may be from a mechanical standpoint, it is certain that the expensiveness of their methods places a definite limit upon the prosecution of building enterprises. Out of this essentially old fogy system, good but costly, has sprung the opportunity and the incentive for building ventures of a far different kind, on the principle that extremes often meet and beget each other. The more foolish and reprehensible schemes of speculative building are the true antipodes of this class and natural reaction from it.

Under the head of contract or order builders may be included all the sub contractors in general building operations. These men undertake tasks assigned to them by master builders, whether legitimate or speculative, and rely upon receiving their payments promptly at the completion of specified portions of their work. They are usually enterprising and ambitious journeymen mechanics, who have accumulated sufficient capital to raise them to the dignity of bosses in small undertakings. It would be imprudent to suppose that all contract-builders are necessarily of the highest stamp of responsibility or character. The smallness of risk to be run and paucity of capital required in embarking in such contracts attract a horde of adventurers from all branches of the trade. Their estimates in a job that is closely competed for, often occasion no small amount of annoyance to older and more responsible members of the craft, who are obliged to surrender a good share of their profits and conform their figures to those of less responsible competitors. With the assistance of a competent architect, however, owners run slight risk in the selection of a master builder, provided they are willing to pay the reasonable guarantees demanded by responsible contractors, such as are well known and in good standing inside and outside of architects' offices.

The growth of the city would be slow indeed if its extension awaited the efforts of contract and percentage builders, or the tardy motions of employing owners. The high order of workmanship demanded by these owners, and as severely exacted by this type of builders, finds its proper and most appropriate field in those grand exhibitions of corporate and individual public spirit which adorn our thoroughfares, and in special private mansions which occasionally serve to embellish our fashionable residence quarters. But, as a speculation, the work done by these meritorious builders would be far from remunerative. They fill an important sphere in the building world, and especially excel in large and massive works, where costs are not counted.

Speculative Builders.—We use the term speculative in no opprobrious or disparaging sense, but merely to distinguish a deserving and enterprising body of men who do assume risks in the prosecution of their trade from those who do not assume them. The office and interest of the legitimate builder ceases when he receives the owner's check for the final payment of his contract. The speculative builder stands related to his job more in the category of owner in a private job. At a point where the legitimate builder's function ceases, the most anxious and vital interest of the speculative builder really begins—that is, at the completion of the task out of which capital is to be realized by sale. The speculative builder undertakes to pay out of his own resources all charges for materials and labor furnished in the execution of his works, trusting to getting his return in a single payment from the purchasing public as opportunity may be afforded of effecting a sale of his products. It will thus be seen how plainly distinguishable the sphere of the speculative builder is from that of the legitimate builder. It will likewise be seen that unquestioned courage, along with actual capital, must be ingredients in the make-up of the speculative builder. The physical progress of New York city in the past, as is certain to be the case in the future, has been due mainly to the efforts, enterprises and, we may say, sacrifices of speculative builders. They scan the surface of the island, estimate its capacities for improvement, and determine its need of additional building accommodation. Upon such data speculative enterprises are based. However creditable such undertakings are, and commendable the spirit that incites them, candor compels us to say that the term speculative often attaches to this class of builders with more of fitness than of fiction. The moving incentive may be most meritorious, and yet, from no individual fault, the results oftentimes are as unfortunate financially as of the wildest speculation ever undertaken in Wall street. Kept within proper bounds, guided by intelligent judgment and a reasonable insight into the future, this business of speculative building might be made as safe and lucrative to the builder as it would be beneficial to the city at large. But the inducements to embark in it with inadequate capital, insufficient experience and faulty judgment lead too often to overwhelming misfortune. The temptation to persons of a fraudulent bias to indulge their proclivity for dishonest gains, through improper building loan schemes, affixes an indelible disgrace to a share of this business besides multiplying disasters. The admonitions of example and experience seem to have but little deterring effect, and new candidates for the chances and honors of speculative building are constantly appearing. The city derives the questionable benefit of a rapid extension of its building area, but the inferior quality of many of these projections detracts seriously from the value of the quantity thus afforded.

Of bona fide building speculation, McManus, McKenna, Talman, Donnelly, Hennessy, Jennings & Brown, Breen & Nason, and Kilpatrick, are among living, active leaders, and Robins, Sares, Buckley, Fitzpatrick and Perkins of those who have recently passed from the stage, and Hamilton, Fettretch, Coburns, Thos. Kilpatrick, Keech, Kerwin, Lynch, Lester and Malloy of those who are no longer actively engaged in the business.

Architect Builders.—Until a comparatively recent period the professions of architect and builder were completely dissevered and dissociated, the architect representing solely the theoretic and artistic portion of the work, as the builder did the mechanical and practical part. It is unfortunate that these functions, so closely allied and mutually subservient, should, in practice, fail to agree upon a harmonious and united course of action. It is the truth, however, that between architects and builders, until quite recently, there existed an irrepressible conflict, which generally proved fatal to the successful execution of work. An insuperable and often avowed antagonism seemed to subsist between these two professions, which neither constant contact nor community of interest could overcome. In fact, to this date, so deep seated seems to be the professional jealousies between these two factors of building products, that it not infrequently happens in a given case that they resemble and behave like a balky team, to the destruction and injury of the work in hand.

The practical effort of a distinguished and prominent architect has of late years furnished a complete and satisfactory solution to this vexatious problem, by combining in his own person the two functions of architect and builder. The eminent success which has attended this effort, and the disposition manifested by other architects and builders to improve upon this model, afford ample justification for the experiment. The advent of Charles Duggin into the building arena of New York marks a distinct epoch in the history of the trade, as it has also served to revolutionize its conditions. After a successful career as practicing architect, Mr. Duggin determined to devote his attention to the special elaboration of improved city dwellings. The outcome of his first essays in this line was a forced resolution to assume the practical execution of his own plans by means of an organization which he created and controlled. During nearly fifteen years of continuous trial the organization, of which Charles Duggin and James M. Crossman are the chiefs, and Michael Dittoe, Charles Buek and Oscar Waller, the able coadjutors as foremen in their respective departments, has written in living characters the evidences of its efficiency and popular favor upon the leading up-town avenues and cross streets. Over one hundred costly and superior dwellings, sold and occupied down to the latest productions, attest alike the peculiar merit and enviable success that belong to this method of conducting the business. In analyzing the exceptional career of this firm in the domain of house building and selling, we can, we think, readily discover its impelling motor and secret power. They lie, as we conceive, in a unified management and in the simple infusion of intelligent planning, pure taste and honest workmanship into the details of house-building. Instead of the clumsy, commonplace and monotonous front designs and disorderly ground plans that characterized too many of the earlier specimens of city residences, the house of the D. & C. pattern presents a unit of comeliness, strength and order throughout all its parts. No future history of the physical growth of this city will be complete which fails to take into account the productions of this industrious firm, and to record the effects produced by them upon the taste of our citizens and upon cotemporaneous house building. Many of the old time builders, brought up under the crude and imperfect methods of an earlier day, have voluntarily reliquished their calling, while those who continue in competitive strife are clearly aiming to assimilate their methods and practices to this later and more approved standard. Conspicuous among the latter, we may mention Sherwood, Lynde, O'Rielly, McCafferty, Buckley and Bradley, all of whom are understood to be capable of designing and supervising the artistic portions of their work. They combine the three offices of legitimate and speculative builder and architect, since they are equally able to execute works to order or on their own account, with plans and designs of their own production. As a rule they operate with their own capital, rarely relying upon building loans, and when these are accepted they are negotiated upon the most conservative basis.

The business of house-building is fast taking rank as a fine art. The wholesome effect of good models is bearing fruit in the offices of leading architects, whose plans and designs of late years have evinced thoughtful study and wise appreciation of the æsthetics of utility. In the special mention we have here made, we have no intention of indulging in gratuitous compliment, or of lauding one building firm above another. We have no more interest in the particular builders just alluded to than in any one of the five hundred builders and architects who are regular readers and patrons of THE RECORD. But in the peculiar methods of Messrs. Duggin & Crossman, and kindred establishments, we claim to take a professional interest, and one which every active builder and architect in the city must share. Since success is the goal towards which we are all striving, it becomes the province and duty of this paper to point out the elements which contribute to that end wherever they may be found.

It is plain to practical eyes, that building competition in the future will be conducted on a different basis from that of the past. Excess, not scarcity, of supply is likely to be characteristic of future times. This will throw the door open for searching inspection and rigid scrutiny on the part of buyers and consequently of sharp competition between builders. Architects and builders must forget their past differences and seek to combine their talents for the production of meretorious work. Failing to do this, enterprising and ambitious architects must organize and control mechanical forces, and competitive builders must organize in their offices an architectural department. The theoretical and the practical, the abstract and the concrete, must be combined under a proper unitary system in order to cater for the present and future public taste in house-building, already so critical and highly cultivated. The haphazard and shiftless methods of the past are not only obsolete but for the future will be the certain forerunners of disappointment and failure.

BUYERS.

New York is perhaps the only city in the world, certainly in this country, in which there is a continuous and reliable market for building products. This remark applies particularly to dwelling houses; but, in face of the experience of the past four years, it may be predicated of all classes of improved property that the matter of prompt and ready sale is a question of price and not of demand. Investment requirements are apt to seek their gratification either at the Exchange Salesroom or through special contracts for building improvements. Of late, the notable exhibitions of this demand have been in the projection of wholesale warehouses on leading thoroughfares and of apartment houses and apartment hotels in central localities. The chief activity of the buying demand is to be found in the special market of private dwellings. As the most conspicuous and noticeable branch, this is apt to be taken as a true index to the condition of building interests and the salability of real estate.

That New York is a growing city and that its population is undergoing a constant increase, are facts which may be more accurately determined outside of the computations of the census taker or of any calculations based upon its voting returns, or of any comparative estimates with the growth of other cities. The best purveyors of such information are the leading builders and sellers of houses. Their concurrent testimony would reveal the fact, that more than one-half of their sales are made to parties who have recently become residents of the city, representative citizens of all the leading cities and some of the larger villages of the Union and of many cities of Europe. Besides this extraneous or foreign demand, as we may term it, there is a constant development of fresh demand from our own citizens. The exigencies and characteristics of our city's growth, by which neighborhoods once considered eligible and fashionable become obsolete and discarded, furnish no small share of demand. From the Battery to Twenty-third street, this operation of the overturning of residence neighborhoods has been periodically witnessed and is operative to-day. The more energetic and enterprising of older residents are the first to seek abiding places in new districts, and when an exodus is once commenced, it is sure to run its course until the oldest representative inhabitant is compelled to change his homestead and the abandoned neighborhood becomes submerged with a new and altogether different population. The underlying causes of these changes are readily determinable, being principally due to the upward march of the city, invasions of business and the approach of classes of occupation which are considered inimical to the selectness and exclusiveness of fashionable or even respectable residence quarters. The scarcity of rentable private dwellings contributes no small quota to the demand for purchase of new dwellings. Aside from the great estates, like the Astor, Goelet, and Rhinelander, there are comparatively few opportunities of hiring choice private residences, and most of such opportunities are coupled with the condition of taking them already furnished—a requirement which is not always acceptable to average tenants. The natural growth of our population, by maturity and marriage of rising generations, also creates a demand for new dwellings. The best commentary upon the subject, and the most conclusive demonstration of the proposition here made, is the fact that though our principal builders were caught in the panic with a considerable stock of assorted residences, these have all, without exception, been taken up by private purchase. And although building industry has been continuously exercised since that period, there are no houses remaining unsold to-day in the best quarter except the few which have been finished during the past three months.

The great influx of population that was drawn to our city during the war period found a totally inadequate supply of dwelling accommodations. In consequence rents and prices were forced to a perilous altitude, whose fatal impression has but slowly faded away. The panic of 1873 scarcely produced any immediate effect upon the scale of high rents and prices, though prostration and paralysis of business during the past four years have wrought great depreciation in values, but without as yet restoring the scale of ante-bellum prices. The business of building private houses found the most lucrative era in the period ranging from 1868 to 1872. It is no exaggeration of that situation to say, buyers stood ready to purchase every house that was produced, even before its completion. The ready negotiation of building products is a vital condition of success in the business. Prolonged holding is apt to eat up the builder's margin of profit or to seriously cripple his resources. A most gratifying and encouraging response still continues to be made by the public to the efforts of speculative builders, embracing the latest selling season, giving tokens of thrift on the part of our own citizens and evidences of recent accessions of well-to-do residents from abroad. Even in the new district above Fifty-ninth street, which has but lately been taken possession of by master builders, many prompt and meritorious sales have been recently made. Demand for purchase of private dwellings may be ascribed in no small measure, also, to the natural repugnance of Americans to entering into the relations of landlord and tenant. The typical American evinces just as great an inaptitude for fulfilling one relation as the other. It is well understood that hiring a house in this city, when it can be done, is more economical than to purchase it, even when the rent calculation in the latter case is made upon the basis of a low interest for money. And yet, in spite of this fact, the rule with New Yorkers, and with those electing to become residents of our city, is to purchase rather than to hire. In fact a disposition is evinced by our wealthy and well-to-do classes to choose the alternative of residing at a fashionable hotel or apartment-house in preference to hiring a whole dwelling, the former expedient involving only a modified relationship of landlord and tenant. A large number of our citizens, however, particularly those who are blessed with growing families, seem to cultivate and cherish a decided home sentiment, and seek the purchase of private dwellings as the means of gratifying their home instincts, and building up and surrounding themselves with the associations of the family circle. It is an event of frequent occurrence for a father to bestow upon a newly-married daughter a comfortable residence as a wedding gift and a start in life. The buyers of dwelling houses naturally divide themselves into three classes—the high-priced, the medium, and the low-priced.

High-Priced.—There is probably no other city where the erection of high-priced city mansions, upon speculation, as the term is, which means for sale, is made such a building specialty as in New York. Our principal fashionable avenues and side streets are lined and adorned with sumptuous residences, the handiwork of our most skilled, and enterprising builders, which have been erected with all the care, trouble and expense of a private job, with the confident expectation, which has never been disappointed, of finding a purchaser at the completion of the work. There is one solid block of mansions up town, sixteen in number, which were thus built, and were sold in their day for an average of $80,000 apiece. In the present fashionable quarter there are similar mansions to the number of three or five hundred which have been built on speculation, and sold for prices greater and less than those just alluded to, whose average price would be the same. Along Fifth avenue there is at least a score of houses that have been built in this way, and sold at prices ranging from one hundred and twenty-five thousand to one hundred and ninety thousand dollars. These efforts and results, however, were characteristic of the big bonanza days, and could not be repeated in times like the present. Sales made during the present year, have demonstrated that there are still ready purchasers for what may be termed high-priced houses. Of course this demand is necessarily a limited one, and exceedingly fastidious. Parties able to purchase such costly residences should be allowed to build them by special order. Their construction by speculative builders involves such an enormous outlay of capital, and the incurring of such great risks, as to render the undertaking more foolhardy than commendable.

The aspirations of our best master builders, however, for the production of the highest class of work, render it difficult to restrain them from entering this field when there is any encouragement to warrant them. There is no development just now of this class of work by leading builders, although a few citizens, like Mr. Bostwick and Dr. Main, are still intent on cultivating their taste for expensive building.

Medium-Priced Buyers.—In former times the range of the medium-priced buyer was from forty thousand to sixty-five thousand dollars, though, through hard times, these limits have been reduced to a scale between twenty-five and fifty thousand dollars. This class makes up the most reliable and acceptable staple of the purchasing demand, as well as the easiest and readiest set of patrons that the builders can cater for. They represent the thrift, wealth and culture of the city. It is noteworthy that private projections of houses are rarely undertaken by this class in person, probably because they find so little difficulty in suiting themselves in the current productions of our leading builders. They are the heads of growing families who seek an orderly and well-appointed homestead in which to rear their little broods. Their characteristics are to be more discriminating than fastidious, and more appreciative than captious. While by no means liberal as buyers—on the contrary, rather exulting in driving a close bargain with the builder—they are not, in any sense, what may be called mean. They wish to pay fairly for work, and to avoid being overcharged. The gross delusion that prevails in the community, which builders themselves have done so much to foster, that building products usually carry an exorbitant profit, has its effect upon the mind of this class of buyers, leading them to seek to make their purchases as near as possible at real or bottom values. The bare facts that so many houses are constantly being sold, and that builders continue to cultivate this class of erection ,with so much seeming satisfaction, must be taken as proof that these buyers are profitable customers. In truth, the most comfortable and lucrative service which the speculative builder can engage in is that of satisfying the tastes and necessities of medium-class buyers.

Low-Priced Buyers.—Unfortunately, New York has afforded of late years very little inducement for the investments of this class of buyers. In the days when a full lot in any respectable neighborhood was esteemed to be worth twenty to thirty thousand dollars, the most venturesome and reckless of the low-priced buyers were necessarily excluded from the market. Even on the present platform of values, it becomes necessary to confine this class within the limits of from fifteen to twenty-five thousand dollars. It is not possible to-day for a builder to produce the plainest kind of dwelling, in a neighborhood that would be at all acceptable for genteel residence, at a cost of less than twelve or fifteen thousand dollars. This statement will not apply to the extreme outskirts of the city or to localities in Harlem. The oasis of this class of buyers undoubtedly will be the West Side, when it is once opened up and rendered accessible by the construction of rapid transit. The opportunity will then be afforded for the first time in many years of supplying a snug and comfortable home at an outlay considerably less than fifteen thousand dollars. Within the settled and recognized limits of the city to-day, the so-called low-priced buyer must necessarily be a man of large capital or income. Upon the lowest computation of interest, the rents of plain houses amount to considerably over a thousand dollars, and certainly appeal to persons who must be regarded as otherwise than indigent or poorly off.

It is the drawback, as it is the disgrace of New York, that persons of moderate means, able to pay rents that range between five hundred dollars and one thousand dollars are either rigidly excluded or are condemned to the occupation of common flats, or residences that are inaccessible and unavailable on account of surroundings. In fact, so extremely limited are the opportunities for accommodating really low-priced buyers that little or no effort has been made by builders to cater to their wants. In the new building district north of Fifty-ninth street, a few creditable efforts have been made, and have met an appreciative response. When New Yorkers have once fully recovered from their real estate craze, and have had their burdens of taxation properly adjusted, and their expenses of government reduced to a rational standard, the era will be at hand when suitable dwellings can be afforded for this large element of population. Until that time, it will be driven to seek the comforts of separate dwellings in the surrounding suburban districts, and particularly in the growing cities of New Jersey and Long Island.

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The market during the week was entirely devoid of animation and there is no apparent manifestation at present to attempt operations of any magnitude. Many transactions at the Exchange Salesroom show, however, that notwithstanding the spiritless condition of the market, the property offered for sale, under judicial decree, realized the amount of the liens affecting the same, and it is a noteworthy fact that fewer judgments for deficiency are now being entered with the clerks of the several courts.

Since our last report an important contract for the sale of property on the north side of Fifty-sixth street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues (175x100.10), has been recorded in the Register's Office, the purchaser being Mr. Christopher Myer, of New Brunswick, N. J., in consideration of the sum of $175,500.

It is also reported that Messrs. Lamson & Son have negotiated a sale of the house and lot known as No. 17 East Fifty-third street (25x55x100.5), to J. J. Lagrave, for $37,500. Five years ago the latter gentleman paid for the same $75,000.

Messrs. Duggin & Crossman have sold to Mr. A. H. Havemeyer one of their houses, now in course of erection, on the west side of Madison avenue, between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth streets, for $43,300; the house is 32x57, and the lot 32x77.

The report of the Board of Assessors for the quarter ending December 31, 1877, has recently been submitted. On the 1st day of January, instant, sixty lists were before the Board, embracing an aggregate of $1,718,046.43, as against $2,951,095.30 on January 1, 1877. For several months, the Board has been occupied in the examination of claims filed in their office for damage caused to property by the closing of the Bloomingdale road, the claims on file including about 800 pieces of property, varying in form and value, and all affected more or less injuriously, according to their position and distance from the Boulevard, the Tenth avenue and the intersecting streets. The total amount of such claims on file is $797,411, while the awards made will reach an aggregate of $232,000.

The plans filed during the week with the Superintendent of the Department of Buildings are few in number, and embrace no buildings of importance

Six three-story brown stone dwellings will be erected on Eighty-sixth street, between Second and Third avenues, and a six-story brick tenement on Twenty-first street.

Trustworthy information has been received that Mr. Jacob Rothschild has about completed arrangements with the architect employed by him for perfecting plans for the erection of an elegant six-story apartment house at the corner of Fourth avenue and Fifty-eighth street (100x100), and two four-story stores at Nos. 40 and 42 West Fourteenth street.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—On common Hards some slight additions have been made on values, but the increase of cost is much less than would naturally be expected for the season, and the tone is not remarkably strong or buoyant. In fact, so far as all ordinary outlets are concerned, the market is most decidedly dull and void of any encouraging features. As before noted, the open fall and winter permitted such steady progress on work in hand that a large number of contracts have been completed or brought under cover at a much earlier date than usual, while the same propitious condition of the weather kept a steady supply of material within reach, and enabled dealers to satisfy their customers from the floating stock without touching to any extent their accumulations already on hand. The result is that consumption for ordinary building purposes has now fallen to very limited proportions, and supply in yard remains in many cases almost intact beyond such drafts as may have been made for deliveries at near by points, while more distant or larger calls have thus far been supplied from cargoes afloat. There was not many of these, but enough to at times form a surplus and carry over, while up to the present writing $5.75 appears to be all that could be obtained in a wholesale way, proper. This was on Haverstraw's, from whence the the arrivals mostly came, the "up river" points being about shut off and values for the time being nominal. We have have heard of no Jersey's offering, but they would probably be worth $4.75@5.00 per M. The demands from the elevated railroads continues good, and the amounts they have already consumed and are still likely to want is considered the salvation of the market. Pale Brick are not plenty, and $8.00 is about as low as they can be quoted. Fronts generally are dull and nominally unchanged.

We quote Pale, ℔ M., $8.00@—; Hards, Upriver, nominal; Haverstraw bay, $5.25@5.75; favorite brands, $6.00@6.50; Fronts, Croton-brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $23@27; Baltimore, $34@38.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5.00@6.00 on fronts.

CEMENT.—On domestic there is naturally a firm market, as supplies may now be considered under control, and holders in a position to dictate terms. The demand is not very active, but consumption outside the ordinary building call is using a fair amount of stock. Foreign meets with a good proportionate inquiry and values tend to harden somewhat.

GLASS.—There is a quiet market all around, about the only distribution at present being in the way of light jobbing orders by the smaller dealers. Even these, however, seem less inclined than usual to magnify the importance of their business, and matters are evidently pretty dull. Former prices are asked, as the stocks remain moderate and under fair control.

HARDWARE.—There is no activity of a decided character on this market, but a somewhat better business than a short time ago and a tendency to further increase. All jobbers and retailers are distributing from very small stocks, and an assortment based mainly on an ordinary trade, and if orders come to hand in much larger quantity than usual or deviate to any extent from standard goods, it becomes necessary to replenish at once against any renewal or continuation of demand. In manufacturer's hands the assortment is filling up, now that inventories have shown what was most required, and selections can be made without much difficulty. A great many lists are still under revision but the publications since our last have been few. The leading Western manufacturers make important reductions and announce rates as follows: "Climax" barn door hangers, 50 per cent. discount; "Acme" barn door rollers, 50 do; sliding door sheaves, Moore's Anti-friction, 45 do; parlor door hangers do do, 45 do; dumb waiter pulleys, do do, 45 do; baggage car door hangers, do do, 33⅓ do; hay fork pulleys, do do, 50 do; Folant barn door catches, 50 do.

LATH.—There has been little or no change on this market since our last, and in the absence of reported sales it would be a pretty difficult matter to fix upon a positive wholesale value. The tendency to talk high rates still develops itself among some of the receivers, and $1.65 or better is considered "quite as low a figure as should be put in the newspapers," but we find other receivers who admit that they do not believe above $1.50@1.55 could be obtained for cargoes, should arrivals take place, and report their experience as showing a very indifferent feeling among jobbing dealers, most of whom appear to be doing only a limited business and to have more than enough stock for all ordinary expectations.

LIME.—We do not hear of much of a market in a wholesale way at present. There appears to be little or nothing arriving from the Eastward, and holders of the stocks on hand distribute only in small parcels. "About" former figures are quoted, though matters are in a measure nominal. The distribution from yard is light and irregular.

LUMBER—Business, in a general way, continues somewhat dull and uncertain, and the great majority of buyers are evidently determined to move only with the greatest caution. The home wants for building and manufacturing calls are both small, and on the latter consumption buyers are not often compelled to purchase, as they carry a sort of supply which good or bad they manage to work in, in some way, rather than make fresh purchases of stocks better adapted to the purpose. Exporters on optional orders do not appear much inclined to hurry themselves, but in some cases they have to ship under certain dates and limits, and are handling a fair amount of stock. Advices from abroad are still a little ambiguous regarding the prospect for Lumber during the present year, but there seems to be an impression among the trade that both South American and West India calls will amount to full as much as in 1877.

Eastern Spruce remains to a large extent nominal in the absence of positive business reported, and indeed there is as usual at this season no good solid basis for a regular market. Receivers, should they get an attractive cargo would be very apt to expect a high price for it, and no doubt realize their views, as buyers are somewhat more easily to be found than usual. Yet the demand is not without due caution, and all buyers are pretty sure to resist an exacting rate. We quote at $12.50@13.50 for random, possibly $11.00@11.50 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $13.50@15.50 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White Pine remains on a basis of about former figures and fairly steady as a rule. The strength of holders, however, is not such as to give them decided advantage, and as soon as higher prices are hinted at buyers commence withdrawing. We quote at $15.00@17.00 per M for West India shipping boards; $19.50@20.50 for South American do.; $15.00@16.00 for box boards; $17.00 for do., wide and sound; and timber at $16.00@18.00 per M.

Yellow Pine still finds fair demand on special orders, and with a basis of full rates the market ruling firmly on all good stock, and dealers talking with much confidence. It is said that quite a number of bills have come in from neighboring towns for estimate on early spring delivery. We quote random cargoes at $18.50@22 per M; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do.; green flooring boards, $21@23 do.; and dry do. do., $23@24. Cargoes at the South, $11@16.50 per M; hewn timber $7.50@14.

Hardwoods are quoted as firm, and stock could not be reached, either here or at the interior, except at extreme figures. Demand however, is without animation at the moment. We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $77@82.50 ℔ M; ash, $32@36 do.; oak, $35@40 do.; maple, $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d, $30@35; do. do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $45@75 do.; white wood, ¼ and ⅜ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $33@35 do.; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $10@50 for good nearby stock.

At the yards there is rather more doing than a couple of weeks ago, but nothing of a particularly active character, and the general features of the market are much the same as noted for some time past. Prices are slowly gaining strength in some cases.

From among recent lumber charters, we select the following: A Br. ship, 1,174 tons, from Doboy to a direct port United Kingdom, Hewn Lumber, 37s.; an Am. brig, 262 tons, hence to St. Jago, Shooks and Heads, 35c. gold; an Am. brig, 306 tons, hence to Havana, White Pine Lumber, $5.50 gold; an Am. barque, 335 tons, hence to Havana, White Pine Lumber, $5.25 gold; an Am. brig, 299 tons, hence to Sagua, White Pine Lumber, $5 gold; a schr., 171 tons, from Jacksonville, to St. Pierre, Lumber, $8.25, and Shingles, $1.60 per M gold; a Nor. barque, 280 M Lumber, from Brunswick to Rio Janeiro, $19 gold net; an Am. barque, 483 tons, hence to Buenos Ayres, general cargo, 16c. ℔ foot, and lumber $16 gold ℔ M; a schr., 245 tons, hence to Savanna-la-Mar, $1,000 gold, and back from Cedar Keyes, Lumber, $9 currency; a schr., 140 M Lumber, from Jacksonville to New York, $7; a schr., 175 M Lumber, same voyage, $6.50; a schr., 218 tons, from Warsaw, Va., to New York, Oak Timber, $5 ℔ ton; a schr., 200 M Lumber, from Port Royal to New York, at or about $5.25; a schr., 164 tons, hence to Jacksonville and back with Lumber, $9 for the round.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Lumberman's Gazette reports as follows:

BAY CITY, Friday, Jan. 11, 1878.

There has been some inquiry for lumber during the past week, and intending purchasers find that manufacturers hold their stocks very firmly. Prices on common and culls are fully fifty cents per thousand stronger than they were in September last. We have heard of some sales at $5.50, $11 and $26 for spring shipment, but no large quantities have changed hands at those figures. Other sales have been made at $6, $12 and $28@30. Holders ask the latter figures, and do not seem inclined to accept lower rates. It seems to be the general opinion among mill men that there will be no doubt of their realizing the latter figures quoted before spring shipments commence.

The weather for the past week has been trying to the temper of loggers. The early part of it was very encouraging, but as we write a thaw has set in and prospects are again anything but bright.

Teams and drivers from abroad, intended for the woods, are held here, awaiting snow to render hauling practicable.

The Gazette has the following on logging prospects: The weather during the past week has been much more favorable to logging operations, the severe cold snap which has very generally prevailed having frozen up swamps and roads hard. The amount of snow which has fallen, however, has been too small to render hauling good yet. Some firms who had taken part of their force out of the woods have sent most of them back to the camps, and the prospects of the winter's work are more encouraging than they were a month ago.

The uncertainty of any prognostications as to the weather has received a fair illustration this week. Since the foregoing paragraph was written a thaw has set in, and the logging thermometer has gone down again.

At Cadillac the lumbermen are beginning to feel more cheerful, and many are sending teams into the woods, to be ready for hauling as soon as enough snow falls. It has been snowing all day (Jan. 7th), and the prospects are good for sleighing soon.

The Stevens' Point Journal says that a number of loggers who had crews in the woods have been obliged to order them out, and have set them at work driving the logs that hung up last winter.

The Ludington Appeal of January 4th says: The lumbermen in this locality are holding fast to business by the little threads of faith. Great quantities of logs have been sawed and are skidded, but as yet a very few have been banked on account of unfavorable weather. But "good sleighing" is still predicted, and activity is observed in every camp.

CANADA.

Report of the Canada Lumber trade for 1877, by CARBRAY & ROUTH, of Montreal and Quebec, January 1, 1878.

Our report for 1877 might almost be a repetition of that for 1876, so little signs of revival have shown themselves: still, notwithstanding all the complaints, the total amount of business done sums up to more than the previous twelve months, but we fear a large portion of the shipments to United States are not bona fide, being, like in 1876, consignments.

The season opened quiet, the sales to United Kingdom during the winter being up to an average, though at reduced prices: but these were not increased later on to any material extent, as stocks were heavy in all the large centres, and continued so till close of navigation, being kept up by the consignments going forward, which also further depressed prices.

United States bought very sparingly in the spring, though low freights and anxious sellers in every way encouraged purchasers: but little was done till the fall, when several large lines were moved, but chiefly in the lower grades. The shipments were greater than in 1876, but we have reason to believe all the upper grades went on consignment, being an entire change of the business of a few years past, when the chief demand was for our uppers.

There is now every appearance of a revival of the trade in the United States, sufficient to consume the lumber manufactured by themselves. We hear very little now of deals from Michigan for the English markets; indeed, they seem to have found out what we pointed out last year that boards pay best, even at prices now current. Some of the Michigan Deal contracts made last winter with Quebec houses were, under various pretenses, not filled or only partially so, manufacturers preferring to cater for their own markets.

Very few contracts that we can hear of have yet been made by the Quebec houses for next season's delivery, notwithstanding that the bulk of the wintering stock is still in first hands, a most unusual occurrence, but which will materially help to diminish the new cut; the exceptions are good qualities of White Oak and good White Pine Timber. In all other lines there is a complete inactivity. Common White Pine Timber is entirely neglected.

Pine.—In deals was lower than in 1876, opening at $90@95 for 1st: $60 for 2ds, and $28@29 for 3d quality per Quebec standard of 2,750 feet inch-board measure; they kept at those prices till close of navigation, but few sales were made after the spring. The shipments of Pine Deals from Montreal to England continue to increase, being:

1876—51 vessels, carrying 12,000,000 feet.
1877—61 vessels, carrying 21,000,000 feet.

In Boards, as explained above, the business was small and unsatisfactory. The stocks at Ottawa are smaller than last year, but nearly all in the upper grades.

Spruce.—In Deals very little comparatively speaking was done, and prices were lower. We quote $31, $26, $18 per Quebec standard as current rates for 1st, 2d and 3d quality, respectively. There was no animation with buyers of this article, and no desire to stock up.

In Boards the business with the United States was practically nil.

Everything and everybody would benefit by a very small new crop of logs this winter, notwithstanding this, as the old crop was used up, the preparations were on a large scale, but the elements have refused to respond, no snow up to the time of writing this, and no frost till Christmas has effectually shut down all successful attempts at lumbering, and as by the usual rule the bulk of the felling must be finished of course in January, our readers will understand the importance of the aspect of affairs.

We annex statements of freights and foreign shipments from St. Lawrence:

The shipments of deals to Europe from St. John, N. B., last year reached 191,000,000 superficial feet against 182,000,000 feet in 1876.

There are not as many firms operating on the Kippewa this season as there was the past season, and a number of those that are working are curtailing their business. The prices for hay and oats, especially the former, are regulated by, the lumbermen themselves.

The St. John's, N. B., Telegraph says: Lumbering we understand is being prosecuted to an extent fully as great as on any previous winter in Miramichi.

Lumbering operations in the Maritime Provinces is the subject of the following in the St. John Telegraph: "The want of snow has very seriously interfered with the lumber operations of the present winter by preventing parties from receiving supplies, many of the brooks and streams being open. This applies especially to parties working on the head of Miramichi. The logs which have been yarded or piled up in the woods during the fall, cannot yet, in most cases, owing to the scarcity of snow, be hauled to the rivers and streams. The lumbermen usually consider that nearly half their winter's work should be done by the 1st of January, which will, by no means, be the case this winter. We, everywhere, hear of there being but a small quantity of snow in the woods, from the very head waters of the Saint John to the Grand Lake. It is probable that the crop of lumber cut on Salmon River and the Grand Lake waters will fall short of the estimate made early in the season, since the logs there are scattering and frequently grow in swamps and low places, which, owing to the mild weather, are not sufficiently strong to bear teams. The haul of logs on the Tobique will be larger than ordinary, several large parties being at work on Serpentine, Mamozekel and Nictaux. One concern is hauling pine timber from the head of the Nepisiguit into the Tobique. It is said to be of good quality by those who have seen it. The quantity of logs got on the United States side of the St. John will be more than that of last season, should the state of the weather not interfere too much with the hauling. Lumbering on the Kouchitonguac is being carried on largely. One concern is said to have already 6,000 pieces yarded, which they cannot yet haul to the river for want of snow."

NAILS.—The general demand continues moderate and uncertain, and the present market without many signs of animation. Some outside parcels have been crowded to a sale of late it is said, but most regular dealers and manufacturers are inclined to carry their stocks on the anticipation of an early increase of business. Production has been small for some time, and this prevented a surplus accumulation. On prices there is no change here as yet but the Western Association has put the rate up to $2.50 per keg for small lots. We quote: 10d to 60d., common fence and sheathing, per keg, $2.40; 8d. and 9d., common do, per keg, $2.75; 6d. and 7d., common per keg, $3; 4d. and 5d. common do., per keg, $3.25; 3d. and 4d., light, per keg, $4; 3d., fine, per keg, $4.75; 2d., per keg, $4.75. Cut spikes, all sizes, $2.75. Floor casing and box, 75c. above the same sizes of common. Finishing, $1 above, and fine finishing $1.25 above.

CLINCH NAILS.

$1\frac{3}{4}$ to $1\frac{1}{2}$ in.	2 & $2\frac{1}{4}$ in.	$2\frac{1}{2}$ & $2\frac{3}{4}$ in.	3 in. & longer
$5@$5.25	$1.75	$1.50	$1.25 per keg

OILS.—The demand is just about the same from most quarters, buyers moving in a slow and careful manner, and taking pains not to exceed early wants, but holders refusing to coax trade toward their stocks and assuming a steady tone generally. We quote: Linseed, about 63@65c. ℔ gallon; lard, 60@62c. for No. 1, and 52@55c. for No. 2; crude cottonseed, 48@50c., and refined summer yellow do. 52@54c.

PAINTS.—Demand is not very active from any quarter, but there is a little more business doing than last week, and dealers think they can already discover signs of returing animation. The taking of inventories and examination of stocks with the turn of the year have shown small jobbers and retailers what they require to fill out assortments, and they commence to make up invoices in consequence, while from some interior points the indications come of a corresponding position which it is natural to expect will soon develope into orders. In first hands the amount available is sufficient for present calls, but not large by any means, and holders have a firm idea of values, especially on the general run of standard goods. Leads have not changed much on price of late, but on American zinc, dry, there has been a slight advance.

PITCH.—Among buyers the disposition is still shown to confine operations very closely to actual wants, and the orders, as a rule, run small and irregular. The aggregate movement, however, now and then reaches a full figure in a jobbing way, and sellers views are steady. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½ for city delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—The demand has been quite irregular and prices in sympathy, but the general tendency in buyers favor, closing rather tamely at about 32@33½c. according to quantity of stock handled.

TAR.—Business in a jobbing way has moved along slowly to about the usual average, and the market developes no very new features. Stocks are fair, but under pretty good control, and holders indisposed to offer them, except at a full figure on jobbing lots, but will now and then ease off in a wholesale way. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½ for Newberne and Washington, and $2.25@2.50 for Wilmington.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C. and C. a. G. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or incumbered.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LOCAL ITEMS.

The Board of Assessors will hear argument and objections from persons having claims for damages caused by the closing of the Bloomingdale road, preparatory to a final determination of the several amounts to be awarded, until the 28th day of January inst., and all persons having claims for damages by reason of the closing of the Kingsbridge road are requested to present their claims to said Board with the title deeds at the earliest possible day.....Proposals for the tiler's work to be executed in a bridge, entrance, porch, etc., for the Museum of Natural History building on Manhattan Square, Central Park, will be received by the Department of Parks until January 23, 1878.

The following extract from the Commission decides the matter in relation to fares on the rapid transit roads:—

The rates of fare fixed are as follows: On the east side of the city, for any distance between the Battery and Fifty-ninth street, not to exceed ten cents; for any distance not exceeding five miles not to exceed ten cents; and not to exceed two cents additional for every additional mile or fraction of a mile in excess of a mile; but no fare for the entire distance (or any part of it) from and between the Battery and the Harlem river shall exceed fifteen cents; and no fare for the entire distance (or any part of it) from and between the Battery and High Bridge shall exceed seventeen cents. The fares on "commission trains" and cars, being special trains to be run on the east side of the city from half past 5 A. M. to and until half past 7 A. M., and from 5 P. M. to and until 7 P. M., at half the above rates, are to be, not to exceed five cents, seven cents and eight cents, for the above stated distances, respectively.

On the west side of the city the fares are to be as follows: For any distance from and between the Battery and Fifty-ninth street, not to exceed ten cents; for any distance not exceeding five miles, not to exceed ten cents; and not to exceed two cents additional for every additional mile or fraction of a mile. And for "commission trains" on cars to be run on the west side of the city from half past 5 A. M. to and until half past 7 A. M., and from 5 P. M. to and until 7 P. M. the fares are to be one-half the above rates.

The Superior Court, at General Term decide that:

No invasion of the franchise of the Sixth Avenue Company's road will be occasioned by the Gilbert Elevated Railroad, because no part of the Sixth Avenue Comaany's road, as it now exists, will be disturbed, and because its vested rights and interests will not be interfered with by the building. The plaintiff has no easement or property right in the roadway of Sixth avenue, incident or appurtenant to its ownership of lands abutting thereon, the beneficial use or enjoyment whereof will be destroyed, diminished, impaired or interfered with by the construction or operation of the defendants' proposed railway.

Little having been done towards building the New York Elevated Road from Fifty-ninth to Eighty-first street, notwithstanding an agreement with property owners on 9th avenue between those streets to push the work vigorously, a resolution has been introduced into the Senate by Mr. Ecclesine directing the Committee on Railroads to inquire what further legislation, if any, may be needed to enable or compel both Rapid Transit Roads to complete that portion of the roads lying north of Fifty-ninth street, with as little delay as possible.....At a meeting of the North Side Association, held on Tuesday, the Report of the Harlem River Improvement Committee shows that a bill is now pending in Congress before the Committee on Commerce for the appropriation of $500,000 for the improvement of Harlem River and Spuyten Duyvil Creek. The report of the Rapid Transit Committee says:

The average time between the Battery and Forty-second street, will be less than twenty minutes, and that the Gilbert line will have twelve stations on that part of the road. The report then exhibited some figures showing the benefit of rapid transit, as the population of the annexed district in 1875 was three and one half times greater than the entire population of Manhattan Island in 1830, and also that the valuation of the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth wards was in 1874, $22,906,505, or more than five times greater than that of the entire city north of Fourteenth street in 1830.

The Committee on Local Improvements suggest:

That a sewer should be constructed on the line of Railroad avenue, south of 155d street, to the Harlem River, as it would facilitate the construction of sewers in 144th, 148th and 149th streets, furnish a free outlet for the ice-pond, and also relieve the Mott Haven Canal of all sewerage. The attention of the sanitary inspector of the Board of Health has been called to the horrible condition of Willis avenue, between 143d and 147th streets, from want of sewerage. The committee also think it advisable to have a sewer constructed in Cortlandt avenue, from 151st street to Third avenue, and thence through 146th street to Millbrook, into which a temporary opening could be made pending the completion of the mammoth sewer. A similar expedient should also be adopted in One Hundred and Forty-fourth street, between Third avenue and Millbrook, with the necessary receiving basins in Willis avenue. The committee complain that only $25,000 was appropriated for the maintenance of the one hundred and thirty miles of travelled roads in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards, of which two miles are paved and ten macadamized. They also object to having a portion of that money applied to the sprinkling with water of Jerome and Central avenues, as they claim it but slightly benefits the residents of the district. The report was adopted and ordered to be placed on file.

A bill has been introduced into the Assembly by Mr. Daly directing the Park Commissioners to set apart for a parade ground a section of the Park not less in area than Tompkins Square, and ordering that Tompkins Square be restored to its original purposes as a park.....Mr. Holahan's bill provides that the State Board of Assessors shall consist of four members and that each of the four shall be appointed from one of the four judicial departments, which will secure a representative from the City of New York.

ECONOMICS OF BUILDING.

II.

PRODUCTS.

In the language of science, the operation of building may be termed an integration of infinitesimals. To the minds of the majority of our citizens it no doubt presents itself as the work of evoking order out of chaos; as a dirty and laborious occupation concerned principally with bricks and mortar and timber. As fascinating as the work of the artisan always is to the casual observer, there is probably less clear and definite knowledge in respect to it than in regard to any other manufacturing or mechanical calling. Though all citizens have spent their lives in building structures of some sort, it is possibly a mystery and puzzle to most of them how the integral parts were ever fashioned and brought together in such orderly arrangement, while the technology of the building trade would sound in their ears like the language of an unknown tongue.

As in the case of all manufacturers and manufacturing business, there are in the building business classifications of workmen and varieties of productions. The orders of merit in both builders and in their productions might fitly be delineated by a circle starting at zero and passing through the various arcs to 360°.

As most of our readers are aware, the work of building construction in this city is presided over by a Building Department, which is supposed to administer what is known as the Building Law. As a matter of fact, this particular law is exceedingly well framed in regard to its specifications of work; and, if competently and honestly executed, all citizens and all owners might dismiss from their minds any anxiety as to the merit of building construction. The specifications of brick work, framing and timbering, together with all the provisions in regard to flues are as full, complete and circumstantial as the best architect could dictate. But, unfortunately, in this country, the law may be well framed, and yet its execution may be exceedingly faulty. Whether in the inspection of buildings and whiskey, or of banking and insurance corporations, one rule seems to be applicable to all; and that was fitly enunciated by a prominent distiller, who was heard to say, during the most flourishing days of the whiskey ring, that the United States government employed an inspector to watch him at three dollars per day, and he could afford to pay the same man fifty dollars a day to let him alone. The execution of the Building Law in this city has usually been a vexation and annoyance to the best and most careful builders, and a comfortable cloak and screen to disreputable members of the profession. No good builder has anything to fear from the rigid enforcement of this law; and when its execution is thoroughly and impartially undertaken, architect's specifications will be shorn of one-half of their detail and volume.

The building business is simply a high order of mechanical manufacture; and the merit or demerit of productions lies wholly in the competency, conscientiousness and honesty or the reverse of respective builders. To suit our present purposes, we will endeavor to sketch briefly the outlines of good and bad work, confining our specifications to the class of work which attracts the largest share of popular interest.

A bad job would be thus described. Whether a building bottom is of rock, hard-pan or swamp, is quite material. Less danger is likely to result in the two first cases from neglect or bad workmanship. Whatever it may be, little or no care is taken, no unnecessary labor spent upon the preparation of the foundation. If base stones are used, they are simply dumped in line and angled into place by the aid of a crowbar. Frequently the foundation is started without any preliminary provision of base stones. The blue stone work is carried up with small and irregular shaped cobbles, lacking any sufficient bond, and forming, to all intent and purposes, a hollow wall, through the many chinks and crevices of which cold air penetrates and soil-damp is carried up by capillary attraction.

Upon such a shaky foundation, when it reaches the cellar ceiling, the brick wall is started. As far as the building inspector will permit, soft bricks are used either for the entire wall or for the lining, the outside facing being built of hard brick for the sake of appearance. Perhaps the front edges of the side walls, as they are presented to the passerby on the street, have the appearance of being a twelve or sixteen inch wall, when in fact the actual wall may fall short four inches of these measurements. The mortar used in such construction is apt to be so innocent of lime as to be easily resolvable into its original loam. It is inconceivable how some brick-work is made to hold together when we consider the inferior quality of mortar often employed, and then so sparingly used that the interior bricks are piled up loosely in a wall without any bedding or slushing of joints. Such open jointed walls readily convey sound from one building to another, and quite as surely communicate the heat of fire flues to adjoining woodwork. The timber of bad jobs is generally scanty in number and in measurement, depriving the walls of that steadying weight which they require for their safe perpendicularity. Besides, green and almost rotten timber may be used, which contributes to the displacement and unleveling of floors. The plastering is apt to be done with the same inferior quality of mortar, made up of loam with a slight sprinkling of sand and lime. When this is dried, it is possible to rub it off with the hand as dust. The hard finish or white plaster is quickly applied to cover up deficiencies, and the adhesiveness of the white plaster to the brown mortar may be often considered a palpable miracle. The brown stone front may be so insecurely anchored that the ashlar frequently is moved by the frost out of its place, and the joints and crevices between the lintels, sills and architraves are so inadequately puttied that the cold blasts of winter drive freely through them into the interior of the house. The roofing of such houses is formed of unmerchantable metal, so poor as scarcely to outlast a single winter's use, and the joints of the several plates are so inadequately soldered together that the first drenching rain passes through them as through the meshes of a sieve. So much for the skeleton of a poorly built house. The quality of the interior is quickly told. The carpenter work is formed of green and unseasoned material, which warps and splits in seams when subjected to the action of climatic changes or of artificial heat. The doors and window sashes, after a year of occupation, wholly refuse to perform their natural offices. The plumbing work is made up of such poor material and in such an unskilful manner that, instead of a convenience, it becomes a source of great annoyance besides being a well-spring of active disease. The flooring of the house becomes unsteady and out of level, and, through the shrinkage and winding of the timbers, the separate planks wobble under the foot. To complete the catalogue, the interior and exterior drainage is so inefficiently done that the cellar becomes a veritable slop sink and a nuisance, filling the house with disgusting odors and threatening the health and life of occupants. The gas-fitting attached to beams that are constantly shrinking and winding, becomes broken at the joints and contributes a disagreeable and dangerous effluvia to the prevailing odors of the house.

A building thus carelessly and recklessly constructed may admit of very general and expensive repair, but no outlay of money can possibly bring it to the standard of a perfect or habitable house. The only complete remedy is to throw it down, and erect in its place a proper edifice.

The merits of good building are simply the antitheses of the conditions which we have just enumerated. A wise builder studies the nature of the soil upon which he proposes to build. If it is a rocky bottom, the whole surface must be thoroughly drained with artificial stone drains conducting all possible moisture and dampness to the sewer outlet. If a marshy soil, similar provision must be made for leading off surface water, and abundant precaution must be taken in preparing for the foundations. Either piles must be driven, or a bed of concrete laid, or both devices used to form a firm footing for the base stones. Even if the soil is natural clay, trenches of proper depth will be dug to receive the base stones, and these will be carefully imbedded in their places and surrounded with strong grouting, all interstices being well filled with cement, so as to afford a perfectly solid base course on which to commence the erection of the foundation. The foundation wall, whether built of blue stone or brick, will be of adequate thickness and laid up solid. In case blue stone is used, none but square and well-dressed blocks of granite will be introduced, and these will be so thoroughly imbedded and slushed with the best cement as to make a perfectly compact and reliable wall. The brick work will be constructed of the best hard brick laid carefully in courses and bonded at proper distances with headers. The interior layers, as well as the exterior, will be thoroughly slushed and bedded with the best mortar, so as to be sound-proof and fire-proof. The roof will be constructed of such good material and put together with such thorough workmanship as to be able to stand the test of at least five winters. The brown stone front will be firmly anchored to the brick backing, and all seams and joints will be carefully pointed up and puttied. The timber will be of such merchantable and well seasoned stuff and of such weight as to insure the steadfastness of the outside walls, and afford a reasonable guarantee against undue shrinkage. The floors throughout will be laid double—one a rough floor to catch the dampness and dirt of the earlier stages of construction, and the other a finishing floor put on after the building is completed, so as to present a tight, clean and level surface for the purposes of housekeeping. The plumbing work, ventilation and drainage will be of the best quality and design, constructed upon the most scientific methods, such as will insure the health and comfort of the household and present a visible guaranty against the incursions of jobbing plumbers. The staircase will be so solidly and wisely built as to be able to stand for years without any perceptible weakening. The doors and sashes will be so perfectly fitted and joined together as to work with the smoothness of clock hands. The plastering will be prepared and put on so mechanically as to stand the severe test of immediate painting without the chance of afterwards developing unsightly cracks and seams. Such an edifice is worthy to be regarded as the home of a human family.

It has been said by some great thinker that if he were allowed to write the songs of a nation, he would let others write its history. We would improve upon this utterance by saying that if we were permitted to construct the homes of our citizens we would find no difficulty in foretelling what the history of our city would be.

It might be unfair to say that New York is cursed in a greater degree than other cities with poorly built houses, but it is certainly warrantable to aver that, in common with other large and rapidly built cities, its greatest curse are poorly built houses. Fortunately, circumstances of shape and growth compel us to discard the earliest and poorest specimens of building, and replace them with the more substantial productions of modern times. It is to be feared, in the absence of a proper supervision by the Building Department, that there will creep into the category of modern dwellings an element, so disreputable and unwholesome, that, in time, they too will have to be discarded as human tenements. We are rapidly reaching a growth in the uptown residence districts, where houses, being once erected, are likely to be continued for all time to come as private dwellings, without the prospect of conversion to purposes of trade. It becomes of the highest importance, therefore, that our citizens should inform themselves, for their own benefit and for that of coming generations, upon the merits and conditions of good building. House-buyers should scrutinize the workmanship of premises offered for sale, so as to be able to draw the line of distinction between the productions of good and bad builders.

The future greatness of New York must largely depend upon an elevation of the standard of building, and upon a strict enforcement of wise building and sanitary laws. Every building offered for sale should carry with it a constructive guaranty of its quality, both through the laws and in the reputation and good faith of the builder. This is a reform which must originate in the intelligence and discrimination of house-buyers themselves, and be permanently enforced and sustained by the Building Department and by the professional pride and interest of builders.

TRADES.

We can offer no clearer analysis of the business of building, than to present an enumeration of the various trades and workmen concerned in building construction. In the experience of private owners these various works are usually embraced within two principal contracts, to wit :—the masons and the carpenters. Outside of these there may be a few items of particular work, such as plumbing, marble and decorations, which are sometimes reserved by architects for special contracts. In all cases, however, the entire work naturally resolves itself into given component parts, and is executed under the supervision and control of certain subordinate contractors. Building, unlike other manufacturing business, is a composite or mosaic production, relying for its completeness upon the co-operation of various and dissimilar workmen, and upon uniting in a whole a complexity and variety of materials. If a census could be taken of the actual numbers necessarily employed in the production of a single building, we imagine the aggregate would reach nearly a thousand hands. The authoritative control and direction of a small army of sub-contractors and special workmen is the supreme business of the master builder. Careful study of the analysis here presented will furnish a correct idea of the multifarious occupations connected with building, and of the complex ingredients that enter into the composition of building products.

Excavator.—The first preparation of a building site, whether in the demolition of existing structures or in the sinking of a proper foundation pit, falls to the hands of the excavator, though in the first case, the house-mover and old material man figure as his sub-contractors. Sometimes rock must be blasted out, or dirt and debris removed. In every case for any ordinary building an excavation of ten to fifteen feet below the curb level is made, and trenches around the margins of the site are required to be dug out for receiving the base stones. In wet or swampy grounds an additional labor is imposed of setting piles. The completion of this initial stage fulfills the offices of the excavator.

Contractor.—Although every boss workman on a building job is generally termed a contractor, this title is specifically bestowed upon one executive branch of the work. The contractor, so called, undertakes to furnish the sharp sand required in making up mortar and cement; also the blue building stones used for bases and foundation work, cellar and retaining walls. Not infrequently the work of excavation is also undertaken by this contractor, and these two items of work are merged in a single agreement.

Framer.—The framing or joining of a building is an inferior grade of carpenter work, and marks the first appearance of that important workman upon the job. Framers are usually the commonest type of this class of workmen, and stand related to skilled carpenters as stone masons do to brick masons. The framer's business consists of preparing the floor beams for their places in the building and setting them in position, including the definition of all floor openings, such as well holes for stairs, elevators and air-shafts. These are formed by the introduction of headers or cross beams, to which the lateral beams are joined by mortice and tenon. The framer also prepares and sets the vertical studding or joist partitions, which mark the various floor sub-divisions where interior brick walls are not carried up. The laying of the coarse flooring usually completes the initial stage of the framer's work. As a preparation for lathing, exposed brick surfaces require to be furred, that is, narrow pieces of scantling called furring strips are fastened at proper intervals to exposed brick work ready to receive lathing. Careful and thorough joiner's work contributes greatly to the strength of a building, and though of an inferior degree in the classification of the various trades, it ranks with all good builders as of the same importance as good mason work.

Stone Front Cutter.—The popularity of stone fronts over brick, although occasionally disputed, has given a prominence and importance to the stone cutter which can hardly be said to attach to any other workman in the job. The execution of a correct and appropriate design calls for skilled and careful workmanship. The architect may furnish an excellent design, but its practical success depends upon the quality of stone used and the manner of its artistic elaboration. Although so universally employed in the better class of private buildings, the trade is really confined to a few leading firms, which gives them a monopolist-control over their department of work; while the journeymen they employ, being also limited in number, present the strongest trade organization in the country. Not long ago the foolish and arbitrary exactions of this trade compelled builders to seek a substitute for stone facings. Iron ashlers and trimmings were used in common work but with poor success. Brick work arranged in artistic patterns threatened to permanently usurp the place of stone for front work. The combination finally was broken through the introduction of a great variety of stones from different sections of the country that were offered much below the Connecticut in price, the cutting of which was to be done by workmen specially imported for the purpose. Nova Scotia stone has many admirers, but its extra cost and unreliable color disqualify it for general use and favor. The best grades of Ohio stone present a smooth face, fine texture, and agreeable color. It is the cheapest of acceptable building stones, and has won the favor of many architects and builders. For durability, evenness of color and artistic effect, no stone can compare with the best grades of Connecticut brown stone. Its hold upon popular favor and upon the judgment of experts is so strong, that few speculative builders would dare risk the use of any other quality in buildings intended for sale. The objection commonly made that it imparts a sombre and gloomy appearance to the city is offset by the consideration that no other stone is so well calculated to withstand the changes of our fitful climate. There are inferior grades of brown stone whose use is an abomination which should be prevented by law.

Stone Setter.—The cutting and delivery of the stone front complete the stone cutter's branch. The cut stones are then taken in charge by the stone setter, who, with the aid of appropriate apparatus and tools, proceeds to place the integral parts in orderly arrangement according to the given design, securing them by angle, and strap irons as ties to the brick backing, properly cementing and puttying all crevices and joints. As a rule, the brown stone cutter assumes the responsibility of the stone setters work, one contract usually embracing these two items of work, but the two orders of workmen are separate and distinct. Next to the importance of having a front of good quality and well cut, ranks the obligation to have it well and properly set, in a secure, permanent and workmanlike manner, free from gaps or seams.

Lumber and Timber Dealer.—The materials used by the framer such as beams, studding, furring and flooring, are delivered by a special merchant who makes it his business to supply the necessary stock, in quality, size and shape as may be required.

Blue Stone Mason.—The lowest type of mechanical workmen is the blue stone mason; yet as he has to do with the very foundation of the edifice his work cannot be in any measure under-rated or despised. As a rule he is regarded by the brick mason as belonging to a greatly inferior rank.

Brick Mason.—This profession is perhaps the most ancient of any connected with building and maintains its dignity and utility with the traditional lustre of a score of centuries. To carry up a wall fifty or a hundred feet high, of no greater thickness than one or two feet, suggests a stupendous undertaking. The stability and real value of a building depend upon the care, honesty and skill with which these minute cubes of burnt clay are bonded and laid up together.

Material Dealer.—The merchant bearing this title furnishes masons' materials such as brick, lime, plaster, cement and cattle hair. In fact all the necessaries of the mason's and plasterer's trades.

Pottery Pipes.—The earliest precaution of a good builder, after the erection of a foundation, is to introduce necessary drain pipes for carrying off any water which may collect in the building bottom. These are generally earthenware pipes from six to eight inches in diameter. In the better class of work iron pipes are substituted for this purpose.

Flagger.—To this branch belongs the furnishing of flag stones used to cover sidewalks, yards and areas, also the coping or thin slabs of blue stone used for covering the parapet walls, and the blue stone sill course for protecting the delicate texture of the brown stone front from any possible invasion of dampness from the foundation walls. Blue stone hearths are also furnished by the flagger.

Patent Pavements.—The compositions of cement prepared by such manufacturers as Schillinger, Gunther and others, are largely used in place of yard flagging and for area work, also for the covering of cellar bottoms. The advantage possessed by this material is that of presenting a perfect water shed in its tight, unbroken surface, whereby soakage into the under soil is prevented; any water that collects upon it being conveyed directly to the main sewer.

Carpenter.—After the skeleton of a building is completed it passes under the auspices of the carpenter, at whose hands it receives all the necessary wood furniture. The principal item in this work is labor. The carpenter is concerned in properly adorning all the openings, such as doors, windows and closets, with the peculiar fittings of his handicraft.

Cabinet Maker.—There was a time when cabinet work threatened to supersede, in all interior finish, the work of the carpenter. In these days of greater economies this expensive class of work is confined to parlor floors and superior rooms. The cabinet maker is also charged with the preparation of book cases, buffets and wardrobes.

Plasterer.—This work consists in covering the interior side walls and all lathed surfaces with mortar preparations, and is usually done in three coats on lathed surfaces, and two on unlathed. These coats are termed the scratch coat, the brown coat and the hard finish. In former days, a great deal of artistic work was called for in this contract, such as the decoration of ceilings with elaborate centres, panels, cornices, mouldings and brackets. But modern taste and experience have simplified this work, so that the ornamental portion now consists in running an appropriate cornice around the ceiling joints, the ceiling being left in a perfectly plain state. This reduction of the plasterer's task is owing to the demands of the fresco painter for a free and unrestricted field in which to display his professional talents.

Roofer and Cornice Maker.—The metal covering of roof and the ornamental finish and protection of the front parapet wall are furnished by this workman.

Iron Work.—The iron used in a building forms a considerable item, and consists of occasional iron beams and girders, stirrup, bridle, angle and strap irons, sometimes sills and lintels, besides window guards, area gates, coal and ash pit coverings.

Stair Builder.—A special and dignified portion of the work falls to this mechanic. It embraces the building of steps that lead from one floor to another, the furnishing of suitable hand-rail balusters and newel posts. The wainscotting of the hallways is frequently included in this contract.

Door Maker.—The manufacture of inside and outside doors has become a special branch of work. There are extensive establishments throughout the country devoted to this specialty. Doors are made by machinery or by hand. The prejudice once existing against the former method is fast passing away with the rapid improvements in machinery, and it is now conceded that the work turned out by the aid of machinery is really superior in every particular to old hand work.

Sash and Sky-light Maker.—Another subdivision of the business is that which confides to a special manufacturer the work of producing ready made sashes and sky-lights.

Blind Maker.—The inside and outside blinds of a building are usually the work of a separate manufactory.

Moulding Mills.—No more important service in house building is rendered by machinery than that of supplying the variety and multiplicity of mouldings used in carpenter work. The most delicate, as well as the coarsest patterns of moulding work, can be turned out by the aid of suitable machinery in perfection of symmetry and finish. Much of the minor carpenter work, such as soffets, back linings, panel backs, elbows, stop beads, parting strips, window and door jambs and trimmings, staircoves and nosings are also furnished by the moulding mill in condition ready for use.

Glass Dealer.—The plate, sheet, embossed and fancy glass now so extensively used in buildings are furnished by special importers or dealers. Some excellent plate glass is now being manufactured in this country, and readily competes with the French and Belgian.

Mirror Frames and Mantels.—These have become so prominent an item in the finish of modern dwellings that they have given rise to a separate industry, the wooden mantel with its inseparable mirror superseding the use of marble and stone. The consol mirror is a development of modern extravagance and luxury in finish.

Marble Worker.—Marble continues to be used and seems indispensable for certain purposes such as hall tiling, basin slabs, mirror slabs, and mantel or grate facings sometimes as hearths.

Painter.—The services of the painter, although curtailed by the extensive use of hardwood, still play an important part in the finish of buildings, all unfinished surfaces and sometimes the entire exterior brick work receiving his attention. Fresco decorations are rarely undertaken by builders, being respected and reserved as the special privilege of the future owner.

Varnisher.—All interior hard wood finish is usually treated to successive coatings of oil or varnish. This is done by a special and skilled workman, and the final effect of a house depends on his handiwork.

Dumb Waiters.—Extensive use of the elevator in modern buildings, public and domestic, has created a special industry in this department with such subdivisions as water, steam and hand elevators.

Bells and Tubes.—Speaking tubes, electric and mechanical bells are the productions of a special mechanic. Possibly these have yet to be superseded by the telephone.

Fine Hardware.—The elaboration of door hinges or butts, bolts, door knobs, escutcheons and other items of fancy hardware in various fine metals is another artistic creation of modern housebuilding.

Coarse Hardware.—All the joining work and much of the carpentering work calls for the use of a great amount of coarse hardware, such as nails, spikes and bolts and heavy door and window furniture.

Grate Maker.—The beautiful unique and rare designs which have been furnished of late by leading manufacturers, have raised this calling to one of the artistic branches. This work involves an excessive and disproportioned expense to suit the caprices of modern taste.

Plumber.—The utilization of a water supply has given birth to a profession which seems to be closely allied with the medical of which, in the estimation of householders, it is the peer certainly in charges and importance. Public discussions and magazine essays have shed a flood of light upon this rather obscure subject. The growing intelligence of house-buyers upon this topic is a source of uneasiness to builders disposed to slight their work.

Gas Fitter.—The distribution of illuminating gas to the various outlets where it is likely to be used, calls for considerable technical knowledge and even scientific skill in the fitting of the various circulating pipes.

Range Maker.—The necessities of the culinary department have created great competition in the manufacture of ranges, and led to the production of many excellent models.

Furnaces.—The modern furnace presents a vexatious problem in connection with sanitary household science. The types and varieties of this construction are innumerable, each one possessing distinctive merit—but none as yet able to claim the title of a perfect heating apparatus.

Refrigerators. — Modern taste demands that the builder shall furnish a stationary refrigerator well ventilated and drained, just as it has already compelled him to furnish mirrors, book cases and buffets.

The Street Paver.—The last item of work usually performed on a building is done by the street paver, who regulates and restores the roadway in front of the building to its pristine condition.

THE MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO.

We invite attention to the annual statement of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, which appears in another column. Notwithstanding the extent of its transactions, the wise and judicious management of the officers of the Company enables them to make a most favorable exhibit of its affairs. On January 1st, 1878, the number of policies in force was 91,553, and the amount $294,488,311. The total assets now amount to over $85,000,000, and the surplus as regards policyholders, if the New York standard of four and a-half per cent interest be used, is $10,669,543.65. The amount invested in bond and mortgage on real estate reaches $58,152,733.88, and it will be recollected that about one year ago the Annual Committee, including among its members George H. Andrews, Judge Davies and others, reported that in the analysis of the assets of the Company each bond and mortgage had been examined and found to be correct as stated on the books of the Company, and that the interest on the bonds had been paid with great punctuality. It is understood that from the surplus a dividend will be apportioned to each policy which shall be in force at its anniversary in 1878.

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The market for City real estate has been very quiet and its notable feature is a total absence of speculation. Many dealers, well supplied with capital, are unquestionably deterred from availing themselves of the excellent opportunities which are daily being offered both for investment and speculation, by reason of the present serious disturbance affecting all commercial interests, and until the public mind is relieved from its present painful solicitude, many important operations are held in abeyance.

At the Exchange Salesroom, the most important sale was that of the vacant lots situated on the east side of Fifth avenue, and extending from One Hundred and Second to One Hundred and Third street (201.10x100). The mortgage thereon amounted to about $114,175, and the property was struck down for $111,000. The four-story stone front dwelling with lot, known as No. 147 Thirty-seventh street, situated between Lexington and Fourth avenues, realized $16,460, the liens affecting the same amounting to $19,500, or thereabouts. Four vacant lots at the southwest corner of Fifth avenue and One Hundred and Nineteenth streets were struck down to the plaintiff in the foreclosure proceedings for $15,000—an amount $7,000 less than the liens on the premises.

It is reported that the Gilbert Elevated Railway Company have signed a contract to complete, in connection with the Ninth Avenue Elevated Railway Company, their road as far as Eighty-first street.

During the week, the only noteworthy fact which is reported in connection with building enterprises is the proposed erection by Mr. Edwin Clark of apartment houses on the west side of Seventh avenue, between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth streets.

The following are the sales at the Exchange Salesroom for the week ending Jan. 24:

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—There has not been much change on the market for common Hards and we have little of decided interest to advise. Notwithstanding the reports of certain commercial journals the market was not bare of stock at any time, and, though the unsold accumulation seldom embraced more than five or six cargoes, the amount was really a large one for the season. Against the offering from first hands the demand has been moderate and confined in the main to a very few of the leading dealers, and since the middle of the week their orders have been smaller. The cold weather has a tendency to check arrivals, but the same influence is to be felt in the reduced consumption, as outdoor work cannot be continued. Most of the receipts came from Haverstraw Bay, but we understand a few cargoes from Long Island were offered. Pales have ruled quiet and nominally unchanged; Fronts slow at about former rates. As a whole the Brick market is most decidedly flat, and even the ruling rates appear to be with difficulty sustained.

We quote Pale, ₱ M., $3.00@—; Hards, Up-rivers, nominal; Haverstraw bay, $5.25@5.75; favorite brands, $6.00@6.50; Fronts, Croton--brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $23@27; Baltimore, $34@38.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5.00@6.00 on fronts.

CEMENT.—Trade generally is moderate and confined in the main to small jobbing orders. Holders remain steady but find no basis as yet for the advance expected.

HARDWARE.—Business continues to pick up a trifle, and while not many buyers put in a personal appearance, the mail orders afford an outlet for quite a number of fair sized invoices. The offering both in quantity and assortment is very good, and we hear no complaint over difficulty in making selections, while prices keep comparatively easy. Combinations brought about a certain sort of harmony among manufacturers, but competition is too sharp to admit of much of an advance, even through the medium of a combination, and revisions of price lists only make a fair adjustment. Among the recent changes, the American Screw Co. announce the following reduced rates: On stove bolts, flat and round heads, 57½ per cent discount from lists; Philadelphia pattern tire bolts, 70 and 10 per cent discount from Philadelphia list, and Bay State tire bolts at 80 per cent discount from common lists. The same company also publish a reduced price list of rivets, in force on rivets sold January 1, 1878, and until further notice. The discounts are on iron black, iron tinned rivets in papers of M, and black and carriage rivets in papers of C, 40 per cent; iron rivets in bulk or "lb." papers, 30 per cent. The New England Butt Co. quote common cast butts as follows: Fast joint, narrow, 60 and 10 per cent discount; do do, broad, 65 and 10 per cent; loose joint, narrow and broad, 70 and 10 per cent; Parliament butts, 65 and 10 per cent, and Mayer's hinges 70 and 10 per cent discount. The Globe horse nails are sold at the following net rates: No. 3 at $1; No. 4 at 50c.; No. 5 at 26c.; No. 6 at 23c.; No. 7 at 21c.; No. 8 at 20c.; No. 9 at 19c.; and No. 10 at 18c. Clark & Co. announce rates on blind hinges as follows: No. 1, for wood, throws the blind 1¼ inch from the casing, $3.50 per doz. sets; No. 3, for brick, throws the blind 3¼ inches from the casing, $5.25 do.; No. 5, for brick, throws the blind 4½ inches from the casing, $10.00 do.; No. 40, for wood, throws the blind 1¼ inch from the casing, $3.50 do.; No. 50, for brick, throws the blind 3¼ inches from the casing, $5.25 do. Discount, 70 per cent.

LATH.—Up to the present writing there appears to be no change on the general tone of the market. For cargoes demand is limited and uncertain, but the offering from fresh arrivals, nothing, and the piled out stock held at such a figure as to virtually shut off business. Nominally rates remain as before.

LIME.—There is simply no market in a wholesale way at the moment and rates are merely nominal. It is, however, not likely that much stock could be placed, if here, as the distribution is quite small and buyers showing no anxiety regarding the future.

LUMBER.—Our market does not amount to much just now, and "no change" and "nothing new" covers about the average report made by dealers upon the demand for present consumption. As noted in our last, however, there is an undertone of greater cheerfulness occasionally to be observed, growing out of calls received for special bills on future delivery, and in some quarters an inclination to expect a good full spring trade causes rather strong talk as to the probabilities on values. At the moment, however, cost shows no increase, and buyers are found to be very belligerent on any attempt to raise the line of prices. Current arrivals are moderate, and the bulk coming to hand are on contract, though some far random offerings of good quality found very ready sale. The new demand on the market covers very little on local account, but we have an intimation that some very good export orders nave been received, on which the holders are working their way carefully, in order to secure the most advantageous terms. The probability of supplies for the coming season is favorable at present for a very fair amount, though not in all cases positive.

Eastern Spruce is nominally steady, on a basis of about former rates. Some receivers talk higher, but rather on the hopes of the future than from any positively accrued advantage as yet, while a number of the older and larger dealers seem to think that a simply natural winter advantage for sellers is all the position shows. We quote at $12.50@13.50 for random, possibly $14.00@14.50 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $13.50@15.50 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White Pine is well enough under control to remain in a pretty steady position as to values, but lacks stimulating elements, and sales cannot be consummated above former limits on any outlet. Home wants are quite small, and export orders not plenty, though more of the latter appear to be looked for within a few weeks. We quote at $15.00@17.00 per M for West India shipping boards; $19.50@20.50 for South American do.; $15.00@16.00 for box boards; $17.00 for do., wide and sound; and timber at $16.00@18.00 per M.

Yellow Pine is quoted pretty firmly. It is not likely that outside of choice lots of flooring boards any very considerable amount could at present be placed on open or random offering, but on specifications for future delivery, and export orders to go forward from Southern markets, dealers continue to close quite a fair number of contracts. We quote random cargoes at $18.50@22 per M; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do.; green flooring boards, $21@23 do.; and dry do. do., $23@24. Cargoes at the South, $14@16.50 per M; hewn timber, $7.50@14.

Hardwoods remain a little nominal on this market, but our figures are low, if anything, in view of the increased cost of transportation. Scarcely any business doing in a wholesale way. We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $77@82.50 ₱ M; ash, $33@36 do.; oak, 35@40 do.; maple $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d $30@35; do. do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $45@75 do.; white wood, ½ and ⅝ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $33@35 do.; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $40@50 for good nearby stock.

Yard trade is irregular but seldom active, and distribution is still confined mainly to small parcels going into immediate consumption. Values are quoted steady by all dealers, but nearly all dealers have different views of values, and this keeps quotations on a comparatively wide range.

In the Lumberman and Manufacturer of Jan. 18 we find credited to the Manufacturer and Builder a "review of the general market," which is simply word for word an exact copy of our opening paragraph on lumber in the RECORD of Dec. 22, 1877. Has our friend of Minneapolis been a little careless in giving credit to whom credit is due, or has the Manufacturer and Builder been indulging in a quiet little "steal?"

The most recent and important lumber charters are as follows: A Br. barque, 816 tons, from Doboy to a direct port United Kingdom, hewn timber, 37s. 6d.; a Br. barque, 679 tons, same voyage, hewn timber, 37s. 6d., and (or) deals £5 10s.; a Br. barque, 531 tons, from St. John, N. B., to Liverpool or direct port east coast Ireland, deals, 72s. 6d.; a Ger. barque, 874 tons, hence to Hamburgh, wood, £1,400; a schr., 189 tons, from Savannah to Kifts' lumber, $8 gold; an American brig, 286 tons, from Pascagoula to Vera Cruz, lumber, $11 gold; a schr., 147 tons, from Jacksonville to Para, lumber, and back to New York, Produce, $2,100 and port charges, taking out a general cargo hence to St. Augustine, $300; a schr., 412 tons, hence to Matanzas, Shooks and Heads, 25c., hoops, $6, and general cargo 50c. ₱ bbl.; two schrs., 327 and 332 tons, and a Br. Brig, 259 tons, from Pensacola to north side Cuba, lumber, $7; a schr., 183 tons, from Norfolk to Jamaica, hogshead staves, $12 gold; a schr., 264 tons, from Pensacola to Cardenas, lumber, $6.50 gold; a schr., 185 M dry boards, from Brunswick to Baltimore, $5.50; a schr., 200 M lumber, from Satilla Mills to Philadelphia, $6; a schr., 125 lumber, from Brunswick to New York, $5.85; a schr., 188 tons, hence to Jacksonville and back with lumber, $9 for the round; a schr., 250 M Resawed lumber and timber, from Savannah to New York, $5 and $6; a schr., 200 M lumber, from Port Royal to New York, $5.50.

Latest mail advices from Rio Janeiro report as follows:

Pitch Pine Deals.—We quote 36,000 ₱ doz. (14 by 3 by 9), to net G. $38,88 ₱ 1,000 feet. Market quiet but firm.

One-Inch Lumber.—Worth 80 @ 90 rs. ₱ foot, according to quality, to net G. $25,31 @ $28,48 per 1,000 feet.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Lumberman's Gazette of January 18, 1878, reports:

BAY CITY, Friday, Jan. 18, 1878.

The wholesale market presents the usual quiet that reigns at this season of the year, but although there are no sales to note as an indication of how prices rule, still there is more or less inquiry from dealers abroad as to the views of the manufacturers. If the season were a little further advanced, and the probabilites of the log crop more fully defined, it would, in case of an unfavorable outlook for a large stock, cause a demand for lumber, which would undoubtedly be met with an advance in rates on the part of holders.

The firmness at which stocks are held is shown in the insisting upon terms which are nearly equal to cash. In this, as in all other trades, the buyer with money in his pocket gets what little favors the manufacturers are willing to concede now-a-days.

The winter thus far has continued in its unfavorable condition, as far as lumbering in the woods is concerned. Loggers have cut and skidded large quantities of logs, and are now getting anxious as to whether they shall get snow enough to haul them. One of the heaviest lumbermen on the river, who is of a philosophic turn of mind, says that he never bothers his head about logs, as there is usually a sufficient of the right kind of weather, at some time or another during the season, to get enough of the logs cut in, and if it should prove a little short it will do more good than harm. However, that sort of logic is cold comfort to the log jobber, whose bread and butter for the whole year probably depends upon his winter's success in the woods.

Dealers who supply customers by the car lot report trade quiet.

The Gazette's Chicago correspondent says:

Since my last, we have experienced soft weather with rain now and then, until the 15th, when it grew more cold, and at this writing it is difficult to determine if it will rain or snow. Through the northern part of Michigan, Wisconsin and some parts of Minnesota they have snow sufficient for all purposes, had there been a foundation for it, but on the soft earth it is of no practical use to the interests of logging, for it leaves the sloughs all open. The continued soft weather so far—half the winter being spent—will have the tendency to add many per cent. to the price of lumber now in stock, both soft and hard, and the longer it continues the more decided the advance will be when it comes, as it is sure to do. The expense already incurred in preparations that have so far resulted in naught, will add considerable to the cost of what may be done, and this, added to the advance that will naturally follow a short cut, low stocks and more than an ordinary demand all over the country, will have a decided tendency to advance prices for next season. These are prognostications that are thrown out for the good of the whole trade, and in the faith that they will outline to some extent the trade of 1878, and base these prognostications upon the faith I have in the sagacity and forethought of the men engaged in this line of commerce. It is a natural consequence that if the supply falls below the demand that prices will be stimulated, and the indications are now that the crop of logs will fall 25 per cent below expectations.

The Gazette has gathered the following on logging prospects:

The Alpena Pioneer says that the swamps are frozen solid and a light snow makes hauling at most of the camps quite good.

From Belleville, Canada, a despatch says that owing to the lack of snow in the woods, lumbering has been suspended by some of the operators, and consequently a large number of men have been discharged.

The Muskegon News and Reporter of the 9th says snow has come at last, in quantities, to suit the most fastidious, and loggers and merchants are consequently happy.

The Green Bay Advocate of the 10th inst. says that some little falls of snow have occurred, but not enough to be of use on the roads, though the logging roads are probably benefited. Logging is going on under some difficulties, and there is a determination to do a fair winter's work in the woods even though the fates seem to be against it.

A Flint correspondent of the Detroit Post and Tribune says: A heavy snow storm began falling on January 14th and continued during the night, so that now the prospect is good for a run of sleighing. The lumbermen's faces are beginning to brighten up thereat, and most of them will immediately send a large force of men and teams into the woods to prepare for the next season's sawing. The Marinette (Wis.) Eagle says: Two or three inches of damp, heavy snow fell Thursday morning. Most of it stayed on the ground. Slightly freezing weather Thursday night helped to make it stick. Three or four inches more would be just what our lumbermen need.

The Stillwater (Minn.) Gazette of Jan. 9th says: But little snow has as yet fallen in the pineries. The swamps, however, are frozen, which will have the effect to expedite business somewhat.

The Pioneer Press, of St. Paul (Minn.), of the 9th inst., speaking of the lumber outlook says: Recent advices from the upper Mississippi report an inch of snow at Gulf River, and above that point two inches of snow has fallen. A large proportion of the lumbermen are skidding logs, while at some of the camps both men and teams are idle. Very few of them are hauling logs yet, nor can they until more snow falls. About one-third of the lumber season has elapsed and not more than a tenth part of the work accomplished therein has been done. There is no snow on the St. Croix, Chippewa, Black or Wisconsin rivers. Lumbermen are just going into the woods on the Wolf, Oconto and Menominee rivers—one month later than usual. The prospective shortage of logs induced the recent rise of lumber in this market, and it is expected that a material advance will be made in all the Western markets.

The Lumberman and Manufacturer of Minneapolis, Minn., reports under date of Jan. 17, 1878: The continued lack of snow is making very serious inroads upon the prospective supply of lumber for the year. One-half of the lumber season is nearly gone, and no snow for hauling has fallen in any part of the pineries, on the waters of the Mississippi. One-half the cut ought to be on the landings by January 25th, and it is doubtful whether more than one-tenth has been hauled, or more than one-fourth cut. It is a matter of debate among the lumbermen how much advantage there is in having logs on the "skids," some contending that they can take the logs from the tump nearly as fast as they can from the skidway. We make no pretensions to much knowledge on this point. Upon it, however, depends the question of how much has been done towards securing a crop of logs. Should a reasonable amount of snow fall at any time between this and spring, there will be seen such a rushing in of logs as never occurred before. Most of the operators are looking around for extra teams to put in, so as to make up for lost time, and others will soon abandon long roads, and take their reserve shore timber, which can be got without snow; so that it is not impossible yet to secure a large amount of logs—practically speaking, about all that will be needed. Of course, this extraordinary weather will greatly reduce the estimated amount of lumber to be cut, which we gave a few weeks ago.

The reported fall of four inches of snow on the upper Swan is about the only grain of comfort which has come in during the week, and the locality is too small to amount to any serious change of the situation.

Probabilities certainly point to a still farther advance in the price of lumber, at an early day, in all Western markets; but during the past week we have had no changes in quotations to make. The recent advance at Minneapolis to be well maintained, with little or no complaints from patrons. Shipments continue to lead last year's figures, at most all of the markets.

Mr. Stockbridge, Secretary of the Chicago Lumberman's Exchange, gives the following statement of the stock of lumber, etc., on hand in that city Jan. 1, 1878, with comparisons. The number of yards was eighty-eight:

Cedar posts, pcs.	380,341	442,319	416,636
Hewn timber, ft.	.....	825	9,391

Since Dec. 1 the stock of lumber has decreased 19,864,676 feet: of cedar posts, 33,482 pcs. Shingles have increased 23,044,000, lath, 815,900 pcs, and pickets, 365,700 pcs. The shipments of lumber from Jan. 1, to the 15th, 1878, inclusive, were 6,108,934 feet.

The receipts by lake in 1877 were 1,000,774,000 ft. lumber and 464,880 shingles. The receipts by rail were 64,631,362 ft. lumber and 81,562 shingles. Total receipts in 1877 were 1,065,405,362 ft. lumber and 546,442 shingles. The receipts the previous year were 1,039,785,265 ft. lumber and 566,978 shingles.

The shipments as corrected from the records of the railroads were 586,780,825 ft. lumber, against 576,124,287 ft. in 1876. Of shingles 170,211, against 214,389.

On the cargo market, 294,433,877 ft. of lumber, 233,079,750 shingles, and 30,962,200 pcs. lath were sold last year. The sales by cargo were smaller than in 1876. The falling off was due to the fact that when the shortage in stock on the Mississippi River was actually known dealers went to the mills and bought, instead of waiting for the stuff to come on the market in the usual way.

The total stock of lumber at Mississipi River points Jan. 1, 1878, was 459,653,760 ft. This is a decrease of 229,805,240 ft. as compared with the stock on hand at the beginning of the next preceding year.

CANADA.

The Toronto Monetary Times reviews the timber and lumber trade of 1877 as follows:

There are some features which indicate that this trade is at last shaping towards a more wholesome condition. The market opened in Quebec very dull, although there was an abundance of shipping in that port, early in the season, and few large sales were made until July. During August and September a good deal of timber changed hands, and, indeed, the exports for the year were heavy, while at the same time the British markets were declining and stocks there excessive The transactions of the autumn turned out pretty much as we anticipated in the beginning of August; the good timber sold very fairly; the medium qualities, where sales were made, brought middling prices as a rule, while the inferior wood yielded a poor return.

The prices obtained were lower all round than those of the previous year. Early shipments of oak to Liverpool and the Clyde brought fair prices, but later shipments brought less favorable returns. Choice and superior white pine were in good request all the season, but these qualities were in small proportion to the total supply, which was large, and consisted mostly of common to poor. These qualities form the bulk of the heavy stocks in Quebec unsold in first hands. Although there has been a reduction in the year's make as compared with 1876, there was still an excess produced. This was especially the case with white pine, the supply of which is stated by Messrs. J. Bell Forsyth & Co. to have been the largest for six years, excepting 1876, being placed at 18,480,000 feet, against 19,244,000 feet in the latter year, of red pine, the supply was thirty per cent. less (1,198,000 feet against 1,709,000 feet) of oak, thirty-three per cent., or 1,330,000 feet were supplied in excess of 1876.

There was probably a million cubic feet of timber "stuck" last year. There are to-day perhaps half a million of logs of last year's cut on hand or "hung up." The estimated manufacture on the Ottawa and its tributaries above and below the Ottawa, known as the Ottawa Valley, is:

White Pine.....9,750,000 feet.
Red Pine..... 750,000 "
Logs.....1,250.000 "

A still further reduction in the quality of timber got out is necessary before the trade will become profitable: and it is extremely likely from present indications that this reduction will be made. Several large firms on the Ottawa are not producing a stick, others have experienced difficulties in excessive rains and lack of snow in December, which curtailed or stopped their operations; while in New Brunswick it was found impossible to get supplies to the shanties, and, in consequence, whole camps were broken up. Advances have, besides, been hard to obtain this winter from banks, except by men of undoubted capital and skill. There is no doubt, therefore, that there has been a decided contraction, and we estimate that the production will be less this winter than last by six or seven million feet. This will tend to restore the equilibrium between the supply and the demand.

In sawn lumber there has been no marked improvement, but the outlook is better than for several years past. There has been a brightening up in the United States markets, and a good demand at fair figures may reasonably be hoped for next season unless the production shall prove to be overdone once more. Rather less was exported in the year just closed than in the year preceding, in the proportion of 5,311,000 to 5,632,000 feet. The stocks on hand in Canada and the United States are lower than they have been, and the logs got out in the Dominion will hardly, we think, equal in number those of last year. Indeed, the effect of the mild and snowless period we have just experienced must naturally be in the direction of lessening the make of deals in the States as well. This is needful when we remember that the stocks in Great Britain are heavy. The stock being wintered is largely composed, we are told, of third quality deals and odd sizes. We have not been able to procure figures of the stock of sawn lumber on hand, but we incline to estimate it at rather less than the two hundred millions of feet held at the opening of navigation. The production of square timber and of logs will be further reduced if the open winter should continue: but there is sufficient time yet to do much mischief, if people are so disposed, and the character of the winter should change. On the whole, sawn lumber seems to have turned the long lane of its depression, if people will only be sensible in their objects and moderate in their ambition. It will take a good while, in any case, to recover the conditions of four or five years ago in this trade.

PENNSYLVANIA.

The Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin reviews the past year as follows:

Notwithstanding the continued depression of business throughout the country, the lumber trade of Williamsport shows a slight increase as compared with the business of 1876. The outlook for the coming year is not discouraging. The stock on hand shows a material reduction from former years, and if there is not too much "put in" this winter, there is no reason why the trade should not be greatly improved the present year, and the manufacturers largely benefitted. Heretofore, overstocking has had much to do with the depression of the trade, not only at home but throughout the West. There are no logs in the boom. The open fall enabled the mills to work up their stock very close. It is estimated that the stock on hand at Lock Haven is 25,000,000 less than last year. Between Williamsport and Lock Haven it is estimated there are about eight millions scattered along the river, and there are nearly three millions between Hyner and Rattle Snake, a balance left from Flynn & Merrill's drive last fall.

THE WILLIAMSPORT TRADE.

The stock on hand at the close of 1877 is estimated by the following method:

Stock on hand Jan. 1. 1877.....	137,669,606
Rafted out of boom 1877.	101,713,036
Received by canal 1877....	30,000,000
Total for 1877.....	272,382,642
Shipped in 1877.....	185,925,393
Stock on hand Jan. 1, 1878.....	86,456,649

Being a decrease of 51,212,357 from that on hand Jan. 1, 1877.

The total shipments for four years were as follows:

	Feet.
1874	236,806,289
1875	185,131,421
1876	179,298,791
1877	185,925,393
Total shipments.....	787,161,894

BUSINESS AT THE BOOM.

During the past five years the following logs and feet have been rafted out of the boom:

	Feet.	Feet.
1872	1,484,103	297,185,652
1873	1,582,460	318,142,712
1874	989,586	180,734,382
1875	1,096,897	210,746,956
1876	715,086	134,396,293
1877	587,604	104,713,036
Total.....	6,455,736	1,215,919,031

The quantity of logs rafted out of the boom in 1877 was less than in any year since 1865, when it was 339,302 logs, equaling 72,421,468 feet.

TRADE OF THE VALLEY.

The entire trade of the valley, including Williamsport, Lock Haven, Jersey Shore, Larry's creek and the Northern Central Railroad south of Troy, is summed up as follows;

LOCK HAVEN TRADE.

The Lock Haven Republican give the following summary of lumber shipped from that city for the past four years:

	Feet.
Williamsport	185,925,393
Lock Haven.....	33,681,100
South of Troy.....	15,102,200

Kenovo	2,795,820
Larry's Creek	2,477,985
Total	239,982,398

In the above table no account of lumber shipped from Muncy Creek and points below is taken.

1874	34,931,180
1875	30,501,100
1876	29,915,000
1877	33,681,000

By the above it will be seen that there is an increase over last year's shipments of 1,766,000 feet, while in 1874 there was 1,250,380 feet more shipped than this year, and in 1875 5,820,000 feet more. The cause of the increase this year over last is the fact that many lumbermen were compelled to sell, notwithstanding the low price, in order to obtain funds with which to get in new stock, and also to get rid of the old stock on hand. During the year 170,154 logs were cleared by canal for Williamsport.

A large number of logs were also received by canal from Pine Creek.

FOREIGN.

The London Timber Trades Journal of January 5th, shows in all its reports a very limited business, consequent upon the holiday season. The two following are a fair sample of the whole.

LIVERPOOL, January 2, 1878.

During the past fortnight there has been very little of interest to report, either in the way of sales or imports. The season for the latter being almost closed, and the intervention of the holidays preventing any great amount of business being done in the former, whatever has been done has been confined chiefly to retail transactions. The new year finds us with exceedingly heavy stocks, if indeed it be not found when the statistics are completed that the present stock of wood goods in this market, including all kinds of timber, deals, lathwood, &c., is one of the largest in the annals of the timber trade of this port.

There have been no sales of timber or mahogany, &c., of importance since your last, but two sales of the latter are announced, and one other will shortly follow.

GLASGOW, January 2, 1878.

The past fortnight being a holiday season, not much business has been done, except stock-taking, which is usual at this time. We have no public sales to report.

The arrivals amount to seven cargoes—one of Honduras mahogany, one of East Indian teak, and the remainder of American and Baltic timber and deals, which, we understand, close the import for the season.

The Journal contains one or two articles of some interest, which the crowd upon our columns obliges to omit for the present. It is evident, however, that our English cousins are not "hankering" after very large additions to their stocks of American lumber for the present, except possibly the finer kinds.

METALS—COPPER.—Ingot continues to show very little change of a positive character. Both buyers and sellers are in rather an indifferent mood, and this preserves a fair balance on which about former rates are current. We quote at 17⅝@17¾c. for Lake. Manufactured Copper not active, but for the season the distribution is fair and prices are very well sustained. We quote as follows: Brazier's Copper, ordinary sizes, over 16 oz., per square foot, 28c. per lb; do. do., do. do., 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per square foot, 30c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per square foot, 32c. per lb.; do. do., lighter than 10 oz., per square foot, 34c. per lb.; circles, less than 84 inches in diameter, 31c. per lb.; do. 84 inches diameter and over, 34c. per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 31c. per lb.; locomotive fire box sheets, 28c. per lb.; Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz., per square foot, 26c. per lb., and Bolt Copper 28c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig has continued in moderate and uncertain demand, and the tone of the market is weak, but as a rule importers hold for about former rates on all brands. Quoted at $23.50@26.50 per ton. American Pig meeting with a few small and unimportant orders but without animation and supplies equal to all outlets, and prices only about steady. We quote at $18@20 for No. 1 per ton, $17@19 for No. 2 do., and $16@18 for Forge. Rails have met with a good fair demand and are ruling steady for both kinds. We quote at $31@35 for new iron, and $40@43 for Steel at the mills. Old Rails, $18@19 per ton; scrap, $22@23; the latter slow. Manufactured iron in fair and slightly increasing demand, and values well sustained. Common Bar is quoted at 1.8@2.0c., and Refined 2@3.3c., from store, as to size and shape. LEAD—Foreign remains without a market value. Domestic has been quite dull and rather favors the buyer, with a fair stock available. We quote at about 4@4¼c. currency. The manufacturers of lead are quoted: Bar, 7c.; Pipe, 7¼c.; and Sheet, 8c.—less the usual discount to the trade; and Tin-lined Pipe, 15c. Block Tin Pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig in most cases meets with rather a cautious demand, but stocks are fairly controlled and held steadily. We quote at 17½@17¾c. for Banca, 15@15⅛c. for Straits, 15¼@15⅜c. for English Refined, and 15⅛@15¼c. for do. common. Tin Plates meet with a moderately active demand and prices are easy on most styles. Spelter is quiet but held steadily at 5¾@6c. for domestic. Sheet Zinc slow but steady. We quote at 7¾@8c. gold for foreign, and 7@7¼c. currency for domestic.

NAILS.—Demand does not assume active or large proportions, and in a general way the tone of the market is dull. Sellers, however, in view of some reduction on the accumulation and the more general movement to contract production, are inclined to a firm tone. We quote on a basis of $2.40 per keg for 10d. to 60d.

OILS.—Holders in the majority of cases, appear to be pretty firm, and confident in their views and they offer supplies with coresponding moderation and full limit of value. Demand, however, is light, and refuses to go beyond well-known wants. Linseed oil as we close is worth about 63@65c. from crusher's hands.

PAINTS.—There has been a very good and, if anything, little better trade, especially in standard qualities and assortments, and values ruled firmly all around. Supplies, however, were equal to the call, and sellers could not add much to their advantage.

PITCH.—Demand has been moderately active on most of the regular outlets, and the market about steady, but stock enough for all calls prevented advance. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½ per bbl. for city delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—The market has shown a slow and rather weak tone, with prices again off somewhat. Stocks are pretty full. We quote at 31@32½c. according to quantity of stock handled.

TAR.—About the ordinary trade orders came to hand, and the jobbing distribution kept up to the average. Holders have had stock enough to satisfy all calls, and as a rule have been willing to accept former rates. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½ for Newberne and Washington, and $2.25@2.50 for Wilmington.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C. and C. a. G. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or incumbered.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

Editor of REAL ESTATE RECORD.

DEAR SIR:—In your issue of this date is reported, January 12th, a judgment: James Officer against John J. Burchell, $4,615.90.

I am attorney for Mr. Burchell in the action in which above judgment was recovered—same being a foreclosure of mortgage.

An appeal has been duly taken from said judgment and the usual undertaking given. Yours truly, RANDOLPH B. MARTINE.
Attorney for John J. Burchell.

21 Ruben, Lena, to Ferdinand Brown.
21 Valentine, David; Vaughan, Charles B.; Currie, Duncan D. H.; Wilson, Tiernan (David Valentine & Co., 402 Broadway) — to Joseph M. Valentine.
1 Powers, Stephen H.; Gaston, William; Stone, Frederick B.; Cable, Hiram W. (Powers, Gaston & Co.) — to James E. Hedges.
21 Orgler, Solomon, to Frederick Lewis.
21 Bell, Edward, to John Connor.
21 Muller, George, to John Healy.
22 Tappen, Henry A., to James Clancy.
23 Bode, John D., to William Schwenke.
23 Riechers, Herman (Grocer), to John C. Huser.
23 Dovale, Abram I.; Godine, Frank (Dovale & Co.) — to Frederick Lewis.
23 Carr, Adam (43 Courtlandt st), to Samuel S. Sherwood.
24 Offenheiser, Samuel, to Blaise L. Harsell.
25 Kehrmann, Samuel; Haenel, Jacob — to Willam Abbott.

NOTE.—In our last issue appeared what purported to be an assignment from Felix Campbell, Esq., to John D. Emack. The paper which was filed in the Clerk's Office showing such assignment merely conveys to Mr. Emack property which had been previously assigned by him to Mr. Campbell as the assignee of Mr. Emack. Mr. Campbell has made no assignment for the benefit of his creditors, for the very good reason that he has none, and we are happy to say there is no probability whatever that he will ever be required to take such a step.

THE ECONOMICS OF BUILDING.

III.

COSTS.

Probably no item of public concern gives rise to more pretentious assertion, based upon inadequate data, or to more misleading statements, than do the costs of building. As divergent as estimates usually are with regard to the value of a given plot of vacant land, they seem harmonious when compared with the wide disparity of statements which we are accustomed to hear with regard to building costs.

The manufacture of buildings in some respects is not unlike the manufacture of ready-made clothing; the material and workmanship in either case admitting of endless varieties of quality and degrees of skill. The failure of the analogy, however, occurs in the disposition of the products. While ready-made clothing, of whatever grade or quality, may have settled and easily defined values, it is not possible to specify of building products that resulting sale will indemnify the builder for his outlay or insure to him a profit. The common confusion in the public mind with reference to building costs arises, no doubt, from the blending of the two ideas of cost and value and in a still greater degree from the ignorance which necessarily prevails with reference to such an intricate and complicated work as building. There has always existed a glamour of mystery and uncertainty, even in the minds of well-informed persons, as to what are the actual costs of building. The builders themselves have taken no pains to dispel this uncertainty, either through inability to master the details of their business, or the lack of sufficient education to enable them to combine together in a grand total the various items of cost. Many builders either do not know or pretend to not know, what is the actual cost; and others again wilfully seek to mislead the public mind by claiming as cost an amount which really includes an exorbitant profit. We believe it would be for the best interests of the builders and of the public if plain and authentic items of cost could be obtained of a variety of building constructions. It is common to say that no two tables of costs are alike; that this knowledge can only be gained by experience, and that with private individuals who seek such experience one trial ordinarily suffices. It is no unusual thing for builders who have completed their works to be assailed by the criticism that such buildings could be produced at a price very much less than that set up as cost. While the value of vacant land may be readily definable upon some accepted basis, and while the costs claimed for a good building may be reasonably and satisfactorily demonstrated; when the two are combined in one product and offered for sale, in their composite state, being neither land nor building, but the two united in one, the difficulties then seem to be multiplied of determining what may be the actual aggregate cost. This subject of costs is considered a legitimate enquiry on the part of the house-buying public as a means of determining value, although cost and value are totally unrelated and disconnected sums—as builders, through practical and painful experience, have learned during the past four years.

The builder depends for realizing his costs and any possible profit upon the value which the public may fix upon his completed product at the time it is offered for sale. The value of the builder's product should, in ordinary times, include a reasonable profit, of which no honest or fair-minded buyer would seek to deprive him. A fair and intelligent exposition of the subject of costs will have its effect in inciting the buying public to a candid and just interpretation and appreciation of the builder's product and profit.

The misconceptions which usually exist in reference to this matter may be classified under three headings, in which we propose more conveniently to discuss them.

Ignorant Conjecture.—There are many wiseacres and busybodies going about who claim to know everybody's business but their own, and these are usually the most outspoken and officious in attempting to determine the costs of a given building projection. It is a singular fact that this class of critics, as a rule, seek to underrate such costs, and betray their ignorance in the very statements that they make. When it is claimed that a given building could be produced for a sum of money hardly sufficient to satisfy five or six of the leading and necessary contracts, the conjecture in that case may be set down as both ignorant and false. If these parties purpose to continue their calling as building critics, it would be well for them to gather information of the details of building affairs. A superficial knowledge would enable them to estimate much more correctly than they do as to real cost.

Wilful Misrepresentation.—On the other hand, there are builders and others interested in maintaining the value of property who seek to give currency to the idea of enormous costs attaching to this line of work. Personal interest often lies at the bottom of such representations—either the desire to secure an inordinate profit, or the purpose of procuring an excessive loan on the property. At any rate, the direction of this influence is always one and the same, and that is to unduly inflate the values of land and building material. This course of procedure is quite as prejudicial as the other, tending to increase the confusion which exists in the public mind, and to deter buyers from venturing into the market, through dread of encountering a practical demonstration of these inflated ideas.

Discrepant Estimates.—As strange as it may appear, it is nevertheless a matter of common experience to find several master builders presenting estimates for the same work which vary in their given totals from twenty-five to fifty per cent. This discrepancy may be due to excess or reduction of profit charged, or may be the special measure of individual responsibility assumed by the one who makes the calculation. Where such wide discrepancies as to cost are found to exist among master builders, it is hardly surprising that the public should go so egregiously astray in the same matter. The true solution of these differences is the one already indicated, that master mechanics are not always master book-keepers, and in the majority of cases, lack the good sense to employ efficient aid in the translation of their accounts. Ignorance, particularly in trade callings, is a vice that may be ranked next to dishonesty. A wilful excess of estimate, like a wilful underestimate, may often be traced through one of these vices to the other.

We propose to straddle all these difficulties, and try to elucidate our conception of this subject of costs by presenting practical and reliable formulas, embodying a simple and complete analysis of the building business, and the actual costs of construction in the case of three different types of building. We are indebted to a prominent active builder for the information here presented, and claim authority for it only as the transcript of one man's experience. We commend this system of arranging accounts to all members of the craft as likely to be serviceable to them in perfecting a mercantile method of accounts. It presents a ready rule for determining in advance the probable cost of any production, and will enable the builder to intelligently distribute a given total of expenditure through the different departments of work. After the completion of a job, these tables, properly corrected and revised, will afford trustworthy and accessible data as a basis of future operations. They will enable the builder also, to solve the important problem of whether he is making or losing money in a specific undertaking.

To the public at large, house buyers, lenders on mortgage and appraisers, we present these formulas as useful guides in estimating the value of property. The skeleton headings may be employed to elicit detailed information as to costs, or they can be filled in out of the abundance of individual knowledge and experience. If an amount in excess of cost is claimed, or if an amount below the actual cost is asserted, the proof in either case can be easily arrived at by attempting to distribute the entire sum through the different items of work here given. Of the figures arrayed in the subjoined lists, we assert nothing more than that they represent the cost of first-class work recently executed. In each respective case, the total of specified items may be taken as the current expense of producing a first-class dwelling of modern appointments of the indicated dimensions. This total expense would vary with any alteration in size, any modification of work—but particularly with any change of the lot value.

We may be pardoned for taking an especial pride in the presentation of these tables, as they have involved the expenditure of considerable time and labor in their preparation, and are, we believe, the first practical attempt at the dissection of the costs of modern building. We shall be happy to receive any criticism of their contents, and our readers may expect to become familiar with their outlines through future reproductions, when we expect to avail ourselves of any improvements that may be attainable in form or substance.

FINANCES.

It is a self-evident proposition that in building for permanent holding or investment, either a private owner or builder is obliged to sit down first and calculate the cost, to be sure of ready money and available resources out of which to defray the expenses of such an undertaking. If these are deficient the venture must end with a mass of unliquidated indebtedness—the natural forerunner of bankruptcy, unless compulsory sale of the property should avert this result. Although such provision is absolutely necessary in the case cited, it by no means follows that a speculative builder, who is building for immediate sale, requires to be equally stocked with money or resources. The great elasticity of the credit system in building is probably the secret of its attracting so many irresponsible and venturesome persons, and of the resulting disgrace which too often attaches to the business through multiplied insolvencies. If two conditions could be positively and reliably assured, to wit, the prompt and profitable sale of building productions and the strict honesty of the builder in applying the proceeds of such sale to the payment of his debts, the building business might be considered of all the smoothest and easiest going. We will endeavor to illustrate our statement by an example.

We will suppose a builder buys a lot for $15,000, the whole of the purchase money being left on temporary mortgage; we will say the builder then proceeds to erect a structure at a cost of $25,000, making his total outlay at the end of the job $40,000. We will aver that, with a prompt and meritorious sale of the improved property following its completion, such an enterprise could be comfortably carried through with a capital of five thousand dollars. This easy state of building finances arises from the cumulative character of the work and gradual maturing of indebtedness, the whole cost being spread over the period occupied in building, usually nine or ten months. The early payments are small and scattering, and fully two-thirds of the whole outlay can be easily deferred until after completion.

The five thousand dollars cash capital of the builder will easily enable him to discharge claims for wages and first payments on principal contracts. When the building is nearly completed we will assume that he is able to procure a loan on first mortgage of twenty-five thousand dollars. This gives him an addition to his ready capital of ten thousand dollars, which he can apply to the cancelling of debts incurred prior to that time, and then becoming urgent. With the prompt sale of the property, we will say at cost or with a profit, he is immediately reimbursed with the full amount of his outlay, and has the wherewithal to discharge all claims growing out of the transaction. This is not only a truthful and fair statement of the financial operation of the business, but it is a case of common occurrence in a city where choice improved property is so readily salable. When conducted by a clear-headed and skilful builder, even though provided with only a moderate share of cash capital, such a thing as financial embarrassment in a building operation should be scarcely known. The troubles that do arise in this business are occasioned either by the failure of prompt sale, or by a sale that fails to realize the first cost. In other cases troubles arise from the arrant dishonesty of the master builder, who fails to apply the proceeds of the enterprise, realized by mortgage or by sale, to the prompt discharge of the building debts. The tendency of builders to expand their business unduly and unwarrantably is another source of financial trouble. The limited capital that might be amply sufficient for a small undertaking is totally inadequate for one of double or quadruple the size. The comparative ease with which any builder in good standing can carry on a small enterprise is often a temptation for him to embark in schemes which carry him entirely beyond his depth. For the purpose of these larger and more hazardous enterprises the builder is tempted to resort to the questionable expedient of accepting building loans; and as these are apt to exhaust the profits of a job at the start the builder is quickly brought face to face with the condition of insolvency. The facility with which builders obtain credit, and the indulgence which sub-contractors and material men are apt to extend in the matter of final payments, lead to the reprehensible practice of carrying over tailings of accounts from job to job, instead of promptly settling the accounts of each job at its close. In this way a volume of floating indebtedness is created which proves extremely embarrassing when the builder finally relinquishes business, or is suddenly called upon to liquidate his affairs. Some builders cherish for years a delusive idea of their complete solvency until it is rudely dispelled by their being brought face to face with a mass of floating indebtedness that has been practically ignored.

It is too much, perhaps, to expect that builders of the American type will confine their ventures within conservative bounds. In prosperous seasons the readiness of sale of well executed properties affords such a stimulus and encouragement as are apt to determine an active builder in pursuit of schemes of the greatest magnitude. The healthiest precept to impress upon our New York builders is that they should train themselves to rely upon their own resources; or, if outside help is required, that such assistance should be derived from discounts at banks under conditions which we have heretofore outlined, or else from some prudent and considerate banker who would gauge his commission for the accommodation thus afforded according to the actual risk incurred. This risk in the case of cautious and intelligent builders operating clearly within prudent bounds would be reduced to the lowest appreciable one and should thus entail an outlay for banker's commission of the most moderate kind.

MINING.

It is now about a year since mining began to be investigated by our Eastern capitalists, as they were naturally forced to look for other means of investment for capital through the immense shrinkage in values of railroad properties, and the comparatively poor prospects they exhibited of any capability to pay dividends. When the promoters of mining schemes first began to talk on the subject, they were laughed at, and regarded in the light of crazy impostors, and the most tempting schemes were kept in a torpid condition through want of capital to develop them. The celebrated Ontario mine, of Utah, when first put on the Stock Exchange, last March, at the very tempting price of $20 per share (par value, $100), was regarded with suspicion, and six months passed away, during which time the mine was yielding in the neighborhood of $175,000 in bullion per month, and about $550,000 in dividends, without any marked rise in the stock. At last, however, seeing that the bullion returns were still kept up, there was some slight activity in the shares, and they are now quoted at between $30 and $31, a figure which gives the purchaser at least thirty-five per cent. on his investment. A number of other mines have since been brought before the public, and although some, in the hands of thieves, proved disastrous to the rash speculator, a number of them have prospered by the support of the public, and are paying good dividends to the stockholders. There have been some rather reprehensible cases of washing mining stocks to a figure above their real worth; but, as a rule, the public have left them carefully alone, and they have gradually declined to their proper values.

The following is a statement of the prices of mining stocks at the Exchange this week:

"THE ELISE."

Such is the name of a new apartment building approaching completion on the east side of the Eighth Avenue, a few doors south of Fifty-seventh Street, and hence in the immediate vicinity of the circle and Central Park. The first idea that strikes a passer-by, even when taking a merely superficial glance at the building, is that it is ornamental, without being overdone, and that it relieves in a marked degree the monotony of this otherwise popular avenue in the very spot where variety in architecture is so sorely needed. Upon making a closer inspection of the building, however, the writer found that it was not only an ornamental, but also a very substantial building, with walls surpassing in thickness those generally found in structures erected for the purpose of paying owners immediate returns for their investment. But Mr. Betz, the owner, who paid three years ago for these lots considerably more money than he could buy them for to-day, nevertheless was satisfied with his bargain, and has improved them in a manner commensurate with their cost. Being himself, a man of solid ideas, he has infused them into "The Elise," from cellar to garret, eschewing all flimsiness and gaudiness, and is now ready to challenge any expert to point out the least fault in its construction, or in the details of workmanship, over which he has had personal supervision from the time that he first began to dig the foundations, in the month of May last. Relying for counsel and advice upon the technical knowledge of his architect, Mr. Cauvet, who conceived the plan of the building, there are nevertheless in every structure so many hundred details requiring close attention in their selection and purchase, that Mr. Betz now has the satisfaction of having placed upon one of our most flourishing avenues an apartment house, which is honestly finished throughout. He has been most fortunate in securing the services of John Partlin, a practical builder, who has watched the progress of the work with the keenest interest. The building is pleasant to look at — cheerful without and cosy within. It has a frontage of forty feet and is eighty-five deep, is seven stories high, and its architecture is a mixture of the Gothic and Italian. There are twelve suites of rooms, two on each floor, and a store underneath. Each suite contains seven rooms—parlor, sittingroom, diningroom, kitchen and three bedrooms. Communication with the various floors is had by means of one of Hale's well-known hydraulic elevators for which an immense tank is placed in the seventh story. The writer took advantage of this elevator when making an inspection of the building, and to his delight found a total absence of that jarring so frequently met with in other elevators. The smoothness with which the car moved up and down, and the ease and facility with which a mere lad controlled it, certainly speak well for this latest improvement in hydraulic elevators, which, if we are not mistaken, is altogether a Western or rather Chicago idea. On the same floor, the seventh, where the immense water tank is placed, are rooms for the use of the janitor, while on the top of the building a magnificent view of the metropolis and its surroundings was had. It is difficult to imagine a spot on Manhattan Island where a finer panorama unfolds itself before the tenant's eye than in the upper stories of this building, situated as it is on the very edge almost of the Park, and taking in a landscape that includes Staten Island and the Jersey shore. The bow windows on the various floors attest to the foresight of the architect, who has thus enabled the various tenants to take advantage of this peculiar locality to combine the beautiful with the comfortable, for all the comforts which modern improvements could suggest have been placed in the various suite of rooms. All the paraphernalia of housekeeping, whether electric bells or ash chutes, private hallways or private laundries, speaking trumpets or bathrooms, are at the disposal of each and every tenant. But to return to the detailed work, which, after all, shows the honesty and solidity with which the structure was built. There is a good deal more iron used in the completion of this apartment house than one generally meets with, strong iron columns, from the foundry of Mr. James McCandless in Eleventh avenue supporting the centre of the building, and adding still more to the assurance already felt by the tenant that all will be safe in "The Elise" for generations to come. The very best of material has, however, also been used in the mason work, which, after all, has constituted the greater part of the labor on this model building, the Messrs. Peck & Son, of Thirtieth street and North River, well known to the readers of this journal, furnishing the cement and brick which has been used to the very best advantage. The carpenter work—prepared by Schartz Bros., cabinet makers, of West Fifty-third street -- is being done by Findley & Gardener, of Forty-eighth street and Ninth avenue, and is in complete keeping with the iron and masonry work, so far as honesty of labor is concerned. But their pine wood can even by this time hardly be recognized as such, as the brushes of Mr. Unger, the painter, have already made it look like regular cabinet work. The soft, satin-like coloring has given the various rooms where the artist has finished his labor that quiet, home-like, cheerful aspect, which is in striking contrast to the dark, dingy colors so often met with even on the modern flats. The plumbing, now-a-days, the most important feature in New York houses, where so many complaints have lately been heard about the escape of sewer gases, has been conscientiously furnished by J. N. Knight, of 39 West Thirty-fifth street, well known in the plumbing trade, the required taps being all in their appropriate places and all faucets being self-closing. Next in importance to the plumbing are the heating arrangements, and when we say that the trusted firm of Gilis & Geoghegan, of Wooster street, has furnished the apparatus and superintended everything connected with this important feature of the building, it will be at once understood that proper ventilation has not been neglected, at the same time that sufficient channels have been laid for conducting the heat from the cellar to the various suites of rooms. The proprietor of "The Elise" takes great pleasure in pointing to the wainscoting from material furnished by the Guelton Marble Works, 504 West Twenty-fourth street. He challenges any one to tell the nature of this material, which has recently been brought into the market in competition with marble. Speaking of marble, however, reminds us that most of the mantelpieces in "The Elise" are from the Nicholls establishment in Hudson street. The gas fixtures, from the well known establishment of Mitchell & Vance, are ornamental throughout, and are also selected with a care showing that, when entirely completed, there will be nothing in these suites to mar the general artistic effect continually kept in view by both architect and owner. The constant use made of the elevator made us almost forget to state that the circular stairs, built by Mr. Hardy, of 330 West 21st street, are all in a state of forwardness, and ready for the balusters, all finished with the best of carving and superior workmanship. The house is protected on each floor by fire escapes of the latest pattern. In fact, it would be difficult to state what is wanting in this really model apartment house, which will be ready for occupancy during the first or second week in March. Already several parties have announced their intention of moving into this building even before the first of May, though the owner is not over anxious to see it occupied before that time. He has wisely concluded not to overlook the stringency of the times, and hence has decided to ask low rents, fifty dollars for the upper and seventy-five for the lower floors, and an average rent for the centre suites. No agent will have charge of the building for renting purposes, as Mr. Betz declares that he can take care of his "Elise" himself, the building being named after his wife. The owner has, therefore, the advantage of selecting his own tenants, and the latter can negotiate with the proprietor himself, without let or hindrance on the part of middlemen. It is stated that the plot of ground adjoining "The Elise" will soon be improved by Mr. Betz's brother, who intends to erect there still another apartment house. Let them come, we say; there is plenty more of them wanted for the accommodation of those of our citizens, who, with the completion of rapid transit roads, will all prefer to live nearer the Park than in the lower section of the city, in Brooklyn or New Jersey.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The record of transactions for the month of January, 1878, shows that at the Exchange Salesroom the sales aggregated $1,191,866, as against $1,415,856 for the corresponding month in 1877. The total number of conveyances filed for record in the office of the Register during the same month, excluding the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards, reaches 519, the aggregate consideration amounting to $1,996,760, as against $5,353,956 for the month of January, 1877. The number of deeds conveying property in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards is 102, the consideration expressed in which aggregates $217,616, as against $189,535 for January, 1877. Mortgages numbering 175, aggregating the sum of $3,087,216 were recorded in the Register's office, in January, 1878, as against $13,282,766 for January, 1877. The number of mortgages made to trust and insurance companies reaches 53, aggregating $510,450, a reduction in amount of about $221,000 from January, 1877. Of this number, 175 bear interest at six per cent., and the amount loaned at that rate is $1,435,839.

At the Exchange Salesroom, Mr. Harnett, in partition proceedings, sold the premises on the west side of Clinton street, 100 feet south of Stanton street (100 x100), for $25,000, and E. H. Ludlow & Co. sold the four-story dwelling known as No. 46 Fifty-first street, between Fifth avenue and Broadway, for about $6,600 over and above the incumbrances thereon.

Twelve plans, embracing twenty buildings, were filed during the week ending January 31, 1878, with the Superintendent of the Department of Buildings at an estimated cost of $242,500. Mr. Richard Arnold has filed a plan for the erection of a building on the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and Eighty-third street, at an estimated cost of $125,000. The intention of Mr. Arnold to erect this building was noticed in our report several weeks ago. On Eighteenth street, between Broadway and Fifth avenue, the firm of John Duncan's Sons propose erecting two five-story iron front stores, the estimated cost of which is $50,000.

The following are the sales at the Exchange Salesroom for the week ending Jan. 31:

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—Common Hards have remained in a very dull condition, and the market rather lost ground if anything. Indeed both wholesale and retail dealers are complaining the more so that no immediate prospect of relief is shown. The elevated railroads are about done buying, as most of their foundation work is completed, and this closes the principal outlet. Some calls are made occasionally for building purposes, but their very rarity makes the general quiet condition of the market all the more apparent, and contractors give little encouragement to the belief that they will commence any important operations for some time to come. There has not been much of an offering afloat, only a few small arrivals coming in, and these were mostly placed after some trouble, leaving the market a little more scantily supplied as we write than at the same time last week, but there is enough for all calls, and additional receipts are not impossible. The stock came principally from Haverstraw Bay, but the one solitary barge load of "Up-Rivers" still remains "awaiting a market." It is possible that very choice or fancy lots would command $5.75, or even $6 per M, but on the styles offering, $5.50 has been a top price, and is all that can fairly be quoted in a wholesale way. There is a little demand for a more ordinary grade from buyers, who are compelled to study cost more closely than quality, and something that could be sold at about $5 would find a moderate outlet. Pales are scarce, and considered worth $3 for anything merchantable. Fronts are in limited demand, but the stock is not large, and is well enough controlled to retain rates at a steady level.

We quote Pale, ₱ M., $3.00@—; Hards, Up-rivers, nominal; Haverstraw bay, $5.00@5.75; favorite brands, $6.00@——; Fronts, Croton—brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $22@27; Baltimore, $34@38.50. Yard prices, delivery included, $1@3 higher on ordinary and $5.00@6.00 on fronts.

CEMENT.—There is evidences of an irregular tone on the market for domestic. In some quarters we hear quotations at $1.25, and even higher, with a claim that no stock is available, the latter statement no doubt true so far as first hands are concerned, but jobbers hold a fair stock, and some of the leading ones tell us they are still selling at $1.20. Foreign has been rather dull of late, and especially so on interior orders, as shipments became almost impossible through the contemptible discrimination on freight charges against the merchants of this city.

GLASS.—Demand continues rather moderate still from most quarters, for both domestic and foreign, and dealers are distributing principally in small jobbing parcels. Stocks, however, it is claimed, are not full or any too well assorted, and the idea of weakness on values, growing out of what is styled the temporary quite trade, is positively denied.

HARDWARE.—There is not much increase in the volume of trade, but business has not contracted to smaller compass, and dealers seem to consider that their distribution of supplies is about all that could reasonably be expected. Local demands are probably proportionately the smallest, but this is only in accord with the general condition of city trade, and an improvement in due time is expected. The Norwich Lock Co. issue a list of new articles of builders' hardware recently introduced by them. The regular discount from their list is 50 and 10 and 2 per cent. extra for cash. The Shovels, Spades and Scoops, manufactured by the Keystone State Shovel and Spade Manufactory are offered at discount 40 per cent. The Stanley Rule and Level Co. quote Boxwood Rules at 60 and 10, and Ivory at 50 and 10 per cent. discount. Lewis, Oliver & Phillips, Pittsburgh, Pa., announce that their price for Screw and Strap Hinges, 11 to 36 inches long, is 3¼ cents per pound, net; 6, 8, 10 and 12 inches long, 4¼ cents per pound, net, in Pittsburgh. The Shepard Hardware Co., of Buffalo, N. Y., quote their "Standard" and "Double Locking" Blind Hinges at discount 70 per cent., and their three styles of Patent Gate Hinges and Latches, viz., Nos. 10, 20 and 25, discount 50 per cent.

LATH.—The position has again been entirely nominal in the absence of business, and it is useless to give any figures as a representation of values until cargoes or parcels from first hands are moved. There is an amusing variety of opinions as to the future of the market, with a natural tendency among receivers to talk "away up," but actual sales will be the best test of what can be done with buyers. Dealers are not selling much stock at present.

LIME.—We hear of no change on prices as yet due, probably as much to the absence of fresh arrivals as anything. There is said to be some Eastern wanted, and if any comes to hand against this inquiry there is a possibility of a new line of valuations. Local consumption is moderate for building purposes, etc., but the agents of state stock report a fair trade, with certain manufacturing industries, and also quite a number of shipping orders on Southern account, partly for Virginia, but extending all the way down the coast.

LUMBER.—We find a continuation of the usual winter market, with the volume of trade probably a little disappointing in some cases, in view of expectations entertained that an improvement would set in after the turn of the year. Lumber, however, is in no worse condition than nearly every other article of merchandise at present, and will no doubt show good healthy recuperative power when opportunity offers. Many dealers and agents are doing a fair business in the way of orders for shipment from the Southern ports, with an occasional order for export hence, the slowest movement being toward home consumptive outlets. We have heard that an attempt is to be made to renew the deal shipments from the West through this or some of the Eastern ports, but the rumor is doubtful, and does not appear to be justified by the condition of affairs abroad or the results of the previous experiment. There does not appear to have been many contracts made by our dealers for next season's supply as yet, and accounts from primary markets indicate that most of the wintered stock remains unsold. As this is composed mainly of uppers, it may be that buyers in view of the late run on common qualities prefer that the higher grades should remain in first hands until they are better satisfied as to what proportion will be required for the consumption of the present year. Advices from the woods, especially at the West, do not appear very promising at present, but as a few inches of snow appears to be about the only thing lacking there is reasonable grounds to hope for an improvement before spring.

Eastern spruce remains just about as last noted. The offering is small and uncertain, and while there is reason to believe that a greater quantity of stock could be placed without difficulty if here, the theory really receives no fair test. A short supply is a natural support to values, and dealers generally quote at about former full figures. We quote at $12.50@13.50 for random, possibly $14.00@14.50 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $13.50@15.50 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White Pine is held steadily, and while there is enough stock here for all wants, no great excess is shown on any quality, and an absence of pressure to realize may be noted. Export operations are conducted with some caution, but on various orders quite a fair amount is under treaty on foreign account. We quote at $15.00@17.00 per M for West India shipping boards; $19.50@20.50 for South American do.; $15.00@16.00 for box boards; $17.00 for do., wide and sound; and timber at $16.00@18.00 per M.

Yellow Pine retains a firm tone, and all desirable bills can only be filled on a basis of full former figures. Sellers, however, do not appear to be particularly buoyant in their views, and fair bids receive proper attention. We quote random cargoes at $18.50@22 per M; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do.; green flooring boards, $21@23 do.; and dry do. do., $23@24. Cargoes at the South, $14@16.50 per M; hewn timber, $7.50@14.

Hardwoods in moderate demand, and buyers appear to satisfy themselves with small parcels closely calculated to immediate consumptive wants. Prices, however, remain steady on the former general range. We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $77@82.50 ₱ M; ash, $35@36 do.; oak, 25@40 do.; maple $20@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d $30@35; do. do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $45@75 do.; white wood, ¼ and ⅝ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $28@35 do.; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $40@50 for good nearby stock.

Yard business moves along slowly, and now and then the complaints over the position are loud and strong. Some signs of improvement, however, may be observed, and sellers have thus far been enabled to maintain a good steady range on values.

Among the recent lumber charters we find the following: A Br. barque, 616 tons, from Doboy to Guernsey, deals, £5 10s.; a Br. barque, 391 tons, hence to Jamaica, lumber, and general cargo, $1,300 gold; an Am. brig, 412 tons, hence to Sagua, 175 M White Pine lumber, $8 gold; a brig, 250 M lumber, from Pensacola to Boston, $8; three schrs. each 250@300 M lumber, from Pensacola to New York, $7, or a Sound port $7.50; a schr. 200 M lumber, from Charleston to New Haven, $5.50; a schr. 200 M timber, from Port Royal to New York, $7; a schr. 250 M lumber, from Jacksonville to New York, $6.50; a schr. 508 tons, from Fernandina to New York, Hewn timber, $7, and small stowage, $5; two schrs. 221 and 214 tons, hence to Charleston Phosphates, $4.75, and from Bucksville to Belfast, Me., lumber, $8, and timber, $9; a barque, 350 M lumber, from Brunswick to New York, $5; a schr. 250 M lumber, same voyage, $5.12½; a schr. 180 M lumber and timber, from Charleston to Baltimore, $5 and $6; a schr. 160 M lumber, same voyage, $5; a schr. 200 M lumber, from Jacksonville to New York, $6.15; a schr., 225 M do., same voyage, at or about $6.50; a schr. 220 M lumber, from Fernandina to New York, $5.50.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From the Lumberman's Gazette as follows:

BAY CITY, Friday, Jan. 25, 1878.

The general aspect of the lumber market of the Valley is unchanged since last report. The expectation that a good demand will be experienced on or before the opening of the shipping season tends to stiffen the views of holders. The opinion that an advance in prices is not at all improbable also finds believers, and it is based upon good foundation in the fact that at all points, both east and west, the stocks of lumber unsold in the yards is much smaller than it was a year ago. Taking these facts into consideration, the new cut for 1878 will undoubtedly command higher figures than that of 1877.

The lack of snow in the pineries has retarded lumbering operations so much that the probable shortage in the log crop will also have its effect upon prices, and will doubtless enhance the value of lumber in the spring. The prospects were, in the early part of the season, that a very large crop of logs would be got in this winter, but unless there is a very marked change in the weather for the next two months, the chance of getting in even an average crop is exceedingly doubtful.

The difficulty under which lumbering has been prosecuted this season will probably result in the building of some more short lines of railroads in this State for the purpose of hauling logs to the streams, and the expense of such enterprises is being considered by some of the lumbermen of the Valley.

We hear of several sales during the past week to Philadelphia parties. The prices paid were $6, $12 and $28, cash. These figures may be considered as the ruling rates for good fair stock at present.

The Gazette's Chicago correspondent says: I have no new developments to report since my last. The weather has remained soft and spring-like until the 23d, when it grew colder and froze quite hard, but the indications are now that it is only temporary, for as the sun comes out it is quite warm and spring-like.

Indications from the Mississippi river and beyond foretell a heavy demand for stock as soon as the roads are in a condition to move it. My impression is, that with good roads throughout the West, four weeks' time would reduce stocks here to less than 200,000,000 feet, if it comes now, but if they do not grow better before the opening of spring and spring work commences, the demand would be deferred until after the crops are put in, say June.

It is now a foregone conclusion that the cut will fall far short of expectations two months ago, for the winter is half gone, and under the most favorable circumstances the anticipated stock could not now be put in, and this fact alone will add 10 per cent. to the value of all stock now on hand.

The trade is square timber, especially extra sizes and lengths, has been much curtailed throughout the country, owing to the fact that it was simply impossible to get it to the lines of communication, and the same causes that have worked to retard the pine trade is equally true of hard woods. All operations in the woods are at a stand-still, or so near it that they amount to nothing, and we have only to wait and watch results.

HARDWOOD.

The hardwood trade is as good as could be expected; there is little doing, but prices are firm and all are awaiting impatiently for that good time so long promised.

This trade has changed very materially in the past few years. First we had black walnut and butternut for inside finish, panels, &c., then walnut and ash or maple; now it is black walnut and red oak. Then you could not give a man a red oak plank, and now it is all the go, and some of the very finest buildings in the city, public and private, are finished in red oak and black walnut. Ash flooring is now a thing of the past, and maple takes it place, and makes in every way a better floor—if it is far enough removed from dampness—and some of the finest business houses in the city, built last season, have maple flooring.

The Gazette gathers the following on the logging prospects: The prospect of getting out a full stock of logs for next season's sawing in this State, as well as the neighboring one of Wisconsin, is beginning to wear a somewhat dubious aspect, and many operators in the woods are becoming seriously concerned as to whether they will be able to get into the streams the logs thus far cut. There has been a large cut of timber, and the quantity of logs awaiting snow for hauling is no doubt also large, but that useful article for greasing the roads does not seem to be forthcoming. In this part of the State there has been a very general suspension of operations, and many men have been sent out from the camps. We hear of many firms who have from anywheres up to seven or eight millions of feet cut, but of which very little is hauled, excepting, of course, where the haul is very short, and so close to the streams that the logs are "snaked" in without being skidded.

For the past few days the weather has turned somewhat colder, but unless it is accompanied with a good fall of snow, and one that will remain for some time, the fears entertained last fall that there would be a ruinous over crop of logs harvested this winter may be dismissed. In fact, the season has now become so far advanced that, with the most favorable weather for the balance of the season, it is not probable that more than an average stock could be got in.

The Menominee Herald of Jan. 17th says: The middle of January is upon us and not three inches of snow has fallen yet. The roads are as bare as in the summer, but hard and solid. The Menominee River log crop ought to be nearly half on the rollway, but hardly a tenth part of it has reached that position. Meanwhile the work of skidding goes bravely on, and our largest companies are but little behind in their calculations, although they may have to put a few extra teams in the woods later in the season.

The Au Sable and Oscoda News of Jan. 17th says: The lumbermen are having their patience sorely tried by reason of the non appearance of snow. Large quantities of logs have been skidded, and the season is already well advanced in which the cut ought to be hauled and banked in the several streams and lakes, but this cannot be done profitably without snow.

The Green Bay Advocate of Jan. 17th says: The little cold snap that we had just after the month came in, which was just sufficient to give the river a thin coating of ice, did not last long. The weather for the past week or ten days has been very mild, the mercury only occasionally dropping below the freezing point. We have still no snow. Lumbering is progressing in the woods under difficulties, but all have gone in with the determination to get in all the logs possible, no matter what the state of the roads. The present prospect is, however, that not nearly as many logs will be banked as was anticipated at the commencement of the season.

The Black River Fall (Wis.) Banner of Jan. 18th says: Up to Thursday of this week there was no sleighing, and lumbermen were, consequently, feeling blue at the prospects of logging this winter. The winter is now about half gone and very few logs have been hauled yet. Six inches of snow, with the present solid foundation in the woods, would be hailed with delight by everybody.

The Shawano (Wis.) Journal of Jan. 19th says;

Here we are, half the month of January gone and no snow yet. Thousands of logs cut and skidded all through the woods, thousands of dollars' worth of supplies absorbed in the camps weekly, and the lumbermen waiting patiently for snow that never comes. That is the situation in this pine region at present.

The following is from the Lumberman and Manufacturer, Minneapolis, Minn., January 21, 1877.

The markets may be said to be stationary but nervous, and will probably change materially within the next three weeks. The glorious uncertainty which surrounds all logging matters will be over by that time, and upon this issue depends the value of the sawed lumber on hand. In the possible event of a failure of the crop, or half of it, a very material rise will follow; but, with plenty of snow, present figures will not more than be maintained in most of the leading markets of the West.

At Chicago, the 400,000,000 feet on hand scares the holders out of all determination to advance, unless there should come a failure of the log crop, in which event they stand ready to join the bear side and go for blood.

The cheapest place on the continent now to buy dry lumber is along the lines of railway in the interior of Michigan. The figures given us at which good dry lumber is being sold at Clam Lake, near the head of the Manistee, are so small that we hesitate to publish them. They are almost incredible.

THE EAST.

The following items are from the correspondence of the Lewiston Journal: At Presque Isle a large amount of lumbering is being done this winter, and as I hear to very good advantage. During the month of December the ground was frozen, although the weather was mild. Just snow enough in the woods to render cutting and hauling short distances very easily done. I hear of one concern which is cutting near the bank of the stream who use no sleds but "snakes" the whole trees upon the ice very rapidly. They were employed to haul by the thousand, and their employer expected they would put in 2,000,000, but the prospect is they will put in a much larger amount.

From Franklin a correspondent writes: Lumbermen are greatly disappointed at the sudden disappearance of the snow. Crows have done all they can until there is some chance to haul what is ready.

The Androscoggin Water Power Company of Lisbon Falls have bought and have teams in the Andover West surplus. This company has cleared out a stream five miles in length, built a dam, and have kept a crew of forty men and over thirty horses constantly at work for the last three months. The agent says that the company will put into the stream 3,000,000 or 4,000,000. They have commenced operations on Bear river also. The mill at that place is still running, and turning out lumber every day.

J. L. Smart, who is operating quite extensively on the West Branch, thinks there will be over 40,000,000 cut on the west branch of the Penobscot this winter.

The following is from a correspondent of the Lumberman's Gazette:

OLDTOWN, Me., Jan. 21, 1878.

The weather here is very discouraging for the most of business. We have had but one week of sleighing, and that is all gone here at this time, and it is warm and muddy. Teams that were engaged in hauling wood and bark have had to suspend operations, and a great many have taken their teams out and gone home.

In the pine region on the head waters of the Penobscot and its tributaries, there is from six to fourteen inches of snow, and they are getting in logs very fast. If the snow holds, and does not pile down too deep in March, they will get more logs than if they had deep snows all winter, so that they would have to shovel, as they have to do many winters.

The general impression among lumbermen is that the lumber business will open fair in the spring, and lumber will be in good demand, but they will be late in getting to sawing, for there is but a small amount of logs wintered over, and but a few parties that hold them.

THE SOUTH.

The Charleston News and Courier gives the following:

Exports of Lumber from the port of Charleston from September 1 to January 25, 1878.

Exported to	1877-8. Feet.	1876-7. Feet.
New York	247,080	145,108

Grand Total	14,112,014	2,183,093

Lumber Freights—The arrivals have been few during the week, and the surplus tonnage has been worked off, but charters to arrive are still forced on our market, causing rates to rule low and irregular. We quote: To Baltimore and Chesapeake ports, $5@6.00; to Philadelphia, $5.50@6.00; to New York, and Sound ports, $5.00@6.00; to Boston and eastward, $6.00@7.00; to St. John, N. B., $8.00. Timber, from $1.00 to $1.50 higher than lumber rates; to the West Indies and windward, $8.00 gold; to South America, $19.00@20.00 gold; to Spanish ports, $15.00 gold; to United Kingdom, timber 38s, lumber 35 10s. Rates from near ports, Brunswick, Darien, Fernandina, etc., are 25 to 50c. additional.

Lumber—The mills are gradually organized after the holidays, and will in a week or so be ready for new orders. No change in prices. We quote:

Ordinary sizes	$14 00@16 00
Difficult "	16 00@20 00
Flooring boards	17 00@19 00
Shipstuff	17 00@18 00

Timber.—No arrivals of consequence in the past week. Good timber will sell readily at quotation:

Shipping timber by the cargo f. o. b.—
700 feet average	$8 00@ 9 00
800 " "	9 00@10 00
900 " "	11 00@12 00
1,000 " "	12 00@13 00
Shipping Timber in the raft—
700 feet average	$5 00@ 6 00
800 " "	6 00@ 7 00
900 " "	8 00@ 9 00
1,000 " "	9 00@10 00

Mill timber $1 below these figures.

NAILS.—Operations do not swell into very large volume and the market shows no decided animation. A great many distributors, with the turn of the year, found themselves short of stock, and have been buying, but only in small invoices, to make up an assortment for ordinary use. Prices are firm and the production small, with card rates in some cases higher. We quote: 10d to 60d., common fence and shearing, per keg, $2.50; 8d. and 9d., common do. per keg, $2.75; 6d. and 7d., common per keg, $3; 4d. and 5d, common do., per keg, $3.25; 3d. and 4d., light, per keg, $4; 3d., fine, per keg, $4.75; 2d., per keg, $4.75. Cut spikes, all sizes, $2.75. Floor casing and box, 75c. above the same sizes of common. Finishing, $1 above, and fine finishing $1.25 above.

CLINCH NAILS.

1¾ to 1½ in.	2 & 2¼ in.	2½ & 2¾ in.	3 in. & longer
$5@$5.25	$4.75	$4.50	$4.25 per keg

OILS.—Trade is about as usual on all grades so far as the jobbing movement goes. Buyers now and then make up a pretty full invoice, but the general inclination is toward a small quantity and repeat the purchase if necessity demands it. Prices steady. We quote: Linseed, about 63@65c. ₰ gallon; lard, 60@62c. for No. 1, and 53@55c. for No. 2; crude cottonseed, 14@14c., and refined summer yellow do. 51@52c.

PAINTS.—Business continues to gradually gain volume, and the outlook of the general market is promising. The same old inclination among buyers to confine themselves pretty closely to the imperative necessities of the hour may be noted as a rule, but exceptions are to be found on standard goods in some cases, as at ruling cost there is not thought to be much danger in stocking up to a moderate extent. The accumulations in first hands are filling up by degrees, and now offer a fair assortment from which any ordinary selection of either domestic or foreign goods can be secured. No important changes have of late been made on the general line of prices.

PITCH.—The demand continues of about the ordinary volume and develops no really new features worthy of extended note. Holders are not carrying a very large stock or making many additions, and retain control sufficient to keep prices in a uniform position. We quote at $2.12½@2.25 for City, delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—A slow distribution on jobbing account has been made, scarcely anything taken for export, and, with an ample stock, the market weakened. As we close, the rates are 30½@31½c. according to quantity.

TAR.—The amounts going out on jobbing orders are of about the usual magnitude, and command former rates as a rule. Dealers are meeting the call fairly, but are not anxious operators and seem to have no surplus of stock to offer. We quote at $2.12½@2.25 for Newberne and Washington, and $2.25@2.50 for Wilmington.

THE ECONOMICS OF BUILDING.

IV.

NEEDS.

At the present time, and in the city of New York, the requirements of the building profession are greatly in advance of what they formerly were or what they now are in other localities. At an earlier stage in its history, as illustrated in many existing blocks of buildings in the older parts of the city, these requirements were within the easy capacity of average masons and carpenters, and involved, outside of the techniques of those two trades, facility in the use of the square, level, and plumb line. The stride which the city has made in metropolitan dignity, and the advancement of the great body of our citizens in æsthetic culture and in familiarity with the comforts and conveniences of life, call for an order of building, especially for domestic use, quite superior to what was once accepted in that line. The results that have been heretofore accomplished by untrained and undisciplined mechanical genius are eminently creditable and praiseworthy. But such results are quite inadequate to meet present public demands, and unworthy of the elevated character which our city already bears as the metropolis and arbiter rerum of America.

The first and indispensable qualification of a builder is the possession, in a greater or less degree, of marked executive ability. This quality, in fact, forms the foundation stone of the builder's professional character; nay, the possession of such a rare gift generally predetermines the selection of his calling. Executive ability alone—the power to control masses of men and to concentrate in the execution of a single performance a variety of labors and offices—may fit a man to become an excellent foreman or superintendent of works, but this faculty must be accompanied with loftier and more subtle qualities, and supplemented by no small degree of literary and artistic training, to fit a man to become an accomplished master builder. No occupation makes more varied or exacting demands upon the entire personality than that of building, when properly and scientifically undertaken. In addition to the specific mechanical attainments called for, it would, perhaps, suffice to say that all other requirements are embraced in the single statement that the successful modern builder must combine elements of broad scholarship with those of an enlightened mercantile experience.

Rarity of the combination which we are suggesting is no proof of the impossibility of attaining it, but simply implies a general lack of such training as we believe will be found in future indispensable to the satisfactory and successful prosecution of this calling. It is no uncommon event, even at this late day, to find builders who excel as mechanics, and yet, for the want of theoretical and mercantile education, who are unable to turn their technical knowledge to practical and lucrative account. If it is too much to claim that one builder shall combine in his person all the endowments which we shall enumerate, it still becomes warrantable to suggest that in the make-up of his establishment he shall gather about him representative persons who are possessed of these different qualifications, so as to enable him to engage in the competitive strife of his calling, on a fair field and with intelligent equipment.

We cannot better illustrate our conceptions of the varied needs of future active builders or embody the standard of successful builders of to-day, than by reciting the various phases of professional and business life in which builders are called upon to appear and act.

Supposing a man to be fully qualified in all the mechanical details of his profession, the successful speculative builder is still required to play his part in at least five distinct roles or characters.

Architect.—The time is past for the mere mechanic to rely upon his unaided efforts in elaborating the architectural features of buildings. The science of æsthetics in building has grown into a prominent department of this trade calling. The untutored mechanical builder must either incur the fatal risk of dispensing with artistic embellishments or else be compelled to rely abjectly upon the dictation of an employed architect. However germane and kindred may be these two professions as they now separately exist, it is certain that in speculative building the interests and views of the respective professions seem to be well nigh irreconcilable. The architect performs the functions of the abstract theorist—the designer of beautiful models and the draughtsman of convenient plans. The practical details of work he becomes acquainted with solely or principally in books. In mechanical execution the builder is generally the superior of the architect, though perhaps totally lacking in appreciation of the abstruse principles and fulsome designs which the architect elaborates. A good architect may be a poor builder, and, vice versa, a good builder may be a poor architect. The difficulty of harmonizing these two professions in their distinctive capacities is owing to the sensitiveness of control and intolerance of dictation which exists on the part of either. The architect is disposed to enforce his peculiar views with an imperious dictum, while the builder is too apt to treat with a stolid indifference and undisguised contempt all purely scientific suggestions. Few builders of the present time are willing to surrender the absolute control of their works to the supervision and management of architects, particularly as such surrender carries with it that essential control over costs which is apt to determine the financial success or failure of a building enterprise. To some extent, the practice has recently obtained with leading builders of combining the two professional elements of architect and builder in the one organization. Not a few of our leading and active master builders have already begun to equip themselves with architectural qualifications. In future this practice is likely to be largely cultivated. As the profession of civil engineer is a modern and distinct outgrowth of the architectural profession in the execution of massive works, so, in future, we believe the architect-builder will be a permanent outgrowth of this same profession in the application of scientific principles to the erection of modern buildings, particularly of apartment buildings and dwelling houses. The profession of architect, pure and simple, will find its natural, legitimate and undisputed employment in the execution of private orders for the elaboration of costly and large buildings and public edifices. No just expectation could be indulged by builders of satisfactorily catering to the improved taste of house-buyers, without a complete infusion into every work of the best scientific principles and most chaste, artistic designs.

Esthetics of design and planning, not mechanics or dynamics must be the builders' chief study. Weight and strength of materials in ordinary house building are sufficiently understood by the commonest workmen, or are clearly defined by recognized building standards. The varying needs of a growing composite population must be taken into account and accommodated in the planning of modern buildings. No one is better qualified to deal with these demands than the builder himself when properly equipped as he comes in direct contact with purchasers, and is apt to learn from their criticisms the full extent of prevailing public necessities.

Merchant.—Another qualification is the ability to make good bargains. To this end the builder should be thoroughly imbued with the keenest and shrewdest mercantile spirit. From the beginning to the end of an undertaking the builder is called upon to deal with a multitude of mechanics and tradesmen, and to purchase a great variety of materials. To be careless or unbusiness like in any of these bargains involves the builder in a heavier outlay than the results of his venture will justify. Yet he is required to exercise a wise and subtle discrimination touching qualities as related to costs. The dearer article often proves a better purchase than the cheap one in its after effect upon the work in hand and the cheap article dear enough at any price. The secret of successful building might be measured by ability to procure land, labor and materials at the lowest prices. The policies, tactics and management involved in this accomplishment would fill a treatise, but the possession of it is like the compass to the mariner in steering to a safe haven.

There was a time when builders vied with each other in bestowing the utmost possible expense upon their productions, but this was found to be needlessly wasteful, extravagant and, in fact, gratuitous. The present frugal disposition of purchasers compels builders to adopt the most rigid economy and nicest calculation in the selection of materials and in the allotment of quantities.

Accountant.—It may seem superfluous to enjoin upon the members of any calling the necessity for keeping strict and accurate books of account. And yet, if the truth were known, it would be surprising to what extent the business of building has been carried on with an utter disregard of this essential requirement.

With a certain class of builders it has been a vaunting boast that they could predict the cost of their completed works in advance, and that they were able to carry in their unaided memories the actual details, as well as the sum total of expense. This lack of a proper accounting in building operations lies at the foundation of much of its non-success. The practice of selling products at an assumed cost or without reference to the actual cost, may have been harmless in the days when the rapid advance of real estate values not only indemnified the builder against loss, but also guaranteed him a liberal profit. As real estate operations are conducted to-day, this practice becomes an exceedingly risky one, often involving the builder in an unconscious loss, which he is only able to realize when, after a succession of really unprofitable jobs he finds that his assets are widely disproportioned to his liabilities, and is reluctantly compelled to confess his insolvency. Books of account are needed not only to define the total cost of a given production, but as a means of classifying and arranging the data of cost, that they may serve as guides in future transactions. Not only to insure solvency, but to define a proper, reasonable and adequate profit, and to furnish an intelligent insight into the details of his business, every builder should understand the theory, and if necessary be able to perform the duties of book-keeping, or else be willing to employ skilled assistance in this department. This system would guard the builder against the possibility of ignorantly demanding an excessive profit for his work, which would disqualify him from competing with other and more careful builders. The success or failure of this calling and the commercial standing of builders in the business community largely depend upon the adoption of mercantile systems of accounts.

Financier.—The ability to classify and arrange the accounts of building must be supplemented by a sufficient knowledge of the value and uses of money to enable the builder to map out his enterprise, and to arrange his finances so that by forethought and proper distribution, he may be able to carry it to a successful termination without pecuniary embarrassment. If all builders were endowed with inexhaustible bank accounts, financiering would be necessarily limited to the drawing of checks. But builders are rarely blessed with plethoric funds, and they are apt to start their enterprises with insufficient supplies of ready money, relying mainly upon the assistance of mortgages and such credit as may be extended to them. It becomes, therefore, of prime importance for them to be able to adjust the extremes of their enterprises to their financial capabilities. A comparatively small modicum of cash capital may be sufficient to carry a building operation to a successful conclusion, and if a prompt sale is effected the discharge and liquidation of indebtedness then becomes practically an easy matter. But without forethought, wise management and ready adaptation of means to the end in view, the well intentioned and honest builder may find himself inextricably involved in the midst of a transaction. The management of building finances is peculiar and difficult, especially as the builder is practically excluded from the benefits of bank accommodation. This consideration renders it all the more imperative that a builder should possess the requisite financial skill to enable him to make the best use of such means as he may have at command, to satisfy the reasonable necessities of contractors and mechanics, and still leave himself free from financial distraction. The reckless use of credit is a common source of mbarrassment, and the facility with which it is granted often leads the builder into serious difficulties. A wise building scheme will realize in ordinary times costs and a profit. Such a result at once puts the builder in the possession of ample means to satisfy his creditors. The problem of building finances, is to safely bridge over the period between the commencement of cash payments and the ultimate return of capital through sale or mortgage.

Salesman.—In the active and reliable market, which this city presents for salable products, it becomes a prime element of success that the builder himself should be a first-class negotiator or salesman. Unlike staple goods or daily necessities, that have fixed and determinable market values, and which buyers are rarely allowed or disposed to dispute, the price of a house is an arbitrary and inconstant quantity. It is no infrequent event for a row of similar houses to be sold at prices which vary considerably one with the other. This circumstance may be referable to the idiosyncrasies of buyers, and in a measure to the necessities of the builder's exchequer. An unwholesome tradition has been handed down from the days of abundant prosperity that builders were accustomed to load their prices with inordinate profits; and, after a sale was made, to swell the deed-price, or consideration expressed in conveyance, with an element of figmentary value. These deed-prices gave the public an incorrect and altogether unwarrantable impression of the values actually realized from sales. To this day the practice is almost universal with buyers of seeking to purchase at a large discount from the builder's asking price. This practice works a great hardship, particularly in stringent times, when the margin of attainable profit in building operations is quite inconsiderable. The time may arise in future, when, through the perfection and accuracy of business methods, builders may be able to establish a fixed or scarcely variable price for their productions. Some incredulous persons assert that this cannot be done, but that builders must stand ready to adapt themselves to the peculiar views of buyers in regard to prices.

As long as these variations in prices of building products are tolerated, it is easy to see that the order of salesmanship called for must be of the highest. The buying of a residence ordinarily occurs not more than once in a lifetime. At any rate, houses are generally bought with a view of long continued or permanent occupation; and, in this respect, it becomes no slight task to be able to suit a buyer with the particular appointments of a ready made house. After all captious and censorious objections are satisfied, and these are usually presented in great numbers, the pivotal point of the negotiation is presented in the agreement upon the purchase price and arrangement of the terms of sale. The unfitness of many builders for performing this office shows itself in personal traits of character. The uncouthness and arrogance of manner peculiar to the calling often crops out unfavorably in these negotiations. There was a time when a builder might peremptorily order off his premises any one who proposed an inadequate price, or when a builder could stand with watch in hand and exact from an intending but dilatory buyer an answer to a proposition within five minutes, or any other space of time; if such answer then failed to be forthcoming, to enforce the penalty of total refusal to sell to such purchaser at any price. Such peculiar tactics are entirely devoid of any merit in the art of salesmanship. The selling of houses, when undertaken by builders in person, calls for the exercise of great patience, candor and suavity. The acknowledged inaptness of many builders for the performance of this delicate task furnishes the most favorable opportunities for the exercise of the broker's prerogative. This intermediary usually assumes the labor and finesse of a negotiation between the refractory and obstinate builder and the volatile and captious purchaser, and when diligent and faithful fully earns his stipend.

In view of the ample supply of dwelling properties which the future is likely to produce, it behooves builders to interest themselves in the sale of their own houses, and in the cultivation of the manners, traits and qualities which belong to the successful salesman.

FAILURES.

That the business of speculative building has been lucrative in the past—in certain periods exceptionally so—is fully attested by the ample and comfortable fortunes once and in some cases still enjoyed by those who were conspicuously identified with it. But this statement must not blind our eyes to the fact that, in certain cases and under certain circumstance, it has been invariably and signally disastrous. This state of chronic misfortune, which seems unavoidably to inhere in certain phases of the business, suggests an investigation into the causes underlying it. That a disproportion of building schemes should result in insolvency, cannot but stamp the profession with disgrace in public estimation. We think, however, it will be found that there are special causes operating in many of these cases which are largely within the control of the builder himself, and are really amenable to public criticism and judgment. Of the causes which contribute to the nonsuccess of building undertakings we will enumerate a few.

Bad Locations.—Lack of judgment on the part of builders in selecting the site for their ventures is one of the prime causes of misfortune. There is probably no public in the world so fastidious as to locations, so sensitive to objectionable surroundings, as that of New York. The peculiar formation of the island compels all improvements to take one course—northward. No wonder that stables, public schools, breweries, foundries and private dwellings sometimes become unpleasantly mixed together. Any attempt to forestall the march of improvement by leaping over some intermediate vacant space—is sure to meet the condemnation of the public, as it assails the instinct of gregariousness, the love of neighborhood. Consequently, the speculative builder is forced to follow the sluggish growth of the city, keep close to the line of improvements, and exercise his finest abilities as surveyor and prospector in determining good and wholesome locations. As a rule, pioneering is hazardous and unprofitable, and the temerity of building in the midst of objectionable surroundings, even in older portions of the city, is sure to be visited with the severest penalties of misfortune. Sometimes nuisances and offences intrude themselves into a locality after a builder has begun his operations, destroying his chance of profit or involving him in actual loss. In the house building quarters of the future, where business is not likely to invade until a very remote period, if ever, it is to be hoped that lot owners will combine together, and impose wholesome restrictions and building covenants upon land, such as will create desirable residence neighborhoods, and relieve the building business of a constant menace and serious source of loss.

Faulty Constructions.—This item embraces two classes of construction. A good house in a poor location is almost sure to produce unsatisfactory pecuniary results, whereas a poor house in a good location may prove an unexpected and disproportioned success. Location determines everything in this city. The utmost skill, judgment and discrimination are called for to properly adapt style and cost of construction to location. Another fault of construction is the building of an unwisely good house or an unwisely poor house, even in locations which may seem to warrant and call for them. To whatever extent the standard of construction deflects from the accepted medium line of suitability to a given locality so far is the builder's interest imperiled. For instance, a few builders are still wedded, even in these hard times, to foolish extravagance in construction, such as unnecessarily elaborating the various parts of a house, carrying their style and cost beyond the standard of public requirements, and the ability or willingness of the public to pay price in return for them. This gratuitous and superfluous adornment of the city becomes a direct charge upon the builder's capital, and is sure to entail upon him uncomfortable loss. On the other hand, reduction of the standard of finish below what is meet and proper in a good location is also apt to react unfavorably upon the builder's interest. The public have become so discriminating with regard to the characteristics of good building, that an inferior job is apt to be detected and avoided. Mere cheapness, without relative merit, is the most dangerous staple to speculate in, as it is likely to fail of any return. It is difficult to assign the mean standard at which speculative building may be safely maintained. The study of this problem becomes one of the most difficult that besets the builder's career. The solution of it depends upon an intimate acquaintance with the wants of buyers, and the practices of families in the use of dwellings. The most successful builders, as a rule, are those who have studied these wants so closely as to be able to provide for them in a structure of average elegance, undoubted substantiality and thoroughly acceptable planning, features which are valued in inverse order to their statement here.

Improper Bonuses.—The most fruitful cause of disaster is the practice, which is indulged in by certain builders, of paying unwarrantable bonuses for the use of money and for certain services, which they ought to be able to command at moderate rates. Under the impression that building is a speculation of invariable success and productive of exorbitant profits, money lenders have grown to believe that they were warranted in making the most extortionate and outrageous demands upon builders. Whether these bonuses take the shape of excessive prices for land, or whether they are extracted from the builder under some specious device for evading the usury law, in either case they become equally ruinous and predetermine failure. The extra percentages often paid by builders for brokerage on sales, commission on loans and architect's fee, also constitute a severe drain upon his prospective profits. The legal expenses in procuring loans and excessive charges for fire insurance are items which are often allowed to unnecessarily burden a building job. There are fixed, established, legitimate charges for all such services which a builder can ordinarily afford to pay—it is the fraudulent excess when acceded to that demoralizes and destroys the builder's chances of success. To submit to these unlawful and unwarrantable exactions, implies unmercantile or dishonest proclivities on the builder's part. It is idle for any one to seek success in a close, tedious and laborious occupation, like building, when handicapped by so many fatal drawbacks and disadvantages.

Builders must be impressed with the truth, that nothing but strictest economy in expenditures will insure profit in their work, and successful competition with fellow-builders. During the present stringency of the times it is imprudent and absurd to suppose that heavy bonuses and extra percentages can be extorted from or paid by a builder except at the sacrifice of his profit or capital or both, and, in the end, to the serious detriment of some of his coadjutors in the work.

MINING.

The past week has developed quite an excitement in mining stocks, and the transactions on the New York Mining Exchange were larger than they have ever been before. In fact, as the business of the New York Stock Exchange is apparently coming to a stand still, the attention of speculators appears to be directed to mining stocks with a view to obtaining the dividends that railroad properties are failing to earn. This is the more apparent when reports from the conservative city of Boston show that during the past three months over a million and half of dollars has been invested in mining property. In consequence of the show of business now transacted, the seats in the Mining Exchange have risen in value over 300 per cent., as offers of $350 are made without finding any for sale, and in the New York Stock Exchange seats that were worth $6,000 some few months ago are now rated at about $4,000. The members of the Mining Exchange may be congratulated on the success they have achieved, which is mainly due to the careful manner in which the committee investigate all properties that are listed in their board. There are now quite a number of new mines that will soon be actively dealt in, such as the Idaho and Kearsage, of Utah, and the Polar Star of Colorado. The latter is now paying a dividend of one per cent. a month to its stockholders. The latest reports from California speak very favorably of the prospects of the Bonanza mines, and say they will pay a dividend of two per cent. next month. The Idaho Mine has declared a dividend of $7.50 per share. The Ontario Mine, of Utah, has declared its regular monthly dividend of $50,000, and a supplementary dividend of $50,000, making in all $1,000,000 in dividends paid by this company in eleven months. The American Consolidated Gold & Silver Mining Company has declared its regular monthly dividend of one per cent. on the capital stock, payable at the company's offices on and after February 11.

The main speculation this week has been in the cheap stocks, such as Bertha and Edith, Lacrosse and American Flag. On Monday 16,000 shares of Bertha and Edith and 13,000 shares of Lacrosse changed hands. During the week Bertha and Edith has varied between ten and twenty cents per share, and Lacrosse between forty and seventy-five cents per share. There has been a slight decline in Kings Mountain, but the brokers manipulating that stock are showing good judgment in not marking it up to a price at which the public will not take it. Notwithstanding the dividends declared by American Consolidated, the stock has been in no demand at 10¼, the price at which it appears to be held. Seaton has steadily improved under purchases of small lots, and New York and Colorado has also a more healthy appearance. There was considerable desire exhibited to speculate in California stocks, and there is no doubt the business of the Exchange would be doubled if some bank was only established that would loan on mining securities. Ontario was quite strong during the week, selling as high as 31¾. The following is a record of the prices during the past week:

	Opening	Highest	Lowest	Closing

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

Transactions during the week were without significance. On Tuesday last, the monotony of foreclosure sales was broken by the offering at an executor's sale of property situated on Lexington avenue, Norfolk street, Eighteenth, Thirty-ninth and Fifty-third streets. The prices realized were unsatisfactory and it is reported that but one parcel was actually sold.

Since our last report, the following contracts of sale have been entered into: Messrs. Lynd have sold to T. F. Jeremiah the four-story brown house with lot (20x70x100), for $33,000. The Messrs. Lynd have also bought the four lots, situated on the north side of Fifty-fourth street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, at $16,000 each with a building loan, and Arnold Freidman has sold to Madame Demorest the house and lot known as No. 21 East Fifty-seventh street (23x60x35x100), for $45,000. A written contract has been filed with the Register for the sale of the four-story house with lot, situated on the north side of Seventy-fifth street, 65 feet east of Madison avenue (20x81.10), for $16,500.

Only twelve plans, embracing fifteen buildings, none of which are first-class dwellings, were filed with the Superintendent of the Department of Buildings. The estimated cost of the whole number is $66,300. Included in this amount is an estimate of $30,000 for the erection of a stable by J. A. Bostwick, now building at the corner of Fifth avenue and Sixty-first street.

The following are the sales at the Exchange Sales room for the week ending Feb. 7:

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—Common Hards neither gain nor lose much on the general situation of the market. Following our last report a few additional arrivals took place, and by hunting up customers here and there most of these were disposed of at about former rates, and with the market bare the "talk" was a little firmer. The condition of the river, too, was favorable to sellers, but was not of much aid, with no demand prevailing. Business, in fact, fails to show the least encouraging symptoms as yet, and dealers commence to feel some anxiety about the spring trade. A great many pretty good sized piles of stock remain in the hands of jobbers who can sell at even about present rates and secure a margin, and as yet there is a probability that they may hold out up to pretty near new crop. Scarcely any contracts of importance have thus far been reported as closed, and it looks very much as if consumers were again intending to hold off until forced to purchase, and then only on the hand to mouth policy. On a pinch supplies can be reached also outside the accumulation on the line of the Hudson, as shown by the occasional cargoes dropping in from Long Island, even with the market in its present condition. Pales are scarce, and on price are relatively stronger than any other style of stock. From jobbing dealers' hands the distribution of stock is irregular, and seldom reaches any very large quantity, while competion is pretty strong and cost has to be figured comparatively low in order to secure custom.

We quote Pale, ℔ M., $3.00@—; Hards, Up-rivers, nominal; Haverstraw bay, $5.00@5.75; favorite brands, $6.00@——; Fronts, Croton—brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $23@27; Baltimore, $34@38.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5 00@6.00 on fronts.

GLASS.—There is a moderate and somewhat uncertain trade doing, but allowing for the rather sanguine temperament, which seems to be a characteristic of all dealers in this commodity, the outlook is rather more promising. Local wants are to a large extent satisfied on the hand to mouth policy, which prevents purchases much beyond immediate necessities, but advices from the country indicate small stocks, with a probability that many must be replenished at an early day. The tariff question has no immediate influence, as, should any bill at all be passed, it is likely to be materially changed in form, and not go into effect for some time to come. Expressions of opinion among exporters favor a reduction of duty, while home manufacturers are to some extent indifferent, as they feel confidence in the ability of the domestic product to continue a strong competitor with the foreign article.

HARDWARE.—The local call is moderate and uncertain, most buyers appearing to want only small invoices for early requirements. Out of town demand also does not develop freely, and generally the market has a dull tone. Values, however, are held steadily on the former line, and most of the lists and discounts already issued are adhered to pretty closely, the seller having figured the margin down about as close as it will bear. The Clark & Co. new list of discounts is as follows: Door butts, paneled, loose pin, drilled, 66⅔ and 10 per cent; do do do, japanned, 70 and 10 per cent; do do do do, nickel-plated, 65 and 10 per cent; blind hinges, surface, Nos. 1, 3, 5, 40 and 50, 70 per cent; do do, No 20, 75 per cent; do mortise, Nos. 2, 4, 4½, 6, 8 and 10, 60 per cent; shutter hinges, mortise, improved, Nos. 3, 2½, 2, 1½, 1 and 0, 70 per cent; gate hinges, Nos. 1, 2 and 3, with latches, complete, by the case, 50 per cent; gate latches, reversible, No. 1, by the case, 50 per cent; thumb and door latches, by the case, 50 per cent; window pulleys, Nos. 10, 20, 30, 40 and 60, by the case, 20 and 10 per cent; do, boxwood wheel, No. 50, by the case, 20 and 10 per cent; sash locks and bolts, by the gross, 45 per cent; hooks, wardrobe, coat, hat, harness and school house, 45 per cent; sash cord irons, packed, 2 gross in a paper box, 33⅓ per cent. A. Field & Sons make the following changes in price list: Copper tacks, 6 oz, or ½ in and upward, per lb, 58c; copper finished nails, per lb, 58 cents; leathered carpet tacks, full count, per doz gross, 6 oz, 30c; 8 oz, 30c; 10 oz, 30c; leathered carpet tacks, 100 in paper, per doz papers, 6 oz, 25c; 8 oz, 25c; 10 oz, 25c. The Trenton solid wrought anvil is offered at 10½c per lb currency. The O. Ames & Son's Corporation have made a reduction on goods of their own brand to discount of 32½ per cent, and on all other goods 37½ per cent.

LATH.—The consumptive demand does not improve and the stocks of jobbers, be they large or small, work down very slowly, so that it is probable even a fresh offering would not find a quick exhaust. Receivers, however, appear very confident that the market really wants a considerable amount of stock, and continue to indulge in predictions of the high figures to be obtained. Predictions, however, do not make market values, and in the absence of sales the position remains simply nominal.

LIME.—Dull and nominally unchanged, continues to cover the entire situation. In fact, we hear of no wholesale business beyond the sales from the State stock for southern shipment before referred to, and there is not much of a market even for this naturally dull season. Most retailers are moving only small lots on calls for immediate consumption and at somewhat irregular rates.

LUMBER. — The position of affairs on the general market remains rather stupid, and we have little or nothing of interest to record for the week. The local demand in particular drags along slowly, and the judgment of the dealers in piling away comparatively moderate stocks was apparently well directed. Building operations progress slowly, and consume unusually small amounts even for the season; manufacturing industries are conducted with great caution, and in a large number of cases are still drawing upon supplies previously accumulated. The same remarks will apply to box making, which has been slow and uncertain consequent upon the limited movement of general merchandise. The export business is somewhat uncertain, with a general appearance of dullness. Shippers say they receive no encouragement from abroad to send out anything beyond the ordinary parcels taken as dunnage or to fill up surplus, and consequently cheap freight room, and only a small show of interest is made, yet, on the other hand, we hear a belief expressed that some good-sized foreign orders are in hand, but held back in hopes of better terms. For direct shipment from points of production, especially south, fair sales are now and then made.

Eastern Spruce is without any regular market so far as randoms are concerned, in view of the continued absence of supplies calculated to give matters a trial. Some stock is wanted, however, we hear, and on attractive quality, it is believed, a pretty full figure could be obtained. Negotiations for specials against the reopening of the season proceed slowly, as buyers and sellers are rather wide apart in their views, and we understand the terms offered are frequently on rather too long "time." We quote at $13 @14 for random, possibly $14.25@14.50 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $14@15.50 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White Pine shows little or no change. A few calls are made for shipment, some of fair magnitude, and a limited distribution takes place for home consumption, but business is not brisk, and former rates cover all that can be realized. We quote at $15@17 per M for West India shipping boards; $19.50@20.50 for South American do; $15@16 for box boards; $17 for do, wide and sound; and timber at $16@18 per M.

Yellow Pine is steady on all good stock and in fair demand. Randoms could not be brought upon the market and disposed of to any advantage unless showing unusual attractions, but dealers continue to secure contracts on special bills both for domestic and foreign account and obtain former rates. We quote random cargoes at $19@22 per M; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do; green flooring boards, $21@23 do; and dry do do, $23@24. Cargoes at the South, $14@16.50 per M; hewn timber, $7.50@14.

Hardwoods are dull beyond a small distribution in jobbing lots from dealers hands and a little nominal in a wholesale way. A belief is entertained that a very fair foreign trade could be built up at this port were it not for the exacting freight charges from the interior, which entirely cut off any margin for profit. We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $77@85 ℔ M; ash, $33@36 do; oak, $35@40 do; maple, $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d $30@35; do. do., culls, $18@20 do; cherry, $45 @75 do.; white wood, ½ and ⅝ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $33@35 do.; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $40@50 for good near by stock.

Yard business is about as before, a few small orders daily, now and then a little hurry, but no real activity or expansion of trade, and few encouraging indications. Prices quoted on former range, and nominally steady.

In our issue of Jan. 26th we called attention to the fact that the Minneapolis Lumberman and Manufacturer had credited the Manufacturer and Builder with editorial matter which was simply "scissors and paste" from our lumber report of Dec. 22, 1877. As we expected the Lumberman and Manufacturer shows a clean hand in the matter as follows:

"We copied the article referred to from page 17 of the January number of The Manufacturer and Builder, and as it bore all the ear-marks of original editorial, we gave full credit for the same to that publication. Our attention being called to it by the above, we have referred to THE RECORD of Dec. 22, and find in its lumber review the same article, 'word for word.' We leave with the editors of THE RECORD and The Manufacturer and Builder, respectively, the task of determining who has 'been a little careless in giving credit to whom credit is due,' or who has 'been indulging in a quiet little steal.'"

We owe The Lumberman and Manufacturer a word of apology for our query as to possible carelessness in giving credit, but only did so because at the time of writing our copy of the journal through which it was misled, was missing, and we lacked time to hunt up another. As the matter now stands The Manufacturer and Builder has the privilege of the floor, though peccavi, would seem to be about a fair limit of explanation.

STILL ANOTHER.—In the Shipping and Commercial List, of this city, under date of Feb. 2d, 1878, there is printed a detailed statement of the exports of lumber, etc., for the year 1877. We can endorse the figures as perfectly correct, as they were carefully compiled by our own reporters and printed in connection with our yearly review in THE REAL ESTATE RECORD of Jan. 5, 1878, to which no credit is given by the journal aforesaid. Why is this thus? Selah.

Some of the principal lumber charters of late concluded are as follows: A Br. ship, 1047 tons, from Doboy to a direct port in United Kingdom, timber, 35s 6d for hewn, and £5 for sawn; a schr., 183 tons, hence to Jacksonville, general cargo, terms private, and back with lumber, $6.50; a schr., 180, and one 200 M lumber, from Jacksonville to New York, $6.50; a schr., 317 tons, hence to Savannah, Phosphates, $1.87½, and back, lumber $5, and timber $6; a schr., 350 M lumber, from Pensacola to New York, $7; a schr., 225 M lumber, from Jacksonville to New York, $6.50; a schr., 364 tons, from Cedar Keys, mast sticks $11 ℔ M, and cedar 8c. ℔ foot.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Lumberman and Manufacturer has the following items:

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., January 31, 1877.

The market has been firm at full rates, with a perceptible feeling on the part of sellers that it would be about as safe to hold as to sell, and a corresponding wish to secure stocks on the part of retail men; but both parties are warily watching each other and the weather, and each concede that providence will adjust prices soon by sending snow to keep them down or warm weather to put them up. Advices from the length of the northwestern pine States show but little change in the situation with the log men who are doing comparatively little in the woods, but who are very busy preparing for a grand onset if sufficient snow comes. It is hardly safe now to predict anything in reference to the cut of logs anywhere, as it is impossible to measure the ability of the craft to put in logs, even if their only data to determine the time they will get to do the work in on snow. We see no reason to change the opinion expressed last week, that there is yet time enough to get plenty of logs in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota to supply the demand for lumber, although it might bear hard upon certain points and take trade into divers new channels, in order to distribute the crop, when it will be taken at the advanced rate consequent upon the shortage.

LUMBER GRADING.

Inasmuch as the subject of lumber grading is under general discussion at this time, and the advantage of a uniform system of sorting and names being universally conceded, we recall the very natural and simple plan proposed and discussed at the last meeting of the Lumbermen's National Association, where it found favor among the most experienced present, among whom we mention A. Van Schaick, of Chicago, and J. S. Estabrook, of Saginaw.

The plan, in brief, was for the wholesale man to sort into nine grades of lumber, namely: First clear, second clear, third clear, first select, second select, third select, first common, second common, third common.

These grades would seem to be so easily understood by every body that no education in the system would be needed by any lumberman, and, if once adopted, would do away with the confusion, and all the annoyances and misunderstandings which harass both wholesale and retail men. The plan admits of all the varieties of lumber now made boards, strips and dimension of each width and length can all be divided into the nine kinds. The quality of the board being fixed, the short name given it in the scale at once determines its value on the market, while the small number of kinds admits of very definite distinction or description of each kind. We solicit opinions from our readers on this important subject. Everyone should be willing to assist in putting the business on a plain and simple basis.

THE LACK OF SNOW.

The effect of the long continued warm weather and lack of snow on the log crop is now the chief topic among lumbermen all over the country. Many experienced loggers differ widely on the subject, some contending, on the "bear" side, that we will yet get too many logs, and others are equally sure there will be none at all, while others are willing to take any middle ground on the subject. It is either all or none, and the strangest part of the matter is that the opinions of these parties generally lin in the line of their own interests. The man who is not cutting any logs, but has a stock on hand, has about the most accurate opinions and the clearest proofs to back him up, of any of the many from whom The Lumberman gets its opinions and information. However, as the first of February is reached, and the time is so close at hand when there will be no room for dispute, there is a weakening of the faith in a large supply of logs for 1878.

Our best posted lumbermen estimate that up to the present date not over 20 per cent. of the original estimate (190,000,000) has been banked. The quality of the logs cut and banked is far from proving generally first class.

THE PROVINCES.

The St. John (N. B.) Daily Telegraph contains the following:

The lumber exports for the month were not large, although quite as large as was to be expected at this season of the year. The following table shows the exports of deals and ends, and boards and scantling shipped from St. John, during the month of January, 1878, with the places to which the same were exported:

	Deals and Ends.	Boards and Scantling.
Ireland	800,498 sup. ft.
Barrow	560,096 "
United States		125,779 sup. ft.
British West Indies		168,097 "
Totals	1,360,594 sup ft.	293,876 sup. ft.

The following table shows the exports of shooks, shingles and pickets from the port of St. John during the month of January, 1878, showing the places to which the same were exported:

	Shooks.	Shingles.	Pickets.
Cuba	39,911
United States		976,500
Barrow			7,000

It may be worthy of remark that the deal shipments for January were smaller this year than either in 1877 or 1876, the shipments for January, 1877, being 1,655,823 feet, and for January, 1876, 1,903,914 feet.

FOREIGN.

Mail advices at hand from Rio Janeiro report as follows:

Pitch Pine Deals.—The cargo of 260,317 feet per Shasta, noticed in our last, was sold at 38$000 per dozen. Since then three cargoes have arrived almost simultaneously which enabled the consumers to exact a reduction in prices, and the three cargoes were sold as follows: 223,750 feet ex Tuck Sing, slightly damaged, 36$000, 204,749 feet ex Annie, and 224,065 feet ex Monsita, both at 36$500.

If the other cargoes, known to be on the way, do not all together, we believe 37$800 per dozen 3x9x14 will be obtainable for them.

White Pine Lumber.—The arrivals consist of 24,000 feet per Gamaliel, from Baltimore, sold at 102 reis per foot (an abatement being subsequently made for damage); 31,362 feet per Manson, from Philadelphia, sold at 100 reis; 101,191 feet per J. H. Chadwick, from New York, only partly sold yet; 44,712 feet, per Curtis Tilton, from Philadelphia, sold at 95 reis; and 62,760 feet per Havana, from New York, sold at 95 reis per foot. As there are considerable quantities on the way, our market closes very weak, with a downward tendency in prices.

The London Timber Trade Journal has an exhaustive review of the timber business of the United Kingdom for the year 1877. We have not room for the entire report, but make extracts as follows:

Referring to the receipts as reported by Board of Trade.

Of British North America also no great complaint can be made, because the timber from those regions is getting more and more into favor, and if there were not a serious difference of freight—something like half, on an average, in favor of Northern Europe, the Canadian timber trade would soon become more remunerative to the shipper. The comparative figures for the two years are as follows:

From British North America—
1876—Hewn timber	470,949	loads.
Sawn, &c	1,107,437	"
	1,578,296	"
1877—Hewn timber	485,720	loads.
Sawn, &c	1,256,212	"
	1,741,932	"
Deduct for 1876	1,578,296	"
Increase in 1877	163,636	"

or about 9 per cent.

From the report on the London market:

The quantity of deals and battens from foreign countries remaining in our docks at the close of 1877 as compared with 1876 is something almost alarming, had we not the evidence of the Board of Trade returns of the gross importation of the year to reassure us. At the end of 1876 the quantity of foreign deals, battens, &c., here was estimated at 6,763,000 pieces, in 1877 at 12,637,000, or nearly double numerically, most of which surplus is assignable to the endeavor to get forward as much Russian produce as could be shipped during the season, either by shippers on the chance of a market, or by direct orders from this side to provide against not improbable contingencies ere another season came round, which must, therefore, be regarded as exceptional, and should the peace not be broken with that country, Russian goods may be presumed to be offered on very reasonable terms in the home market ere the next season begins.

With regard to what is now doing, we refer our readers to our sale reports, by which they will make out that with regard to prices and prospects nothing is so certain as uncertainty. At the first sale of the year, some Richibucto yellow pine deals, 3x9 to 17 inches, fetched only £6 15s. per Petersburgh standard, but a lot of Soderham, mixed, 3x9, went to £17 10s. Then again, some mixed Uleaborg were sold at £9 10s., and two lots of Sandviken thirds fetched £4 a standard more. No square timber reached the import price. Second middling Memel timber, which did not go higher than 62s., was at least 8s. to 10s. per load less than it was brought into port for, and landed ex ship; and full-sized Sundswall at 47s. 6d. was a poor return for the money invested in it.

Liverpool as follows:

Speaking generally of the quotations in this market for the past year, they have shown great uniformity: and when fluctuations have occurred they have been chiefly confined to some special description, and have not affected the tone of the market as a whole.

Large as was the import of 1876, it has been surpassed by that of 1877, and the tonage employed in bringing entire cargoes to this port has reached in round numbers 530,000 tons, showing an increase of about 10,000 tons over last year.

Of this aggregate we find that the tonnage employed in the Canadian ports, i. e., Quebec, &c., stands the highest, being 153,000 tons; from St. John, N. B., 93,000 tons; from the Gulf ports, 130,000 tons; from the pitch pine ports, 76,000 tons, and from the Baltic ports, 86,000.

Glasgow as follows:

From the statistics of wood goods imported into Clyde during 1877, a great excess over preceding years is observable, and the stocks now on hand are the largest that have yet been recorded.

Notwithstanding the long continued strike of the ship carpenters, joiners, and iron workers at the various shipping ports of the Clyde there can be no doubt that a considerable consumption has taken place throughout the country, showing that had it not been for this disastrous strike the expectations of importers in the early part of the year would not have proved so fallacious.

It has been generally experienced, however, that dealings by the trade have not been remunerative, the great complaint being the unprofitableness of nearly all transactions, even when managed with the closest attention and economy—indicating continued keen competition. But the fact that this state of things exists more or less in almost every department of trade, may mitigate somewhat the pressure in this particular.

Taking an average of the five preceding years, the imports of 1877 and stocks on hand at close of the year compare as follows:

Qnebec	1877.
Pine Timb.	Import, 107,800 logs.	Inc. 39,000 logs.
	Stock shows an inc. of 36,000 loads.
Oak	Import, 10,200 logs.	Inc. 3,000 logs.
	Stock shows an inc. of 4,000 loads.
Elm	Import, 8,400 logs.	Inc. 4,400 logs.
	Stock shows an inc. of 3,250 loads.
Ash	Import, 1,758 logs.	Inc. 800 logs.
	Stock shows an inc. of 770 loads.
Birch, all sorts	Import, 8,900 logs.	Inc. 400 logs.
	Stock shows a decrease of 120 loads.
Deals and Battens, &c.	Import, 2,433,000 pcs.	Inc. 1,056,000 pcs
	Stock shows an inc. of 410,000 pcs.

METALS—COPPER.—Ingot has shown moderate activity only, but the stock is well together, owners confident and the tone well maintained. We quote at 17½@17¾c. for Lake. Manufactured is in fair average demand and about steady all around. We quote as follows: Brazier's Copper, ordinary sizes, over 16 oz., per square foot, 26c. per lb; do. do., do. do., 16 oz. and over 12 oz. per square foot, 30c. per lb.; do. do., 10 and 12 oz. per square foot, 32c. per lb.; do. do., lighter than 10 oz., per square foot, 34c. per lb.; circles, less than 84 inches in diameter, 31c. per lb.; do. 84 inches diameter and over, 34c. per lb.; segment and pattern sheets, 31c. per lb.; locomotive fire box sheets, 28c. per lb.: Sheathing Copper, over 12 oz., per square foot, 26c. per lb., and Bolt Copper 28c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig sells along slowly in small jobbing parcels and without new features or important change in value. Quoted at about $23@26.50 per ton, according to quantity and brand. American Pig has been quite dull and much irregularity was shown on cost, with the advantage mainly in buyer's favor, though on the general range about former rates were current. We quote at $18@20 for No. 1 per ton, $17@19 for No. 2 do., and $16@18 for Forge. Rails have found a good demand especially steel at full former rates. We quote at $31@35 for new iron, and $40@43 for Steel at the mills. Old Rails, $18@19.50 per ton; scrap, $22@23; the latter slow. Manufactured iron in rather light demand but held firmly as a rule. Common Merchant Bar can be had in round lots at 1.7c. and Refined at 1.9c., but for ten-ton lots from store, 1.9c. and 2.1c. are respectively insisted upon. Common sheet, 3c., and best R. G. American, 4c. from store. LEAD—Domestic pig has continued quite slow and rather weak on price, with plenty of stock available. We quote at about 4@4¼c. currency. The manufacturers of lead are quoted: Bar, 6c.; Pipe, 6¼c., and Sheet, 6¾c. —less the usual discount to the trade; and Tin-lined Pipe, 15c. Block Tin Pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig has been under neglect with values irregular and somewhat nominal. We quote at 17¼@17½c. for Banca, 14¾@15c. for Straits, 14¾@15c. for English Refined, and 14¾@14¾c. for do. common. Tin Plates selling slowly and the tone on prices generally quite tame. Spelter selling slowly with the advantage slightly in buyer's favor. Quoted at 5¾@5¾c. Sheet Zinc dull and the tone rather tame all around. We quote at 7½@7¾c. gold for foreign and 6¾@7c. currency for domestic.

NAILS.—The demand is only moderately active and is in the main confined to special orders for shipment. Local consumption in particular is slow. The stocks are not large, and with a small production dealers remain pretty steady in their views. Prices are based upon $2.40 for 10d. to 60d

OILS.—The operations are confined to ordinary trade movements against which a fair amount of stock is available, and sellers mostly willing to accept former rates, but not anxious enough to make any important concessions. Linseed oil is quoted at 62@65c. from crusher's hands.

PAINTS.—Buyers are not very plenty and the distribution is made principally in small irregular lots. Dealers, however, claim to be securing a gradual gain in the volume of their sales and to realize full former rates on all standard goods.

PITCH.—The market has been rather dull and without many encouraging features for early improvement. About former rates are asked but desirable customers occasionally receive favors. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½ for city, delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTIFE.—Care is still shown on most orders, with a view of keeping operations on the limit of actual and early necessities, but the tone of the market is firm and offerings small, a speculative movement having concentrated stock, and advanced cost. We quote at 33@35c. as to quantity of stock handled.

STONE.—A correspondent of one of our leading commercial dailies writes as follows, respecting the tariff on marble: "The proposed tariff on marble in the block (as excavated from the quarries), is seventy cents a cubic foot, which is equal to 68 per cent. ad valorem, which rate upon a raw material stands per se, in oppressive legislation, much higher even than fabricated luxuries; while the proposed tariff on sawed, dressed or polished slabs of the same marble, is only 30 per cent. ad valorem under two inches thick; over two inches, 35 per cent. ad valorem. Under this incongrous tariff, if it prevails, the raw material, furnishing employment to many thousand sawyers, mechanics and laborers, is strictly prohibted and all manufacturing transferred to Italy."

TAR.—Stocks continue ample, both on quantity and assortment for all wants and are parted with readily on full bids. The demand only moderately active and in the main of a jobbing character. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½ for Newberne and Washington, and $2.25@2.50 for Wilmington.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

NOTE.—In our last issue appeared a record of judgment for $868 in favor of W. L. Shine against Michael Curley. The fact is, Mr. Curley obtained a judgment for that amount in the Marine Court against Mr. Shine, and owing to a mistake made in filling out the transcript in the Marine Court Clerk's office, which was subsequently filed in the County Clerk's office, Mr. Curley appears on the docket to be the judgment debtor, whereas in fact, he is the judgment creditor.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PLAIN AND ENCAUSTIC TILES.

We direct the attention of our readers to the advertisement which appears in another column of Messrs. T. & R. Boote's Patent Encaustic and Plain Flooring Tiles, Waterloo Potteries, Burslem, Staffordshire, England: represented in the United States of America by Mr. Edward Boote, No. 47 Barclay street, New York. The tiles manufactured by this firm, have maintained their great reputation after many years of competitive trials by every carefully selected test, and are worthy of commendation. The designs are specially selected, the equality of surface, brilliancy, permancy of color and uniformity of size give evidence of their general perfection. Durability is justly claimed as an originality in the process of manufacture, which is known only to this old established firm. The high standard of excellence and undoubted superiority of these Tiles should always receive the appreciation of the American public.

In New York and vicinity can be seen some splendid specimens of Encaustic Tiling, and the firm invite, with pride, attention to the Tiles of their manufacture in use in The Museum of Natural History, Central Park, corner of Seventy-fourth street and Eighth avenue. In this museum can be seen the largest amount of Encaustic Tiling ever placed in any one building in the United States, covering an area of 45,000 square feet. Mr. Boote requests all who are interested to visit him at his office and warerooms, No. 47 Barclay street, where designs and estimates will be promptly and cheerfully furnished.

Insure your plate glass at the "Lloyd's" No. 113 Broadway. The underwriters have combined assets of over $750,000. They insure plate glass windows and doors against breakage by accident. Good security. Prompt payment of losses. Low rates.

Mr. Baker, of New York, has introduced a bill in the Assembly extending the jurisdiction of the Department of Parks over all streets north of One Hundred and Forty-fifth st. At present its control is limited to streets north of One Hundred and Fifty-fifth st ... Senator Jacobs' bill recently introduced into the Senate repeals the act of 1875, which provided that at any time within two years the purchaser at a sale for taxes and assessments will be compelled to release the property so purchased on repayment of the amount bid with ten per cent. interest....In the "Repavement bill" now before the Committee of Cities, objections have been urged on the ground that it provides for the ordering of repavements on simple petition and that the clause confirming "all contracts and proceedings of any of the executive departments of the City of New York pertaining to the repavement of streets that were entered upon prior to Jan. 1, 1877," will validate thousands of illegal jobs and swindles which have been thrown out of the various courts, and the Comptroller makes the objection that there is no sufficient provision touching the expenditures to be incurred....Mr. Astor's Ornamental Iron Telegraph Pole bill has been reported to the Assembly....The following table exhibits the assessed valuation of real and personal estate, the rate of tax, and the amount of taxes levied in each year from 1872 to 1877, inclusive:

THE WINTER REVIEW.

General Remarks.—The winter season is ordinarily a period of enforced idleness and dulness in the markets of real estate. House-seekers usually supply their wants, either in the way of hiring or buying, during the early fall, and climatic conditions impose an insuperable restraint upon all out-door operations connected with building. Even the negotiation of mortgage loans is apt to dwindle to an exceedingly small volume during this season, the bulk of these transactions being consummated in the spring and fall. The exceptional climatic conditions of the present season, though highly favorable to the prosecution of out-door work, have wrought no exception to the established rule. Advantage has been taken of the mild, open winter to hurry forward the completion of work previously commenced, but the number of new projections has been quite insignificant and entirely disproportioned to the favorable opportunities which the season has presented. From the opening of the building season in the spring of 1877 until the early fall there were plentiful indications of a wholesome and substantial revival of the best real estate interests. These signs abounded in all the various departments of real estate activity, and were represented not only in varied and extensive projections by builders, but in such a liberal response from the public in the way of purchasing, that foundation was afforded for strong hopes of a complete rehabilitation of the real estate market.

These favorable auguries, however, were doomed to be speedily and suddenly blighted. With the reassembling of Congress in the fall, the early agitation of the currency and tariff questions had the effect of unsettling business calculations, and the tremor of uncertainty and timidity was quickly communicated to the sensitive purchasers of real estate. Though buyers still continued to present themselves, their minds seemed to be pervaded with such uneasiness and indefiniteness with regard to values, that it became difficult to elicit offers for property at all in accord with builders' expectations. Consequently, the past season has witnessed a very marked cessation or rather suspension of the buying demand, as well as a considerable curtailment of building projection. It is idle to expect a true and lasting revival in so stolid an interest as real estate, while two such delicate subjects as the currency and the tariff continue to be periodically tampered with by Congress.

The physical and local conditions present in the real estate market were never more favorable for a permanent and healthy revival of legitimate interests than at the present time. All speculative characteristics have entirely departed, and the speculators of the last great period have almost to a man been relieved of their unmanagable burdens of heavily mortgaged vacant property by foreclosure sales, and the mortgagees, who have so unwillingly assumed these burdens are quite ready and eager to be relieved in turn, even at the low prices which have lately been established as the ruling ones.

No more inviting opportunity than the present can be expected in the future history of this city for embarking in sound enterprises connected with real estate. In all but the most exclusive and fashionable localities, land can be bought for money almost at the purchaser's valuation, or, at any rate, on terms quite below intrinsic value. Labor and materials are offered in the most abundant supply, at prices closely approximating, if not really ranging below ante-war standards. At the same time there is manifest a very wide spread and sincere disposition to purchase eligible residence property as well as sound investment property, provided values can be clearly and authoritatively fixed and established, and the chance of further depreciation can be averted. It may be confidently stated of the real estate interests of this city that they have swung quite clear of the general entanglement of disaster, and can be hereafter affected only by the action of specific causes, such as unfavorable financial and fiscal legislation or the failure of rapid transit schemes. There can, however, be no hearty or reliable revival of this interest until the politicians can be prevailed upon to take their unholy hands off vital subjects like the currency and the tariff. It is possible that the business interests of this country may be able to adapt themselves to almost any unit of value, if one could only be permanently established with a reasonable prospect of prolonged maintenance—whether that unit be gold, silver, nickel or pewter. As we have heretofore accommodated ourselves to a standard of paper money, it might be assumed that we would be able to adapt ourselves also to a currency of clam shells. But if this standard of currency is changed and exchanged, tampered and pottered with, it will require no prophet or political economist to come from abroad to tell us that business transactions will be clogged with difficulties, and in all likelihood result in chronic disaster. Even if we are destined to be compelled to adapt our commercial dealings to the standard of a debased silver dollar, it will probably be more wholesome for the general interests of the public to have this conclusion established as a finality, rather than to compel business men to grope their way from year to year in darkness and uncertainty. Whatever unit may be finally adopted, it is certain that its purchasing power will be measured strictly by the gold standard, just as the greenback has been measured for the last fifteen years, and that the silver dollar of our fathers will purchase no more in the markets of this country or of the world than its exact value in gold. However sensitively and painfully financial and commercial interests at large may be affected, it is likely that the real estate interests of this city will quickly adjust themselves to any revised standard which may be set up. The demoralization and disorder incident to this change which may be manifest for a time in general business circles, cannot fail to be passingly reflected in the markets of real estate. Any prolongation of depression will certainly operate to check active dealings. This is the greatest misfortune which may happen to our specialty.

We can scarcely expect any further decline in existing or nominally current prices since they are esteemed to represent bottom or bed-rock values. The non-success of the currency measures now being agitated may not induce a rise in the values of real estate, nor do we believe that their success will be marked with any serious or precipitate decline in values. The worst result to be apprehended by real estate owners is a prolonged period of unsaleableness, which works as sure disaster to this interest as a specific decline that may lead to actual sales. The long holding of real estate on a depressed or declining market involves the owner in heavy expenses of interest, taxes and assessments, which can only be restored to him by continuing to hold the property until after recuperation has set in, and a marked advance in prices been realized. If a satisfactory disposition of the currency question could be made at the present time, the indications are unmistakeable that an activity in legitimate real estate operations—such, we mean, as the wide spread improvement of vacant property, would immediately ensue: and afford the basis for an ultimate enhancement of prices. We will venture no prediction as to the future issue of this great question, nor do we feel called upon to further discuss its merits. To summarize the general condition in the real estate market, we would say that the three mill-stones, which have heretofore hung so heavily upon the neck of real estate interests and blighted their prosperity, to wit: The lack of rapid transit, the lack of prompt and satisfactory action on the currency question, and the lack of a sound and beneficial revival of the general business interests of the country are thus situated.

The first is relaxing its hold and is likely soon to be disengaged entirely, and placed in the most satisfactory condition and relationship with the vital interests we represent.

The other two remain as veritable and insuperable clogs to the full and free assertion of healthy activity in land interests.

Rents.—The season now under consideration affords but few data for comment in this department. In a passing review of it, however, we would say that there has been no increased supply of rental properties. Most of the new structures now being finished are intended exclusively for sale, and the demand for renting of the past two seasons, to wit: the spring and fall of 1877, was sufficient to absorb all vacant premises. It would hardly be fair to say that the rents realized were in all cases satisfactory to the landlords. Perhaps it would be too much to expect in times like these, and in view of the enormous oppression of real estate by taxation, that any rents that could be realized with security would be satisfactory to the landlords. It is certain that the hard times have affected the tenant class in the most comprehensive and ramified directions. Even the smallest experience with this class of citizens would satisfy the most sceptical of the utter inability of the majority of tenants to respond to high rents. Still the demand is sufficient to encourage landlords to make ventures or to indulge in small speculations in regard to the rent of their properties. As a rule, tenants of assured responsibility and financial soundness are able to make the best terms with landlords. The latter are so appreciative of prompt and sure pay that the solvent tenant really holds the landlord completely at his mercy. In cases of less assured responsibility or of inability to furnish satisfactory security, the landlord is apt to hold pretty stoutly to his asking price, with the idea of thereby gaining an indemnity for the risk which he is expected to run. It is a notable feature of the rent market, that applying tenants are willing and are generally seeking to scale their rents not so much by claiming reductions on the rents at present asked, as by taking up with smaller or less eligible quarters for the sake of an economical rent. The great lack of this city is a sufficient supply of rentable dwellings, ranging from five hundred to fifteen hundred dollars; and for the present it must remain an unsolved puzzle to determine how this want is to be supplied other than by the multiplication of apartment houses. The present unsettled condition of business affairs will no doubt intensify the chronic timidity of tenants and deter them from entering into leases of long terms or even for a year until the consequences of the present currency agitation shall be made apparent. The prevailing tone of tenants is said to be decidedly bearish; and, no doubt, landlords will require to exercise their utmost astuteness and business dexterity in dealing with tenants during the coming spring. Notwithstanding the exhibition of a great demand, and an acknowledged shortness of supply, it is the anomaly of the situation that rents must be quoted weak. It will be interesting to watch the course of this interest during the coming season. Possibly, as the spring advances, more life may be infused into it. As a rule, we would counsel landlords to make the best bargain they can with eligible and satisfactory tenants, remembering that, if an empty house is better than a bad tenant, it is also one of the worst investments a landowner can have.

Loans.—It is the feature of this branch of real estate activity that money continues to be offered in abundant quantities at six per cent. for terms of five years, and that choice loans are readily negotiable on this basis. In fact, the rate of six per cent. could not be more universally recognized in the community if the Legislature were to enact a law declaring this to be the legal rate. There was a wide-spread expectation indulged during the fall and towards the close of last year, that, with the hardening of the rates of money in Wall street, there might be a possibility of advancing the rate on mortgage loans. Quite a number of influential capitalists began early in the season to lay their plans for advancing the rate, or, at all events, for shortening the term of years on which loans at six per cent. should be made. A brief persistence in this course of action convinced them of the futility of it and demonstrated the actual scarcity of really good applications for six per cent. money. In order to make investments on mortgage at seven per cent. or even at six or six and a-half per cent. for short terms, it became necessary to assume risks which were nearly equivalent to the ownership of the property. A few capitalists, blessed with greater temerity than the rest, indulged moderately in these tempting loans of full amounts, which in many cases were believed by experts to represent from eighty to ninety per cent. of the present value of the property mortgaged. It is creditable to the business sagacity and prudence of the majority of our great lenders that, after standing aloof for a while from the market, they quickly re-entered it and cheerfully offered their loans on the standard terms of six per cent. for five years. In fact, towards the close of the year, when even in Wall street the expectations of very high rates failed to be realized, there was quite an inundation of capital for investment in these five-year six per cent. loans, and a very active business was transacted, absorbing large volumes of investment capital. The loans of institutions continue to be made at six per cent., though generally for terms less than five years—sometimes for three years, mostly for one year.

The subject of the limitation of counsel fees is attracting the attention of private lenders, who do not hesitate to use their influence in restraining any excessive charge on the part of counsel. Some go so far as to offer a choice of attorneys, with a view of eliciting propositions for the most favorable charges for the examination of titles. It is right and proper that capitalists should take this course, as exorbitant counsel fees often serve to deprive them of good and satisfactory investments. It is folly for an investor to confine himself slavishly to any one firm of legal examiners, when there are so many competent candidates for this particular service, willing and anxious to tender their offices at moderate rates consistent with the spirit of the times. Leading institutions, which do not exempt the borrower from the counsel fee for examining titles, still go the length of placing an arbitrary restriction upon the fee which their attorneys shall charge. If these institutions consulted the best interests of the trusts which they are administering, they would adopt the rule so wisely inaugurated by the Mutual Life and the Equitable, of dispensing entirely with any charge for legal service in examining titles, except the cost of official searches. This would popularize their loans and attract to them the best grade of such investments, while the exemption from foreclosure suits, loss of interest, and frequently loss of capital, would handsomely reimburse them for the slight expense which they have to incur in settling a stipend upon their employed counsel.

Sales.—After all, the great interest of the real estate market centres in the sales department, where the public response is apt to register itself and where the true merits of the real estate situation can best be discerned. If it is warrantable to base any judgment upon the signs of the times, the conditions which manifested themselves during last spring, summer and early fall, were calculated to inspire the hope of a general and complete resurrection and resuscitation of real estate interests. Numbers of capitalists and builders embarked in promising schemes, and vied with each other in ability to produce rentable and saleable properties at the lowest possible cost. The actual demand at the same time was sufficient to justify these extensive enterprises, and the volume of bona fide sales to immediate occupants showed an increasing, not a decreasing gauge.

The purchasing demand during the period we have just indicated, was the most energetic and continuous which has been known since the panic of 1873. The results of this movement may be measured, when we say that of one hundred and nine houses which we reported in September as being in the course of erection and finished in the fashionable quarter, forty-seven have been variously disposed of, either by sale, by lease, or by occupation of the owners for whom they were built, leaving a stock in that section of just sixty-two houses, the most of which are now in a course of erection; those that are finished and ready for sale having been completed within the last sixty days. In this quarter only sixteen new houses have been projected during the past season. In the new residence quarter, out of one hundred and twenty-four dwellings which we reported as being under way, about fifty have been sold to actual occupants, and only ten new houses have since been projected. If we were able to anticipate for the coming season as great a selling result as marked the middle of last year, it is plain that there would be a downright scarcity of desirable dwellings in these two sections. It is the concurrent testimony of builders that there is a large and varied demand for dwelling-houses, but as a rule the views of purchasers and builders are too wide apart to bring about frequent transactions. With the practical suspension of new operations it is likely that builders will be able to realize satisfactory prices for the houses which they now have on hand. If there should be a fresh demonstration on the part of builders during the coming season in the way of the projection of any great number of new buildings, the issue of the existing conflict between buyers and sellers might result favorably to the former.

From the present standpoint there is no indication of any immediate or general projection of new buildings. The number of sound, legitimate builders, who are able to operate with their own capital, has been reduced by withdrawals and failures to an exceedingly small number. We are happy to record that operations upon building loans are growing in disfavor among capitalists in view of the expose which has been lately made of the demerits of such schemes. With very few exceptions, the building loan ventures of the past year have proved unsuccessful, resulting in not a few notable failures. The risk of embarking in these schemes, both for the builder and the capitalist, will be greatly aggravated through the enlightenment and discrimination of the buying public with regard to the faults of construction which are apt to attach to building projects of this sort. With the active interest which the daily press and other journals are taking in the sanitary and mechanical properties of building, we may expect such an extensive diffusion of information upon these subjects as will qualify the purchasing public to become experts in the matter of house selection and criticism. It will be a golden day for the building improvements of New York when a builder's profit or loss, success or failure, hinges directly upon the mechanical merit or demerit of his work.

In the way of large investments, which have been made during the last season, we call attention anew to some of the more notable ones:

Mr. David H. McAlpin, an enterprising and wealthy citizen, and a firm believer in the value of New York property, has become the owner of the celebrated Sweeney block, on Broadway, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets. It is surmised that Mr. McAlpin intends at an early day to improve this property for the special use of one of the largest and most prominent retail dealers in the city.

Mr. Edwin Clark, one of the proprietors of the Singer Sewing Machine, has signalized himself by becoming the owner of two large tracts of land on the west side of the city, to wit.: a block of thirty lots fronting on Eighth avenue, between Seventy-second and Seventy-third streets; and another solid block of twenty-eight lots on the corner of Ninth avenue and Seventy-third street. It is rumored that Mr. Clark intends to erect at an early day on both of these parcels model apartment houses, which he intends shall illustrate the perfection of this style of dwelling.

Another large purchase of vacant lots was made by Messrs. Duggin & Crossman, the architects, embracing the entire front on Madison avenue, between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth streets, on which they are now erecting their peculiar styles of modern residence. As they are the principal projectors of new houses in this section it would seem to indicate that the minds of other speculative builders are deeply imbued with sentiments of prudence, or else that their hands were sufficienty employed with existing stocks of houses.

Some sales of expensive mansions have been recently made, viz: 291 Fifth avenue at $70,000; 520 Fifth avenue at $90,000; 15 East Fifty-seventh street at $85,000, and 21 East Fifty-seventh street at $48,000.

From a careful survey of the situation and from an intimate acquaintance with the house buyers of the season, we would counsel builders to be exceedingly careful in laying in new parcels of lots, and to avoid paying any higher prices than those established during the past year. It has been demonstrated that it is barely possible for a builder to get his money back with any profit on the basis of these prices, and it is certain that there is nothing in the temper or disposition of the current house buyer to indicate his willingness to advance his bids for houses.

It might be safely predicted of any building scheme, projected on the basis of prices higher than those which ruled last season, that it is to end in certain loss to the builder. The enterprise of those gentlemen, who seek to forestall the lot market, and buy up eligible parcels with the idea of selling them at an advance with a building loan, should receive a proper check and discouragement from builders. It is certain the building trade can stand no such fire in the rear unless builders have made up their minds to become the serfs of capital, spending strength and labor for its emolument, and having nothing but certain loss as recompense.

If these capitalists are impressed with the profitableness of building operations, it would be well to allow them to embark on their own account in one or two transactions in order that they may possess the requisite data from which to form an intelligent opinion as to the real paying qualities of the business. We would be glad to chronicle the fact, if it were true, that the building business can afford to pay high prices for lots besides extra bonuses and heavy interest, and still reserve a profit for the builder. The least acquaintance with arithmetic would enable builders and capitalists to figure out the calculation correctly.

THE TARIFF BILL.

Schedule K of the new tariff bill, now under consideration, covers wood and its product and provides as follows;

SCHEDULE K—WOOD.

On all lumber, including sawed boards, planks, deals, and other lumber, whether planed, finished, or otherwise, of hemlock, pine, whitewood, sycamore, basswood, and cottonwood, $1 per 1,000 feet, board measure. Timber hewn or sawed, timber used in building wharves and spars, $1.50 per 1,000 cubic feet. Timber squared or sided, not otherwise provided for, $1 per 1,000 cubic feet. Hubs for wheels, posts, last blocks, wagon blocks, oar blocks, gun blocks, heading blocks, and all like blocks or sticks, roughhewn or sawed, only 10 per centum advalorem. Staves for pipes, nogsheads, and other casks, 8 per centum ad valorem. Pickets and palings, 15 per centum ad valorem. Laths, 10 cents per 1,000. Shingles, 30 cents per 1,000. Pine clapboards, $1.50 per 1,000. Spruce clapboards, $1.25 and 25 cents per 1,000; house or cabinet furniture, in pieces, or rough and not finished, 30 per centum ad valorem; cabinet wares and house furniture, finished, 35 per centum ad valorem; casks and barrels, empty, sugar-box shooks and packing-boxes of wood, not otherwise provided for, 25 per centum ad valorem; manufactures of cedar-wood, grenadilla, ebony, mahogany, rose-wood and satin-wood, 35 per centum ad valorem; manufactures of wood, or of which wood is the component part of chief value, not otherwise provided for, 35 per centum ad valorem; wood manufactured, not otherwise provided for, 20 per centum ad valorem.

It will be noticed that the concluding paragraphs after reciting a list of foreign grown woods and naming a duty at thirty-five per cent., ad valorem, proceeds as follows: "Manufactures of wood, or of which wood is the component part of chief value, not otherwise provided for, thirty-five per centum ad volorem." All very well had it stopped right there, but with only a semicolon to divide, it proceeds to say, "wood manufactured not otherwise provided for twenty per centum ad volorem," and makes a muddle of the matter at once. Not a few of our dealers express a conviction that it was purposely placed in that shape in the interests of the Maine lumbermen. Throughout the entire schedule there is no mention of spruce except in the form of clapboards, while the very first paragraph seems to have been drawn purposely to omit this all important wood, and the conclusion is, that it is intended to take advantage of the ambiguity of the ad volorem proviso, and tuck on the highest duty attained to the exclusion of Canadian Spruce. Advices from Washington indicate that the Committee of the Whole of Ways and Means are making a very general endorsement of the report of their Sub-Committee even against the strongest kind of protests from the merchants of the country, but it is to be hoped that a feeling of justice and common sense will induce them to place so important an item as spruce timber and lumber in a clearer light.

LEGAL DECISIONS.

BROKERS' COMMISSIONS.

The New York Weekly Digest reports the following:

John Coleman, being the owner of valuable real estate, situated in the city of Louisville, which he desired to sell, entered into an agreement with Gray & Meade, real estate brokers, doing business in that city, to procure a purchaser of the property, for which he agreed to pay them $1,000. They entered into negotiations with W. A. Meriwether for a sale of the property to him, but being unable to bring the parties to an agreement, the brokers arranged for a personal interview between them, which was held, but did not result in an agreement. Coleman then had prepared a written proposition containing the terms upon which he would sell, and caused it to be delivered to the brokers, who procured Meriwether to accept it in writing, thus completing what is conceded to be a valid executory contract for the sale of the property.

The proposition thus accepted was returned to Coleman, for the purpose of having a conveyance prepared, and Meriwether directed his attorney to examine the title. The attorney reported some defects in the title, and they were cured by procuring releases from those as to whom the defects existed. The property was surveyed and found to be a trifle less in quantity than was represented in the written proposal, which by acceptance had become the memorial of the contract. Coleman offered to make proper deduction for the deficit, but Meriwether declined to complete the purchase, and Coleman declined to take steps to compel specific performance. The brokers then brought this action to recover the stipulated commission. Defendants claimed that Meriwether, having refused to complete the purchase, never became a purchaser within the meaning of the contract between the parties; also, that the brokers were not entitled to their commission because Meriwether was insolvent, and, therefore, unable to perform the contract, even if willing to do so.

The evidence showed that Coleman had known Meriwether for twenty years, and had resided in the city with him for that time, and for a portion of the time on the same square; that Meriwether was, at the time of making the contract, the owner of a large amount of property, and was regarded by many persons as solvent, and able to perform his contract with Coleman; that Coleman made inquiries and was anxious to sell to him; and it failed to show any fraud or misrepresentation on the part of Meriwether, or of the brokers, as to his financial ability. All the brokers undertook to do was to find a purchaser. They found Meriwether and presented him, and thereafter negotiations were carried on with him with Coleman's knowledge and approbation, and, without any unfair practices on the part of either, he accepted him.

Judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff's below.

Held, No error. Where the broker undertakes to furnish a purchaser, he is bound to act in good faith in presenting a person as such; and when one is presented, the employer is not bound to accept him or pay the commission unless he is ready and able to perform the contract, on his part, according to the terms proposed; but if the principal accepts him, either upon the terms previously proposed, or upon modified terms, then agreed upon, and a valid contract is entered into between the principal and the person presented by the broker, the commission is earned. [170 Mass., 550; Wharton on Agency, § 328; 21 Barb., 145; 68 Ill., 2 3.] But if the principal rejects the purchaser, and the broker claims his commission, he must show not only that the person furnished as willing to accept the offer precisely as made, but, in addition, that he was an eligible purchaser, and such a one as the principal was bound, as between himself and the broker, to accept.

Judgment affirmed.

Opinion by Cofer, J.

The New York Weekly Digest reports the following case: In May, 1871, the defendant, Cassiday, made to the plaintiff and appellant two mortgages, one for $10,000 and one for $5,000. In December, 1871, he made a third for $8,000. On the 4th day of June, 1875, judgments of foreclosure and sale were entered in actions to foreclose these mortgages. The amount then due on all these was $25,596.61. Defendant Cassiday immediately commenced making payments on these judgments. On November 24, 1875, there remained due and unpaid $10,664.08. Some time previous to this day Mr. Brown, the attorney of the bank, had an interview with Mr. Cassiday and several gentlemen in his interest, when it was agreed that to lessen expense the property should be sold by the referee and bid in by the bank for Cassiday's benefit, so that he might pay off the amount remaining due and get back the property.

Under this agreement, on November 24, 1875, two parcels were put up, sold, and bid in by the bank, one for $11,000 and one for $3,000. In December following there was a sale of the remainder of the land. Mr. Brown attended and bid for the bank. A Mr. Watson also attended and made eleven bids, when Mr. Brown told him he was injuring Mr. Cassiday, as the bidding was for his benefit. Mr. Watson thereupon ceased bidding. In November, 1876, Cassiday offered to the bank the sum remaining due on the judgments, and claimed the right to have the property conveyed to him thereupon. The right was denied. A motion was made for a resale and granted, and from the order this appeal is taken.

Held—It is safe to lay down as a general rule that judicial sales may be set aside in all cases of fraud, misconduct, surprise, or well-grounded misapprehension.

It has been said and written that mere inadequacy of price will not of itself be a sufficient reason for the interference of the courts.

This has, however, come to be regarded as a mere form of expression. Certainly, the price may be so grossly inadequate as of itself to furnish good ground for suspicion of fraud, surprise or mistake, and to justify the setting aside of a judicial sale. This case is not so near the border as to give much trouble. The price was certainly inadequate, and this inadequacy of price is accompanied by a misapprehension, to say the very least. It is not important whether or no Mr. Brown's authority was sufficient to justify his acts. He was agent of the bank to attend the sale in its interest, and if as such agent he made the alleged agreement, and if thereby Cassiday and his friends were induced not to bid, believing Cassiday was to have the property back for the amount due on the judgments, then the bank is bound by his acts. We place our decision on the ground of inadequacy of price, and well-grounded misapprehension produced by the agent of the purchaser. The terms of the order are unobjectionable and insure the interests of all parties. Order affirmed, with costs and disbursements.

A recent decision of the Court of Common Pleas at General Term, although especially interesting to brewers and wholesale liquor dealers, sets forth principles of law which are of much importance to merchants and others who are in the habit of disposing of their goods to dealers with the understanding that until paid for such goods shall remain the property of the seller. The facts are these:—A. A. Brown was a brewer of ale at the Long Island Brewery in Brooklyn, and made and sold ales to retail dealers to be sold by them in the ordinary way. He delivered to one Michael Healy eighteen casks of stock ale, taking therefore the following receipt:

BROOKLYN, May 1, 1872.

Received from the Long Island Brewery (to remain the property of A. A. Brown until paid for) eighteen casks of ale, stock.

(Signed) MIKE HEALY.

"Healy being a retail dealer had sold a portion of this ale when the remainder was seized on an execution against him at the instance of H. K. Thurber & Co., whereupon Brown brought suit against Thurber & Co. for the conversion of the property seized and recovered judgment for the value thereof, which judgment was reversed by the General Term of the Marine Court (Judge McAdam dissenting), and an appeal was taken to the General Term of the Common Pleas.

The opinion of the Court was written by Judge Larremore, who holds: 1st. That the receipt given by Healey is in the nature of a contract, and that no verbal evidence could be given to vary or contradict its written terms nor any explanation allowed inconsistent with them.

2d. That the Thurbers, in order to justify their action in levying upon the ale, must show ownership in Healey, which could only be established by proving that the transaction in question imported a sale. Touching this proposition the Judge says:

"The principle is well established, that where personal property is delivered to be returned in kind or by equal value it is a sale, and the title passes on delivery. But where the identical article, even though in altered form, is to be returned, it imports a bailment which, as defined by Story, is a delivery of a thing in trust for some special object or purpose and upon a contract express or implied to conform to the object or purpose of the trust. This transaction is a bailment.

The intention of plaintiff to retain the ownership of the property delivered to Healy is expressed in the latter's contract embodied in his receipt for it. He never paid for it, but, so far as the testimony goes, sold a portion without authority.

This is not the case of an innocent purchaser for value. Healy's creditors succeeded to no other or greater rights than he possessed.

Cole vs. Mann, 62 New York, 1, and cases there cited.

Personal property may be sold and the title by express agreement may remain in the vendor, if the transaction is honest."

The Judge cites several cases, and after reviewing them reaches the conclusion, 1st, That the plaintiffs did not intend to surrender the ownership of his property until paid for; 2d, That the title to the ale remained in the vendor. Judgment of General Term reversed.

MINING INTERESTS.

The speculation in mining properties is increasing every day, and if care is only taken to bring valuable mines to the market, there will be no lack of capital to work them. There is not much doubt now about the long promised bank that was to be started by Flood & O'Brien, as we understand a location has been secured, and it will shortly be opened for the transaction of business. With a bank and plenty of transfer offices the transactions of the Mining Board will approximate those of the Stock Exchange. The Idaho mine of Little Cottonwood, Utah, will soon be called in the Mining Board. By the latest reports they are taking out five tons of ore per day, that assays $86.50 per ton. Mining Engineer, W. E. Hull, reports the Idaho to be a mine of immense prospects. The Polar Star Gold and Silver Mining Co. will also have their stock called at an early date. They pay a monthly dividend of one per cent. on their capital stock. The Kearsage mine of Utah is very highly spoken of, and is now in the hands of New York capital. It will be dealt in on the Mining Board.

THE WEEK.

The business of the week has been larger than that transacted in any previous one, and the members of the Mining Board feel quite jubilant. Seats have gone up to $500 and a number of the prominent members of the Stock exchange joined durinh the past week. The principal transactions were in Lacrosse, Bertha, and Edith, and American Flag. It is understood that a large quantity of the Lacrosse stock was purchased from the company direct at 75c., and that the the work on the different lodes is to be pushed forward at once. The news from the Kings Mountain Mine are of the most satisfactory nature, and the stock still holds pretty steady. American consolidated does not go off so well as it used to, notwithstanding the strenuous efforts of its brokers to make an excitement on the call and keep the price up. Seaton is strong and active and looks for a purchaser at its present price. New York and Colorado is also in active demand, and there were some large dealings in Moose. Investors, however, are afraid of the latter mine, as the capitalisation is rather high. Ontario still remains firm, and the reports from the fifth level are of the most flattering nature. The following are the quotations of the past week:

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

Readers of this issue are referred to the review which appears in our editorial columns, of the real estate market, for an expression of our views respecting its general temper and condition. Since our last report, the notable transactions occurring at the Exchange are the following: the four-story building with lot, situated at the northeast corner of Bowery and Rivington street, and known as the New Amsterdam Savings Bank, was sold by order of the Receiver, for $42,800, a much better price than that obtained a few months since for the building occupied by the Mechanic's and Trader's Savings Bank, at No. 283 Bowery, which it will be recollected realized only $27,500.

The five-story brick store known as No. 103 West Broadway, which was offered for sale under a second mortgage—all liens affecting the property amounting to $29,900—was struck down for $27,785. The premises known as Nos. 406 to 410 West Forty-seventh street, were sold for about $4,500 over and above the mortgage thereon; and the plot of land situated on the northeast corner of Avenue A and Sixty-eighth street (100.4x623) was bid in by the plaintiff in the action of foreclosure for $50,000.

At private sale, Messrs. Duggin & Crossman have sold the house and lot No. 545 Madison avenue (16.6x65x82.6), to Mr. J. W. Wenman for $23,000. Other sales are reported as follows: Mr. George H. Warren has purchased of Salem H. Wales the house and lot known as No. 520 Fifth avenue, between Forty-third and Forty-fourth streets, for $90,000, and Andrew Soher has sold to D. Noble & Sons, builders, a parcel of land situated on the south side of Fifty-sixth street, between Madison and Fourth avenues (95x100) for $55,000, with building loan. George McKibben has bought of Dr. E. P. Huyler the leasehold premises known as No. 46 West Fifty-sixth street, for $21,000.

Nine plans, embracing fourteen buildings, were filed with the Superintendent during the week, the estimated cost of which is $103,100. At Nos. 65 and 67 Barclay street the owner intends to erect a four-story store at a cost of $18,000, and a plan has been filed embracing five five-story brick tenements, which will be constructed on Twenty-sixth street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues. It is also reported that the Astor estate will commence operations for the erection of an imposing building for office purposes, on the west side of Broadway, between Trinity Building and Cedar street.

The following are the sales at the Exchange Salesroom for the week ending Feb. 14:

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICK.—There still appears to be an absence of many good words for the market on Common Hards. Very few offerings have been made, but even these few were in excess of the actual wants of business, and receivers say they are glad there was no more. We find nothing really new reported this week, as to the general situation. There is no existing large sources of consumption, and the drafts made upon stock are confined to moderate and uncertain orders, which scarcely make an impression, other than to show how really dull the market is, and to add to the discouragement of holders. Still, an undertone of hope is not wanting, and a portion of the trade predict that a change for the better is likely to develop within a few weeks, which may merge in a very fair spring business Projects for work of some little magnitude have been heard of in a sufficiently general state to indicate that they mean rather more than "talk," and as soon as contractors have settled their terms, material will naturally be sought, and brick among the first. We bring up quotations a trifle, as strictly pure stock would command $6.00, and Long Island have sold at $5.75, but these figures can not be fully depended upon and would positively have to be shaded under any pressure to realize. Of Pales, the offering small and price well sustained. Fronts are quiet and without variation worthy of notice.

We quote Pale, @ M., $3.00@—; Hards, Up-rivers, nominal; Haverstraw bay, $5.25@6.00; favorite brands, $6.00@6.25; Fronts, Croton—brown, $7; dark $8; red, $9; Philadelphia, $23@27; Baltimore, $34@38.00. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5 00@6.00 on fronts.

CEMENT.—On the domestic product, there is no wholesale market, indeed no stock in first hands that we can learn of, and this leaves matters a little nominal. Dealers prices vary somewhat according to many circumstances calculated to influence matters at this season, but from the principal yards the rate is $1.20@1.25 probable. On foreign the market has undergone no recent change on the general line of values, and the tone is about steady. Business was slow owing in a measure to the continued exactness of the greedy railway monoplists, whose transportation charges shut off many shipments to the interior. Imports since the first of the year have increased the accumulation on hand somewhat, but the stock was brought, and partly owing to occasional opportunities for securing cheaper freights than are likely to be found as spring and summer approches.

HARDWARE.—There has been a slight increase of demand, but scarcely sufficient to result in any great animation, and the market as a whole is void of specially notable features. The selections of buyers cover, in the main, the ordinary run of standard goods, and orders for full lines continue backward from all quarters, freight charges and the difficulties attending interior transportation at this season of the year leading to caution in the handling of supplies. About the only important announcement of late is by the American Screw Company who have reduced the price of their regular machine screws, and on the new list quote the following discounts to the trade: Flat head iron machine screws, 25 per cent.; round head iron machine screws, 20 per cent.; flat head brass machine screws, 15 per cent.; round head brass machine screws, 10 per cent.; taps for machine screws, per doz., 33⅓ per cent. Terms cash within 30 days of date of invoice. To consumers buying in small quantities they quote: Flat head iron machine screws, 15 per cent. discount; round head iron machine screws, 10 per cent discount; flat head brass machine screws, 5 per cent. discount; round head brass machine screws, list net; taps for machine screws, single, list net; per doz., 20 per cent. discount.

LATH.—Upon a supposed scarcity of stock in dealers hands and the expectation that there is a strong desire to make good this deficiency, wholesale dealers continue to express themselves in a firm and confident manner, and some assume the high views of values before referred to, especially as the advices from primary points continue to report a scarcity. The demand, however, has not proven over anxious as yet, and the piled out stock receives no positive bids, while up to present writing we hear of nothing upon which to base a quotation, and call the position simply nominal. There is, however, a little stock due and a prospect of arriving at a valuation.

LIME.—There is at last a break into the monotony of the market through the medium of sales from first hands, and the establishment of a new price, showing an advance of 10c. per bbl. Some arrivals from the eastwards came to hand and were sold without much difficulty at 90c. for Common, and $1.10 for Finishing, the tone ruling pretty firm at the advance. The demand, however, cannot be recorded as quick or general, and receivers would scarcely be gratified by the appearance of many additional arrivals. On state stock there has been a corresponding addition to value, and dealers report a continued good demand on shipping orders.

LUMBER.—So far as deliveries from stocks here accumulated are concerned, the market has remained in a dull condition. In short, we simply hear a repetition of the old story of builders, manufacturers, etc., purchasing what they require for early wants, and refusing to handle stocks which they may be compelled to carry. Export orders also are somewhat backward and have such close limits as to cost that concessions are frequently necessary to secure them. Dealers and agents, however, are obtaining a good many orders for specials to be delivered next spring, in part here and partly at nearby points on the coast, through the Sound, and up the Hudson. On these very fair prices have been obtained, and it is said that some of the mills at the South are already talking about refusing further orders. On the eastern product, also, the promises are said to be fair and generally the prospective feeling over the position of coastwise supplies appears cheerful. The "short crop" jack-in-a-box is occasionally popped up before buyers in hopes of hastening or increasing their operations, but the result is to produce amusement rather than alarm over this threadbare and transparent scarecrow.

Eastern Spruce, so far as it has a market, is firm, and a few cargoes received during the past two or three weeks were sold without much trouble at very full rates in excess of the average quotation it is said. Calls for estimates upon special schedules are also more frequent, and while they are not backed up in all cases to the satisfaction of sellers, some have been settled upon at good figures. At the best, however, the aggregate business is moderate, and while receivers prophesy great things for the next season, a great many buyers are inclined to "wait and see." We quote at $13@14 for random, possibly $14.25@14.50 for choice lengths in small cargo, and $14@15.50 for specials, the extreme for extra difficult.

White Pine continues dull on home account and is meeting with an unsatisfactory demand for export. There is no very heavy accumulation here to be sure, and most of it is under control of owners who can carry without much trouble, but there is no satisfaction in looking at stocks lying idle, and a larger attendance of buyers is anxiously looked for. Nominally values are unchanged, but occasional quiet shadings are hinted at. We quote at $15@17 per M for West India shipping boards; $19,50@20.50 for South American do; $15@16 for box boards; 17 for do wide and sound; and timber at $16@18 per M.

Yellow Pine has ruled pretty firm and has sold fairly on specials for delivery "as quick as possible," up to the early summer months. A few cargoes come here for consumption, but the bulk are for delivery at various points round about including a goodly proportion at the eastward, the Long Island Sound ports in particular having furnished a number of good customers. Prices firm on a basis of full former figures. We quote random cargoes at $19@22 per M; ordered cargoes, $22@24 do; green flooring boards, $21@23 do; and dry do do, $23@24. Cargoes at the South, $14@16.50 per M; hewn timber, $7.50@14.

Hardwoods are firm so far as the market goes, but the market does not go far, and business is in the main confined to small parcels as wanted by manufacturers for some special and immediate consumptive use. There is a continued complaint over the cost of transportion from the interior. We quote at wholesale rates by car load about as follows: walnut, $77@85 ₱ M; ash, $25@36 do.; oak, $35@40 do.; maple, $30@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d $30@35; do. do., culls, $18@30 do.; cherry, $15@75 do.; white wood, ¼ and ⅝ inch, $25@27.50, and do. inch, $30@35 do.; hickory, $25@30 do. for Western, and $100@50 for good nearby stock.

At the yards there has been a little more doing in some cases, but it would require a very considerable addition to the demand to result in much activity. Stocks are held at former rates, and in a general way the parition may be called steady but no tendency to buoyancy can be recorded.

The following are among the more recent charters published. A barque, hence to Buenos Ayres, lumber $15.00 gold per M; an American schooner, 274 tons, from Orient, Long Island with guano to Port Royal or Savannah at $2, and back from Brunswick, Georgia, to Boston, with re-sawn lumber at $5.75; a schr., hence to Caibarien, white pine lumber, $5 gold; a schr., 200 M lumber from Jacksonville to New London and Allyns Point, $7.

THE WEST.

From the Lumberman's Gazette as follows:

BAY CITY, Friday, Feb. 8, 1878.

The lumber market is very quiet at present, very few transactions taking place. Buyers are probably holding off in the expectation that a change in the weather may occur which will render the prospects of a fair stock of logs for the coming sawing season more probable than they appear at present, and that in such case manufacturers might weaken a little in the figures at which they hold stocks. Some dealers decline to purchase at present rates, and console themselves with the idea that even if an advance is made in prices they will be in no worse plight than their fellow dealers who will have to pay the increase.

At date of last issue the indications were in favor of a good fall of snow, but as yet it has failed to come. The felling of timber and cutting of logs has been very generally suspended, and loggers are devising ways and means to get to the streams what they have already cut. At many of the camps hauling by night is resorted to, as the snow and ice which thaws in the day time freezes up then, and makes it possible to do some hauling, but the loads will not average more than two-thirds of what could be drawn if sleighing was good.

Some of the lumbermen in this region say that under the most favorable weather for the remainder of the winter, not more than fifty per cent. of the logs which are now cut can be banked on the streams, but we think that is rather an under estimate. As the weather now is, it would no doubt hold good.

Quotations on cargo lots show no change. Fair stocks are held at $6, $12 and $28, with perhaps a slight discount for cash, say two per cent., and even that is made only by those who need money for logging operations, or to close purchases of logs for next season's cut.

The demand for car lots of lumber continues good, and dealers report that the fair inquiry reported last week still keeps up.

The following quotations cover the range of prices at which stocks are held.

Three uppers	$26 00@30 00
Common	11 00@12 00
Shipping culls	5 50@ 6 00
Lath	1 15@ 1 25
Shingles, river mills	2 75
Shingles, country mills	2 40@ 2 60

The Gazette's Chicago correspondent says:—

During the past week we have had a regular blizzard of snow here, but at this writing it is almost gone, and the atmosphere is as balmy and warm as April.

The demand for stock is good, and heavy and numerous orders are coming in from the West, especially from the Far West. Indications are now that trade will open early on the Mississippi river, when a part of the trade west of that stream will be curtailed, but as stocks are very low along the river, all dry and merchantable stuff will have to come from farther East. One thing is sure and that is that prices will rule higher along that stream than they have for several years, and that fact will have its influence on the whole trade of the Mississippi Valley.

On some grades in this market prices are more firm this week, without any appreciable advance, but when it does come, which it will in the course of a few weeks, will be quite important. Dealers feel it obligatory on themselves to supply regular customers at current prices, but outside parties are treated with a good deal of independence, in view of the fact that the winter's cut will be far below former anticipations, and it is possible, if not probable, that new stocks in the spring will cost more than they go for now.

Notwithstanding the terribly depressed state of trade in all lines, and the stagnation of business all over the land, I believe that investments in prime dry stocks at current prices would be the best that could be made. I have that much faith in the future of lumber, and think the facts, when they are developed, will bear me out in the assertion.

The snow storm of the past week has not been general, and the very moderate weather now prevailing precludes the anticipation of any benefit from it, and it is now beyond cavil that the winter's cut of logs will be short.

We quote the markets strong, with indications of an advance in some grades very soon, especially fencing.

The Lumberman and Manufacturer as follows:

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Feb. 7, 1878.

The situation grows more and more critical with the lumbermen of the Northwest every hour. The time having gone when it was possible to secure the intended cut of logs, it now becomes a question of securing a really needed supply. The week has brought but little relief in snow, and many are becoming thoroughly disheartened. The agricultural region south of the pine belt received large amounts of snow, while the lumber section received so little as to help out but slightly. The snows which fell last Friday and Saturday in Michigan, in many of the principal logging sections, amounted to but two or three inches, and, as the storm cleared away and the sun came out bright, the roads were bare after a day or two. Some of the more energetic and determined loggers prolonged the hauling by the use of sprinklers and by hauling ice, still the amount accomplished is but a small per cent. of what is usually done at this time. The amount of logs now on the bank on the Muskegon, Tittabewasse and other great lumber streams of the lower peninsula was set down on Tuesday last at from 10 to 12 per cent., and the bulk of that has been due to tramways. This is practically the condition all around.

The influence of this situation is being felt in the markets in an upward tendency, but there is no definite movement to put up prices at Chicago, Saginaw, Toledo and other points where there are fair stocks of lumber on hand; but in the valley of the Mississippi there is a large disposition to use words not found in the catechism, because the markets aforesaid will not advance at once and considerably. Gentlemen, if lumber was as scarce elsewhere as it is in your valley, others would chafe for better prices.

The mild weather permitted various kinds of improvements not usual at this season, which has favorably affected the volumes of sales this winter, so that shipments are rather heavier than usual.

There is no longer any complaint of an overstock of upper grades anywhere, the surplus of some of the makers having gradually worked itself off until the stocks, in this particular, are very well asserted. No one in the West will resort to overload Eastern markets to find purchasers for clears at reduced figures.

The lumber business of San Francisco for the past year, as shown by the Commercial Herald, is as follows:

Our report shows a shrinkage of 22,862,157 feet as compared with the statistics of the past year. Receipts of Pine from Puget Sound have been a trifle less, owing, no doubt, to a surplus of stock on hand; still, the demand has been altogether fair, and will compare favorably with the trade of 1876. The drought that was felt in some parts of the State, and a slight decline in the wheat and fruit crops, affected somewhat the demand for Spruce, this class of lumber being particularly desirable for lining vessels engaged in carrying wheat, and for the manufacture of boxes for packing fruits. Our remarks on Pine may also be applied to the receipts of Cedar. Orders for Redwood from the city and country have been for the year 1876, 11,480,194 feet in excess of the consumption for 1877; but a steady increase in the arrivals of Redwood at this port denotes a more active market for this class of lumber. We are advised that, although more rain is needed in some of the lumber districts, yet enough has fallen to give general satisfaction, and there is still time for an abundance. Altogether, from present indications, we can predict for the ensuing year an active and healthy business in this most important branch of our trade.

THE EAST.

A Lewiston (Me.) Journal correspondent writes: The winter has been very unfavorable for logging and bank hauling in Lowell. Owners of teams are getting discouraged and leaving for their homes. Large quantities will undoubtedly lay in the woods, if we do not have some snow very soon.

Business up the Androscoggin is very quiet. Many large saw mills are idle. One large one owned by a stock company at Jay Bridge, and employing fifty men has not been in operation for several years, except partially, at certain seasons of the year.

The thaw has materially affected the business of teaming from the forests and logging camps. The large contracts made by parties on the line of the Maine Central to furnish the company with wood this season will be hard to meet. This wood is delivered at the railroad sheds for from two to three dollars per cord.

CANADA.

The Montreal Journal of Commerce says that the lumber business as usual at this season, is exceedingly quiet. There is not as yet a sufficiency of snow to promote lumbering operations in the woods, and there is a possibility that the quantity manufactured the coming season will be light. There is, however, we learn, a large quantity on hand, sufficient at least in sawn lumber, it is estimated, for ordinary demands, and prices are likely to be higher. The facilities in Michigan and Wisconsin are no better.

NAILS.—Trade continues backward and somewhat disappointing on most outlets. Local wants at the best are small, and one met solely on the hand-to-mouth policy, and interior orders not much better, especially from points off the trunk lines of railroads where freight charges are heavy. A little is doing for export, but not enough to afford any decided relief. We quote: 10d to 60d., common fence and sheathing per keg, $2.50; 8d. and 9d., common do. per keg, $2.75; 6d. and 7d., common per keg, $3; 4d. and 5d. common do., per keg, $3.25; 3d. and 4d., light, per keg, $4; 3d., fine, per keg, $4.75; 2d., per keg, $4.75. Cut spikes, all sizes, $2.75. Floor casing and box, 75c. above the same sizes of common. Finishing, $1 above, and fine finishing $1.25 above.

CLINCH NAILS.

1¾ to 1½ in.	2 & 2½ in.	2¾ & 2¾ in.	3 in. & longer
$5@$5.25	$4.75	$4.50	$4.25 per keg

NOTE.—As we go to press we learn that the Western Nail Associations have resolved to stop their works two weeks in March, and have advanced the list rate to $2.60 for 10d to 60d.

OILS.—About the same general market continues. Business fluctuates somewhat, but seldom reaches a point of positive animation, and the supply of stock quite equals the call for consumption. Prices on small lots continue steady. We quote: Linseed, about 63@65c. ₹ gallon; lard, 58@60c. for No. 1, and 52@55c. for No 2; crude cottonseed, 44@46c., and refined summer yellow do. 51@52c.

PAINTS.—Business is improving somewhat, but scarcely reaches a point of general animation, as consumers continue to economize, and this is reflected through the operations of jobbers and retailers, who are careful to keep their orders down to a pretty close limit of distributive ability and gauge their purchases accordingly. The stocks available, both of domestic and foreign product, are ample in quantity and well assorted, with holders offering readily on a basis of about former rates. There is no signs of pressure to realize, however, and on all leading and standard goods the tone may be called about steady.

PITCH.—A fair distribution takes place on the ordinary outlets, and trade appears to be acceptable to jobbers as a rule. Stocks are of very fair magnitude as compared with the calls made upon them, but not of unusual magnitude. Prices about steady. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½c. for city delivered.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.—The consumptive demand is not large, but rather tends to an increase in the way of small lots. Holders have managed to keep the supply pretty closely together, but could not fully sustain rates. We quote at 32@34c. as to quantity of stock handled

TAR.—Business about as usual for home use, and buyers manifest little inclination to anticipate their wants. The position of supplying, etc., are in a general way favorable to holders, and this preserves values upon a steady basis. We quote at $2.12½@2.37½c. for Newberne and Washington, and $2.25@2.50 for Wilmington.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Insure your Plate Glass at the "Lloyd's," No. 113 Broadway. The underwriters have combined assets of over $750,000. They insure Plate Glass Windows and Doors against breakage by accident. Good security. Prompt payment of losses. Low rates.

An important and refined branch of industry, worthy of special mention on account of its rapid rise and development within the past few years, is brought to the attention of our readers by the advertisement of the White, Potter & Paige Manufacturing Company, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who claim to have the largest establishment in the United States if not in the world for manufacturing Picture and Mirror Frames and fine trimmings for dwelling houses. Commencing business about nine years ago, the rapid progress made by the firm since then has been so steady and uninterrupted that at the present time their customers may be found not only in every State of the Union but also in England, France, Scotland and Cuba, as evidenced by recent orders executed by the firm, one of which has just been received by the Governor-General of Cuba.

The extraordinary success attending the operations of this Company is unquestionably due in a great measure to the conscientious character of their work and a firm determination on their part to keep up its standard of excellence. An inspection of the manufactory will demonstrate to the visitor that the ample stock of materials on hand, and the improved machinery of a labor-saving character used by the Company, will enable them on short notice to fill any reasonable order with despatch. The lathe for turning ovals is the largest in the country, and the 900 descriptions of patterns owned by the Company afford an ample supply for choice selections. That the cost of materials may be reduced to a minimum, an officer of the Company visits the Canadian and Western markets for the purpose of selecting and purchasing, without the intercession of a middle man, the stock of lumber required in the business, which is necessarily very large and is replenished twice a year. The stock of walnut is also purchased at the very lowest rates.

The Company furthermore claim that since their organization the business has never suffered detention by reason of loss or damage by fire, notwithstanding its hazardous nature. Such are the precautions adopted for extinguishing fire, that the several departments of the buildings may be cut off and flooded with water almost instantaneously.

Our advertising columns contain the announcement that the celebrated "Nolla Mosaics" or Spanish Floor Tiles, from the manufactory of Messrs. Nolla & Sons, Va'encia, may be purchased from Mr. John Chadwick, Sole Agent for the United States, No. 49 Broadway. These tiles have been manufactured in Spain since the days of the Moorish occupation, and been imported into this country from time to time by private gent'emen who have seen and admired them abroad; but the opportunity for purchasing them in this country is now for the first time offered to the public. Acknowledged to be beautiful in color and design, many visible examples attest also their durability. It is claimed that the circumstances of their manufacture will enable the manufacturers to secure better bargains to purchasers than any heretofore offered, and enable parties to make them available for a far wider range of uses by reason of such cheapness. Mr. Chadwick has also the celebrated white glazed Valencia Tiles mentioned by travellers in Spain as of universal use on walls, and unequalled for decorative painting; also, printed tiles of quaint and original patterns, well worthy of the attention of architects and builders.

PLAIN AND ENCAUSTIC TILES.

The attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement which appears in another column, of T. & R. Boote's Patent Encaustic and Plain Flooring Tiles, Waterloo Potteries, Burslem, Staffordshire, England. This firm, represented in the United States by Mr. Edwin Boote, No. 47 Barclay street, New York, after having subjected the tiles manufactured by them to numerous and successful tests of many competitive trials, take just pride in the reputation they have achieved by the production of tiles distinguished for equality of surface and permanence and brilliancy of color, claiming withal especial merit for the selection of their designs.

The process of manufacture, by which the extraordinary durability characterizing tiles of their manufacture, is attained, the Messrs. Boote claim to be original with them and the secret as yet undisclosed.

In New York and vicinity some splendid specimens of Encaustic Tiling may be seen, and the firm invite attention to the tiles of their manufacture in use in the Museum of Natural History, at the corner of Seventy-fourth street and Eighth avenue, where may be seen an area of 45,000 square feet of Encaustic Tiling, being the largest amount ever laid in any one building in the United States. Mr. Boote requests all who are interested to visit him at his office and warerooms, No. 47 Barclay street, where designs and estimates will be promptly and cheerfully furnished.

Within the pages of the Weekly Financial Report, published by the reliable house of Alex. Frothingham & Co., Brokers, 12 Wall st., is to be found more solid and valuable information respecting stocks, bonds, &c., than in any other publication in the land. It is sent free to any address, and every man should send for it.

LOCAL ITEMS.

The resolution of Alderman Phillips directing the Supervisors, in making up the valuation for real estate for the present year, to make due allowance for the vast shrinkage that has taken place in the value of real estate in this city during the past few years, is preceded by the statement that the valuation of 1877 exceeds that of 1870 by $152,861,408, since which year a constant increase in valuation is shown; and that while the rate would be increased the amount to be paid annually by each taxpayer would not be increased; on the contrary, a reduction of fifty per cent. in value, while it would double the rate without increasing the amount to be paid for taxation of local purposes, would result in effecting a saving to our taxpayers of fifty per cent. of the amount paid last year for State taxes, or $2,081,411.42, inasmuch as the State rate is imposed upon the local valuation made by our Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments, and which even if levied upon such proposed reduced valuation would then be in excess of the proportion levied upon property and paid in nearly all the other counties of the State. The Commissioner of Public Works reports that from 1866 to 1877, both inclusive, the sum of $5,211,359.44 has been expended for repavements; $300,000 has been appropriated for the year 1878. He also says that:

One cause of the rough condition of the pavements of this city is the constant laying down of water-pipes, gas-mains, and more particularly the house connections with sewers and water pipes, and the never-ending repairs of such connections, done by plumbers, under license and permit from the Department of Public Works. The condition of the permit is that the pavement shall be restored to good condition, or, if not, the Department may have the work done and charge the same to the plumber; but this involves delay and a suit at law, and the Department has no fund to draw upon for such work. The system is defective and should be altered, so that, on the granting of a permit to make or repair a house connection, a sufficient sum should be paid therefor to enable the Department to do the work of replacing the pavement by its own employees. This would fix the responsibility upon the Department, and, in my opinion, would secure a great improvement in the condition of the pavements. The elevated railroad companies, who have broken up the pavements along their routes this winter, are compelled by the weather and condition of the ground to make temporary replacements. The whole will be thoroughly overhauled and permanently restored in the Spring. There is nothing, in my opinion, which will more certainly promote the health and commercial prosperity of the city than a uniform system of smooth and durable pavements. Much has been said about the necessity of improved terminal facilities in New York in order to maintain its commercial supremacy. This may in part be done by making causeways on which the cost of transportation will be reduced to a minimum. The Seventh avenue, from Fourteenth to Fifty-ninth street, which was paved with wood in 1870-71, has been in such a wretched condition for two years past that its business interests have materially suffered. It is proposed to repave this avenue with granite blocks, from Fourteenth to Forty-third street, during the present year.

In the Department of Public Works the expenditures for the year 1877 were as follows:

On account of appropriations raised by taxation	$1,616,035 34
On account of assessment fund for street improvements	735,130 76
On account of funded debt for improvement and extension of water supply	737,597 20
Total	$3,088,763 30

REVIEW OF MORTGAGE LOANS FOR 1877.

We now lay before our readers the first instalment of our criticisms upon mortgage loans made by institutions. It is our purpose in future to present periodical reviews of these loans with a view of determining the measure of conservatism which enters into the management of respective corporations. We claim no especial credit for undertaking to discharge this gratuitous and self-imposed task, and we certainly have no apology to offer to these institutions for thus intruding ourselves, pertinently, as we think, into their affairs. It has become well known to the public that the greatest abuses which have characterized our fiduciary institutions in the past, have been in connection with the investment of funds, particularly investments in mortgages. Gross and culpable frauds have been committed in this line of investment, which would have been quickly brought to light if, at their inception, such loans had been subjected to a searching and critical current review. These evil practices have already culminated in a series of disastrous failures of the institutions which indulged in them: and a strong reaction has set in in the management of surviving institutions, which promises to render their future line of policy severely cautious and circumspect.

As we claim to possess special and technical knowledge on the subject and to enjoy peculiar advantages for gaining information with reference to mortgage loans, and being in a position in which their careful review becomes a matter of habit as well as of duty, we propose voluntarily to assume the office of censor in respect to the mortgage loans hereafter to be made by savings banks and life insurance companies. We are careful to specify these two classes of institutions as the objects of our critical regard, for reasons which we will explain. For the most part, if not entirely, the funds of these two particular classes of institutions are voluntary deposits, made by the people at large for the benefit of dependent beneficiaries, such as surviving widows and orphans. Neither the creators of these trusts nor the beneficiaries of them are in positions to have any voice in their management or any hand in the direction of their investments. In the great majority of cases they have neither the aptitude nor the ability to watch or criticise the financial management of the institutions which they so implicitly trust.

In the most sacred and impressive sense, the assets of these institutions are distinctively trust funds, whose management calls for the most scrupulous and painstaking fidelity and watchfulness. In the past it has been customary for the typical corporate manager to regard these accumulated assets as his individual estate, with which he was at liberty to speculate and operate, making such division of the resulting profit, if any might accrue, as seemed to him or to his confederate board of directors to be fair and equitable. It is needless to say that this assumed prerogative was indulged to a criminal extent, and with such results as almost invariably attend continuous invoking of speculative chances—results which any prudent and experienced manager might easily have foreseen from the beginning and studiously guarded against. This line of corporate management, we are happy to believe, belongs wholly to past history. Existing institutions are probably being managed with more skill, care and scrutiny on the part of officers than were ever before exercised by them. The results of this new departure must show itself in future in the improved financial condition and unquestionable soundness of these various concerns.

We propose to lend our assistance in furthering this excellent practical reform. The reviews of loans, which we shall offer from time to time will be more in the nature of a comparison of opinions and judgments with respect to these corporate investments. If any cases shall arise, which may seem to evince the symptoms of vicious policies, we shall not hesitate to characterize and stigmatize them in becoming language.

After a careful examination of all loans made by institutions during the past year, we cheerfully bear our testimony to the fact that, as a rule, their managers are exercising commendable tact and assiduity in the selection of mortgage investments. Among the loans that we have selected for criticism, there is hardly one which may be set down as risky or at all likely to occasion trouble. The majority of them exceed what is universally regarded as the limit of absolute security in loans of this description. Yet the evidences of extreme caution are so palpable throughout the whole body of these loans that we anticipate, in future, that our office of critic and commentator may resolve itself into that of the mere eulogist.

With respect to loans made by individuals or by corporations wherein the stockholders are supposed to exercise a supervision over affairs, we have no occasion to intrude our offices. But where the helpless, the uninformed, or we might say the misinformed, are concerned, we claim the liberty of championing their rights, and extending over their interests the ægis of our watchful inspection.

The Mutual Life can well afford to stand criticism, since its proffer of free legal services in examining titles for loans ensures it a pick and choice of current applications.

These loans are based on well selected properties in remarkably choice locations, but we doubt whether any one could be rated as worth double the amount loaned, except in the owner's estimation. With one exception, we should pronounce them all thoroughly safe loans, probably safer than fifty per cent. loans in poor locations.

The Equitable does every thing on a grand scale, even to making its mortgage loans. It is difficult to rate these properties, they being what is termed fancy or gilt edged. Of No. 1 it may be said that a full front house and lot with extension on this street was recently sold for $42,500, and a stable on Fifty-fifth street for $20,000, according to which data this loan must be reckoned of three-quarter standard.

No. 2 is undoubtedly good, though a large investment.

No. 3 represents a fancy spot, hard to quote just now, but of great intrinsic value.

No. 4 is a class of investment difficult to criticise in the present times.

These are all liberal loans, too liberal to indicate conservative management.

No. 3 is fully two-thirds value.

No. 5 is three-fifths.

Nos. 9 to 18. It is generally understood that the twenty feet houses in this lot were sold at from $28.000 to $32,000; and the twenty-two feet from $32,000 to $35,000, hardly enough to justify such full loans.

Nos. 20 to 22. One of these houses was recently sold at $33,000.

No. 23. On the basis of its published data, this loan can hardly be justified. The three full lots on which four houses were built are reported to have cost $8,000 each, or $24,000. Suppose them to be worth $30,000 to-day. When applying for his permit from the Building Department, the builder specified the cost of each house at $12,000, or $48,000 for the four houses. Adding together the land and improvement values, we have a total of $78,000 as the basis for a trust estate loan of $64,000.

This staunch and well managed institution displays a partiality for vacant lots and out of the way property. Loans can be safely made on such property, especially when accompanied with strong bonds, like the ones indicated in these transactions.

We would like to see our life insurance companies and savings banks eschew vacant property altogether, or else limit loans upon such security to very small amounts. It is one of the first principles of real estate investment that vacant lands should be held free from mortgage. Many institutions are now involved in speculations in vacant lots through foreclosures, with which they should never have been associated.

This appears to be a safe loan. The only criticism to be offered is that the improvements of the property constitute a specialty, being an abandoned brewery building remodelled for dance hall and saloon purposes. We would hardly counsel the investment of trust funds in specialties. We will illustrate our objection by an example. The prominent institution which loaned a large amount on the Architectural Iron Works, and recently took in the property under foreclosure, may be compelled to embark in the puddling business in order to utilize this large estate. A word to the wise men who manage these institutions may be sufficient.

This appears to be a tolerably safe loan, though we are unable to discuss values in this locality. We question, however, the policy of investing trust funds in large amounts upon speculative suburban property, except with a far greater margin than borrowers are usually willing to allow. Occasionally such properties are taken in under foreclosure, and become an unproductive and expensive investment, besides being very much of a speculation.

This venerable and reliable institution has distinguished itself of late years by making very liberal loans on city real estate. The long experience of its directors may have strengthened their confidence in the intrinsic worth of New York property. We think that a little more discrimination and caution might be infused into their selection of loans. The great strength and popularity of this bank may make this suggestion seem impertinent and superserviceable. Tenement houses of full sizes, well built and located, are considered good loans for from seven to eight thousand dollars; but when the lot dimensions are reduced the loanable amount should shrink in proportion, say, to five or six thousand dollars for a twenty-feet lot or thereabouts.

These loans fail to conform to the fifty per cent. standard. In either case the improvements are of little value, and the bare land we fancy could hardly be rated at the amount of loan. As this institution is noted for its cautious and conservative management, the loans may be taken as illustrating variety in taste and opinion respecting mortgage security.

These loans may seem unworthy of special criticism, but in each case the amount loaned is more than fifty per cent. of value. As these were the only loans made by this institution upon city real estate during the year, we accept them as indications of a past policy. The new management can best fortify the confidence of the public in their bank by adhering in all future mortgage loans to the most conservative and exacting standards of such investments.

BROADWAY SAVINGS.

These mortgages are upon property in course of improvement, the buildings having been under way for nearly two years, and now not nearly completed. The loan would be fair enough if the buildings were finished.

We must condemn the policy of fiduciary institutions mixing their funds up with speculative building jobs. It involves a class of risks altogether foreign and inimical to the nature of their trusts, and frequently leads to losses which the trust estate cannot afford to bear.

These loans are deficient in that ample margin of security which the investor of trust funds should rigorously exact. If we are not mistaken in one or two instances the loan represents the full market value of the property. The properties, with one exception, are located at such remote distances from the centre of the city as to render appraisements difficult. We are at a loss to conceive why the Chamberlain should persist in accepting mortgages in the outskirts of the city when desirable ones can be obtained on properties centrally located. We should be sorry to think that Mr. Musgrave's excellent advice is to go unheeded.

AVAILABLE LOTS IN THE FASHIONABLE QUARTER.

In casual conversation it is customary to say that the present fashionable quarter is full or nearly so; that all purchasable lots have been taken up by builders; and that the remaining ones are so held that little chance for prospect is afforded of their being thrown upon the market. Speculative or random conjectures are poor staples of business enterprise; facts, well ascertained facts, are the best conceivable data after all. With a view of determining what amount of land is remaining unimproved in the fashionable quarter, we have made up a complete and accurate inventory of all the vacant lots situated therein, and present the result of our labors in the subjoined lists, which give the location, dimensions and owners name of every vacant parcel of land in this district.

From this table it will be seen that there are still upwards of four hundred vacant lots in this quarter, which is commonly esteemed to be fully improved. This is equal to nearly six solid blocks as large as those between Fifth and Sixth avenue, or to fourteen solid blocks as large as those between Madison and Fifth avenues. That is, if a section bounded by Forty-second and Forty-eighth streets, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, were vacant, such an area would represent the aggregate of vacancies now existing in the fashionable quarter. Or, if the district bounded by Forty-second and Fifty-sixth streets, between Madison and Fifth avenues, were vacant, there would be the same representation of existing vacancies.

This is altogether too great a body of vacan property to be lightly dismissed. It is probable that very few persons take real pleasure in holding vacant and unproductive land. The inducement to hold property at all is generally that of realizing immediate or prospective income. If unimproved, the chance of great enhancement in value will indemnify the owner for his patience and self-denial in carrying it. But where such a prospect is wanting, or where there is a certainty that values will depreciate, then the holding of vacant lands becomes the most ungrateful of tasks. After the acme of values has been passed without successful realization, continued holding only tends to aggravate the situation, and but two sensible and practical alternatives present themselves to owners, viz: to improve and thus ensure income, or to realize the best attainable price and re-invest in productive securities. Already there have been exhibitions of weakness on the part of owners, who were esteemed to be strong, and of a commendable willingness to offer lots for improvement, which have been studiously withheld from market for many years. There are also rumors in the air of a partition sale in the case of a well known estate holding a large body of valuable lots, which promises to offer the opportunity for making purchases at current market rates.

We have scrutinized the subject matter of our list, including both localities and names of owners, with a view of determining the prospective consumption of these lots. If we set aside twenty-five per cent., or one hundred of them, as likely to be reserved by their owners for ultimate improvement in a way to suit their own taste, there will still be left over three hundred lots, which are likely at some time to be offered for sale. Now the day for speculation in them has gone by forever. The high prices, at which they have been held, have precluded any idea of speculative ventures except in connection with building projects. A few capitalists have of late evinced a disposition to make use of these lots in connection with building loans. But, as such jobs have proved notoriously unprofitable, we fancy this use will become very limited in future. The chief market for these lots must be found with legitimate builders, and with such speculative builders as operate with their own capital.

The outcropping of private orders for the erection of dwellings has been exceedingly small of late years. Probably not more than ten or twelve such orders have been given during the last four or five years, so that legitimate builders have scarcely found any satisfactory employment in this quarter during that period. The speculative builders, with and without building loans, are the chief consumers of these lots. For the last five years their consumption has not exceeded thirty to forty lots per annum, but even supposing that the highest number will be the rule in coming years, the present stock of three hundred salable lots would furnish materials for seven years' consumption. So that, if these lots are steadily offered by their owners and are regularly taken up by builders, it will take all of seven years to complete the building improvements of the fashionable quarter. Instead of the demand for these lots growing greater, we imagine it will really grow less, as with growing scarcity there will be a disposition evinced on the part of owners to exact higher prices, and this will naturally drive the more timid builders into the new district above Fifty-ninth street. In fact, there is a danger that owners of these remaining lots may, through infatuation or mania, so stilt their asking prices as to deter any speculative builder from attempting to purchase them, in which case the final improvement of this quarter will be indefinitely postponed. The stock is certainly rge enough for present purposes, and the figures are calculated to dispel the idea of any actual scarcity now existing. It will be a proper and legitimate study for the owners of this property to determine which horn of the dilemma they will accept—whether to build for themselves as an investment, or continuing to hold their lots in value above the responsive abilities of speculative builders, whether they will await the slow approaches of private individuals who may wish to settle in this quarter, and to erect houses upon contract to suit their individual tastes.
